Oh, my goodness—another "magic" weight loss plan. You know now that it was a very silly way to try to lose weight, so I won't go into a harangue about it. I don't like to print letters such as yours, because there is a chance that some readers will try these things despite knowledge of other people's bad experiences. However, I have to consider that there may be others planning to try such a gimmick who might be warned away from it.

How did you suppose laxatives were going to help you lose weight? You were probably confusing laxative with diuretics. The latter, by promoting fluid loss, can bring temporary weight loss. But even that is not a method to be recommended, because the results are usually illusory, with no lasting solutions.

Yes, you can get back to normal, although there may be some discomfort for a couple of weeks. Right now, your bowel has probably given up on you and allowed the laxatives to do its own work. It has probably become "lazy."

It can take a couple of weeks, but you must now "break the laxative habit." You have to allow nature to reassert itself, and there may be need for suppositories until this happens.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I developed a head noise about two years ago. The doctors call it "tinnitis." My hearing is good. My blood pressure is good for my age (70), and I am in good general health.

No medication I've taken helps, and the noise, which is like escaping steam, has gotten louder. The weather seems to affect it, the hissing getting louder when it is going to rain.—Mrs. M. A.

Tinnitis, ear noises, is not a disease. It is a possible symptom of something awry around the ear. Dr. Norton Canfield, MD, a former president of the Audiology Foundation, describes it well in his book, "Hearing," likening it to a pain in the ear nerve. "But the ear nerve cannot send pain signals to the brain, so it sends ear noises instead."

In some cases, ear noises can be so loud that they can be heard by the examining physician.

There are too many diverse causes of this problem to list here.

In your letter you mention taking aspirin. Such drugs can cause or exaggerate ear noises, so you might look into that possibility. I can tell you that with the satisfactory blood pressure readings you report in your letter, and your apparently good hearing, chances are your ear noises are not serious.

But since high plood pressure is a common cause of noises in the ears, I suggest you get a follow-up pressure reading, preferably one taken twice—before exercise and after. This will be more definitive than a simple resting-state reading.

The possible beginning of otosclerosis, a disorder of the tiny bones in the ear, is another possibility to be investigated.

There are so many complexities involved in diabetic diets, it would be impossible for me to even outline one here.

For one thing the diabetic must, as you are probably aware, strike a delicate balance between his food intake, exercise, and insulin, if he is taking that.

Blood sugar can be elevated with variations in any one of these three factors. It usually rises after a meal, for example, and goes down after exercise.

Generally speaking, the diabetic is on an essentially normal diet, but it is a carefully measured one, drawn from the basic food groups—milk, vegetables, fruits, bread, meats and fats. There is a de-emphasis on the carbohydrates, which are more readily converted into blood sugar.

One rule of thumb, which may or may not apply to you, depending on the other factors I've mentioned, is that there should be 18 calories consumed daily for each pound of your desired total weight. Thus if you should weigh 120 pounds, your daily intake should be about 2,160 calories. For a man, the figure is 21 calories for each pound of desired total body weight.

You want to be conscientious about this. I suggest you consult your doctor, a hospital or a visiting nurse association dietician, who can supply tables for such things as exchange items in your diet—to match calories with various foods by weight.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am a recurrent herpes simplex sufferer. This has been happening for over a year now. I have heard there is a great deal of research taking place to combat this sinister virus, but I'm beginning to have depressing doubts about this.

What is this new dye and light treatment?—J. H.

I don't know whether you are referring to the herpes I or the herpes II virus. The former is the "cold sore" virus, the latter the form that attacks the genital area. I would assume, since you use the word "sinister," that the latter is the one you are speaking of.

There is a great deal of research going on, but so far it has defied the best efforts to conquer it, and there has been a disturbing increase in the incidence of the infection.

The dye-light treatment appears to have a 50-to 75-per-cent effectiveness in the herpes II attack. But I have no knowledge of its use against the type 1 cold sore variety.

It consists of puncturing the blebs (skin blisters) and applying a special dye to the area, then exposing it to ultraviolet light.

Books Stereotype

REGINA (CP) — The assistant had of children's services for the Regina bublic library says most picture books for children up to the age of five are guilty of sex stereotyping. Myra Crawford said these books, which are highly influential, too often show boys love digging, fighting or falling down, while girls sit quietly, watching the activity.

Leads 'Boring' Life

EDMONTON (CP) — Canadian novelist Matt Cohen, who has acceptd a position as writer-in-residence at University of Alberta this fall, says he leads a "very boring" day-to-day existence as a novelist. Mr. Cohen who now lives on a 350-acre farm near Kingston, Ont., said his phone "barely works" and most of his friends are neighborhood farmers. The 32-year-old author wrote The Disinheritors and the recently-published Wooden Hunters.

Re-cycle Tires

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan highways department is experimenting with the use of discarded automobile tires in highway pavement. A rubberized asphalt mixture has been placed on a 2,000-foot section of Highway 47 south of Grenfell and an 800-foot section of the Wascana Parkway in Regina. About one million tires are discarded in the province annually.

Hostage Freed

Montreal Thugs Hit Tillsonburg

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP) — Bandits wearing Hallowe'en masks held up a jewelry making firm near here around midnight Thursday night and fled to Montreal with a hostage but provincial police said today their haul amounted to only about $2,500.

Original reports said the robbers—armed with sub-machine guns and automatic pistols—got away with around $250,000 in gold, silver and jewelry, but police scaled this down drastically after a tally was made.

They also repudiated an earlier report that the group had escaped in a light plane, and said they had driven with hostage Wes Dickenson to the Montreal suburb of Pointe Claire, where the general manager of the jewelry firm was released unharmed in a shopping plaza.

Mr. Dickenson is general manager of Cadman Manufacturing Co. Ltd., victim of the robbery, and grandson of Walter Cadman, the firm's president.

At least four men—described as speaking with French accents—took part in the robbery.

The car used in the initial stage of their getaway later was recovered by police.

Roadblocks at first were set up around this southwestern Ontario district about 15 miles south of Woodstock but later were lifted, lending credence to a report the bandits may have been using a light aircraft.

Provincial police were alerted last Aug. 8 that four criminals left Montreal in a light Cessna aircraft for n unknown destination.

Police said today that the many small landing strips in the area are being checked.

Mr. Cadman and Mr. Dickenson live in the plant compound, as do some employees and tenants.

The armed men came to Mr. Dickenson's living quarters late Thursday night, the family member said. One of the men stayed with Mrs. Dickenson and her two children while Mr. Dickenson was forced to go to the plant with the others.

At the plant, the men forced Mr. Dickenson to open several vaults in which gold bars, finished diamonds and silver grain were stored.

The family member said that either on the way to the plant or while leaving it, the armed men "took a couple of shots" at a tenant who lived in the compound.

The tenant, who ran when he saw the men, was not injured.

The armed men then left with Mr. Dickenson and no word has been heard from him since, the family member said.

Mr. and Mrs. Cadman, who live within 50 feet of the Dickenson residence, knew nothing until Mrs. Dickenson pounded on the door.

The plant was closed at the time of the incident.

The family member said watchdogs, normally allowed to roam in the plant when it is closed, were locked up in the cafeteria and in the watchman's room.

The family member said no one knew the whereabouts of the watchman.

The gold bars were delivered to the plant at 5 p.m. EDT Thursday and the robbers struck at about 11:30 p.m.

"They knew what they were doing," the family member said.

The family member said there were strong suspicions that information was released somehow from inside the plant.

"All the vaults were opened. They knew what they were looking for."

The silver grain was in "one big bag and the diamonds were finished."

The family member said the exact value of the goods stolen would not be known until inventory was taken, but $250,000 is a "fair estimate."

"The police will only let us walk in the plant and out—they're dusting (for fingerprints).

Portugal In Control In Angola

LUANDA (Reuter) — Portugal has resumed full administrative control in the West African territory of Angola and may be planning tough intervention to stop the fighting between three rival liberation movements.

Gen. Ernesto Ferreira Macedo, interim Portuguese high commissioner in the territory, said on Angola radio Thursday night he is taking over the functions of the troika heading the transitional government.

This troika consisted of representatives of the three liberation movements which share posts in the government with the Portuguese. The general also said he is taking sole responsibility for maintaining the law.

He said he is acting because the transitional government, which is supposed to administer the territory until independence from Portugal on Nov. 11, had ceased to exist because of the fighting.

Observers in Lisbon said Macedo was close to breaking the independence agreement drawn up by Portugal and the three nationalist groups in January.

The accord precludes the high commissioner dismissing the government and any changes in its constitution must have the agreement of all three movements.

Coup Staged

Sheik Mujib Slain

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — President Mujibur Rahman of Bankladesh, hero of his country's struggle for independence from Pakistan 3½-years-ago, was killed early today in a military coup, Radio Bangladesh announced.

The radio said Sheik Mujib had been replaced by a former close associate, Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed, and that a 24-hour curfew had been imposed. An army officer identified as Major Dalim called in the broadcast for all citizens to "remain calm and stay at home."

Diplomatic reports reaching New Delhi said that Prime Minister Mansoor Ali and two of Sheik Mujib's nephews also had been killed in the coup.

The reports said the coup leaders had renamed the country the "Islamic Republic of Bangladesh" instead of the "People's Republic of Bangladesh," indicating the new government planned to stress Islamic policies rather than Sheik Mujib's socialist line. About 90 per cent of Bangladesh's estimated 77 million people are Moslems.

The coup followed growing dissatisfaction with Sheik Mujib's failure to come up with solutions to the country's staggering economic problems.

The diplomatic reports said the coup was staged at 5:15 a.m. (7:15 p.m. Thursday EDT) and there had been sporadic fighting in the early stages around Dacca, the capital. However, two hours later everything was generally quiet, the reports said.

Quinte Information Centre Found Inaccessible to Some

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

The Quinte Information and Assistance Centre's method of operation makes it inaccessible to some segments of the community, says a provincial government report released this week.

The report, under wraps for the past four months, was sent to the centre's board of directors this week. It was compiled by Anne Walshaw of Peterborough, a provincial field research worker, who conducted a study of the centre's operations early this year when it was the Citizens Bureau in Trenton.

Ms. Walshaw concluded, "by presenting a high profile, a confronting stance and, if necessary, a polarizing style, the Citizens Bureau moves away from the intent of the Ontario government's information centre program as outlined specifically in the criteria for funding."

"Their service is not equally accessible (in action) to all segments of the community because of the style in which they choose to operate," she said.

Vera Heimback, chairman of the centre board of directors, said Thursday the high profile "is something we have been attempting to change this year. We are attempting to act as an intermediary party rather than to take sides."

However, she noted the board does take exception to the charge of inaccessibility. "So far as we know, we're easily accessible to all members of the community," she said.

This was substantiated by centre staff member Bert Gerling, who added, "we have had outspoken enemies come to us for help."

In addition, Ms. Walshaw said she discovered through interviews with private citizens about the bureau at that time that stances taken by bureau representatives in their private lives are related to their professional lives when they work for the bureau.

Mrs. Heimbach said the private lives of centre staff members (Bill Hockley, government and community critic, being one) are not the concern of the centre board.

"We are not prepared to govern people's personal lives," she commented.

Canadian Sale To South Africa Is Questioned

UNITED NATION (AP) — The United Nations Committee against Apartheid decided on Thursday to look into reports of dealings by South Africa with Canada and Iran.

The committee decided to send letters to the Canadian and Iranian governments asking about the accuracy of news reports that Canada had authorized the sale of three fire-fighting planes to South Africa, worth $2¼ million, and that South Africa had modernized and refitted the Iranian navy flagship Artemia and had given a navy training course at Simonstown to 27 members of the crew of the Artemia, which is a missile destroyer.

Kidnappers' Demands Met, Bronfman Pleads for Son

YORKTOWN HEIGHTS, N.Y. (AP) — Multi-millionaire Edgar Bronfman says he has complied with all demands of his son's kidnappers and is begging for a sign that Samuel Bronfman II is alive and well.

Saying his 21-year-old son's abductors "have failed to follow through," Bronfman noted that "time is going by" and pleaded with the kidnappers to renew contact through an agreed-upon secret telephone number.

The concern with fleeting time referred to a warning from the kidnappers that a record $4.5-million ransom would have to be paid within 10 days for Samuel's safe return. They said the victim was buried somewhere in Westchester County with only 10 days' supply of water and air.

The kidnappers failed to say when the 10 days began, but officials have assumed they meant 10 days from the day of the warning—Monday.

Neither the family nor the FBI would say whether Bronfman, chairman of the Seagram's Co. Ltd. of Montreal, world's largest distillers, had delivered the $4.5 million to the kidnappers. It was confirmed that a tape recording of Samuel's voice and instructions from the abductors was received.

Jonathan Rinehart, a public relations consultant and Bronfman family friend, broke a 2½-day family and official silence when he met reporters Thursday on the landscaped grounds of the 150-acre family estate here and read a handwritten statement. The statement said in part:

"We want to assure (the kidnappers) we intend to comply with instructions and we have done so. However, the abductors so far have failed to follow through. We ask them now to renew their contacts by calling us at the number they originally indicated."

Manitoba Puts Freeze On Oil Product Prices

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Manitoba joined three other provinces Thursday in continuing a freeze on prices of gasoline and other oil products despite today's expiry of the 45-day freeze imposed July 1 by the federal government.

Premier Ed Schreyer announced the freeze on the wholesale price of gasoline, other motor fuels and heating oil which is to last at least until Oct. 1. Distribution will be treated as a public utility.

Meanwhile, Premiers Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick and Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island issued a joint statement Thursday calling for a national federal-provincial agency to monitor and control the price of petroleum products across Canada.

The two premiers expressed concern that four individual provinces have established authorities to control or freeze the price of petroleum within provincial boundaries.

The governments of Ontario, British Columbia and Nova Scotia already have announced price freezes. Ontario's freeze also lasts until Oct. 1, but could be extended if the government deems it necessary.

Premier Schreyer said Manitoba's freeze could be extended if warranted.

Secondary Typhoid Cases Are Rumored

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — The department of heath refused to confirm or deny Thursday rumors that at least two of 17 suspected typhoid cases under observation are secondary cases contracted by persons who did not attended a Light and Free Methodist Camp here in July.

When asked if the rumors were true, Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health for this area, said: "I have no idea. You had better wait until they are confirmed."

At least 28 cases of typhold have been confirmed since the camp was held, with 24 of the victims in hospital here and four others in hospitals elsewhere in the province. There are also 17 suspected cases in hospital here.

Freeman Hutchings, the local health unit's chief inspector, said Wednesday samples of the camp's well water tested July 18 showed a coliform count of more than 80, indicating the water was contaminated.

But the results of the test were mailed from a laboratory only a few blocks away, and the health unit did not learn of the contamination until July 21.

Demolition Commenced At Pickering

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — A federal government spokesman said most buildings on the Pickering airport site will be demolished by the end of August in the first stage of the facility's construction.

Jean Claude Legare, information officer for the federal works department in Ottawa, said Thursday that there may be a few holdouts on the 1,800-acre site of the first stage but enough buildings will be levelled to allow construction of one terminal and one runway to begin.

A spokesman for People Or Planes, a group which opposes construction of the airport in this community just north of Toronto, said demolition began Wednesday.

American Invasion Failed But Bred Nationalism Here

MONTREAL (CP) — To Thomas Jefferson, the capture of Canada would be a "mere matter of marching."

Andrew Jackson spoke of a "military promenade."

History tells a strange story about the American invasion of Canada and capture of Montreal 200 years ago—a 10-month operation ending just before the 13 colonies issued their Declaration of Independence in July, 1776.

Various pictures linger. Benedict Arnold, whose tactical plan was employed in the initial assault, manoeuvered to be the last man out in the final retreat.

Sir Guy Carleton, British governor of Quebec, sadly ordered a coffin for his former British army brother officer, Maj.-Gen. Richard Montgomery, killed in the climactic battle below the bluffs of Quebec City Dec. 31, 1775.

The swashbuckling Ethan Allen, commander of the Green Mountain Boys, marched as a prisoner in Montreal after a premature assault on the town with a motley group, including some Canadians.

Benjamin Franklin, known in Quebec where he once established post offices for King George III, came back old and ill on a pacification mission for the Philadelphia Congress but departed discouraged, reporting the issue could only be settled "by the sword."

Military historian George F. G. Stanley in his book, Canada Invaded 1775-1776, published two years ago, paints a grim picture of smallpox-ridden troops in a winter wilderness campaign:

"Thus, within 10 months, the two armies which had set out in September, 1775, to conquer Canada had been reduced . . . to a humiliated, demoralized wreck whose retreat from Quebec was marked by a long line of graves."

While the invasion did not win Canada for the revolution, historians say it did stir nationalism among French- and English speaking Canadians, the beginning of a new independent country above the 45th parallel.

How did it all begin?

In October, 1774, the first Continental Congress urged Canadians in a letter couched generally in brotherly terms—but with a sting attached—to end their "humiliating subjection" by entering into a union. It was one of a number of overtures.

Thirteen months later, with Montreal in the hands of American invaders, a proclamation by Gen. George Washington appealed to Canadians on lofty terms:

"Come, then, my brethren, unite with us in an indissoluble union. Let us run together to the same goal . . . range yourselves under the standard of liberty, against which all the force and artifices of tyranny will never prevail."

But a Canadian winter was settling in when Montgomery marched into Montreal Nov. 13, 1775, without a fight after being held up for precious weeks in his siege of nearby St. Jean on the Richelieu River, southern gateway to the city.

Montgomery adopted a conciliatory attitude to the Roman Catholic Clergy and French Canadian inhabiants of Montreal but it was a different story after he departed for his rendezvous with death at Quebec City, leaving the irascible Maj.-Gen. David Wooster as commandant here.

"The clergy refuse absolution to all who have shown themselves our friends and preach damnation to all those who will not take up arms against us," Wooster raged in one letter.

American paper money "was not worth a continental." Quarrels between military authorities cost them prestige in the eyes of Canadians. Wooster's closure of Catholic churches on Christmas Eve—thus preventing traditional midnight mass—has been described as an act of "incredible stupidity" by one historian.

Franklin soon recommended Wooster's recall when he came to Montreal but the damage to the American cause had been done.

The arrival of British ships after the 1776 spring breakup on the St. Lawrence spelled finish for the invaders but most managed to escape to American territory.

Canadians never took the seats reserved for them at the Continental Congress. Why? What was the Canadian view of the American War of Independence?

Historian Michel Brunet pondered these questions recently as he strolled with a reporter along narrow streets in the Old Montreal quarter, where Americans ruled in that restless winter 200 years ago.

"The simple fact is that the Americans at that time had nothing to offer as far as the Canadians were concerned," Dr. Brunet said.

Britain had conquered New France on the Plains of Abraham in 1759 and Carleton had made strenuous efforts as governor to win the loyalty of George III's 100,000 French-speaking subjects.

Because the American Invasion came only 16 years after the British conquest, the Americans hoped to be greeted as liberators—and so they were, by some of the population.

But the Catholic Quebecers already had a history of conflict with the Puritan New Englanders, whom they termed Bostonnais or Bastonnais.

Dr. Brunet recalled that the British won support among the French-Canadian clergy and elite by the 1774 Quebec Act, which enshrined in law the exercise of the Catholic church here 50 years before similar emancipation in Britain. The new law made other important concessions to the French.

American overtures promising friendship and religious liberty sounded hollow to Canadian leaders who knew the Philadelphia congress had classed the Quebec Act with other "Intolerable Acts" of the British government bringing on the revolution in the first place.

The 1,126-man Quebec garrison facing Richard Montgomery and Benedict Arnold in November included 480 French-Canadian militia and 290 men of the Royal Highland Emigrants recruited in the colonies by Maj. Allan Maclean. Montgomery was forced to attack in a snowstorm Dec. 31 because some soldiers of his own small force, ending their term of enlistment, were about to depart.

"Just enough French-and English-speaking Canadians fought together to give hope for a common defence of the country," said one student of the period.

"The American Revolution bore not one but two nations in its womb—the American, its obvious offspring, and a more obscure progeny, the Canadian," wrote historian Arthur R. M. Lower in Colony to Nation.

New York County DA Ends Plea Bargaining

KINGSTON, N.Y. (AP) — Ulster county District Attorney Francis J. Vogt has done something most DAs wouldn't contemplate and few have dared try: he's abolished plea bargaining.

Under the often-criticized but universally practised system of plea bargaining, a defendant arranges to plead guilty to a lesser charge in order to avoid standing trial for a more serious one and risking more severe punishment. In return, the prosecution saves itself the time and expense of a trial.

Vogt will have some more company soon. The governor of Alaska said July 10 that his state will end plea bargaining in criminal cases by Aug. 15.

"While plea bargaining has generally been condemned across the country, most state officials have been hesitant to abolish the system because they are afraid of the administrative problems," said Governor Jay Hammond. "In Alaska, it is my feeling we have at least the opportunity to try to reach the desired goal."

Vogt is one of the few DAs in the country who can tell Alaska officials what it's like, an AP spot check shows.

Vogt instituted the no plea bargaining policy in the 150,000 population county last Jan. 1. Since then, defendants indicted by a county grand jury have been forced to plead to the indictment or go to trial. No longer can a defendant charged with burglary, for example, "cop a plea" to any lesser offence, such as "trespassing or attempted robbery or any of that nonsense," the prosecutor said.

As a result Vogt and his staff of four full-time and four part-time assistant prosecutors have been working longer hours and have gone to trial far more often—15 times in the first six months of this year, compared with only four trials in all of 1974. They've won 12 convictions, for offences ranging from murder to forgery, with no acquittals and three hung juries.

Sentences handed out to offenders, ranging from 30 days in jail to 25 years-to-life, have been "more realistic." Does that mean stiffer?

"I suppose that's what I mean," Vogt said.

Except for Alaska's recent no plea-bargaining decision, such a policy is rare in the United States, particularly in heavily populated areas where court dockets are extremely crowded and plea bargaining is used extensively. In Oregon's Multnomah County, which takes in the populous Portland area, there has been no plea bargaining for major offenders for 1½ years.

"Obviously, this is to make sure the heavy offenders, the violent ones, are convicted and, hopefully, receive incarceration time," said Frank Bearden, spokesman for the Multnomah County district attorney's office.

Vogt, a 52-year-old former FBI agent, jokes that even other district attorneys "think I'm nuts." But the strong criticism has come from defence attorneys.

"I think lawyers, maybe more than most professionals, more than most professionals, tend to look with suspicion on any change," he says.

"I think plea bargaining is necessary," says Robert L. Ricken, a Kingston defence attorney. "I don't know whether I should call it a necessary evil, but a necessary tool that should be intelligently and carefully utilized by the district attorney.

"Frank Vogt is shirking his responsibility."

Ricken, 32, says: 'My basic feeling is that the law is inanimate—typewritten on paper—and it's the job" of the prosecutor, defence attorney and judge "to breathe life into it."

Ricken read from a law book the legal definition of first-degree robbery and its maximum penalty under state law: 25 years in prison.

Under Vogt's policy, Ricken says, a man who robs a supermarket with a sub-machine-gun is no different from a 19-year-old who threatens to beat up a young boy and steals his bike. Although the second case is technically first-degree robbery, the two cases should be treated differently, Ricken said.

"Vogt said he "always felt that plea bargaining, although certainly in many jurisdictions such as New York City is necessary, is also very demeaning to the system." A plea "should be an accurate reflection of the conduct the defendant engaged in."

Heparin Taken From Pig's Blood

EDMONTON (CP) — A $500,000 pharmaceutical plant will be built here by Canada Packers to extract a blood anticoagulant from pig intestines.

D.W. McTaggart, market planning manager for the firm's pharmaceutical division, says the plant is expected to be in production early next year to meet the growing demand for the drug, heparin.

The only other herapin plant in Canada is at Canada Packers' facility in Toronto. Mr. McTaggart said the company has 67.7 per cent of the Canadian market for the drug, used to prevent clotting in cardiac and kidney dialysis patients.

Hot Weather Playing Havoc With Trenton Parks Program

TRENTON — Lack of rain and high temperatures over the last three months and vandalism in Trenton parks have taken their toll of flower beds and young trees this summer, says parks department director Deno Gettas.

Mr. Gettas said Thursday Trenton had the hottest and driest May and June on record, thereby causing flowers planted in beds across town to suffer.

"Regardless of how much watering by hand you do, it doesn't make up one-tenth of what you get normally (through rainfall)," he said.

Despite the institution this year of a parks board maintenance program, crews have been unable to implement a watering program: "We water as we go along," said the director.

In order to water beds regularly, said Mr. Gettas, trucks and equipment the board doesn't have would be required.

He said the board hasn't undertaken a program, partly because " a great number of parks don't have water available".

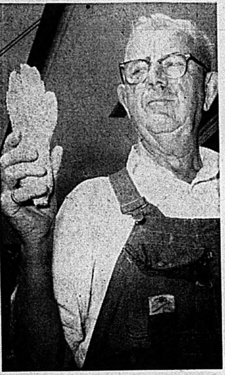
Petunias, in particular, are being damaged by the excessive heat: "They're suffering from heat exhaustion," he said.

"A great number of trees are also being affected," the director said. But he estimated 10 per cent of an approximate 400 trees planted by the board on private and public property this year have died, eiber through heat or vandalism.

Those planted on the property of homeowners under a new planting program, have not been as greatly affected by vandalism. The program was implemented this year due to high vandalism rates among trees planted in previous years on boulevards and parks.

Homeowners, feeling more responsible for trees, have tended them more attentively, said Mr. Gettas earlier.

In town parks, trees have been vandalized, prompting Mr. Gettas to complain over complaints by people who wonder why parks are not treed. It's unstoppable and at $25 a tree "it's quite expensive".



Hand That Feeds You

While most vegetables are capable of growing in all sorts of shapes and sizes, ears of corn are generally predictable in that they're cigar shaped. But not so for Belleville Highland Ave. resident Jack Little who says in all his years he has never seen a hand-shaped ear. The unusual cob came from his Brighton farm.

Taking a Close Look

Angie Moran, 4, takes a close look as playground leader Kim Shepherd spins the prize wheel at a penny fair at Centennial Park in Trenton Thursday. The fair marked the end of the town's six week summer playground program.

Officials Pleased With New Playground Program

TRENTON — Trenton assistant recreation director Sharon Gaudaur said Thursday the six-week playground program that came to an end with a penny fair in Centennial Park Thursday was a success.

She said she is pleased with the program in five Trenton schoolyard play-grounds that embodies several new features.

Children this year were offered more special events than in previous years. Off-playground outings and films at the Trenton library were arranged.

About 17 of the 250 children in the program also were taken to the Metro Zoo in Toronto for a day.

Besides outings, children for the first time experienced a revamped theme-based schedule. Three separate themes — the old west, the circus, and the middle ages — were the basis for most activities during the six weeks.

Thursday's Penny Fair offered children the opportunity to end the summer with a bang. Fifteen game booths were set up by the department. Hot dogs were available for supper during the 5-8 p.m. fair.

"Everything has very reasonable prices," said Mrs. Gaudaur. The return to the department is minimal.

"We bought prizes that cost more than what they (children) pay to play the game," she said.

Judge Fears Moral Breakdown Might Soon Lead to Anarchy

By RON HIUSER
Staff Reporter

PICTON — "The first time I heard about my appointment as a judge was when I was travelling by train to Haileybury to represent a case, and I read it in the Globe and Mail," said Judge Wilfred Land, county court judge for over 30 years.

Judge Lane said his first reaction was, "How in the hell, am I going to represent this case in Haileyburg." Once an appointment is made, a lawyer is not to represent any cases, said the Picton resident.

Judge Lane said the case was straight forward and no complications arose.

That was June 8, 1945.

For the first two years of his appoinment Judge Lane said he thought he would go crazy because there was not enough work.

"After those two years, I went to labor disputes, which kept me busy," said Judge Lane who gradually left the labor field.

"There has been a radical change in the law since I've entered."

"The emphasis now is on re-habilitation and deterrants, instead of penalties," said the judge.

"Retribution is a weak factor today."

When a judge hands down a sentence, and is considered just, the only changes made are through the parole board, said the judge.

"The hands of the courts are tied in this case," said Judge Lane.

Laws follow the attitude of the people which is the factor in changing law, said the Osgoode Hall graduate.

Judge Lane said he feels with the recent changes in society, it could possibly lead to anarchy.

"If you look through history, all societies broke down because of th emoral fibre of the people."

"It seems people have lost touch with the controlling factor. We're going our own way," commented the judge.

The change, however has brought about some good aspects, in that people are less hypocritical than before, noted Judge Lane.

Judge Lane parallelled the changes with that of a pendulum.

"Before 1840, the aristocrats were liberal in their attitudes but soon after came the Victorian Age which was conservative."

If the swing of the pendulum does not soon take place, "I foresee catastrophy," said Judge Lane.

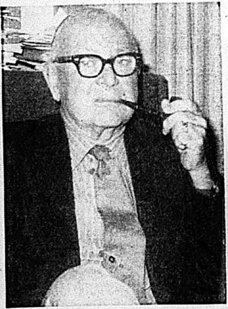
The senior judge of District Five, which extends from Ontario County to Frontenac, and from Prince Edward to Peterborough, said he might retire soon because the work load is getting out of hand. "And I wonder if I can take this much work at my age," said the judge.

Judge Lane said at one time he was strongly against the death penalty but currently is not sure.

"I'm open to be convinced one way or the other, but one thing is certain, society has to be protected and if the death penalty acts as a deterrent, I'll favor it," said the judge.

"Personally, I disapprove of taking life, even through the courts."

Also serving as the senior judge of the province, Judge Lane defined law as a 'code of conduct which is designed to protect the most people, and that applies to civil as well as criminal."



County Judge

Appointed for life, Judge Wilfred Lane who serves as Senior Judge for District Five and the province said he is thinking of retirement, but plans to remain active. If the government changes its regulations, Judge Lane said he hopes to return to the practice of law.

Fund Raisings Bogs Down

MARMORA — Fund raising by Marmora swimmers has not gone as well as hoped, swimming director Linda Lee Leonard reports.

To date close to $100 has been raised by a bottle collection and bake sale but the draws which Miss Leonard had hoped would raise sufficient money for buses to various swim meets and a trip to Toronto CNE have not been held because of lack of support on the part of the young people.

A bake sale was to have been held last Saturday but was cancelled because of other events being held in the community, she said.

Why Not!

PICTON — There will be a Why Not! meeting sponsored by Canada Manpower Tuesday, August 19, at 8 p.m. at St. Mary Magdeline Parish Hall on Main St. E., here.

Speakers for the occasion will be Lorraine Brown, Beside Ward of the Picton recreation committee, and Evelyn Beaumont, head of the social services department in Picton.

Two films will also be shown. The program includes a question and answer period.

Campaign Under Way

PICTON — There was a committee meeting held, Wednesday night for the New Democratic Party in the campaign headquarters of candidate, Jan Nicol.

"The Prince Edward side of the riding is ready for a door-to-door canvassing drive," said Miss Nicol.

Harvey Gottfried and Dick Lunn, past NDP candidates for the federal ridings, will be helping out in the canvassing, said Miss Nicol.

Miss Nicol said she has started her campaign at the Lake Ontario Cement Company, Wednesday morning.

Art Show Opens

The Elks Photo Art Show Zoo Sight opened today at the Kingston Mall. The official opening ceremonies will take place at 11 a.m.

Baker Joins Race

Arden real estate developer and tourist operator Ross Baker, 37, has announced his candidacy as an independent for the Frontenac-Addington Riding.

Born on the Baker family farm near Arden, he is a graduate of the University of Western Ontario with degrees in Business and Economics.

Mr. Baker has tried unsuccessfully on four previous occasions to become the Liberal candidate for the riding.

Marmora Gets Plant Operator

MARMORA — A chief operator for the Marmora waste pollution control plant has been named by the ministry of environment.

Joseph Harnden comes to his new job with 12½ years experience. He was chief operator at the Prescott plant for four years and before that 8½-years at Brockville. He holds a sewage plant operator's licence, a hoisting engineer's papers and is a licenced mechanic.

Mr. Harnden is married with three children. His oldest daughter is married, his son is working away from home and his youngest daughter, Gail, will be attending Centre Hastings Secondary School in Madoc.

Hopefully, the Marmora pollution control plant will be operational by Sept. 1, Mr. Harnden said. There remains quite a bit of touching up to do at the plant, he said, but nothing major. The contractor will operate the plant for seven days, following which the ministry of environment will take it over. Another man to assist Mr. Harnden will be hired later, probably in October or November.

UN Arab Bloc Plan to Expel Israel Could Heighten Middle East Crisis

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

A plan by the Arab bloc of nations in the United Nations with the support of many African and Asian member nations to expel Israel from that body this fall, will throw the world into a new international crisis.

While it would be removed from the firing of the weapons kept at the ready in the searing hot Sinai and Golan Heights, the attempt to oust Israel from the comfortable, cool edifices of the United Nations, would harden events just as much as missile-rattling.

The UN meets this fall in special session, only the seventh since its foundation in 1945, mainly to discuss the pressing problems of economic inequality between the Third and industrial worlds.

At present it looks as though the Arab nations in typical style are divided on how hard they will demand Israel be removed this fall, if indeed some of them will do it at all.

The chief "offender" as far as hard-line and anti Israeli Arab nations are concerned, is of course Egypt, which may be about to sign the long-negotiated pact with Israel over the Sinai.

The hardliners are those Arab nations which have never fought Israel directly, with the exception of the ever-militant Syrians.

They have backed their previously warring Arab neighbors with some jet aircraft and a lot of rhetoric during the last war in Oct. 1973.

Determined to make the move, even if the Arab nation member states are divided, is the Palestinian Liberation Organization through its observer status in the United Nations

Such an exercise would be both tragic and totally revisionist.

It could turn the UN into the same political shambles which resulted from resolutions to expel South Africa.

Israel's position in no way whatsoever compares to that of racist and reactionary South Africa. Among her many hostile Arab neighbors, she remains the only democracy in the Middle East as well as friend and ally of the United States.

And American opinion in the UN, if any motion is made to throw out Israel, will harden to such an extent as to affect the future of the organization itself.

American public opinion, reflected in the toughened line of their politicians and intellectuals, including Daniel Moynighan, the urbanologist who is the new U.S. ambassador to the UN, will also resist any UN-based assault on Israel.

Washington's foreign policy is still being formed in the shadows of the final pull-out in South Vietnam and the Turkish takeover of non-NATO military and air bases in that country manned by American forces.

This week the United States exercised the veto provided in the UN charter for the permanent members of the Security Council to block membership applications of the two Communist-dominated nations of North and South Vietnam.

Ambassador Moynighan referred in his speech to the principle of universality, that it was being violated by the Communist bloc in seeking UN membership for these two states, while they deny that of non-Communist South Korea.

All this proves conclusively that the U.S. will tolerate no effort to eject Israel.

If it is attempted, dissolution of the world body itself becomes a recognizable possibility.

The Human Dilemma

Vandalism remains a blight on the contemporary scene, whether it has to do with broken windows in schools or, as reported recently, the slashing of tents at campgrounds.

The problem is one that does tend to resolve itself with increasing maturity, with the passing years, at which point, however, other aberrations may present themselves.

Consider human behavior in general. Are people better behaved when single, or as married couples? As young adults — or in still later years?

An Ottawa resident, Marian Van Gijn, complains for instance in a letter to a newspaper about "recent regulations disallowing single people in some conservation areas." She describes this as "one of the most outrageous and discriminatory regulations the provincial government has ever made."

Miss Van Gijn says she camps a lot, with her boyfriend and her brother and his fiancee and says it is not only young single people who disrupt the quietness. She points out to "many experiences of older married couples getting together and having a drunken brawl all night, making it impossible for me or anyone else to sleep."

Again, despite the presence of game wardens and police, this observer says further: "I have noticed that when there is a wild party going on, or when teenagers or adults are being a nuisance to other people, nothing gets done about it."

There's a message here. It says that people, young and old, can be pests in a variety of situations — even to the point of transferring the nasty behavior some exhibit in the home to the campground.

There is room for more control of such behavior, but certainly not by discriminating arbitrarily against single people or any other particular group.

By the Riverside

What a transformation has been wrought at those hitherto virgin acres of Riverside Park — that section of it across the river from Cannifton Road.

A year ago a rutted track led across the rough grassy terrain from the car park-beach-and swimming complex, with the trees along the river bank to the right, and a handsome new housing estate off North Park Street behind and to the left.

What was muddied track and semi-wilderness now is a gravel road which doubtless will be paved in due course; it winds for a quarter-of-a-mile or so up to the corner of North Park and Bell Boulevard. For the moment it ends there, and is railed off, if incompletely for the tracks of cars may be seen across the raw earth to the side and through a gap onto North Park.

All is in readiness for landscaping and what will represent a handsome new addition to Riverside Park. There is an opportunity here to provide more than just an attractive new green belt. Tennis courts and other recreational facilities would enhance the new expanse. All in all it has the makings of a distinctive new recreational area in Belleville.

Political Quicksands

No one should be under any illusion that detente means the end of political espionage.

The Times of London says the Soviet Union had secret plans to maneuver the United States into a position of isolation from Europe and the developing world and then to intensify the arms race.

In a copyright article, former British foreign secretary Lord Chalfont describes the contents of a secret Warsaw pact document which he said was brought out of Czechoslovakia by the defector, Maj.-Gen. Jean Sejna in 1968. Part of the Soviet plan was to seek the greatest possible technological and economic benefit from the United States, while dissuading the West from retaining a strong defence.

It's warning enough that detente is rooted in shifting political sands, in a world in which the one inevitability is change. In what direction only time will tell.

Davis and Bob Nixon Square Off In Election That Promises Heat

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — When the press conferences were over on the day of the announcing of the election a reporter summarized them this way:

"Davis," he said, "is ready for a fight. Nixon is bitter and Lewis is resigned."

It was a good capsulization and seemingly it may have been setting the tone of the whole campaign.

The former good-friend-to-everybody, I'm mad at nobody has been much more of a fighting man recently.

In the house on several occasions he has shown strong outbursts and at times has been scathing.

He has shown a hitherto unknown power and has had his benches cheering.

During the campaign we can expect more of this.

A lot of it will probably be directed at the federal government, which he apparently intends to make his chief whipping horse. But Robert Nixon will also get his share.

The Liberal leader and his troops seem to really irk the premier. And his usual treatment is to scathingly dismiss them as nothings.

Bob Nixon on his part seems to be really bothered by the government, and particularly Davis.

Bothered to, the extent that they seem to really get to him.

Between any politicians and any political parties there usually is a smile or so at off moments. But any smile that comes from the Liberal leader regarding Tories or Davis is wry indeed.

He leaves the impression of being in a real hate match.

Which means we could be in for some fiery times, particularly in those few weeks after Labor Day when the election will be at its peak.

There probably is even a key to this in that Nixon has said he is not going to hesitate to use the various boobs and "scandals" in which the Davis administration has been involved.

This means personalities. And personalities mean heat.

Lewis is the enigma of the election.

For the past several months he has been inclined to sit back.

He has still been the best, the brightest and the wittiest speaker in the house.

But he has mainly held his wit, and his inimitable scorn, for passing events and has hardly used it politically.

It is known that he has been trying to build a new image for himself and his party. But the impression he has left has been that he knows there is no substantial chance of gains in this vote and that he would be better to more or less sit it out.

Bible Digest

by H. S. DEAN

"Let them shout for joy, and be glad, that favour my righteous cause: yea, let them say continually, Let the Lord be magnified, which hath pleasure in the prosperity of his servant." Psalms 35:27

The Lord is not against us having worldly substance as long as they are secondary and used rightly. As a matter of fact, the Bible says — "it is He that giveth thee power to get wealth." "But seek ye first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and all these thing shall be added unto you."

'Red Tories' Look Askance At Lawrence The 'Reactionary'

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Allan Lawrence, Conservative MP for the Ontario riding of Northumberland-Durham, is sounding more and more like a candidate for the Conservative leadership.

And in the Conservative parliamentary caucus — which in the public view and mind fronts and speaks for the party — there are MPs who hope he runs and others who don't.

Those who hope he does not and will oppose him if he does, are the "Red Tories," the small left wing of the parliamentary caucus.

They don't want him because they consider him a reactionary who wants the party to "reform" itself and become more truly Conservative.

He wants the Conservatives to be clearly distinguishable to the voters from the Liberals and the New Democrats.

Then, worse, he wants "stringent controls" on the expansion of the public service and government spending and a tight rein on taxation.

But worst of all, as a former Ontario Attorney General, he wants what he calls "a return to law and order."

He admits it is a "contentious topic", and reveals that even "within my own party's caucus at Ottawa there are some who say that talk of 'returning to law and order' is pejorative.

Within his own area — and Northumberland-Durham is a gentle, peaceful section of rural and urban Ontario — "law and order, or the lack of it, is like a raw nerve. It is the one subject that always comes up in conversation.

"To me this is as firm an indication as we could have of rapidly increasing concern by large numbers of Canadians over the drift away from accepted standards of morality, established values and from respect for the code of Law and true justice and recognized order."

He has disclosed that before he served as Ontario Attorney General he was a capital punishment abolitionist.

But his up-close insight into crime and the lack of deterrent punishment transformed him into a retentionist.

"If the law passed by Parliament provides for capital punishment for the murder of police officers and prison guards — and it does — then that law should be upheld and not evaded by the government of the day."

The law, noted Allan Lawrence, has not been enforced in 12 years, while the kill-and-get-away-with-it rate soared.

The important factor, he claims, in the declining respect for law and order is this very "non-enforcement" of laws.

And it is not just that cabinet disregard of the law on capital punishment that is doing such damage to Canadian society.

For this dangerous "non-enforcement" runs all the way from the Lord's Day Act to the death penalty.

It includes the law on abortion — rigidly enforced in some places, winked at in others.

Allan Lawrence is concerned particularly over the erosion of respect for the law, by the "soft-peddling" of penalties involved in narcotics offences, especially the "milder" drugs.

These penalties are being gentled, he charges, because "those responsible for enforcement are aware that the federal government is not happy with existing legislation."

What is truly "frightening," as Allan Lawrence terms it, "is that when the public begins to see and understand that some laws are enforced while others are not — that there are some laws which must be obeyed and others which can be ignored with impunity — then there is a general loss of respect for all laws."

And that the federal cabinet itself offers the most glaring example of this "selectivity of enforcement and compliance" — in defying the law on capital punishment — is the most damaging and destructive aspect of the whole horrifying problem of "crime without punishment."

Allan Lawrence, if he runs for the Conservative leadership, will scarcely be your average candidate.

He not only knows his way around in government, 15 years in the Ontario legislature, four of them in the cabinet, and three in Parliament, but he's experienced in leadership racing, running a strong second to Premier Bill Davis four years ago.

With the mood of the country swinging right and returning to traditional and proven values, he could be the next federal Conservative leader and prime minister.

Landlord States His Case

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

With regard to your editorial of August 7, on rent increases, you refer to a specific case. Apropos of this tenant's "fixed income", did you ascertain how much this "fixed income" was? If the rent is higher than this tenant can afford, is there not being made available, more and more, good government subsidized housing and splendid senior citizen accomodation?

It is true that the demand for this type of accomodation far exceeds the supply at the moment, yet there are applicants who have been turned down outright because of too much "Fixed income" and too many assets.

Then, too, how are you in a position to judge whether or not a rent increase is justified? Do you have comparison figures for equal accommodation? Did you have access to the owner's financial statement to determine if he operates at a loss or at a profit? If you really feel that private enterprise should subsidize people on "fixed incomes", did you make any concession to them when you raised the price of The Intelligencer, or were you guided by your balance sheet? Do you have any figures on the recent and proposed increases for Hydro, fuel, taxes, maintenance, etc? Have you had occasion lately to call a plumber, electrician, carpenter, appliance service man, or do you rent your premises too?

Should you wish to set the record straight, this writer is available, with open books, to give you all the factual data from an owner's point of view.

AN OWNER WITH MOSTLY SATISFIED TENANTS.

Cost of Borrowing Money is on Upswing Once Again

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The reasons may be complex but the result is starkly simple: The cost of borrowing money is very much on the rise.

If you need to borrow for business or personal reasons, it will cost you more in the weeks ahead—barring some totally unexpected development.

And if you have savings to invest or lend out, you ought to be able to obtain a higher yield than has been available to you recently.

Why are interest rates gaining renewed upward momentum?

It's a many-faceted story that involves factors such as the consumer price index, the foreign-exchange value of the Canadian dollar, and the politically sensitive stance of the U.S. Federal Reserve Board.

In General, trends in interest rates tend to parallel trends in the cost of living. That's natural—if you lend money out, you want a return that protects the purchasing power of your capital, plus an element of pure interest as well.

Canada's inflation rate has been climbing again in recent months—11 per cent is the current annual rate—and no relief is anywhere in sight.

The value of the Canadian dollar has been slipping steadily in relation to the U.S. dollar and other foreign currencies, largely because foreign demand for our exports is lagging due to resistance to inflated prices.

To help cushion the decline of our dollar, the Bank of Canada has been dipping deeper and deeper into its foreign-exchange reserves to buy Canadian dollars from foreigners. Those reserves declined by $600-million to $5,230-million (U.S.) in the first seven months of this year.

At the same time, the central bank has been exerting its influence on Canadian money markets to move Canadian interest rates substantially higher, so as to attract more U.S. funds

The Bank of Canada must feel like the mythological Sisyphus, king of ancient Corinth, who was condemned by the gods to spend eternity pushing a huge stone up a hill, only to have it roll down every time he reached the peak.

Every time Canadian interest rates are nudged up to a satisfactory premium, the Americans narrow the spread. In recent days, the largest U.S. commercial banks have raised their prime (lowest) lending rates to 7.75 per cent from 7.50 per cent, in response to the Ford administration's anti-inflation policy.

The current uptrend in interest rates could be an obstacle to the economic recovery that's being proclaimed here and there.

In the first three months of this year, when interest rates were tending downward, Canadian chartered banks made $9.7-million in loans guaranteed under the Small Businesses Loans Act. That was more than double the first-quarter 1974 total of $4.7-million in small-business loans.

Now, however, the simultaneous increases under way in the inflation rate, interest levels and unemployment are likely to dampen the pace of borrowing to finance expansion of business activity.

For the monetary authorities at the Bank of Canada, the problem is to balance the level of interest rates against the level of the Canadian dollar.

The task of supporting the dollar may become politically unacceptable if interest rates have to be pushed so high that the recession is artificially prolonged.

Our dollar, therefore, may be set loose to drift down to its own level—a downtrend that could already be under way.

While that would bring relief to those who must depend on borrowed funds, it would make our exports even less competitive on international markets.

Soviet Composer Dies Of Heart Attack at 68

MOSCOW (AP) — Dmitri Shostakovich, a revolutionary-era Soviet music composer who incurred Stalin's displeasure but later became a national hero, died of a heart attack Saturday night at the age of 68.

Shostakovich, who composed hundreds of works for symphony, piano, violin, opera, ballet and film, had suffered peridic ailments for the last nine years.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, issued a one-sentence report saying Shostakovich died "after a grave illness."

He was regarded as gifted, prolific and often courageous, but many Western critics and Soviet contemporaries felt his creativity was stifled by having to tred Soviet ideological eddies. Toward the end of his life, he railed against experimentation and "vanguardism" in Soviet music.

His latest performed work, the 15th Symphony in A-Major, had its premiere here in 1972 to an enthusiastic reception and returned him to a purely instrumental symphony after an 18-year interval.

Born in St. Petersburg—now Leningrad—on Sept. 25, 1906, he studied at the Petrograd Conservatory of Music under former pupils of the famous Russian composer Nicholas Rimsky-Korsakov.

His first symphony, composed in 1925, earned international fame. Nine years later, he first encountered trouble from Soviet culture overseers with his opera, The Lady Macbeth of Mtsensk.

He rehabilitated himself in 1935 with his Fifth Symphony, which the Soviet press praised as "free from error."

During the Second World War, Shostakovich composed the Seventh Symphony, known as The Leningrad, first broadcast as that northern city was under siege by the Germans and became revered here as an anthem.

In 1963, he ran into trouble over his 13th Symphony because it contained choral singing of verses from Yevgeny Yevtushenko's poem Babi Yar. The poem, which then Premier Nikita Khrushchev did not like, complained there was no memorial to the thousands of Jews slain by the Nazis in Kiev. Shostakovich had to reword the chorus but not before Soviet audiences gave him and Yevtushenko a thunderous ovation.

Full official recognition of Shostakovich's talent—and conversion—did not come until his 60th birthday in 1966 when he was granted the title Hero of Socialist Labor.

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP)—Miss Vicki, the former usherette who married singer Tiny Tim and then left him, has returned from a sojourn in London to her old job as a go-go dancer.

Miss Vicki claims her problems with the local welfare department are straightened out. She was on welfare for three months last year and says it was because she could not dance due to a kidney ailment.

She needed welfare, she says, because Tiny Tim does not pay support for their four-year-old daughter, Tulip. "I don't think he should have to pay for a mistake that I made.

Miss Vicki, 23, says she has no plans for a divorce or reconciliation with Tiny Tim.

"We're legally married, but it's over," she said. "I love him, but we just cannot get along. He doesn't want a divorce and it doesn't really make any difference."

"I was 17 when I was married and still growing up. I was so young. Now I believe in astrology and think dancing is fun. When I was 17, I didn't think about astrology or being a go-go dancer."

OBERAMMERGAU, West Germany (AP)—The village council is considering changing or replacing the script of the Alpine village's famous Passion Play to remove passages criticized as anti-Semitic, Mayor Ernst Zwink said Wednesday.

Zwink said there is general agreement that some changes are necessary in the traditional script, written 100 years ago by Roman Catholic priest Alois Daisenberger.

But he said the council is undecided whether to delete from the text accusations that the Jews were responsible for Christ's crucifixion, or replace the script with a Baroque text written by local Benedictine monk Ferdinand Rosner.

The Rosner text blames the crucifixion on a plot by Lucifer.

Zwink said the council has set October, 1977, as a deadline for a final decision. "The issue is still open to debate. We want to give a chance to both proposals.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont. (CP) — The Canadian Mime Theatre will be the first Canadian attraction ever to play in Singapore when it undertakes a three-month tour following its next summer season.

Raymond Wickens, business manager of the company, returned recently from an exploratory trip encouraged by the invitation of the Elizabethan Theatre Trust of Australia which will underwrite the company's visit to that country.

The tour, the most extensive by any Canadian theatre company since the Second World War, includes Singapore, Glasgow, London and several Australian cities, Mr. Wickens said. A one-week performance also will be given in either Bangkok, Manila or Hong Kong, he said.

"We have had to refuse an invitation to play in Paris again, but we prefer to think of it as being a postponement until 1977," he said.

The itinerary will include another visit to London, where the company won good audiences last year, Mr. Wickens said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rock singer Little Richard has sued his former road manager for $100,000, complaining the ex-manager refuses to hand over business records the singer needs to support tax deduction claims.

The singer, whose real name is Richard Penniman, says he needs the records to support tax deductions of $100,000 he filed in 1972 and 1973 with the internal revenue service.

Danford — Maynes

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Danford

Calvary Temple was the scene of the July 26 wedding of Janie Lu-Ann Maynes and Gary Douglas Danford. Rev. C.K. Benn performed the service.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Bernice Maynes and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Danford of Marmora.

Given in marriage by Leslie Landry, the bride wore a gown of crystal crepe with a lace yoke trimmed with seed pearls, and a high mandarin collar edged with lace. Bishop sleeves with tight cuffs also were edged with lace, as was the detachable hood of the gown. She carried a trailing bouquet of red roses.

Jean Woodcock was maid of honor in an embroidered eyelet blue gown with a scoop neckline and ruffles down the bodice and on the short sleeves. She wore a large picture hat and carried pink and blue mums.

Bridesmaids were the bride's sisters Diana Muir, Bonnie and Sharon Maynes, in gowns identical to the maid of honor but in pink, carrying nosegays of blue and white mums. They also wore large picture hats.

Cindy Maynes, the bride's sister, carried the bride's train, and another sister, Nicole Maynes was flower girl. They wore pink eyelet gowns and carried pink and blue mums.

Roger Henry, the groom's cousin, was his best man. His ushers were Larry Maracle Dean Booth and the bride's brother Michael Maynes.

Chris Maracle, the bride's cousin, was ring-bearer.

A dinner and dance at Marble Point Lodge in Marmora followed the wedding.

After a trip to northern Ontario, Mr. and Mrs. Danford have made their home at 87 Kennedy Road, Brampton.

Fisher — Rainbow

St. Joseph's Church was the scene of the marriage ceremony uniting Simone Rainbow, daughter of Mrs. Rose Rainbow and the late E.J. Rainbow, and David Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Belton of Sarnia. Rev. J.A. Carley performed the service.

Given in marriage by her brother Ernest Rainbow, Simone wore an original gown of Dior satin with a cathedral veil falling from a headpiece of French lace and rhinestones. She carried a bouquet of assorted flowers.

Denise Dickie of Burlington, sister of the bride, was matron of honor in a gown of pink Dior satin, carrying a French lace parasol.

Peter Fisher of Sarnia, the groom's brother was best man, and ushers were John Fisher and Owen MacDonald, also of Sarnia.

Gwyneth Fisher, the groom's niece was flower girl, and Kevin Hickey, cousin of the bride, was ring-bearer.

The reception after the ceremony took place in the Park Room of the Four Seasons Hotel, followed by a luncheon at the Rainbow home.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher now reside in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lazier

Lazier — Hartt

Eastminster United Church was the scene of a late afternoon candlelight wedding on July 26, when Rev. Alexander MacDowell united in marriage Vickie Lee, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. John N. Hartt, and James Edward Lazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm E. Lazier, R.R. 1, Corbyville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace featuring a fitted bodice with square neckline enhanced with clusters of seed pearls, and long lily-point sleeves. The gown was fashioned in a three-tier effect with the full skirt falling into a slight train. A fingertip veil of nylon marquisette outlined with embroidered lace, was caught to a headdress framed in seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses and daisies intermingled with ivy.

Judy Hartt, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore a floral gown of yellow, orange and moss green on a white background. The high bodice was accented by moss green ribbons which tied in the back and fell softly to the slight train. She carried a basket of white, yellow and bronze daisies.

The bridesmaids, Shelley Hartt, sister of the bride, and Maxine Lazier, sister of the groom, wore identical gowns to the maid of honor, and carried baskets of daisies.

The groomsman was Maurice Hanley of Burlington.

Michael Lazier, brother of the groom, and Jim Hartt, the bride's brother, acted as ushers.

A reception and dance were held in the Fiesta Room, Hotel Quinte.

After a wedding trip to Boston and the Maritime provinces, the bride and groom will reside in Belleville.

You Be the Judge

Women on Welfare Face Harassment, New Pamphlet Will Ease Their Way

OTTAWA (CP) — Welfare is supposed to be a right, not a privilege, say seven local women who collectively have prepared a pamphlet to help Ottawa women on welfare learn about their rights.

"We found it incredibly difficult to find out information about just what women on welfare are entitled to," said Helen Levine, a professor of social work at Carleton University.

"Until we gave our jobs titles, which gave our questions some status, we constantly got the run-around. It gave us just a taste of the frustrations a woman on welfare must feel."

In the introduction to their pamphlet, called WoW for Women on Welfare, Levine, Lee McDavitt, Barbara Morrison, Dorothy Rusoff and Ruth Soughton—make it clear they are not unbiased.

"Women on welfare live in fear of having theirs cheques cut off. Welfare is supposed to be a right, not a privilege. It is supposed to be based on financial need, not how you run your life."

"Sure, this pamphlet has feminist learnings, but that is because women on welfare are harassed," said Lee McDavitt, who has been on welfare.

"We're trying to encourage women to work within the system to get as much from it as they can. We want them to feel they are not alone."

The liberally illustrated, bilingual pamphlet is written in a deliberately chatty tone.

"We tried to be clear and direct and sift out all the jargon," said Mrs. Levine. "Jargon is used by professonals to make themselves feel more important.

"Granted, sometimes the pamphlet gets a little complicated, but the legislation is complicated."

The biggest bone of contention for the writers is the problem of "the man in the house."

They say society is inflicting a moral standard on women receiving welfare.

"What the law says is, if you sleep with him it is his responsibility to support you and you lose your welfare cheque.

"It boils down to a straight swap—sex for economic support—and it denies the existence of women as individuals," said Mrs. Levine.

All seven women agreed the pamphlet has been a learning experience for them.

"What you must remember is that all women are just a husband away from welfare themselves and cannot afford to look down on women already there."

The pamphlet explains everything from available services to the bus routes necessary to get to them. One point it stresses over and over again is not to be intimidated and to demand everything that is due.

It is also not above using sexist tactics. On one page it advises that if all else fails "sob stories often equal free goods."

Interest in the pamphlet has been high, although it is not due to reach the public until September. Carleton University's school of social work has donated the postage costs for distribution of the first printing, about 3,000 copies.

"We want to make sure it goes free to women on welfare. We would like everyone else to pay for it, but we don't know how that would affect our grant from the department of health and welfare, which covers publication costs," said Mrs. Levine.

The future? "Well, we'd like to update it within a few months if we can get the money. Even now we can think of several things to add to it," she said.

In Ottawa

Lesbians Less Organized Than Male Counterparts

OTTAWA (CP) — In Ottawa, "leaving the closet" is far more difficult for gay women than it is for their better organized, more politically active male counterparts, say some of those who group themselves in the gay category here.

The women are splintered into small groups and the few female gay activists appear more concerned with male "oppression" of women than with the "straight" world's oppression of gays.

"We'd like to be more political but it's not time yet," said Sarah, a 22-year-old University of Toronto student working in Ottawa for the summer.

"It's hard enough for women to get good jobs without admitting they're lesbians," added Carole, a 31-year-old Ottawa professional.

Both women would only consent to be interviewed with the understanding they would not be identified.

They said the female gays in Ottawa are split into four main groups—feminists at the Ottawa Women's Centre, the sports crowd, the bar-hopping crowd and the university crowd.

The feminist lesbians remained determinedly feminine, but the women in the other groups often adopted role playing with one partner being the "butch" and the other the "femme." As a result, the two groups did not always see eye to eye.

Unlike their male counterparts, female homosexuals are usually not bothered by the police.

"If we went around being political we'd probably be hassled by the police, though," said Sarah.

She said the "straight" world has no exclusive hold on sexual discrimination.

"Lesbian women run into the same disadvantages in gay male groups as they do in any male-dominated organization. They end up making the coffee and answering the phone."

In startling contrast to the reticence of most gay women are gay men. One of the most outspoken is 29-year-old Charlie Hill, who has been president of Gays of Ottawa (GO) for the past three years.

"There's a good portion of society which would like to see us wiped out. And I'm well aware of that," he said.

Homosexuals can be found at all levels of society and in all jobs and professions, he said.

Gay liberation spokesmen say there are between 1,000 and 1,500 regularly active homosexuals in Ottawa and only a couple of dozen are as public about their gayness as Mr. Hill.

Surprisingly, many gays are openly hostile to gay liberation.

"Gays learn about oppression very fast and you start to live with that," Mr. Hill explained. "What we're saying now is, 'You don't have to do this any more. Fight back.'"

Can a Woman Rape a Man?

Dear Ann Landers: My friend and I debated this question for two hours and we couldn't agree on the answer. Please help.

Question: Is it possible for a woman to rape a man? My friend (female) claims it is not possible. I say it is. Granted, the woman might have to hold a gun to the man's head but I'm sure it could be done.

We have agreed to accept your decision as final. Please hurry. We'll be fighting over this until we hear.—Hung Jury In Montoursville, Pa.

Dear Hung: According to Harry Busch, a distinguished criminal lawyer in Chicago, it is possible for a woman to rape a man, but highly improbable.

Nature designed humans in such a way that the male, in order to complete a sexual union, must desire sex—or at least be willing to participate. While a male, at gunpoint, might be capable of being sexually aroused, it would be highly unlikely.

Somehow, somewhere, however, in this world of three billion people, there is undoubtedly a woman who could manage it. So—according to Harry Busch—you win.

Dear Ann Landers: Please tell "Regrets in Ohio" that her story gave me the final prod to stop smoking. And I mean today.

For several months I told myself I was going to stop smoking "tomorrow" or "next week." The facts were, I really didn't enjoy smoking. I hated the smell and the mess. But it was the "Regrets" letter that stunned me into awareness. I sat down and asked myself, "Why am I continuing to indulge in a habit that is distasteful, dirty, expensive, and will kill me before my time?" The only answer that came to me was "You're the biggest fool I know."

I cut out the "Regrets" letter and am going to carry it with me. Every time I get the urge to smoke I will take it out and read it. I'll know it by heart soon. But that's okay. I plan to get a piggy bank to carry with me, and whenever I feel the urge to buy a pack of cigarettes, I'll put the money in the piggy bank. Six months from now I will double the amount I've saved and give it to the Cancer Society.

I'll write again in six months to let you know how I did. I'll be ashamed if I have to report failure, but the idea that our dear friend in Ohio might see the letter will stiffen my resolve.—Shaken In North Carolina—The Heart of Tobacco-Land

Dear Heart: Bravo, Baby! I'll be looking for your letter in six months and please know I am betting on YOU!

Our Health Suffers When Economy Lowers

TORONTO (CP) — The physical and mental health of thousands of Canadians is being adversely affected by the current economic recession, says a psychologist at Toronto East General Hospital.

Unemployment, steadily increasing prices and insecurity about the future have created human stress, which in turn causes emotional and organic disorders.

Diane Syer, who heads the crisis intervention unit at the hospital, said July has traditionally been a quiet month but this year her saff was overworked.

She said economic distress was largely responsible for the increase in patients and cases are easily documented.

One patient, a single woman of 30, had established a neighborhood enterprise six years ago which had prospered and given her an annual income of $27,000.

In the last year, her business dwindled sharply and she was forced to live off savings. She worried that she would lose everything and, in despair, swallowed a dozen sleeping pills.

Some doctors now feel that the lower the economic cycle, the higher the suicide curve.

In a study at a local mental health centre, doctors found that six out of 10 suicide victims had been unemployed for 18 months of the two years before they took their lives.

Dr. Cy Marks, a physician who treats patients by relaxation and hypnotic techniques, said he is "definitely seeing more disorders caused by money and business worries."

Dr. Marks said that marriages tend to suffer in periods of economic uncertainty. He said a number of patients have breakups directly related to unemployment and dwindling wages.

Rev. James Reed, a marriage counsellor, agreed.

"I see cases where the husband can't get a job so his wife goes back to work," he said. "The woman feels a new sense of adequacy and independence while the husband feels worthless and impotent and bitter quarrels break out between them."

Some authorities attribute a recent increase in the number of battered children—up 25 per cent last year in records of the Hospital for Sick Children—to economic stress.

Prof. Cyril Greenland of McMaster University of Hamilton studied 1,121 cases of child abuse and said the common element was "poverty and severe environmental stress."

He said the parents who assaulted a child often felt worthless, frustrated and had time on their hands.

Set Up Shop

NOEL SHORE, N.S. (CP) — Four teen-age girls, taught a variety of home crafts during the last two winters by senior citizens in this Bay of Fundy community, are putting it all to good use this summer. Carol McComber, Barbara Main, and Rosemary Cox, all 18, and Lisa Main, 17, have set up a homespun shop in the community centre with the helo of an Opportunities for Youth grant. The girls provide information and dmonstrations on weaving, rug-hooking, quilting, spinning, butter-churning and other crafts.

16 Fires Burning In Area

TWEED — Sixteen fires are reported burning in this area today and officials from the ministry of natural resources here are predicting more this weekend due to lightning activity in North Hastings.

Extremely dry conditions plus an abundance of lightning activity in the past week has caused most of the fires, which range in size from one-tenth of an acre to 20 acres. The largest fire is in Kennebec Township in the Arden area.

Field service and land supervisor Floyd Caverly, with ministry, said today three major fires are being contained at the present time. He said the fire hazard is extreme and campers and cottagers should take caution. Five new fires were reported here Thursday.

In the province the ministry reports 178 fires burning as of today.

Carnival Ends Rec Program

Everyone was a winner at the recreation department's annual Penny Carnival held at the Belleville Arena, Thursday night, signalling the end of its summer program.

More than 350 people attended the festivities patronizing the 19 games booths staffed by recreation departments playground summer workers.

"This years carnival was a pleasant surprise because we had more parents attending than in previous years," said Karen Fraser, playgrounds co-ordinator for the program.

The children and adults spent most of the three hours travelling bback and forth between the various games with the most action taking place at the snuff-out, fishing pole booths and the Bingo area.

"We raised more than $125 during the carnival and this will pay the operating expenses for the evening," said Miss Fraser.

The highlight of the program, aside from the drawing for the three cakes being raffled, was the selection of the Miss and Master Penny Carnival, with the judging being done by Mayor Robin Jeffrey, Ald. Joe Cox, Ald. George Zegouras, Audrey Davies and Helen Paul.

Wendy Ely, 5, from Parkdale Park won the Miss title while Cameron Arnott, also 5, from the Haig Road Park was Master Penny Carnival.

PCs Meet August 21

PICTON — The date for the nomination convention for the Progressive Conservative candidate has been scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 21, at 7.30 p.m. in Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, Picton.

One of the speakers expected at the convention will be Claude Bennett, minister of industry and tourism with the provincial government.

To date the only candidate seeking nomination is encumbent James Taylor.

Everyone a Winner

As the recreation departmen's annual penny carnival ended Thursday night everyone was a winner. Here alderman George Zegouras presents awards to Miss Penny Carnival Wendy Eley (left) 5, from Parkdale Park and Master Penny Carnival Cameron Arnott, 5, from Haig Rd. Park.

Arnold to Continue Race Without Aid of Socred ID

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

WASAGA BEACH — Nancy Arnold, Social Credit candidate in the new provincial riding of Hastings — Peterborough, says the revelation that the Ontario Social Credit League has failed to qualify as a party for the upcoming provincial election will not deter her from campaigining as a Socred.

Ontario Party leader Alcide Hamelin learned Wednesday the league did not qualify because it has not met requirements of the new Election Finances Reform Act, 1975.

The 15 Socred candidates currenty campaigning will, by law, have to run as independents and may not use the Socred affiliation in their campaigns.

"I'm Social Credit, I always will be," Mrs. Arnold said. "You're not going to call me something I'm not."

She noted the lack of qualification will cause probl ms with campaign literature. "All our material literature. 'All our material comes from headquarters and it's all stamped Social Credit," she said.

However, Mrs. Arnold pointed out one way to possibly circumvent the law. She said although she might not be able to refer to Social Credit philosophy in her speeches, I think it's quite likely I can pass out literature.

I will not do anything against the law purposely," she emphasized.

There is one more chance for the Socreds to qualify — come up with 62 candidates by Sept. 4. Mr. Hamelin, however, has said this is impossible.

Mrs. Arnold is almost of the same opinion but still expresses some optimism. "If I'm going to be straightforward, I can say our chances aren't too terrific," she remarked.

"Almost anything could happen," she said. "Unfortunately, in an awful lot of the areas where we have major support, we haven't been able to field candidates. But we're working on it."

Mrs. Arnold said the league might try a blitz to quickly field just enough candidates. "That's a good possibility. People who have said it's not worth going through a campaign will now say it is worth it."

She said the league has planned a meeting Sunday where the issue will be discussed and a conclusion reached.

"We'll also of course be talking to our legal officials."

Mrs. Arnold was critical of the new election law. "I don't think you can pass a law to that degree."

Only four parties have qualified as registered parties — the Conservatives, the Liberals, the New Democrats and the Communists. The Communist Party of Canada gathered 12,300 signatures to qualify.

For qualification, a party must have held at least four seats in the Legislature after the most recent election and must have nominated candidates in at least half the ridings in the most recent general election or after the issuing of the writs for a new election.

Or a party must submit petitions containing names, addresses and signatures of 10,000 eligible voters who support the registration of the party.

Registration through petitions is not allowed during a campaign.

Bridge Title Won

Joseph Basch, 52 Melrose Cr., Belleville was a section winner in the Golden Masters Pairs summer North American Bridge Championships held at Bal Harbor, Florida.

Mr. Basch was entered in the tournament, a 10-day affair, which is among the four major championships and regional titles at stake.

He was competing against 1,320 other players for the title.

Murray Enters Race For Liberal Nomination

Belleville lawyer George Murray has announced he is seeking the Liberal nomination to represent Quinte riding in the Sept. 18 provincial election.

Mr. Murray is the second area Liberal to announce his interest in the nomination. Trenton realtor Hugh O'Neil announced earlier this week he is seeking the party endorsement at the nominating convention to be held in Centennial Secondary School next Tuesday.

In making his announcement, Mr. Murray, 30, said "the campaign must be a party campaign and not a campaign of individuals.

"Thirty-two years of Tory government is too long," he said. "No longer should friends of the Tory party be controlling the province."

"I have a great deal of respect for Dr. R. T. Potter . . . who really represented this riding as an independent," said Mr. Murray. "Dr. Potter said what he felt . . . not what the party felt he should say."

Now that he has resigned, "it's time for the Liberals to represent the riding," said Mr. Murray.

Commenting on the provincial Conservatives running on Davis record, Mr. Murray said "the last five years of Conservative government is nothing to be proud of."

He stressed the need for restraint on provincial spending and that "the Davis government has not shown responsibility in its fiscal spending."

He said provincial steps to foster regional government will continue and that as a Liberal member, he would oppose any regional forms of government in the Quinte area.

Mr. Murray has been a practising lawyer in Belleville for the past three years and has been a resident of Belleville since 1968. He is married and has two children.

Murray Seeks Nod

Belleville lawyer George Murray, Thursday, announced his intention of running for the Liberal nomination as a candidate in the next provincial election. He is the second Liberal to announce an interest in the Quinte riding nomination.

Police Seek Hit-and-run Driver

City police are looking for a 1974 two-door, red Chevelle, licence plate HFD 094, which was involved in a hit-and-run accident Thursday at the intersection of Bridge and Ann Streets.

The accident occurred at about 4:20 p.m. Two passengers in the second vehicle suffered minor injuries. City police are not releasing the names.

Yardmen Return Band Equipment

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

The Belleville Yardmen Drum and Bugle Corps is back in business.

Earlier this week sponsor support for the marching corps was withdrawn culminating friction that has existed between the band and sponsors for several months.

The Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund seized the band's equipment Tuesday night following the resignations of two band directors. The sponsors announced that until a board had been set up to administrate the organization, the equipment would be held in safe keeping.

Today the band's instruments, and uniforms have been returned and John Raymond of Kingston has been named corps director. Hugh Bondy, former head of the Belleville band, was named as a board director of the combined Kingston and Belleville corps.

Earlier this summer the Kingston Grenadiers and the Belleville Yardmen joined forces to give the members a better chance on the competition circuit. The Grenadiers-Yardmen Band, composed of 35 Yardmen and 60 Grenadiers, is ranked fourth of 18 bands in their competition association.

The return of the band's equipment will enable the combined corps to fulfill obligations to appear in two competitions this weekend and a final summer competition next weekend.

Thursday night was spent rehearsing in Kingston in preparation for the Canadian Senior Championships in Guelph Saturday, and for a Red Carpet Association competition in Rochester Sunday.

Information Bureau Questions Validity Program Study

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Spokesmen for the Quinte Information and Assistance Centre in Belleville say a provincial government report, of which it was the subject early this year, is inaccurate, inadequate and out-of-date.

The report was commissioned by the provincial ministry of consumer and corporate affairs after the centre, then the Citizens Bureau in Trenton, had applied for funds from the ministry's community information centre program.

The program has since been transferred to the provincial ministry of culture and recreation.

The report was compiled by Anne Walshaw, a field research worker from Peterborough under contract by the province.

"We asked for her to be brutally frank," related centre staff member Bill Hockley Thursday. "We didn't ask for an unprofessional compilation."

Vera Heimback, chairman of the centre board of directors, added, "we didn't ask for a lot of gossip and rumor."

The five-page report was received recently by the centre from Lola Bratty, co-ordinator of the information centre program. The Citizens Bureau had applied for funds as an information centre.

In an accompanying letter, Ms. Bratty stated, "the centre is not assessed as meeting the eligibility criteria for funding. Consequently, I am unable to recommend you for financial assistance at this time."

The report resulted in an emergency board meeting Wednesday during which the directors discovered over a dozen discrepancies. Lorne Williams, culture and recreation ministry field officer in Belleville, did not show up as invited to go over the report clause-by-clause.

Mr. Hockley remarked that biased answers from people interviewed by Ms. Walshaw during the study might constitute a reason for the inaccuracies and generalities in the report which have no facts to back them up.

"We gave her (Walshaw) a list of people who didn't like us so she could get the other side of the picture," he revealed.

"I don't think she deliberately undersold us," Mr. Hockley commented. "I think she was overimpressed with the status of those people she talked to."

The report sent to the centre board was a photostat copy with one-half of the front page missing. In addition, a sheet containing several recommendations by Ms. Walshaw was not included.

"We suspect a list of prominent citizens interviewed was cut off," Mr. Hockley noted.

The report has been completed for four months but the centre board did not receive its copy until this week. Ms. Bratty told The Intelligencer May 29 the report would be released during the first week of June.

Mr. Hockley pointed out Ms. Walshaw was to have met with Citizens Bureau officials when she finished her study but she never made an appearance.

Centre Aim Three-fold

The Quinte Information and Assistance Centre in Belleville has applied to the federal government for a Local Initiatives Program (LIP) grant which will enable it to become a comprehensive information centre.

Bill Hockley, centre staff member, said the application was made Thursday. If successful, the centre will be able to hire a person to form an information library in the centre, he explained.

With such adequate information reserves, the centre will then qualify for an operating grant from the community information centre program of the provincial ministry of culture and recreation, he said.

Mr. Hockley said the final objective of the centre is to become a three-fold operation with information, consumerism and lay advocacy "under roof as three separate entities."

The funding body for the consumer portion will likely be the provincial ministry of consumer and corporate affairs while the centre will apply for funds from the federal justice department for lay advocacy, he said.

Wayward Barrels Surfacing in Bay

Bell Canada's Belleville office is checking into report that barrels originally used to float a cable from Rossmore to Belleville are popping up in the Bay of Quinte.

A Bell spokesman said when Bell crews were laying a submarine cable from Rossmore to Belleville, barrels were used to partially float the cable — reducing the cable's weight and the addition of dragging effect on the bottom. The barrels remained submerged — though still exerting a bouyant force. As ropes gave way, the barrels popped to the surface.

Rossmore resident Gary Gibson said this week he has seen about 20 barrels during the summer. The most recent incident came Wednesday when one of the barrels used on the cable surfaced and washed ashore at Zwick's Island.

Bob Carleton, Trenton manager and public relations manager for the telephone company, said during an interview, Bell is taking another look at the situation to make sure any wayward barrels are retrieved.

The barrels pose no health problems and those still secured to the cable at the bottom of the bay are deep enough so as not to interfere with boat traffic, the spokesman said.

Barrels Annoying

For Rossmore resident Gary Gibson, barrels used in Bell Canada line installations across the Bay of Quinte are an annoyance — especially when they wash ashore at Zwick's Island swimming beach. A Bell spokesman said a further check will be made to make sure no more barrels come popping up.

Ford Offices Looted

City police have charged a juvenile following an investigation of a break and enter at 217 N. Front St., the offices of Ford Motor Credit Co.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said three calculators, a typewriter, and a stereo set, valued at $555, were stolen from the premises. Most of the stolen goods have been found, police said. The incident was reported Thursday.

Photographs Community

Professional photographer Don Cutter, from Windsor Publications, has been on assignment this past week in Belleville preparing for a Belleville Chamber of Commerce booklet on the city. Here, Mr. Cutter, from Detroit, photographs some of the students involved in the provincial Experience '75 program at Corby Library. Mr. Cutter has been photographing various community scenes and events.

Slim Pickings Over for Barr

MONTREAL (CP) — Jim Barr's won-lost record today is 11-9, but his manager says he has pitched much beter than the record looks.

JIM BARR

"He has pitched well for us all year," said Wes Westrum following San Francisco Giants' 9-2 win over Montreal Expos in National League baseball action Thursday night. "We went through a stage early in the year when we scored a total of eight runs in eight games Jim pitched."

But the Giants gave Barr a lot of support Thursday night as they completed a four-game sweep of their series against Montreal. Dave Rader smashed a three-run homer in the second inning and Barr helped his own cause with a two-run double to highlight a four-run outburst in the fourth.

Barr scattered nine Montreal hits and was never really in trouble as the Expos lost their sixth consecutive game. The San Francisco pitcher lost his shutout bid in the ninth when Larry Biittner doubled and scored on a two-base throwing error by Craig Robinson after he fielded Larry Parrish's grounder. Parirsh scored on a single to left by pinch-hitter Bob Bailey.

The victory was the fifth in six games for San Francisco at Jarry Park this season. The Giants are 0-4 against Montreal in San Francisco.

Staggering Pirates Take It on the Chin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sparky Anderson says you still have to treat Pittsburgh Pirates with respect, but what George Foster and Gary Nolan did Thursday night was downright impudent.

Foster hit his 20th and 21st homers of the season to drive in five runs and Gary Nolan muffled the Pirates' bats on four hits in eight innings as Anderson's Cincinnati Reds cruised to a 6-1 win in National League baseball action.

In Thursday's other National League games, Atlanta Braves beat St. Louis Cardinals 6-4, San Francisco Giants bombed Montreal Expos 9-2 and Chicago Cubs squeezed past Houston Astros 5-3.

"Maybe Pittsburgh is in a slump, but we have to treat them like the good hitting club they are," Anderson said after Cincinnati handed the Pirates their third successive loss and eighth their last nine outings.

The result cut the Bucs' East Division lead over idle Philadelphia Phillies to 2½ games and widened the Reds' margin over Los Angeles Dodgers to 15½ games in the West.

GEORGE FOSTER

"I'm just attacking the ball," Foster understated.

He followed singles by Ken Griffey and Tony Perez in the fourth inning by hitting a three-run homer off Jerry Reuss. After Perez singled in the sixth, Foster teed off on another Reuss pitch.

Nolan retired the first 15 Pirates before Manny Sanguillen broke up his perfect game with a leadoff single in the sixth, then ruined the shutout with a homer in the eighth.

Will McEnaney got the final three outs in the ninth with no trouble.

"There's no reason to talk about the National League playoffs in August," said Pittsburgh manager Danny Murtaugh. "There's still six weeks of baseball left."

Dave May's three-run homer in the first inning and Vic Correll's solo homer in the fourth lifted Atlanta past St. Louis. The loss left the third-place Cardinals 4½ games back of the Pirates and two behind the Phils.

Dave Rader hit a three-run homer in the second inning and pitcher Jim Barr hit a two-run double to spark a four-run fourth in the Giants' rout of Montreal.

The Cubs literally squeezed their victory out of Houston, Rob Sperring and Steve Swisher dumping successive run-scoring bunts in the fourth inning.

Tigers Taking a Barrage Of Abuse from the Fans

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Tigers didn't lose Thursday. They didn't play, either, and it may be just as well.

The American League baseball team's fans, like the players, have lost patience after 18 consecutive losing days.

"Is it true they're going to put paper bags on the seats at Tiger Stadium like they do on airplanes?" asked one frustrated fan in a letter to a Detroit newspaper.

"No, not true at all," was the printed reply. "It's the garbage on the field that's the problem."

Another reader said: "The Tigers should be charged with fraud for impersonating a professional baseball team."

Tonight the Tigers try again against California Angels at Anaheim, Calif., to break the 18-game losing string that has brought them within two of the league record and five of the modern major league mark set by Philadelphia Phillies in the 1961 National League season.

"There's no question that the attitude that has built up this last week on the team is that we gotta win this game tonight," said Tiger manager Ralph Houk. "No one likes to lose a ball game.

In the only games played Thursday, California rode a five-run third inning to a 5-3 triumph over Boston Red Sox, Oakland A's topped New York Yankees 5-1 and Chicago White Sox tripped Cleveland Indians 6-4.

A two-run double by Jerry Remy and a two-run single by Lee Stanton highlighted a five-run third inning and backed Bill Singer's first victory since June 9 as California beat Boston for the second time in three games.

Red Sox rookie Fred. Lynn had two runs batted in, raising his league-leading total to 85.

Pat Kelly hit a home run and a two-run triple to lead Chicago past Cleveland for Jim Kaat's 17th victory.

Kelly's eighth home run of the season came in the seventh inning to tie the game at 4-4 before doubles by Jorge Orta and Deron Johnson gave Chicago a 5-4 lead.

Bill North's tie-breaking single in the eighth and sloppy New York fielding led to a four-run inning and lifted Oakland to victory. The crowd of 14,140 gave the A's a season home attendance of 853,455—more than 8,000 over their total for last season.

Dick Bosman pitched a five-hitter to beat Rudy May, who has received a total of five runs in support over his last four games.

Jauch Not Overjoyed But He'll Take the Win

Jauch wasn't overly enthused with the performance of his football team Thursday. But he gladly will settle for the two points his Edmonton Eskimos got for their 27-24 victory over British Columbia Lions.

The win moved Eskimos into a second-place tie in the Western Football Conference, two points back of Winnipeg and Saskatchewan. However, Jauch feels there is plenty of room for improvement.

"I'm certainly not completely happy," he said. "We had another long touchdown pass scored against us. That's one too many deep ones."

The pass he referred to was a 70-yard touchdown from Eric Guthrie to Jim Young, and while it gave the Lions a considerable lift, it wasn't enough.

Dave Cutler did what he does best, scoring 15 points with four field goals, a single and two converts in leading Eskimos to their second victory of the season.

His kicking performance overshadowed Guthrie's debut as a starting quarterback in the Canadian Football League. Guthrie got a last-minute call when Don Moorhead's injured shoulder and Peter Liske's bruised ribs kept them out of the game.

Guthrie provided some thrills for the 18,688 fans. He threw touchdown passes to Young and Terry Bailey to bring the Lions back from a 23-10 deficit in the fourth quarter. But Cutler went to work again a few minutes later and restored Edmonton's lead.

Guthrie, who injured a knee during Thursday's game to further complicate B.C. coach Eagle Keys' lineup juggling, went the entire game and scored a touchdown himself with a one-yard run. John Wintermeyer did the rest of the B.C. scoring with a field goal and three converts.

"Guthrie did a good job for them," Jauch said. "We didn't expect him to start from what the Lions had said before the game."

The Edmonton coach wasn't delighted with Eskimos' running game, which accounted for 127 yards of the team's 369-yard total. Roy Bell got 101 of those yards along the ground in 23 carries.

Tom Wilkinson did most of the damage for Edmonton through the air, completing 18 of 25 passes for 242 yards.

Lions got just 64 yards rushing but Guthrie completed 17 of his 37 passes for 290 yards. Both teams had 19 first downs but Eskimos didn't have as far to go to score as did the Lions.

Poor punting by Guthrie and Slade Willis, combined with a number of penalties against B.C. for insufficient yardage, gave Eskimos excellent field position to start drives from good field position and Wilkinson made few mistakes in getting them within scoring range.

Things Can Only Improve For Macs in the Future

It hasn't exactly been a successful year for the Belleville McDonald's in Ontario Fastball League action. As a matter of fact, the only thing the Macs have been big in is the loss column. But, for a first year entry, they have accomplished a certain amount.

From at least two angles, Doug Adams has met with a degree of consolation. Firstly, the Mac general manager has learned that softball fans of the area are behind his longshot venture and, at the first of the year it was a longshot. When the Macs lost the support of the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund the odds against the squad completing their initial year of service soared.

Still, Adams and Dale Duvall hung on. Though problem after problem arose from within the club, the Macs stuck it out.

That is the other point the owners have won this season. They now know who's got it and who hasn't. Without even referring to a talen scale, softball enthusiasts of the entire Bay of Quinte area have learned who can cut it in the big league.

Though many players from the immediate Belleville region were considered good candidates for the Macs the number of real players became increasingly small as the number in the loss column grew.

The fellows who can cut it in the Ontario Fastball League, the ones that are big league material, inside as well as on the stat sheet, are those players Mac fans will see this weekend at Alemite Park.

The guys who make a big league team and make it a winning team are those like Larry Mavety who, after travelling all winter in the World Hockey Association, hardly needs the added road work of a big time fastball club. Nevertheless, Mavety has been there all year. Taking only one day out of the schedule to attend a charity ball game.

What about the McDonald pitching staff. After all the frustration of losing nearly a third of the regular schedule by one run, the Mac staff has a right to throw in the towel. Still, they keep coming back for more. Ted Waite, Scott Reid and Jim Chase.

Then there are players like Frank Robinson and Steve Ling who drive from Kingston and Pete Harrison, who comes from work in Toronto. Those three have been there all season and if anyone had an opportunity to avoid the embarrassment of some of the many defeats, it was those three.

There are others. Paul Goodfellow, who could have caught on at shortstop with any team in the area or even several other clubs in OFL. Terry Meagher, who came back from a winning hockey season at Boston University and jumped both feet into a losing one here. He didn't quit. I guess that's why he was selected one of the varsity hockey squad's co-captains for 1976.

There are a couple more. Glen Carleton, a player who hardly needs the pressure of big league ball. Doug Dafoe. who worked his butt off to get in shape, made the team and has spent 95 per cent of the year ridng the timber. You didn't see him packing it in. He stayed around, if for no other reason than to lend support — didn't he' — Bob and Jim and Dwight and Ken.

Then there's Hep McTaggart who played the whole year at third with a bum shoulder until the doctor finally ordered him to quit.

As Steve Ling said, "It has been a learning year." Doug Adams, Dale Duvall and last, but not least, Harold Reid, will all testify to that. But Ling's statement was more profound than he likely imagined. It has not only been a learning year for the McDonald's, it has also been a learning year for many fans in the area.

The old adage, 'You can't tell a book by its cover,' is the most appropriate thought that sums up what fans have learned. Of all the so-called big timers who had a shot at the Ontario Fastball League, only a handful relly gue, only a handful really have the guts to cut it. Some players who could have helped the Macs were quite often the rats who deserted the sinking ship.

I just wonder how small those rats will feel when that sinking ship patches itself up and sails into port — whether it's next season or three years from now. It's going to happen. It has to happen. With the nucleus the Macs have left over from their first year and the players they have been testing for next season, it can't help but happen.

Bevan Clarke may look safe, but he was called out in Quinte Fastball League action on Thursday night. Just previous to that first baseman Al Ferguson put his foot on the bag to make the out as Clarke churned down the first base line. Devolin Motors could have used the baserunner, as they lost to Auger's 7-1 and the Trenton team took second place in the QFL.

Juniors Finish Out of Running

Clutch Win by Howard and Robert

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Rorabeck Real Estate had a 4-0 lead late in the game Thursday and the stage was set for a major Quinte Fastball League upset. If Rorabeck won it would make a playoff necessary between Howard and Robert and the Ellis Juniors, both tied at 24 points apiece.

Unfortunately for Rorabeck the H and R team doesn't like extra dramatics, so they scored five runs in the next three innings and picked up a win. The win put the Printers in the playoffs and kept the Ellis Juniors on the sidelines.

In the first game of the doubleheader Auger Men's Wear defeated Devolin Motors 7-1 to take the league's second place spot.

Howard and Robert pitcher Ron Hill picked up his club's win, after coming in to relieve Bob Richardson in the fourth inning. The two burlers gave up seven hits and two walks to Rorabeck hitters, while striking out six.

Mark Sheridan took the loss, he gave up eight hits and walked two. He sent 10 batters to the bench on third strikes.

With the score tied 4-4 in the bottom of the seventh, Terry Pope singled to drive in the winning run for the Printers.

Terry Pope tripled and singled for the winners, while Bob Richardson had two singles and Rick Graham, Larry Potter, Paul Hall and Ron Hill all had one baggers.

Rorabeck had one of their better nights at the plate, with Ken Holmes banging a triple, Harry MacDonald and Wayne Casselman both had two singles each and Ray Barrett and Hugh Holmes each singled.

It was Auger Men's Wear all the way in the win over Devolin Motors.

The late season surge by the Auger team paid off, giving them second place in the QFL and good momentum going into the playoffs.

Darryl Kramp, the winning hurler, gave up just four hits and two walks. He had one strikeout.

The loss was absorbed by Larry Griffin who gave up seven hits and walked four. He came on with six strikeouts. The Devolin defence was suspect during the game, as they made five errors, something unusual for the Motormen.

Dave Lott had two singles in the winning cause as did Dale Akey. Other one baggers came from Al Ferguson, Dave Henry and Jamie Hunter. Joe Theriault had his hit streak stopped at 14 games.

Rick Rosebush slammed a triple for Devolin to win the league batting championship, after finishing a strong second in that race last year.

Singles were contributed by Dave Horwood, Larry Griffin and Don Holoway.

Kemptville Jumps in Front

TRENTON — Belleville Ellis Juniors, rocked 12-2 in the opener of an Ontario Amateur Softball Association Eastern final series here Thursday night, get a chance to redeem themselves tonight when the set resumes in Kemptville.

Forced here when no playing facilities were available in Belleville, the Ellis club had a miserable time of it, especially in the third inning when Kemptville pushed six runs home aided by three Belleville miscues.

John Sprackett started and lost for Ellis. He was relieved by Bruce Sutherland.

Between them, they gave up 11 base hits while striking out eight and walking three. Their mates were charged with five errors.

Winner Doug Barnett went the distance on a six-hitter. He fanned six and walked four.

It wasn't until the fifth inning that Ellis got on the score sheet. Jim Richardson drew a walk with two out and scored on Steve Campbell's second safety of the night.

The losers' other run came on a two-out homer in the eighth by Brian Turner.

First baseman Ken McDougall stroked a double and two singles to lead the Kemptville attack. Barnett helped his own cause with a pair of singles while Dan Arcand and Jack Burnett also checked in with a pair of one-base hits each.

Campbell's two safeties were tops for the losers. Turner had his homer with Pete Stailkovich, Wayne Andrews and Ken Vos sharing the others.

Intell Squares Semi-final

Things couldn't be much closer in the Belleville Industrial Softball League playoffs, as both semi-final series are tied.

On Thursday night a team effort by The Intelligencer gave them a 6-1 win over Brooke Bond, and tied their series at 1-1. In the other series Post Office and Black Diamond are all tied up.

The Brooke Bond defence was suspect all night, as they made no less than five errors in the contest.

Jim McKay and Joey Edward's shared the Intell win. This is the second time The Intelligencer team has come back from a one game deficit in a series.

The two winning hurlers gave up just four hits, while walking six batters and striking out three.

The loss was shared by Tom St. Jules and Ross Geen, who just couldn't seem to get anyone out. Although they gave up just one hit, they walked seven batters and Brooke Bond made a number of miscues, behind them.

The only Intelligencer hit came from Kevin Joudwa with a single.

Bob Pozzo doubled for the losers.

Tonight both teams have a chance to take a lead in their series, as will Black Diamond and the Post Office, who also meet this evening at Alemite Park.

It should be a battle to see who will make the finals, and the winner will have to go a long way.

Latta Team Earns a Bye To SHBL Final Playoff

- Latta guaranteed itself a spot in the South Hastings Baseball League finals by defeating Read 6-2 on Thursday night and getting a bye into the title set.

In the other league playoff game, Foxboro took a two game lead in their series with Shannonville.

Bob Reid was the winning hurler for Latta, he gave up six hits and walked one batter, while striking out eight.

Ken Abrams and Phil Badgley shared the Read loss, allowing four hits and issuing four free passes, they had two strikeouts.

Stan Dafoe singled twice for the winners while Wayne Harrison and Bob Smith each singled.

Read batters may have done well at the plate, but in the field they were less than adequate, as the losers made eight errors.

Ken Abrams had two singles for the losers in the team's last game.

Brian Masterson was the winner on the mound for Foxboro in a 6-3 victory. Masterson gave up three hits and two walks and had six strikeouts.

The Shannonville loss was shared by Lennie Maracle, and Jon Morris. They combined to give up six hits and walk three, they had just two strikeouts.

For the winners, Dale Tummon hit his first two home runs of the season and Ted Foster doubled to lead the way.

Doug Topper smacked a homer for the losers but it wasn't enough.

Yardmen Drop Series Opener

PORT HOPE (Special) — Out-hit but not out-scored. That was the story for Port Hope in the opener of its Eastern Ontario Baseball Association Midget playoff series with Belleville Yardmen here, Thursday.

The visitors held an 11-7 edge in the hitting department but where it counted — runs for and against — Belleville was on the short end, 7-5.

Sunday in Belleville, the teams hook up in Game 2 with the action slated for Centennial Park at 4 p.m.

After building a 2-1 lead in the first three innings, Port Hope exploded for five runs in the fifth. Belleville battled back with four in the sixth to get right back in the game but there was no further scoring.

Peter Sweet and Ken Swales shared the winners' pitching, striking out 12 and walking two. Gary Stapley and Peter Hall toed the Belleville rubber, fanning 16 and walking six.

Randy Shuyne and Bill Austin each belted a double and a single for Port Hope.

Tops for the visitors was Ken Revoy with three singles. Hall had a double and a single while Gary Drake and Steve Badgley each poked a pair of singles. Bruce Bell pounded a ground rule double.

VARNA, Bulgaria (CP) — Canada's Olympic women's volleyball team, playing without Korean-born coach Moo Park, who was denied an entry visa, dropped its opening match of the Bulgarian-Varna tournament to the host Bulgaria national team 3-1 Wednesday. Bulgaria is ranked 13th in the world, Canada 11th.

KNOX ELIMINATED

— Philip Knox of Montreal was eliminated from Greco-Roman wrestling at the world junior wrestling championships Thursday after losing to Syos of Hungary in the 149-pound class. In the 163-pound category, Brian Renken of Thunder Bay was defeated by Andersson of Sweden and missed another match through injury.

LEBANON WITHDRAWS

ZURICH, Switzerland (Reuter) — The International Football Federation (FIFA) said Thursday that Lebanon had withdrawn from a pre-Olympic soccer tournament in Tehran, Aug. 20-29.

BQSA Squeakers See Few Goals

Scoring plays were at a minimum in Bay of Quinte Soccer Association action on two fronts, Thursday.

Playing at Sir James Whitney School, Quinte Italo-Canadians gave Belleville Olympics a run for their money before grudgingly accepting a 2-1 defeat while at Canadian Forces Base Trenton, the home side scored in the first minute of play and made it stand up to nose out Brighton.

Donw 2-0 at the interval, Italo-Canadians led by Joe Iasenza and George Del Grosso came on strong in the second half to get one back and come very close to at least earning a tie.

Bob Kitcher and Zdravko Fundic were the Olympics' marksmen.

Nick Del Grosso split the defence to score the only Ital marker.

Complete details on the CFB—Brighton game were not available but Brighton club spokesman Marcus Aris rated the officiating as "excellent".

Maracle Blanks Bud Gill

It's playoff time in Belleville Minor Lacrosse Association house league play.

In first round bantam play, Eric Maracle in the net for Ken-Yen-Geh shut out Bud Gill 11-0. Wes Bardy had two goals and three assists for the Deseronto team. Murray, Tim and Warren Maracle each potted a pair of goals.

Cornerstone nipped Bob's Sports 6-5. Looking after the scoring for the winners were Steve Riddel with four and Rob Soule who potted a pair. Jamie Thibideau had three in defeat.

At the Peewee level, Barry Dean's three goals led Ponderosa past Woodland Cleaners 5-2 and Steve Molaski fired seven goals to spark Police Association over Dairy Queen 7-2.

Canadian Open Tennis Tournament

Disgruntled Bjorn Borg Knocked Out

Bjorn Borg

TORONTO (CP) — A West German who got into the $130,000 Canadian Open tennis tournament by default stunned No. 2 seed Bjorn Borg on Thursday night.

Spectators at the Toronto Cricket, Skating and Curling Club booed loudly when Borg deliberately double faulted on his last serve to give Hans Plotz the match.

Borg, who became the tournament's top-rated male player after Guillermo Vilas of Argentina withdrew, went threw the motions on his final serve after losing an argument with tournament referee Doug Philpott.

With Plotz leading 4-3 in the third set and holding the advantage at deuce, Borg stopped playing at one point, believing that the German had hit the ball twice on one stroke.

Philpott was called to centre court to mediate the point and gave the game to Plotz.

A double hit is when the ball touches the racquet twice in one play, but there is no longer a rule about double hits.

Plotz had won the first set 6-4 but Borg won the second 6-2.

Borg's coach, Lennert Bertelin, blamed the lighting at the club for Borg's inconsistent play. Bertelin said European tournaments are not played under lights.

The coach said the lights destroyed Borg's normal offensive, close-to-the-line game because Borg could not see the ball or the lines to judge.

Told of Bertelin's explanation, tournament chairman Don Fontana said:

"He's supposed to be a super star. What about the other players?"

Plotz, 31, who is ranked No. 7 in West Germany, only got a spot in the tournament when No. 15 seed Roger Taylor of Britain withdrew with a wrist injury.

The top two women's seeds also were eliminated Thursday. Top seed Margaret Court of Australia lost to Diane Fromholtz, her former pupil, 6-3, 3-6 and 6-2.

No. 2 seed Julie Heldman of the United States was a 6-4, 5-7, 6-4 loser to Linky Boshoff of South Africa.

Borg's elimination left No. 3 seed Manuel Orantes of Spain and No. 4 seed Ilie Nastase as the tournament's top-rated men. No. 5 seed Rod Laver was eliminated Wednesday.

Orantes, who lost in the tournament final in 1973 and 1974, defeated Japan's Jun Kamiwasumi 6-2, 6-4 and Nastase drubbed Brazil's Thomas Koch 6-2, 6-2.

Ontario Repeats

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Ontario won its second consecutive Canadian junior women's team golf title Thursday and one of its star players turned her attention to repeating as individual champion.

STACEY WEST

Stacey West was happy with the team victory at the Brightwood golf course but a bit disgruntled with her second consecutive score of 77,, six over par.

"I've played so badly," the 16-year-old Willowdale, Ont., high school student moaned after 36 holes of the three-round national individual competition.

"I took two sevens today. I'm hitting too well to shoot 77."

Her total of 154 is one stroke ahead of Louise Tremblay of St. Leonard, Que., who followed an opening-round 79.

Tremblay was satisfied with most aspects of her game Thursday, especially her putting.

"Yesterday it was so bad . . . chip and two-putt, chip and three-putt. It's nice to have a good round. I'm happy with that," she said after needing only only 11 putts on er the back nine Thursday.

Sydney Thomson of Victoria moved into third place with a 156 total. She fired the best round of the tournament to date, a three-over-par 74.

"Things just came together today. Tomorrow I'll play my own game and play as well as I can. I hope my putting improves. I had three, three-putt greens," she said.

Liz Ruttan of Unionville, Ont., shared fourth place at 159 with Pamela Johns of Weston, Ont., heading into today's final round.

Ontario team members—West, Ruttan and Judy Ellis of Kitchener—had a combined 36-hole score of 310, including a 156 total Wednesday over the par-71 course and 154 Thursday. Team scores are determined by adding the two lowest scores turned in.

British Columbia's Sydney Thomson was disappointed with her team's second place finish at 321.

Thomson, Paula Phillips of Vancouver and Patti Murray of Vernon combined for scores of 163 and 158 over the two-day event, concurrent with the individual championship.

Quebec finished third with 328 while Alberta was 10 strokes behind them at 338. Nova Scotia was six strokes ahead of Alberta Wednesday, but gave away eight strokes Thursday and finished fifth at 340.

Prince Edward Island had 344, Manitoba 345, New Brunswick 352, Newfoundland 352 and Saskatchewan 392.

Slim Lead for Roxburgh

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., switched to a two-iron to improve his putting Thursday.

Doug Roxburgh didn't have to resort to that, but he wasn't pleased with his putting after stroking a three-under-par 68 for the second-round lead with a 140 total in the Canadian Amateur Golf Championship.

Roxburgh, the 23-year-old defending champion, holds a one-stroke lead over Cowan and 21-year-old Jim Nelford of Vancouver entering today's third round in the 72-hole tournament.

Cowan matched Roxburgh's score and Nelford, current British Columbia amateur champion, fired a 69 on the par-71 Riverside Country Club course to follow an opening 72.

Cowan said he should have been pleased with the score "but I hit the ball so much better that I could have been five or six shots better."

"I was going for pars most of the day in the opening round and I seemed to make the most of them," said Roxburgh. "Today I started to hit the ball a little better and I didn't make as many putts but I'm not going to complain."

He had a birdie on the par-three, 285-yard third hole to put him one-under 35 on the front nine. On the back nine, he fired three birdies and a bogey for a two-under 33.

The tournament started with 112 players Wednesday and lost 40 after the cutoff of 157 or better.

Roxburgh's score over the 6,244-yard course helped B.C. win the Willingdon Cup interprovincial team title for the fourth time in the last six years and the 12th time since 1946.

The B.C. team, which also included Cec Ferguson of Victoria, Muncie Booth of Vancouver and Bill Hobbis of Prince George, wound up with a 432 total in the drizzling rain. Nova Scotia was second with 439, followed by Quebec and Ontario one stroke back.

Alberta was fifth with 448, defending champion Manitoba had 453 followed by New Brunswick 462, P.E.I. 471, Saskatchewan 476 and Newfoundland 488.

Robbie Jackson of Ile Bizard, Que., fourth in the amateur with consecutive 71s, was followed by Dave Webber of Dartmouth, N.S., 72-71—143 Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., 71-73—144; Gerry MacMillan of Kingston, N.S., 72-73—145 and Graham Cooke of Dorion, Que., 69-76—145.

Cowan, a 36-year-old insurance man, had three birdies and a bogey on the front nine of two-under 34. He completed the final holes with consecutive bogeys on the 10th and 11th, then scored birdies on the 13th, 14th and 17th for another 34.

"I sank a nice long 25-foot birdie with a two-iron on the 17th because for the last seven holes I putted with my two-iron. That's how much trouble I was having on the greens," said Cowan, winner of this tournament in 1961 and five times a runner-up.

Ken Tamke of Edmonton, first-round leader with a 68, slipped to 79 for 147. Richard Dumeah of Halifax also had 147 but took an automatic two-stroke penalty for playing the wrong ball on the 16th hole, giving him a 74 in the second round.

Rifle Association Meet

Second Gold for Britain

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — Charles Holt collected a second gold medal for Great Britain on Thursday by scoring 93 out of a possible 100 points to win the Alexander of Tunis trophy for marksmanship at the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association (DCRA) meet near Ottawa.

Mr. Holt, from Colchester, England, a member of the Great Britain Rifle Team also will collect a $25 cash prize for winning the match, which called for 10 rounds each at 800 and 1,000 yards.

The trophy is named after the late Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis who was Governor-General of Canada from 1946 to 1952.

Two Canadian competitors, Eric Andrews, Victoria, B.C., and Gil Hirst, Calgary, placed second and third with 97 and 96 points, respectively.

In team shooting competition, the Canadian team captured the Canada Trophy with 75 out of a possible 800 points. Great Britain placed second with 752 points.

The Great Britain Atheling Cadet Rifle Team won the Buell marksmanship trophy by scoring 775 out of a possible 840 points in the match open only to cadets. The Western Canada Cadet Rifle Team scored 737 points to capture second place. Teams were made up of 12 shooters each, firing from 300, 500 and 600 yards.

In provincial team competition, Ontario won the Coates Cup with 733 out of a possible 800 points. Each of eight team members fired 10 rounds at 500 and 600 yards. Quebec finished second with 734 points.

About 100 army cadets are competing for 18 positions on the 1976 Royal Canadian Army Cadet Team which will attend the Bisley rifle matches in England next summer. Members of the Bisley team will be announced Saturday.

In addition to the cadets about 350 civilians also are competing for the trophies and prize money.

Vancouver Team Scores 4-2 Win

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — A seventh-inning double by Ted Springenatic of Vancouver drove in two runs Thursday night to give Canada a 4-2 win over South Korea in the Intercontinental Cup baseball tournament.

In the first game of the tournament earlier Thursday, Nicaragua edged Puerto Rico 5-4 to move into today's play tied with Canada with a 1-0 record.

The series involves 14 games here and 14 more, plus playoff games, in Montreal.

Righthander Fred Cardwell of Red Deer, Alta., went the distance on the mound for Canada, striking out four, walking two and giving up six hits.

The game was delayed 45 minutes by thundershowers.

The South Koreans used three pitchers, Sun-Hee Lee coming on in the second to pitch six innings and take the loss.

Canada scored in the first and second innings and South Korea in the first and sixth.

Brent Hallett of Fredericton started the seventh for Canada by lining a single off the third baseman's foot. He was sacrificed to second by Dennis Linstrand and then Jim Thomas was hit by a pitch.

Springenatic then punched his shot into the right centrefield hole, the only extra-base hit of the game, chasing home Hallett and Thomas. He also cracked a single in the Canadian effort.

Al Watson and Hallett also had a pair of singles each for Canada.

Hae-Chang Lee had two singles for South Korea and Yoon-Sik Cho hit safely once.

Yong-Soo Kang was the starting pitcher for South Korea. Ho Joong Kim finished it, accounting for four of the South Korean strikeouts. He also walked four.

Italy Upset 82 - 64

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — Jamie Russell of Burlington, Ont., scored 26 points Thursday night to lead Canada's national basketball team to a surprising 82-64 win over Italy's national team.

The win was Canada's third in seven games in the Intercontinental Cup series.

"That's the first time we've ever beaten them," said Canadian coach Jack Donohue, "They beat us by 20 in Italy and it could have been 50."

Canada jumped to a quick 10-1 lead Thursday night and led 36-26 at the half.

Lars Hansen of Coquitlam, B.C., had 16 points for Canada including 14 in the second half. Phil Tollestrup of Raymond, Ita., and Bill Robinson of Chemainus, B.C., added 10 points each.

Canada wins up the eight-game series Sunday in Toronto against the undefeated Soviet Union team. In another game Thursday, the United States blasted Yugoslavia, 84-61.

Brampton In Lead

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Brampton Excelsiors took a one-game lead Thursday in their Ontario Lacrosse Association Major Series semi-final, defeating Six Nations Braves 8-5.

Brampton now leads the best-of-seven series 3-2 with the sixth game Sunday at Ohsweken.

Brian Robinson led the Excelsiors with three goals and Steve Mastine added a pair. Bob Haw, Art Webster and Barry Richardson scored one goal apiece to complete the Brampton scoring.

Frank Davis paced Six Nations with two goals, while Tim Squires, Kim Patterson and Boss Squires added singles for the Braves.

Wheelchair Games

Three-medal Show For Canada's Batt

MEXICO CITY (CP) — Ed Batt of St. Catharines, Ont., collected three medals for Canada in Thursday's competition at the Pan-American Wheelchair Games.

The 22-year-old Batt, a Class 1A competitor, took a silver medal in the discus and bronze medals in the shot put and slalom.

He had heaves of 34 feet, 3¾ inches in the discus and 10 feet, 11½ inches in the shot put. His time in the slalom was 1:47.

Kevin Earl, 21, of Richmond, B.C., took a gold medal in the Class 4 slalom with a time of 1:0.

The United States handed Canada its first defeat after three wins in men's basketball, downing the Canadians 56-38. The Canadian women lost 33-8 to Argentina.

In other slalom competition, Dennis Cherenko of Vancouver took a bronze in Class 1B with a time of 1:58 and Rene Masse of Montreal was third in Class 3 with a time of 1:10.

A time of 19.2 seconds gave Sharon Long of Hamilton a silver medal in the Class 1B 40-metre run.

A Canadian relay team of Dianne Crowe of Edmonton, Jo-Ann MacDonald of St. John's, Nfld., Lucille Raiche of Halifax and Sandy De Venney of Fredericton took a silver medal in the 4x200-metre relay with a time of 3:56 and in the 4x60-metre relay with a time of 1:10.5.

Brian Halliday of Toronto hurled the discus 66 feet, 3¼ inches, for a silver medal in Class competition. A toss of 58 feet, 4¾ inches gave Brian Ward of Halifax a bronze in the Class 3 javelin.

Pitcher's Homer Does the Trick

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Pitcher Terry Gallamore hit a ninth-inning home run to give Kitchener Evergreens a 3-2 win Thursday over Burlington Ancaster Provisioners in an Ontario Fastball League game.

In other games Thursday, London Dukes downed Woodstock Warriors 5-3 and Hamilton Scrappers and St. Catharines Mr. Jackets split a doubleheader as Hamilton won the first game 4-3 and St. Catharines took the second 3-2.

In Burlington, Gallamore won his eighth game of the season against 14 losses as he struck out 11 batters and walked two. He gave up seven Provisioner hits.

Losing pitcher Al Few allowed four hits and struck out four batters.

Kitchener took a 2-0 lead in the top of the sixth inning on two hits and a Burlington error. The Provisioners came back in the bottom of the inning to tie the game.

In London, Metro Szeryk struck out seven batters in three innings to preserve the win for starter Dick Hames.

Szeryk also knocked in three runs, two with a pinch-hit single in the fourth inning and the third with a sacrifice fly in the sixth. Bill Shaddick knocked in London's other two runs with a single.

Bob Eccles took the loss for Woodstock.

Bob Christie and Ed Neudorf hit home runs for Hamilton in the opening game in St. Catharines and Al Bechman hit a two-run homer for the Mr. Jackets.

Bill McNellis was awarded the win for Hamilton, but he needed relief help from Wally Dick. Dave Fransen took the loss.

Ken Rhora pitched a four hitter for St. Catharines in the second game. Dick took the loss.

The Mr. Jackets scored all three runs in the sixth inning as Mike Mayer drove in two and the third run scored on an error.

Ted Deruiter hit a two-run homer for Hamilton.

Play resumes Saturday with three doubleheaders — Toronto at Belleville, London at Oshawa and Newmarket at St. Catharines.

IN MEMORIAM

ELLIS — In loving memory of a dear mother Reta Jean Ellis who passed away August 15, 1961.

So many things have happened,
Since you were called away,
So many things to share with you,
Had you been left to stay,
Every day in some small way,
Memories of you come our way,
Though absent, you are ever near,
Still missed, loved, always dear.

—Dearly remembered by daughter Gaile, son-in-law Roy.

COULD IT BE THESE?

1) BUNGALOW ON BAY INLET — Just east of Belleville — 5-room stucco home on beautiful treed lot between highway and the bay. There is a large separate workshop. $39,500

2) JUST EAST OF MARMORA — Charming, renovated brick farmhouse on five severed acres. Large family kitchen with an open stairway separating living and diningroom. Upstairs there are four bedrooms with bathroom and powder-room. A double driveshed is at the back. There is always lots of water. $34,900

3) IN TRENTON — Cosy, older 6-room home on quiet street near the river. There is a double garage and a paved drive and the large lot is fenced and landscaped. There are two bathrooms plus a playroom off the garage. It's a real surprise for $32,500

4) IN TRENTON — On McQuade Drive — spacious four-bedroom home with attached garage and family room. There is a powder-room and the kitchen is lovely. The garden at the back is cosy and private. $47,500.00.

5) NEAR MADOC ON HIGHWY 62 — Early Canadian design with stone facing and cedar shakes. A large, family kitchen is ideal for that big centre table. There are four bedrooms plus a utility room and the charmingly designed double carport is paved. The treed lot is 240' wide. $45,000.00

6) We have farms, building lots outside Belleville and recreation properties.

SAVE A LOT

New Cars and Trucks have sold so rapidly that we are over stocked on the Cleanest Used Cars in the Hastings County. Rather than wholesaling these extra clean units to other Dealers we at BERT JONES LTD. have decided to pass on tremendous savings to you. A written warranty goes with every reconditioned used car.

These 2 Astre Hatchbacks, both 1974 Models are equipped alike with the 2-barrel carburator, the large 4 cylinder motor to go with the 3-speed automatic transmission. — Hatchbacks are like semi-station wagons with fold down rear seats, priced new at $4,180. We offer you great savings on these dressed up units at only $2995.

Remember — Only 2 to choose from. All low mileage, one owner bought new from us.

Hepatitis Virus Easily Spread

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please tell me how you catch hepatitis, and how long it takes to get over it?—Mrs. J. S.

There are two types. The more common is acute infectious hepatitis, caused by the hepatitis A virus, and serum hepatitis which is caused by the B virus.

The first type (infectious hepatitis) is contracted by consuming food or water that is contaminated. The virus can be excreted in the stool. It can be transferred by food handlers careless about washing their hands, and this can happen in your own kitchen as well as in restaurants. This applies especially to food that is uncooked such as fresh fruits and vegetables, and to shellfish and oysters (raw) obtained from contaminated waters. Cooking destroys the virus.

The incubation period for infectious hepatitis is from two to six weeks, and thus the patient may not be able to trace the source of infection very easily.

Serum hepatitis has an even longer incubation period—from four weeks to six months. This is the type commonly contracted via the blood stream by injections with contaminated needles or by blood transfusions from affected donors. It must be emphasized that blood donors are screened very carefully, and those with a history of hepatitis are rejected.

Infectious hepatitis (the first type) is contagious. A person tending a patient with this disease must be scrupulous in such things as bathing the patient and in disposing of stool and urine. It is best to wear gloves in ministering to the patient and in handling his used dishes and silverware. The patient should have his own utensils, which should be thoroughly washed separately from those of the rest of the family.

In the infectious type, patients usually recover with four to six weeks of rest. Relapses occur in from five to 15 per cent of patients, usually because of too early resumption of activity.

Serum hepatitis has about the same recovery time, but because of the greater seriousness of this type, closer observation of the patient is required.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I breast-fed my baby for a year. For three months of that year I did not smoke.

I did smoke the other nine months. I smoked about a pack a day. I was under the impression that moderate smoking doesn't affect a baby.

What do you think? My baby seems to be in perfect health.—N. C. Y.

One report indicates that excessive smoking results in nicotine being absorbed into the mother's milk. Of course this can be deleterious to a baby, but to what degree is unknown. I would think that at least as important would be the actual fumes inhaled by the infant in a smoking home.

Another report indicates that smoking by the mother in pregnancy can cause premature birth and small babies. Again, I have no statistics to indicate just how prevalent this is.

For the health of the mother and the infant, I would suggest that pregnant women try to quit smoking, for general good health, if for no other reason.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Could you suggest any dietary additions that would promote the healing of abdominal incisions? Are there any external lotions or oils to promote such healing?—F. K.

Healing of a surgical incision takes place more rapidly that most persons think it does. Consider the time span between operation and removal of stitches. It's usually done within two weeks or less.

Adequate protein and vitamin C are important in the healing process, but the post-surgical period is not the time to worry about that. This should be part of a diet prior to the surgery.

External applications have no effect. You may be referring to the scar, which can remain long after, forever in most cases. Certain lotions will help cosmetically, but they have no effect on the healing process.

A NIGHTMARE

LONDON (CP) — George Sendell, having a nap while awaiting a flight from Heathrow Airport, awoke to find his teeth missing. He'd left the dentures on the sofa beside him and a cleaner walked off with them. However, Sendell later recovered them from the lost property office.

South applies the rule of 11 and sees that East will hold four cards higher than the three of spades. If one of those is the queen, South wants to get East to play it. So he plays dummy's jack of hearts.

If East has also been applying the rule of 11 he knows that South has exactly two spades and that both are higher than the three spot. If East is really on his toes he will come to the conclusion that one of those two spades is the 10 spot. Otherwise, South would have been inclined to play dummy's nine rather than the jack.

After this decision, East sees South to just one spade trick. Then East plays his eight of spades, not the queen.

After this play the failure of both minor suit finesses is going to leave South just one trick short of the nine he needs to score game and rubber.

Ask the Jacobys

A reader from Maine wants to know why South has all the fun of playing the hands while all North can do is to sit and watch him operate. He wants to know if this isn't rank discrimination against the North.

The answer is that from the time bridge columns first came into being there was a tacit understanding that in order to make things easy or as easy as possible for the readers, the bottom hand would be the declarer. He was called "Z" 50 years ago, North was called "Y" and the defense was handled by "A" and "B".

Breton Nationalism Sparked by Ballads

NANTES, France (Reuter) — Pop groups are blending old Celtic ballads and hard rock music to create a youthful vogue for Breton nationalism.

Brandishing electric guitars and the biniou, Britanny's version of the bagpipe, the singers lend a vivid touch to a protest movement that France finds it hard to take seriously, despite outbursts of violence and extremism.

Bearded Alan Stivell, Brittany's most celebrated folk-rock singer, belts out protest songs with Breton or French lyrics for enraptured audiences, numbering tens of thousands in France as well as neighboring countries.

For years, a movement of separatism and discontent has rumbled uneasily in the background in picturesque Brittany, sometimes called the "far west" of France. People feel on the fringes of life in a highly centralized country. Industry lags in this rural province noted for piety, folklore, mysticism and tourism.

Unemployment fed the protest movement. Brittany, often the butt of stage jokes, was regarded as backward. But basically, Breton nationalism had its emotional source in a search for cultural identity. Brittany felt itself distinct, a province "not like the others."

Now the rapid advance of modernism and consumer affluence throughout France over post-war decades inexorably has brought Brittany closer to national standards.

In an apparent reaction to what they fear could be a bland cultural life, many Bretons, especially the young, turn back to the origins of what many like to call "secret, mysterious Britanny."

No fashionable beach, from Dinard near the Brittany-Normandy border to Le Croisic in the south, would be complete without a bevy of chic young people in T-shirts emblazoned with the "gwenn ha du," the black-and-white striped flag of ancient Brittany.

In cities such a Brest, Lorient and Nantes, the seat of the Duchy of Brittany until its merger with France in 1532, more than 10,000 people are learning Breton, a language with Celtic roots.

Alan Stivell's songs include Scots, Welsh and other "regional" ditties of Celtic origin.

For years now, automobiles on Breton roads have carried stickers with the letters BZH standing for Breizh, the Breton name for Brittany.

The current craze for Breton culture and consciousness is felt most acutely in the cities, which have lost most of their Breton features and originality. In the small rural communities, many people still speak Breton, a difficult but romantic language.

Jean Guiffan, 32, a philosophy teacher in Nantes, is a leader of the left-wing Breton Democratic Union, which urges greater internal autonomy.

He acknowledges that the craze for Breton singers and all the car stickers are "just a fad, like the hula hoop."

"There are good, strong explanations for these manifestations, and those who want to further the Brittany cause, like me, are certainly not complaining if some commercial use is made of the whole Breton 'in-thing,'" he added.

He said Brittany always was regarded as a reservoir for manpower.

"We were the migrant workers from within the country and nothing was ever done to develop Brittany, which is basically a poor region," he said.

Today, he said, many people feel the more than three million Bretons should have a greater say in their own affairs. Decades of direct government from Paris has resulted in such abnormal situations as four-hour train journeys from Brittany to Paris while the shorter distance from North Brittany to the south takes twice as long.

Mr. Guiffan said Breton autonomist ambitions long have suffered from French scorn and from actions by extremist nationalist groups.

A spate of bomb attacks by various branches of the tiny Breton Liberation Front on tax offices and government buildings from 1966 to 1973 resulted in tough police action. This brought under suspicion groups as harmless as those teaching the bombarde (flute) or the Breton harp.

Already Polluted

ATHENS, Greece (CP) — Most of Greece's gulfs are already polluted. The Centre for International Environment Information reports that unless immediate corrective measures are taken, Greece's natural environment will continue to deteriorate. The Saronic gulf near Athens and the Thermaicos Gulf in the north are in the worst condition because they both receive large amounts of industrial waste, says centre spokesman.

MOVED COMPANY

Actor-producer Tony Bill has moved his company to Warner Brothers, the studio said. Mr. Bill has co-produced. The Sting, and played a role in Shampoo. He said he plans to make films for Warner Brothers including projects called Supership and Horse Opera.

Bourassa Seeks End Of Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Premier Robert Bourassa has taken a personal hand in the latest attempt to settle one of Quebec's most bitter labor conflicts—the strike at Pratt and Whitney Aircraft of Canada Ltd., now in its 20th month.

The premier, picking up where former labor minister Jean Cournoyer left off, is meeting this week with both union and company officials to find common ground for an orderly return to work by the almost 800 strikers.

The contentious return-to-work question remains the last to be settled in the violence-plagued strike. However, the company and union remain poles apart on the issue.

The 782 strikers are the last of a contingent of 2,600 workers who originally walked off the job Jan. 7, 1974, in support of wage increases and a mandatory checkoff of union dues.

As their numbers gradually dwindled with time, their strike became a rallying point for the province's militant trade union movement, which called for nationalization of the American-owned firm manufacturing airplane engines and components.

In its latest offer to the strikers, members of the United Auto Workers, the company said it would take back 504 of the workers following the signing of a contract and the rest would be taken back within a year. The union wants an immediate rehiring of all strikers wishing to return to work.

Harbor Loss

OTTAWA (CP) — A $14.35-million loss for 1974 was reported Thursday by the National Harbors Board, an increase of $1.67 million from the 1973 deficit of $12.68 million.

Most of the 1974 deficit came from port operations—$12.1 million, including $9.5 million in steadily-mounting interest on federal loans. The balance, $2.2 million, came from bridge operations.

Wrong Figure Given

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Progressive Conservative riding associations had $311,153 on hand in trust accounts as of Feb. 13—the day the Election Expenses Act was introduced in the legislature—statements filed before the provincial election expenses commission show.

The Canadian Press distributed an erroneous report Wednesday saying that Conservative riding associations had $905,906 in trust accounts as of Feb. 13.

The statements, filed with the commission on election contributions and expenses, also show that, as of Feb. 13, Liberal riding associations had $44,773 and NDP ridings reported $25,150.

No Party Tags

TORONTO (CP) — The Social Credit League of Ontario has not been registered as an official party and thus, is not eligible for benefits under the new Election Expenses Act.

The Canadian Press distributed an erroneous report Thursday, saying that because of the party's unregistered status, Social Credit candidates will not have a party affiliation listed beside their names on ballots in the Sept. 18 general election. In fact, there are no party affiliations listed on the ballot in Ontario.

Fires at Petawawa

PETAWAWA, Ont. (CP) — Three forest fires, including one burning out of control in 500 acres of woodland, were reported Thursday on the sprawling armed forces base here.

An armed forces spokesman said bulldozers and soldiers are fighting the blazes aided by two water bombers from the Ontario resources department.

Praises Havrol

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Premier William Davis said Thursday that Ed Havrot, Progressive Conservative candidate in Temiskaming, is a "welcome member of the Davis team." However, he still hasn't indicated whether he will campaign for Mr. Harvot, who was fired as chairman of the Ontario Northland Transportation Commission earlier this year after making derogatory remarks about Indians.

Big Health Budget Cut Pledged

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

For Ontario Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and NDP Leader Stephen Lewis, Thursday was a hard day on the campaign trail, with news conferences and loud denunciations of the government.

But Premier William Davis satisfied himself with a quiet, low-key tour through three opposition ridings in Northern Ontario.

Mr. Nixon flew to Ottawa, where he used a news conference as a forum to condemn government economic policies and to promise sweeping budget revisions if a Liberal government is elected in the Sept. 18 provincial election.

He pledged a Liberal government to cutting $332 million from the budget within one year of taking office.

Saying the Conservative government's spending policies have done nothing to curb inflation, Mr. Nixon said his government could cut up to $320 million from the health budget alone.

He said the money could be saved by implementing the recommendations of the government's committee on hospitals, with more efficient use of hospital beds and halting costly duplication of services in adjacent areas.

Mr. Lewis also visited Ottawa briefly Thursday.

At another news conference, he called for a 30-day extension to the 90-day freeze on Ontario oil and gas prices, due to expire Sept. 30.

Mr. Lewis said retail gasoline prices will jump as much as eight cents a gallon if the freeze is allowed to expire.

He predicted that if the deadline is not extended, only oil companies will have time to prepare briefs for presentation to the government's royal commission investigating Ontario petroleum prices and that the corporations would pull what he called "a snow job."

The NDP Leader said the freeze, announced July 1 by Premier Davis, was a Conservative election gimmick.

Mr. Lewis also urged Mr. Davis to strip oil companies of the power to set retail prices, suggesting that responsibility should rest with the Ontario Energy Board.

Meanwhile, Premier Davis, the centre of the attacks by the two opposition leader, drifted through a quiet day of campaigning in Northern Ontario.

He meandered through main streets in Chapleau, Timmins and North Bay, greeting people and bolstering Conservative candidates in three ridings held by the opposition party.

The premier made a couple of brief speeches, but did no hard campaigning.

Walkout Staged

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Peel regional council voted Thursday to ask the Ontario government to hold an inquiry into the needs of children in the province who require alternate housing outside their homes.

James Crozier, regional social services commissioner, made the recommendation to council because of a controversy concerning the suitability of Viking Houses Ltd. to care for children from the region under the Child Welfare Act.

Hydro Rate Study May Bring Accord

TORONTO (CP) — Hearings by the Ontario energy board into Ontario Hydro's 1976 rate-increase proposals were adjourned Thursday in hopes that lawyers for different consumer groups can agree in private on a cost-sharing formula proposed by the company.

Hydro called for an increase in its energy charge to 6.5 mills (0.65 cents) per kilowatt hour from 4.5 mills, a record rate increase of 25 per cent sealed down from nearly 30 per cent.

It also proposed increasing its demand rate, a charge based on customer's peak use of power, by about 20 per cent. For the average municipal utility, this would mean a charge of about $4.85 a kilowatt hour compared with about $4 under the 1975 rates.

Spokesmen said the stage was set for a confrontation between the municipal utilities and Hydro's large industrial customers when the lawyer for the energy board announced plans to bring before the hearings a former Tennessee Valley Authority (TVA) official as expert witness.

Roland Kampmeier, in written testimony already introduced, defended a TVA cost-sharing formula which places a heavier load on industrial customers.

Ross Murray, a lawyer for the Association of Major Power Consumers in Ontario, told the hearing that if Mr. Kampmeier were called, the hearings would be extended two to three months.

Mr. Murray said he would refrain from calling his own witnesses on the cost-sharing issue if the board avoided calling Mr. Kampmeier and agreed to hold the 1976 energy rate to 5.5 mills.

Donald Rogers, lawyer for the energy board, rejected notions of cutting the energy rate below the 6.5-mill Hydro proposal but said time was running out. The board is committed to ending the hearings by the middle of September, he said.

The lawyers decided privately not to challenge the company's split between "demand" and "energy," but Mr. Murray said he would discuss Hydro's proposal further with senior officials at the company.

A major study being conducted by Hydro may produce a new cost - allocation plan for submission to the energy board next year, spokesmen said.

Back Bilingualism

ANSE ST-JEAN, Que. (CP) — Intent on increasing its strength and freedom, Quebec will continue to support the federal government's "fundamental policy" of recognizing the bilingual nature of Canada, Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde of Quebec said Thursday.

Blacks and Whites Form Peace Group

TORONTO (CP) — Residents at two Ontario Housing Corp. projects where black and white youths have been involved in a series of clashes agreed Thursday to form a committee representing both groups to iron out their differences.

The meeting was organized by a tenants action group representing about 1,060 housing units in the northern section of the borough of Etobicoke. Three black and three white youths, together with adult representatives, were to meet this weekend.

The Ontario Human Rights Commission began to study the situation Thursday and two researchers working on the matter hope to have a report ready by Monday, spokesmen said.

Fighting broke out at the developments Tuesday for the second consecutive night and at least three persons were sent to hospital, two of them with stab wounds.

In a statement passed unanimously at the meeting, residents encouraged members of the community to refrain from discussing the situation with the news media, saying sensationalism had caused much of the recent strife.

The statement also said:

"We condemn all racial extremists, including the Western Guard, who are trying to destroy our community."

Davis to Licence All Sales of Guns

News Briefs

Ford Sees Kissinger

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford and U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger are meeting here amid reports that an Israeli Egyptian interim accord is near and another Kissinger shuttle mission is imminent. Kissinger said: "We have been making progress during a week of intensive negotiations, but we haven't really settled it finely yet . . . I don't want to characterize it as a breakthrough."

Ehrlichman Appeals

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House aide John Ehrlichman asked the United States Court of Appeals on Friday to overturn his conviction in the Watergate cover-up because he was deprived of the testimony of former president Richard Nixon. "Never before has a single witness been so central a figure in a trial as was Richard M. Nixon in this case," Ehrlichman's lawyers told the court.

Quang Rejected

OTTAWA (CU) — The United States has rejected a formal Canadian request to accept former South Vietnamese general Dang Van Quang as a deportee, the immigration department said today.

FBI Fought Klan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) ran a covert, 10 year operation to disrupt the Ku Klux Klan by distributing anonymous postcards and cartoons, forming a phoney anti-Klan committee and planting anti-Klan articles in the news media, newly disclosed FBI documents show. FBI agents were put to work drawing cartoons and churning out broadsides to be mailed to known Klan members in an effort to stir up internal dissension and pressures from their families and employers.

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP) — The Ontario government will require all persons purchasing guns to have a licence and will require businesses selling guns to be licensed, Premier William Davis said Friday.

In a tough, law-and-order speech to the Police Association of Ontario, he said the Ontario cabinet has come up with a stiff set of recommendations for fire-arms control which will be implemented unless the federal government takes action on tougher gun controls.

The premier said the government has taken first steps toward making the province "a decent place to live" and announced a series of recommendations for fire-arms control recently approved by the cabinet.

The proposals would place controls over the use of all fire-arms, he told the association's annual meeting.

Current federal legislation only requires the registration of handguns and automatic weapons.

Mr. Davis said the new proposals would require purchasers of any fire-arms, including rifles and shotguns, to have a licence. The same requirement would apply to the purchase of ammunition.

To get a licence, an individual would have to demonstrate "proof of competence," he said.

Possession of a hunting licence, for which individuals now qualify by passing a provincial test on the proper handling of fire-arms, would be satisfactory proof, he said.

Licences would be denied when the applicant has a previous criminal record involving violence, mental disorder or abuse of drugs or alcohol, he said.

Mr. Davis said hand guns and automatic weapons would continue to be registered under existing federal requirements.

Fire-arms vendors should also be licensed and mail order sales should be banned except to residents of remote areas, he said.

The premier received hearty applause from the audience of about 500 when he said Ontario Solicitor—General George Kerr will meet federal authorities soon to encourage a mandatory prison sentence for persons convicted of criminal offences involving fire-arms.

Mr. Davis said that if the federal government introduces tougher legislation, it may not be necessary to do so in Ontario.

He also said there should be no bail for persons accused of murder or who have a record of serious sexual offences.

"In saying this it should not be interpreted as meaning that we wish to de-emphasize rehapilitation - . . . . ." he said. "But I think reasonable people would agree that society has a right to protection."

Mr. Davis said he is increasingly concerned about the incidence of violent crime in Ontario.

"Some of my opponents have accused me of raising a phony issue," he said. "I'd like to see them come to this city and tell them that.

"The people here are only a tunnel ride away from wha U'a talking about."

Detroit, across the river from Windsor, has an exceptionally high crime rate.

Police Car Siren Drove Off Thugs

TILLSONBURG, Ont. (CP) — The siren of a passing police car frightened a gang of armed robbers Thursday night during a holdup at a nearby jewelry-making firm and they fled with $2,550 loot, abandoning about $30,000 in raw gold, provincial police said Friday.

The three robbers raced about 450 miles to Montreal in a waiting getaway car with Wes Dickenson, general manager of the Cadman Manufacturing Co. Ltd, as a hostage. Mr. Dickenson, 30, was released unharmed early Friday at a shopping plaza in suburban Pointe Claire.

A figure of $250,000 had been placed earlier on the haul by a member of the Cadman family in a telephone interview from a compound at nearby Courtland where the plant and some family homes are located. The family member said at first that gold, silver and cut diamonds were taken.

Police estimates during a confused day of tallying ranged from the $2,550 figure to between $40,000 and $50,000. Police also said at one stage that 35 pounds of silver bullion were involved. This turned out to be incorrect.

The robbers burst in on the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dickenson when they were asleep at apout 10:30 p.m., and police said that while one guarded the wife and two young Dickenson children, the other two took the manager to the adjacent plant and forced him to open the vault.

Insp. lucher said they panicked at the sound of a police car siren—though police were unaware of the holdup and the car was on another call—and left with Mr. Dickenson in his car.

The officer said the gold, 96 ounces in gold bars and the remainder in loose pieces, was found at the scene.

North Bay Police Say Kelly Back

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Police established roadblocks inside the city limits Friday night in an effort to catch fugitive Donald Kelly.

Earlier, police, with guns at the ready and convinced Kelly was back in North Bay, staged a house-to house manhunt in an east-end section of the city after a man identifying himself as the accused murderer held 11 persons at gunpoint for 15 hours in a camping area north of here.

Police were unable to locate Kelly—who escaped from jail here Aug. 2—but found a car which the gunman at the resort had stolen from one of the hostages.

They also obtained a photograph for which the gunman had posed while keeping the campers under control with two rifles.

The gunman's session with the campers lasted from 9 a.m. Thursday until midnight that night when he left in a car owned by John Hebert of Cambridge, Ont.

Mr. Hebert's car was found near a downtown intersection later Friday.

Portuguese Communists To Woo North

LISBON (AP) — The Communists take their crusade to retain power into northern Portugal today, the heartland of recent anti-Communist violence.

Communist party leader Alvaro Cunhal planned to speak at a rally this evening in Alcobaca, 60 miles north of Lisbon, where angry mobs wrecked a Communist party office two weeks ago.

The rally was planned as part of Cunhal's effort to rally support against what he calls "a wave of Fascist violence". More than 40 Communist headquarters have been wrecked and four persons have been killed in anti-Communist attacks during the last month.

Trenton Plane Rushes Insecticide to West

By JERRY BROWN

Part of an emergency shipment of insecticide, which the Manitoba government hopes will curtail an expected outbreak of equine encephalitis, or "sleeping sickness," left CFB Trenton for Winnipeg Friday night.

The first shipment of the three scheduled flights of the insecticide Malathion, for use in spraying Winnipeg and other communities along the Red River, was to arrive in the Manitoba capital late Friday night.

Local authorities of the Emergency Measures Organization (EMO), a civilian agency charged with co-ordinating the disease-battling campaign, said the chemicals would be used immediately, weather permitting, to spray the "bad spots along the river".

In a statement issued Friday afternoon, Manitoba Premier Edward Schreyer said the action was taken after local veterinarians had established "there was a pattern emerging" indicating there could be an outbreak of the disease.

More than 100 horses have been diagnosed as having the disease.

Two people are in Winnipeg General Hospital, suffering from the disease, causing inflammation of the brain which can be fatal to humans as well as horses.

There have been no reported deaths in Canada attributed to the recent outbreak of the disease but in Minnesota and North Dakota people living along the river have died from the illness, authorities said.

Sleeping sickness is carried by mosquitoes and the Red River has recently been identified as a breeding area for bugs infected with the illness.

A new strain of mosquitoes, culex tarsalis, has been identified as the carriers of the disease.

In the past few weeks, there has been much disagreement between environmentalists and officials about the use of chemicals to combat the breeding of the bugs.

Winnipeg, Morden, a small town of 2,500, and St. Pierre, a hamlet of just over 850, all situated on the Red River, will be sprayed with the insecticide, EMO officials said.

The 20,000 pounds of chemical, transported by the 436 Squadron at the request of the Manitoba Government, has been divided into three parts because of the special preparations necessary to ensure safe shipment.

The chemical drums had to be palletized, or secured, for the 3½-hour trip.

Bronfman Ransom Is Reported Paid

NEW YORK (AP) — The kidnappers of Samuel Bronfman II are reported as having received all or part of a $4.5 million ransom, but there still is no indication when or if the 21-year-old whisky heir, now missing one week, will be returned to his family.

The Daily News said today that the victim's father, Edgar Bronfman, was reported in contact again Friday by telephone with his son's abductors and that there were indications that all or part of the kidnap ransom had been paid.

However, a spokesman at the Bronfman family's FBI-guarded mansion in Yorktown Heights, N.Y., refused to comment on either report.

The Daily News said two men representing the family picked up either a large envelope or a package late Thursday night at a Manhattan post office and delivered it to Bronfman's Fifth Avenue penthouse.

The newspaper said postal authorities had been alerted to look for the parcel, which was reported as having been sent by the kidnappers in response to Bronfman's plea for "additional evidence that Sam is still alive and well."

Dacca Cut Off From World

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — The new president of Bangladesh is consolidating his rule after the coup in which President Mujibur Rahman was slain.

The international airport at Dacca remained closed today and normal communication lines to the outside world were down.

Khondakar Mushtaque Ahmed, the new president, said in a countrywide broadcast address monitored in India that the pre-dawn coup Friday was carried out because Shiek Mujib had permitted corruption and did not solve the problems of Bangladesh, one of the world's poorest lands.

"There was corruption, nepotism and attempts to concentrate powers on one head," said Ahmed, a former ally of the 55-year-old shiek, said Friday night.

The new administration consists entirely of Mujib's ministers.

Macdonald Prepared to Ask For Inquiry into Oil Prices

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said Friday he is prepared to recommend to the federal cabinet an inquiry into petroleum prices.

There is widespread public disbelief that oil prices are fair, the minister said in an interview, although monitoring of wholesale prices by his department had uncovered no irregularities in pricing.

An investigation, perhaps something along the lines of a royal commission, might clear the air, paving the way for a return to a national price for oil.

The minister was commenting on suggestions by premiers Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick and Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island for a federal-provincial agency to monitor and control the price of petroleum products.

The premiers were concerned that four provinces—British Columbia, Manitoba, Ontario and Nova Scotia—have taken the authority to freeze or control the price of oil.

They felt individual provincial action could not succeed in the long run and would only confuse the consumer.

Mr. Macdonald said he hoped the two Atlantic premiers will raise the matter at a provincial premiers meeting next week in St. John's, Nfld., and point out some of the risks the four provinces were taking in freezing prices,

Mr. Macdonald said, however, he could not go along with a suggestion from Mr. Hatfield and Mr. Campbell to extend a federal freeze on prices until the matter is resolved.

His comments came the same day gasoline and heating fuel prices rose by five cents a gallon in six of the provinces as a result of a decision by Ottawa and Alberta to raise crude oil prices $1.50 a barrel to $8 a barrel effective July 1.

Ottawa asked the companies not to raise prices until mid-August when crude oil bought at the lower price would have worked its way through the refinery system.

But Ontario imposed a further freeze until Oct. 1. Similar action was taken by Manitoba Thursday.

Nova Scotia requires public utilities board approval for any price increase and has not yet granted permission while British Columbia has said it will allow an increase of only 4.5 cents a gallon gasoline Sept. 3 and no increase on heating oil until at least the end of the year.

Potter Says Bridge Height Not Yet Definitely Decided

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Retiring Quinte MPP Dr. Richard Potter's announcement of a new Rossmore — Belleville bridge has created a tempest among area boaters in what may be a teapot.

At Monday's Quinte provincial riding Conservative nomination meeting, Dr. Potter said a 35-foot tall span would be erected at the site of the existing dilapidated swing bridge.

However, in an interview with The Intelligencer, Dr. Potter said the figure had been "picked out of the air" during discussion with tranpsort minister John Rhodes about the announcement of the new bridge's location.

"It could be 45 feet high," said Dr. Potter. "There is nothing definite yet as to height, but the bridge is going to cover the majority of sailboats going through the bay of Quinte."

Belleville sailmaker Charles Keeble said he knew of only two boats in the area that couldn't fit under such a structure.

Dr. Potter's original announcement prompted a meeting of Bay of Quinte Yacht Club sailors this week to voice their opposition to the proposed structure, objecting to the fact that a 35-foot-high bridge would not be high enough.

But Dr. Potter says a survey has been taken of area boat traffic and that "the bridge will be constructed at such a height as to accommodate the vast majority of boats without having to use an opening part of the bridge. For the odd boat that needs more clearance, the opening portion can allow the craft through."

Trenton Man Dies on Cycle

SMITHFIELD — A 26-year-old Trenton man was killed here last night when he failed to negotiate a corner on Drummond St. in the village, located about 17 miles west of Belleville.

Dead is Steve Couture, 26, of 18 Richard St., Trenton. Brighton OPP said the motorcyclist was dead at the scene of the accident. He lost control and flew through the air, landing in a rock-bedded creek.

Hit-and-Run Strikes Twice

MADOC — OPP here are investigating a hit-and-run accident today that caused a total damage of $1,200 to a parked truck and car.

The incident was reported about 1:50 a.m. on the parking lot of the Whispering Pines Hotel, about 1½-miles west of Madoc on Highway 7.

A truck, owned by Clark Huffman, owner and operator of the hotel, was hit and had $1,000 damage. A second vehicle suffered $200 damage. Both cars were unattended. OPP are continuing their investigation.

Pelican At Presqu'ile

BRIGHTON, Ont. (CP) — A white pelican became the first of its species recorded at Presqu'ile Provincial Park south of this town 20 miles southwest of Belleville. "A big white bird" was reported in the area for almost a week before park naturalists saw and identified it Thursday.

Intruder Charged

City police arrested a 19-year-old Belleville youth, Edward James Brookhouse, 85 Purdy St., with being unlawfully in a dwelling house at a Queen St. residence Friday night.

Police were called after occupants of the house tried to eject an intruder.

Gold Cup Beauties Ready for Contest

By RON HIUSER
Staff Reporter

PICTON — As the final plans are being worked out for this year's Gold Cup Boat Races, to kick off the festivities entries are being taken for the Miss Gold Cup Contest.

With less than two weeks to the contest, there are three entries.

One of the competitors is Cyndi Gorsline, an 18-year old graduate from Prince Edward Collegiate. "I saw the ad in the newspaper, and I thought I'd try it," she said.

Miss Gorsline said she has never done anything lik this before and was "hesitant at first but then decided to enter".

"My boyfriend didn't like it at first but is getting used to the idea," said Miss Gorsline.

As part of the contest, entrants will be asked to model in bathing suits, an evening gown and answer a few questions.

A former resident of Newmarket and Belleville, Sharon Clegg said she got involved with the contest through a dare.

The main reason Miss Clegg entered the contest, she said, was "to meet people".

Beauty contets are not new to Miss Clegg, she said. "When I was 17, I was the runner-up to Miss Newmarket."

"I'm not really looking at winning. It's going to be fun," said the former model, who considers herself "happy-go-lucky".

Having just moved to Picton about a year ago, Miss Clegg is employed as a residental life counsellor, with deaf, retarded and mentally disturbed children.

A third contestant, Debbie Crowe said she entered the contest when a friend told her about it. "I'm entering the contest for the fun of it," she said.

Originally from Toronto, Miss Crowe moved to Picton about 1½-years ago and said she thinks "Picton is a nice friendly town".

"This is something different for me, I'm not really shy but I don't think I'm a model," said Miss Crowe.

An employee at Anderson's Shoe Store, Miss Crowe said most of her friends wish her luck, but "my mother thinks I'm making a fool of myself".

The only thing Miss Crowe said she wishes apout the contest is more people would enter, because it would "make me feel better".

The Miss Gold Cup Contest will take place Friday, August 29, at 9 p.m. in the Elks Hall, on Mill St., Picton.

Education Beat

Students Take Direct Approach

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

There's nothing like the direct approach to get what you want. At least that's the way it appeared last week when representatives of the student council from Prince Edward Collegiate Institute (PECI) went before the board of education asking for money.

The students had raised $5,000 for the construction of new tennis courts this fall at PECI. Out of this year's funds the board has already committed themselves to $4,000. The total cost of the project is about $14,500 which leaves the students about $6,500 short.

Student council president Valerie Ostrander appeared before the board in a "last plea for help." The students were adamant about starting the courts this fall and were seeking additional funds from the board to commence the work.

Threatening to take out a bank loan to cover the cost of fencing, plus other expenses, the students embarrassed the board into pledging another $2,500 out of next year's budget. Some trustees were reluctant to commit next year's funds without knowing what their priorities are.

This writer has seen many petitions and presentations before boards of education but none have been as impressive as that by Miss Ostrander.

The 18-year-old Grade 13 student said she wanted a response that night and she got it. She was not rude but very forceful and most of the trustees responded to her presentation. The students had been planning the tennis courts for two years and were prepared to take a bank loan to complete the project.

Taxpayers or interest groups seldom use this forum to achieve their ends or make their concerns known to the elected officials. It can be effective and can work as demonstrated at the Prince Edward County Board of Education.

In Hastings County the board of education is very seldom approached by an interest group at the meetings. There seems to be a feeling that the public meetings are off-grounds for complaints or new ideas from the community.

More Cattle on Market But Prices Remain High

Slaughter of fed cattle in the first six months of 1975 is substantially higher than in 1974, but increased demand and rising prices of pork are bringing beef prices up.

A review of cattle marketings and prices by Agriculture Canada economists shows that inspected slaughter of steers and heifers in the first quarter of 1975 averaged 48,830 head a week up about 6,500 head or 15.4 per cent above the same period in 1974.

The result was an average price in Toronto and Calgary of $41.23 a hundredweight for A1 and A2 steers. That is about $7.50 a hundredweight below the previous year.

In April, steer and heifer slaughter continued well above 1974 levels with prices averaging $5 to $6 a hundredweight below 1974 prices.

In May, slaughter continued slightly above 1974 figures but prices moved up sharply to an average of $48.43 compared with $39.43 in April and $ 7.51 in May 1974 (The support price established by the beef stabilization plan introduced last August is $45.42.)

During the first three weeks of June, steer and heifer slaughter in Canada averaged about 48,000 head a week, up about 2,800 head or 6.2 per cent above June 1974 figures and prices averaged $2 to $2.50 a hundredweight more.

Cattle Price Trends Take 2

Based on the first 6 months economists believe that their earlier prediction of a 12-13 per cent increase in fed cattle slaughter in 1975 will materialize.

Clouding the cattle supply picture is the fact that almost all the increased marketing to date have been heifers. (Cow slaughter is also up 20 per cent.) Steer slaughter is actually slightly below last year leaving a good supply of steers on the farms.

There is also the danger of what the economists call "lumpiness" in the market as a result of erratic price patterns. Jumps in prices attract spurts of heavy marketings.

Present steer inventories suggest a heavier slaughter of fed cattle later in the year. However, with much higher pork prices, the Canadian market can absorb more cattle than a year ago and still maintain prices at levels comparable to 1974. A1 and A2 steers averaged $50.45 at Toronto and Calgary through the latter part of last year.

The economists note that these forecasts assume that the present insulation from the U.S. market continues or that the U.S. market moves in concert with the Canadian one.

Beetle Control Easy

Potato and asparagus beetles are a nuisance to home gardeners, but can be easily controlled, says Professor M.K. Sears, department of environmental Biology, Ontario Agricultural College.

The larvae of the potato beetle, properly known as the Colorado potato beetle — feed on the leaves of the plant, causing stunted growth and damage to the tubers. The larva is quite distinctive in appearance — red, with an arched back, highlighted by tw vertical rows of black spots.

"Since there are two generations of this insect each year, damage may be continuous all season and no one specific time is best for control." Professor Sears says. "My advice to gardeners is to watch for the beetles and, if the larvae are present, just pick them off."

If a large number of plants are affected, chemical control might be best. Insecticides containing methoxychlor or carbaryl are recommended.

The asparagus beetle feeds on the leafy aboveground growth of asparagus plants. Professor Sears says that there are two species of the beetle to watch for.

Mechanized Approach

Farmer Antoine Pare uses a motorized tiller to break ground on his four-acre farm. Last year, when he was 98, his plowhorse, Duke, got away from him while they were plowing. Since then Mr. Pare's children have refused to let him use the horse for farming.

Seedless Cucumber Developed

Agriculture Canada has developed its first seedless cucumber for greenhouse production, and the variety has already received good reports from around the world.

The new variety, named Harliton, will be available to growers next year. It was developed at the agriculture Canada research station here by Walter Nuttall, a research scientist specializing in vegetable breeding.

Harliton was developed to meet a need for a medium-sized cucumber better suited to small families who find that the existing large cucumbers sometimes spoil before they can be eaten.

In Canada-wide trials — from Sidney, B.C., through Alberta, Manitoba and Ontario to Newfoundland — Harliton equalled or exceeded a cucumber in both numbers an pounds of fruit per 1,000 square feet.

The Kemptville College of Agriculture Technology recently presented awards to two Hastings County dairy farmers. On left, Lois Keyes presents the Eastern Breeders Inc. award to Harold Brennan, RR1, Shannonville (centre) and Robert Teasdale, RR2, Hastings. The awards were won for special projects in livestock.

Gardening Column

Plan Now for Next Year's Flower Beds

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

When you see the advertisements appearing for the CNE you know that fall can't be far behind. And as the color in the tree tops grows, and the color in the garden lessens, you know it won't be long before nature closes the gardening door and turns the lock of winter on the land.

But there are many gardeners who simply open another door and walk into the world of indoor gardening. But that's another subject we'll get into later in the year.

Instead, I'd like to stay outdoors for a little while yet. Because there are many perennials along with the roses that have yet to put on their display. And I plan to enjoy every minute of it.

There is one gardening activity I always undertake at this time of the year in which you may wish to join me. For me it's time to take inventory. Time to take a look at what I see, what I'd like to see next year and the steps that must be taken to make it happen.

And so with pen and paper, I start on a tour that requires a little walking and a lot of sitting and even more sitting. I usually start inside the house by looking out of each window in turn and asking myself what I'd like to see through each of them at various times of the year. Such as poppies or a flowering crab in May, roses in June, lilies in July, a butterfly bush in August, mums or asters in September and the dark greens or vivid blues of evergreens or the gnarled branches of a cork screw hazel against the winter snows. And I mark down my thoughts accordingly. And then I move outside and take long hard looks at long range from various vantage points. Such as the front porch. From the end of the drive. From the front yard looking to the back. Or the back looking to the front. Not forgetting to look at the house itself to see how vines or ivies might be employed to enhance, hide or provide shade.

And I look to see where color is lacking, where perennials such as asters, mums, imperial lilies, late hollyhocks, painted daisies or bugloss might improve things. And I make my notes accordingly.

And then I go the whole route. And try to imagine what I would do from two points of view: First, if it was some one else's garden and I was called in to improve it. And secondly, if I had the time and money to wipe everything out and start all over again.

And if I take these steps with an open mind, what happens in my imagination is both refreshing and a little startling. New gardens arise from the lawn. Old ones change shape or sink from view. Trees topple and new trees spring up. But most importantly, I often realize that I have become guilty of one of gardening's foremost sins — self-satisfaction and complacency. When in reality, the only thing that should be constant in gardening — is change.

Let me give you an example: One time when I was on my knees, trowel in hand, a golf-playing neighbor, brew in hand smirkingly remarked: "Ross, you've been working at this garden all summer. When are you ever going to be finished?" And I gave him what I realize now was the perfect reply. "Never, John. I hope." And that's the whole point.

Gardening like any creative art is never finished. And if you think your gardening plans and activities are over for the year, then do as I suggest and embark on a program of inventory taking. And you'll find your year has hardly started.

Trenton Bureau

Murray Request Makes Sense

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Now isn't that a kick in the head? Murray Township doesn't want any part of Trenton and its sticky fingers reaching for more of its land in the Quinte countryside.

Little Murray, with a population of 6,000 against Trenton's 14,500, is protecting its own against the acquisitiveness of its big neighbor. Do you blame it?

Murray says the land it gave Trenton in 1962-64 for residential uses hasn't been developed. It says Trenton has behaved badly towards the muncipality — a feeling reinforced strongly by the recent fire protection issue in which Trenton arbitrarily, it seemed increased Murray's costs by 150 per cent.

That, at the time, seemed to me greedy, as well as unjustified. Can costs increase that much in a single year?

But that greediness on Trenton's part doesn't end there. A brief Trenton submitted to the Northumberland County commission studying government restructuring revealed the town was after 2,100 acres of land in Murray township.

Now that's a big chunk of land. It represents 72 per cent of the town's present acreage. (Perhaps the attitude here is that if you're going to ask for something, you might as well ask for a lot. It gives you more room to manoeuvre in negotiations.)

Trenton's desires appear a mite ridiculous in the face of the ambiguity it professes over its own future. It can't decide, all the while clutching closely its separated town status, whether it should pledge allegiance to the west (Northumberland) or the east (Hastings).

It says it must study the benefits that it would receive from going either way. Trenton is waffling. It is also making no effort of its own to undertakes a professional study, preferring apparently to have it done for them.

The town has said it cannot gauge its future because Hastings County isn't studying government restructuring as Northumberland is. What a grand cop out, what a method of abrogating its responsibility to its own future.

Council, Trenton's voice, should be ashamed.

Steel Door Popular

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio (AP) — A continuing and growing trend to the use of residential steel doors is reported by door manufacturers around the country, says the Armco Steel Corp. marketing department. Introduced to the market in 1964, the steel door has grown in popularity ever since.

JOHN R. BUSH
R. DOUGLAS RUSHNELL
QUESTION?
HOW CAN I SAFEGUARD AGAINST OVER-SPENDING ON FUNERAL COSTS?
ANSWER!
There are two safeguards against over spending on funeral costs. 1st Pre-arranged Funeral Services. By this method you or a member of your family may arranged for Funeral Services now. Cost may be selected from a range of over 20 prices that are clearly marked and will be fully explained. No money is paid now. If the price of the particular service selected increases over the years, the ~~price of~~ the funeral may be slightly higher when service is rendered.
2nd PRE PAID FUNERAL SERVICES. By this method you or a member of your family may select the funeral service you desire and pay for it at today's price. No matter how many years transpire between your selection and the time services are rendered the service you selected are rendered at today's price. We might add that the monies you pay are deposited in a special trust fund and protected by regular government audit.

Our Military Men Pass Up 'Training Grounds for Tanks' Deal with Germans

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

During a task force review of the management activities of the department of national defence in 1971, a member of the group questioned if the tank-shy Canadian army had ever asked the West German government to exchange some of its surplus modern Leopard tanks for training facilities desired in Western Canada by the Bundeswehr (West German army).

The answer came back, yes it had been discussed. But the task force with a ministerial mandate to ask for just about anything, could never find written correspondence on the matter.

Now this seems like a totally inconsequential and utterly boring bit of information, enough to turn you off perhaps from reading on.

But stay, and be told that it relates to the bleat from our military, especially its tank men plus their avid supporters among reserve army units to replace Canada's 25-year-old Centurion tanks with a newer version or a different tank.

That bleat, if you look at it one important way, means we should arm our NATO troops properly even though the first Trudeau government decision to cut our NATO forces in half in 1969 still stands.

But it also relates to the way the Canadian military mind fails completely to be innovative when faced with a cabinet decision based primarily on political and economic realities and not military ones.

Let's put first things first. The 1969-1970 cutback in our NATO force from about 10,000 army and air force personnel plus equipment to about half that number, also meant both a reduction in equipment failure to modernize what was left.

The so-called mechanized brigade group, which to be integrated fully, must include tanks as well as armored personnel carriers and trucks, has a tank last used in combat more or less in its present configuration during the Korean War, 1950-53.

The Israelis used the British-built Centurion during the 1973 Yom Kippur war but with lesser range finders and modern gun controls. To build 50 new tanks for our brigade in Europe would probably cost about $1.5 million per tank for a total of $75 million.

This would be an entirely unacceptable outlay given the current deep suspicion of the military as an indulgent bunch plus the federal government's commitment to cut back.

Yet Prime Minister Trudeau in his third government and sticking to his stand that a limited NATO presence can work but not worrying about proper hardware, said in Brussels a few weeks ago, "we still want to be effective."

Now this is where that non-existent Canadian military innovation might have come in. The political position on NATO is disastrous for a meaningful European military role. But being a government decision, it must be lived with.

Now since about 1971, the West German army with about 3,400 Leopards has had a surplus supply of these superb tanks either for export sales or presumably for the kind of exchange mentioned above.

Why was it, or is it, so difficult for Canadian NATO commanders whoever they are, to propose to the national defence minister and through channels to the department of external affairs, that we trade some tanks for training sites?

Who knows why they didn't? Instead they take the old-fashioned route, oblivious of great public resistance, of pushing for new tanks in a time of restraint and when most Canadians are concerned about our hemispheric defence instead of that of rich European nations.

After next summer and the 1976 Olympics, I'm told the last of our generals who joined during or before the Second World War who think in terms of "more" instead of "how" when it comes to big military equipment, will have retired.

Will the younger post-war generals innovate where these older ones didn't? Who knows?

Oh, by the way, the German army is training in force on Manitoba's wide open spaces with Leopards and very pleased to be doing so.

A Scarce Commodity

As with water, salt is a commodity — and an inexpensive one at that — that is appreciated only when it is unavailable.

Unavailable? Well, not exactly. But scarce, at the moment, yes. And not just salt used in canning operations, as reported in recent days.

At one downtown supermarket the other day there was actually no table salt on the shelves. A staffer said a shipment was awaiting unloading from the truck outside and would be on the shelves later in the day. Not much help though to anyone wanting it right there and then. He said he had heard too that the blue salt blocks for the cattle were in short supply.

Down the street, at another supermarket, all that was available was coarse salt — for pickling.

Third time, however, proved lucky. The precious stuff was found in a store at Rossmore where the owner said, yes, he had it, and seemed more concerned that the rain which had started shortly before should continue. His wish was granted, after a momentary lull that had him worried since, as he noted and everyone is aware, the ground is so dry.

As for that piquant substance that many of us would miss should it become scarcer, let's hope those striking suppliers get back soon to the "salt mines."

Long Hot Summer

It's a dry summer as all the evidence shows. For golfers though nothing short of an electric storm is a deterrent and facilities in the Quinte area are improving all the time.

Work continues on the Country Club's new clubhouse. Meanwhile, members enjoy the new layout of a course which essentially is unchanged and provides both a fine test of golf and environmental beauty.

Down the Trent road a short distance the new Bayview Golfing Centre is turning into an ideal little course for golfers of all levels of skill. It's short, it's scenic, and you can get around nine holes comfortably in an hour. Compared with last year, when the facility was opened, the fairways and greens are greatly improved. A driving range is now available there too.

The Belleville Country Club at Marysville is another major course in the vicinity which has been enjoying growing popularity. There was a good crowd on a recent weekend, with players enjoying a barbecue after the game.

Then there are the courses at Trenton, Stirling's Oak Hills, the Stoco layout near Tweed, Picton, and tucked away on a scenic slope there is the Murray Hills golf course.

We can't all be Jack Nicklaus, or even "defending runner-up" as that perrenial runner-up and millionaire stroke artist, Bruce Crampton, wryly describes himself. Still, we can get out there and enjoy the game anyway in this summer of summers.

Toronto and the CNE

It's Canadian National Exhibition time and doubtless there will be a good quota of Bellevillians taking in the sights and the exhibits again.

The Scottish World Festival Tattoo has opened a four-day run at the Grandstand and before the exhibition ends it will have seen such celebrities as Canadian stars Anne Murray and Paul Anka and a variety of other big name entertainers such as the Osmonds, Olivia Newton-John, and Lawrence Welk, who is making a return visit.

The entertainment world remains one of the most fascinating enterprises of this or any other era, commanding for those who make the big-time incredible wealth. Many of us had never heard of Elton John until perhaps a year or two ago, but the eccentric young British rock star is reportedly worth about $7 million. Even when the popularity and adulation decline and other luminaries appear on the scene, they have no worries about pensions or the other realities of the average mortal.

Showbiz — it's a reflection of life, a little larger than life too, and that's why it compels so much public interest.

The CNE of course is the world's largest annual exhibition, in a city which increasingly exhibits superlatives in economic and architectural and lifestyle settings.

Hydro Under Increasing Control By a Cost-Conscious Government

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Ontario Hydro has seen its hey-day.

This becoming more and more obvious.

The government first started taking over more control of Hydro a year or so ago when it ordered that it come under the Ontario Energy Board for review.

Since then it has been bringing it more and more under restraint.

In his mini-budget Darcy McKeough declared it must cut back on its proposed rate increases and its capital spending program.

It is currently before the energy board to have these prices reviewed and at the start of the hearings announced it was cutting them back.

Then McKeough appeared before the Association of Municipalities and ardently urged it to get in and vigorously fight rate increases.

And now Bob Nixon has got in the picture by strongly criticizing the government for not setting Hydro rates—a power which the energy board doesn't have, it can only "suggest" what they should be.

This authority to set rates is almost undoubtedly the next step the government will be taking.

The political leaders frankly are fed up with Hydro's imperialism and have been for some time.

Its extreme independence has been combined with a not too well disguised arrogance.

It has to come to the government when it needs to borrow money. But otherwise its acknowledgment of a government authority is only cursory.

While the government on its part thinks the corporation is loosely run it doesn't recognize today's economic facts of life.

As for private members, some of them more than dislike it—they detest it. And they are determined to bring it under control of the legislature.

Liberal Leader Nixon throws some telling figures in his attacks.

He says that Hydro already is capable of producing twice as much electricity as we use on average and a third more than we use at peak (the normal peak reserve for an electrical utility is 5 per cent to 10 per cent).

Yet, he says, it wants to spend another $20 billion which the government would have to guarantee) for another 25 per cent of capacity.

And this at a time when the increase is demand for electricity is slowing down.

If his figures are right, and Liberal research is pretty good these days, the government can't take control too soon.

American rebels under Gen. Gen. John Stark decisively defeated the British 298 years ago today—in 1777—at Bennington, Vt. Gen. John Burgoyne's expedition against New York had already won Ticonderoga and Fort Edward in a drive south to meet Sir William Howe and moved on Bennington to secure the American supply base. This defeat contributed to Burgoyn's complete defeat at Saratoga in October.

Kissinger for Mid-East?

By BRUCE LEVETT

WASHINGTON (CP) — Indications are growing that State Secretary Henry Kissinger is about to embark on another round of shuttle diplomacy through the Middle East.

And the fact that he's even contemplating such a move following his crushing failure of last March is giving rise to hope that Arab-Israeli differences may be narrowing.

The unofficial word around the state department is that Kissinger and aides are looking at Aug. 20 as a target date for the resumption of the secretary's diplomatic shuffle.

Officially, the word is that no final decision has been made toward another trip.

Last March it was regarded as a blow to Kissinger personally and to United States prestige generally when the secretary pronounced his Middle East peace negotiations "suspended."

It was generally accepted that Kissinger would not return without some firm indication of eventual success in his efforts toward interim settlement throughout the explosive area.

Even at that time, with negotiations in a shambles, Israeli Premier Yitzhak Rabin said his country would resume talks through Kissinger if it appeared that such talks would be "a step toward peace" and could be held at a "minimum risk to Israel's security."

There were further indications then that Egyptian — and even Soviet—sources were urging that further U.S.-led consultations should take place.

As things now stand, following U.S.-Israeli talks in Washington, Jerusalem is studying the latest Egyptian views as put forward by the U.S. on the differences still separating the antagonists.

The Israelis have declined to discuss the proposal but Ambassador Simcha Dinitz says progress is indicated in the mere fact that negotiations are proceeding.

Kissinger says he still is trying to bring the Israelis and Egyptians closer on their outstanding differences, reducing as much as possible the chance of another failure such as occurred last March.

Still to be resolved as well is what sort of role the U.S. can play as diplomatic overseer in the explosive area.

In the meantime, a further indication that Israel at least will not want to rock any boats at his stage is seen in the presence in Washington of a second Israeli negotiating team.

This group will make the case on Israel's request for U.S. aid involving $700 million in economic assistance and $2.1 billion for military hardware.

Market Economics

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Boosters of Belleville often point to the Belleville market as a unique attraction of the Quinte area. Unique it certainly is. It stands out as the highest priced outlet for market produce in the area.

People who want to be "ripped off" should certainly include a stop at the market place. There the farmers of the area, daily, display their practised abilities in the price-gouging field.

One would be pardoned for thinking that, as most of the produce displayed for sale is grown in the area, that prices would reflect this and the fact that no middleman exists. But no — the farmer wants his pound of flesh and, from the look of his prices, a couple of pounds of the customers to boot.

Recently, a local man wanted to put up a stall from which he intended, in the best of the free enterprise tradition, to sell farm produce at very much less than the hard done by farmers. Guess what? They assured him there were no vacant stall lots that day — yet, for most of the day several were empty.

It is time this little club of price fixers were given some competition so that the Market Place becomes just that.

"Be careful for nothing: but in every thing by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." Philippians 4:6

Economic Recovery Slow and Improved Job Situation Remains Uncertain

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Canada's unemployment rate has been virtually unchanged for the past five months at 7.2 per cent of the labor force. That means that one out of every 14 workers is looking for a job.

Now that some respected economists are proclaiming the end of the current recession, it might be natural to assume that the jobless rate—the worst since 1961—will soon start to drop.

Unfortunately job-seekers' prospects are likely to get worse before they get better.

Even if future events show that the Canadian economy is already on the mend—which is by no means certain—there's an inevitable lag between the recovery in business activity and the recovery in unemployment.

One reason is that a good many companies keep their skilled and semi-skilled workers on the payroll even if it means that they are under-employed for a time. That way, they are reasonably sure of having the staff they need when orders start flowing in again.

The research director of the Canadian Labor Congress has forecast a late-1975 unemployment rate in the range of 7.5 to 8 per cent, despite the economic turn-around.

And economic researchers at the Toronto-Dominion Bank predict a full-year 1975 unemployment rate of at least 7.5 per cent.

"Canada seems likely to be subject to the most prolonged period of sustained high unemployment since the 1930s," say the bank's economists.

An obvious factor in the high-and-going-higher unemployment totals is the record rate of wage place labor and increase pro- 18.8 per cent, by one measure.

With corporate profits plunging, private-sector employers must try to control their labor costs by eliminating redundant jobs if and when they can.

This means that there will be a tendency in the next few years, wherever possible, to invest in new equipment to replace labor and increase productivity.

That kind of investment will stand business in good stead in the early 1980s, when labor will probably be in short supply once again.

The Economic Council of Canada has predicted that a decline in the birth-rate and a stable or diminishing inflow of immigrants will lead to the shortage.

Over the next five years or so, however, unemployment may continue to beset a growing number of Canadian families.

Although not to be compared with the burden of unemployment itself, the financial burden will become heavier on municipal welfare budgets and on all employed Canadians, who will start paying a substantial increase in unemployment-insurance premiums next Jan. 1.

Once the recession and its aftermath have become history, however, Canada's unemployment rate is not likely to fall back to anything like three per cent level that was considered normal a decade ago (when inflation also hovered around that level).

Instead, the Toronto-Dominion economists believe, "normal" unemployment will be something over five per cent.

For the young person who has any choice in the matter, the course of prudence would be stay out of the job market and get a more complete education.

The best opportunities will go to the professionals and the specialists.

For those with little or no training, job offers will become even slimmer—unless they are prepared to take work that is especially hard or unpleasant.

Even Devout Christian Can't Smile All Time

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A phrase common on lapel buttons and stickers circulated in Christian groups these days is, "Smile, God loves you." The implication is that believers should have a constant, happy glow about life.

But it's not so, advises a psychologist, a devout believer himself.

Christians sometimes try to "give the impression that God's presence keeps us always on 'cloud nine', when we know we also have times of depression," says Dr. Stanley E. Lindquist.

He says the radiant front can be a form of dishonesty—and it can become psychologically damaging to the person affecting it, and also for others.

"When we misrepresent, we build up false expectations in others for themselves which creates the problem for them, too," he said in an exchange of correspondence.

"We need to develop more honesty about the state we are in."

Lindquist, professor of psychology at California State University at Fresno, says Christian accounts of their faith tend to imply that it brings a continual state of victorious well-being, "an exalted mood and no defeat."

But "we know very well that life is not always like that," he added.

He said "Christian emotional dishonesty" often can lead to despair and other psychological ailments.

"One can fool himself by this sort of emotional dishonesty some of the time, and one can fool others much of the time by a vibrant testimony to what is a partial reality in his life," Lindquist writes in the evangelical weekly, Christianity Today.

"However, we eventually have to deal with this misrepresentation in other ways, such as, possibly, a conversion to a physical disorder that seems to appear mysteriously."

Lindquist, founder and director of Link-Care Foundation which serves to help missionaries and other Christian workers who have emotional problems, said believers, by openly facing their anxieties, can help others handle their own times of discouragement.

"Each time we are emotionally dishonest and try to convey a false picture of victorious Christian experience, we are depriving others of the opportunity to know us better and to grow spiritually and personally in the process," he said.

"Knowing that others have conflicts too and are coping with them gives hope to Christians who are in the midst of depression.

"The bubbling fountain of life that we all want to experience all the time is in reality a waxing and waning of many experiences. The victorious life is one that rises above the failure . . .

"God allows us to experience the low points of life in order to teach us lessons we could not learn in any other way. The way we learn those lessons is not to deny the feelings but to find the meanings underlying them.

"In this manner we grow to become more like the persons God wants us to be. The refiner's fire' may well be the mood problems we experience. If we deny that these feelings exist, we deny that God can use them to help us.

"We refuse to profit from them, to learn from them how to grow in our emotional and spiritual life. And our emotional dishonesty may be creating problems for others necessary for one's own spiritual growth and it also helps others to get the right perspective on their own experience."

Canadian Priest Feels Good Working Among Peru's Poor

HALIFAX (CP) — Working among the poor in Peru makes a person feel good but it usually is embarrassing as well, says a Canadian priest who is taking a two-month vacation in his home archdiocese of Halifax before returning to the poverty-stricken South American nation.

Rev. James Richards served for almost two years with a team of Roman Catholic priests and Sisters of Charity sent by the Halifax archdiocese to Victoria Nueva, a barrio of the city of Chiclayo, 500 miles north of Lima.

Father Richards said his education and his financial backing from the archdiocese gives him a freedom the Peruvian poor can never have.

"You can't be completely with them, yet you can understand and empathize with them."

Ministering to the poor "makes you able to live that much closer to the ideal of what Christ calls you to. It makes you feel a little bit better. That sounds too idealistic . . . but it's not being a hero or anything like that. Usually it's embarrassing."

The mission team lives in poverty by North American standards, but they are much better off than many of the surrounding poor, he said.

"We eat better food than they do. We can afford to buy a good cut of beef when it is available. They have to buy cheaper cuts to feed large families.

"We have a Volkswagen and a Ford pickup, while some of them can't afford a bicycle.

"We have a generator. It's not very good, but we still have light. They have to buy candles."

Father Richards said he finds the rewards of working among the poor are often more profound and immediately satisfying than among the affluent.

The Peruvian poor "have so little, and struggle so hard to live" that any minor accomplishment is a cause for great celebration.

The archdiocese has established a parish church of St. Joseph the Worker, with two attached missions to serve a population of 6,000.

About 90 per cent of these have been baptized Christians, but most "have never really had any opportunity to know what it means to be a Christian."

Hoping to make a better living, most have moved into the barrio from the surrounding mountain areas where priests came so rarely that mass often was celebrated only once a year and was cause for community celebration.

These fiestas and ancient spiritualism have combined to produce a religiosity characteristic of Latin American Catholicism.

This religiosity is discouraged by the archdiocese because many in the parish believe there should be other priorities, so in its churches there are no statues or fiestas.

Christ Essential In Global Picture

By
DR. GORDON C. SMYTH

Some years ago, not far from the entrance door of the United Nations in New York, I found a tiny room for meditation. All I noticed were curtains on the walls, a table with a vase of flowers, and stillness.

This meditation room is all that has been able to be introduced into the United Nations because of the Moslem bloc, solidly opposed to anything Christian, and the Communist bloc, officially atheistic and opposed to any emphasis upon the life of the spirit.

Where does Jesus Christ fit into the global scene? Or is religion of itself sufficient? Are silence and emblems of nature enough to help us toward God? This is the question I pose.

First of all, I suggest that Jesus Christ is absolutely essential since what an individual believes about God is all-important. Canadians have become used to a society that is penetrated by the Christian understanding of God.

However, were you to travel to a centre of Islam, you would notice a difference. They talk about "slaves of God", not men and women as children of God. You would hear a justification of polygamy. When you penetrated to the heart of it all, you would find that the difference in ethical standards began in the different views of God.

Secondly, I suggest that Jesus Christ is essential because the conscience of Christ is the need of us all. No matter what issue arises, you will not find him away in the past dragging humanity backward. Mohammed and Buddha, Marx and Freud do at certain points. The conscience of Christ is one of the miracles of history.

Lastly, I suggest that Christ is absolutely essential because everybody needs a Saviour. It used to be thought that education would grapple with the problem of ignorance and the problem of evil.

It is now getting through our thick heads that a clever man can be a clever devil. It is for education to come to grips with ignorance, and the Gospel to come to grips with our sin.

We require not a meditation room with silence, curtained walls and flowers on a table, but a lonely hill with a cross at its rim, an empty tomb in a garden, and a risen Christ, Lord and Redeemer. This is the need of our hearts.

New Laws Protect Pregnant Employee

As of January, 1975 the provisions of the Employment Standards Act which apply to pregnancy leave were altered to provide broader, more flexible protection for pregnant women.

The Act, first, prohibits dismissal because of pregnancy and provides for a flexible 17-week unpaid pregnancy leave of absence fon all employees with one year of service.

An employee, in turn, must give two week notice of her intention to begin her leave unless, for medical reasons, she must discontunue working immediately.

All employers, no matter what the size of the firm, are bound by this law except companies or agencies under the jurisdiction of the federal government. Banks for example, are specific employers whose employees are guaranteed leave under federal legislation.

The Employment Standard Act is provincial legislation.

Any woman married or unmarried, who has been continuously employed by a company for at least 12 months and 11 weeks before the estimated date of delivery is eligible to apply for pregnancy leave.

Absence from work for normal vacation, sick leave or any other authorized leave of absence or temporary layoff is not considered a break in employment which would interfere with pregnancy leaves.

It is important to remember that part-tiame employees who have worked regularly (though not necessarily the same hours) are covered by this legislation as long as the working arrangement has been established for at least one year. the part-time employee is entitled to the same provisions of pregnancy leave as the full time employee.

An employee is entitled to begin pregnancy leave at any time withhin 11 week obefore the expected date of birth. She must give her employer two week notice in writing of the date she will begin her leave and a medical certificate indicating the expected date of the birth. By mutual agreement with the employer, or by collective agreement prenatal leave may begin more than 11 weeks before the expected due date.

Provided she is able to continue her duties, the law ensures a pregnant woman cannot be compelled to begin leave before she intends.

An employee is entitled to a fixed minimum postnatal leave of six weeks after delivery or a leave ending no more than 17 weeks after the beginning of the leave, whichever is the later.

Thus the employee can arrange her 17-week leave as she chooses so long as it begins no more than 11 weeks before the expected date and ends no more than 17 weeks after the actual birth date.

If the employee's leave conforms to these standards then the law guarantees her rights.

The employee must be reinstated to the same position or to work comparable to that she held prior to her leave, at the same salary with no loss of benefits or seniority accrued to the beginning of the leave.

If the employer discontinued the type of work performed by the employee then she should be reinstated in accordance with her seniority in alternate work of a comparable nature.

The law does not require, it should be noted, that the employer continue to pay his share of benefit premiums during the leave. Pension health insurance, unemployment insurance and the like should be the subject of an agreement between employer and employee before the leave begins.

If the pregnant employee plans to resign with the birth of her child, and has formally notified her employer of that intention, then she is not covered by this legislation. However, she must be aware of her right to pregnancy leave.

For more information, contact the Employment Standards Branch, Ontario Ministry of Labor, 400 University Avenue, Toronto. The telephone number is 416-965-5251.

Family Planning Advice Available

ISABEL HUGGAN

Going over and over "the facts of life," volunteers who will staff Belleville's Planned Parenthood Association Centre are attending evening lectures.

Helping them memorize clear explanations of the reproductive process, Gale DePauli of the Hastings and Prince Edward County Health Unit has been conducting classes on the physical aspects of parenthood. Leslie Shufer, secondary school guidance teacher, has been teaching counselling techniques. Together, they're preparing the staff for every type of situation they may encounter.

Scheduled to open in September, the centre will be a source of information about family planning, available either through telephone conversation or personal interview.

"You'll be here to assist individuals make decisions about voluntary birth planning," Mrs. DePauli reminded the group Tuesday evening.

"It's important to remember that everyone you talk to will have his or her own reasons for making choices. They may not have all the options you do, and they may react differently to ideas than you do. So your job is simply to present all the information you have, even though you may not personally choose or approve of all the birth planning methods."

The volunteers — so far all women, although the centre is hoping to interest men in assisting with information distribution — are already well-instructed in the various techniques couples can use to prevent conception. They are part of the Planned Parenthood program that aims for a society in which "every child is a wanted child".

The centre will deal strictly with the issues of pregnancy and birth control, but intends to eventually deal with related issues of sexual behavior.

"At the present time our focus will be on young men and women who should have all the family planning facts at their disposal," said Miss Shuter. "Other matters we'll refer to the proper people."

Reviewing the organization's charter with the volunteers, Miss Shuter stressed that the Planned Parenthood Association has a national position on the question of abortion to which they should refer.

"Although we believe that abortion should be removed from the criminal code, we do not consider it a method of birth control. If someone comes in wanting an abortion, your job is to find out if she knows for sure that she's pregnant, but from that point on she must be referred to a local doctor," she said.

If a girl is old enough to be a mother, or a boy is old enough to be a father, they should have knowledge of how their bodies work, so that they can take full responsibility for their actions. On this premise the centre makes its case for having birth planning information available for teenagers, whether they are sexually active or not.

Besides the private, confidential counselling there will be pamphlets at the centre free to the public. The women are hoping that their new accessible location at 398 Front Street, will mean they'll be visited frequently, especially by young people. They plan to hold discussion groups, and approach current issues such as working women's rights when pregnant.

Funded by the national Planned Parenthood Association the Belleville-Prince Edward Conuty chapter received the smallest grant of any group in Ontario, but has a healthy bank balance at the present time, Miss Shuter told the women.

"Since our staff will be entirely volunteers, we'll have more money now for education materials, films and travel to conferences," she said.

Any problem usually has more than one solution.

The issue of unwanted, or out-of-wedlock pregnancy is approached in different ways by persons with different points of view.

Here are two local groups offering advice aimed particularly at young people; Planned Parenthood Association, advocating preventive measures, and Birthright, giving aid to already-pregnant women.

Few Ad Complaints Point to Females

Twenty-five complaints against advertisements categorized by the Advertising Sandards Council as "general-miscellaneous" make up the most compaints in any single category, according to the Council's report of complaints dealt with during the first six months of 1975.

Among the complaints listed in that somewhat grey category are a few colorful objections from people who simply dislike all advertising. Other items that land in the category include such things as craft products, decorating materials, the infamous magnet that some mail order entrepeneurs advertise from time to time as a cure for arthritis.

Recent complaints objected to a small print ad which consisted of a reproduction of an anti-immigration sticker offered to motorists. These were referred to the Human Rights Commission of the province in which the products are being sod.

Despite publicity about the portrayal of women in advertising during the first half of 1975 the Council received relatively few complaints on this subjec,t and few of the complaints referred to specific ads — most generalized on the subject. Some of those complaints included objections to the advertising of feminine hygiene products, again a relatively small number — a total of 12 during the six month period.

The advertising Standards Council closed 229 complaints during the first 6 months of 1975. This was just over half the number closed during the same period in 1974. The percentage of compalints was about the same — approximately 13 per cent in the first half of 1975, compared to 15 per cent for the same period in 1974.

Protecting Rights of Unborn Babies

By JERRY BROWN

Abortion is not the only solution to an unwanted pregnancy says Grace Barrett, past director and local organizer of Birthright, an agency designed to provide assistance for pregnant women.

Birthright, a "pro-life group", offers anonymous pregnancy testing, education guidance and "as much or as little assistance as the individual needs or desires," its brochure says.

"Most people don't realize what abortion is really all about," Mrs. Barrett said in an interview. "Not only can it cause physical problems, such as difficulty with future births, but it also creates mental scars that are more difficult to heal."

The local chapter, started in 1972, and handled more than 70 confidential calls its first year.

"During the second year we received twice as many calls from distressed women, but in the third year we returned to between 70 and 80 calls," said Mrs. Barrett.

"Word must have gotten around that we were not an abortion referral agency but rather an anti-abortion group and this is the only reason we can think of for the large drop in calls," she said.

Mrs. Barrett said she thinks many women and girls are forced or pressured into having abortions by friends, families or doctors.

"We are here to help the women but we also exert subtle pressure not to have the abortion performed," she said.

The group usually has only telephone contact with the interested parties, she said.

"It's very rare that we meet the girls in person, perhaps only if we have to help them get a pregnancy test, which we arrange with the help of local doctors," said Mrs. Barrett. "Part of the problem is we can no longer afford to maintain an office and all the volunteers work from their home."

The group is currently planning to extend its speaking schedule to include more local schools in an attempt to acquaint local girls of all the possibilities for handling unwanted pregnancies, said Mrs. Barrett. One solution she suggests is living in residences with other pregnant women, gaining personal security from sharing problems.

"Most of the girls request placement information about out-of-town schools, mostly in Toronto where they can continue their educations," she said.

"We try to make them realize there is a third party involved, someone depending on them for life."

Mrs. Barrett thinks the current rise in abortion is directly related to the violent trend of society.

"Each individual case is pathetic but on a larger scale is a social and moral problem we must deal with," said the mother of seven.

Old Fort Henry

Upper Canada Village

St. Lawrence Parks

You're less than a day's drive from a 1st class vacation experience that lets you get back to nature and experience life as it used to be.

The St. Lawrence Parks Commission invites you to relax at its 14 major park areas and 2,460 camp and trailer sites all along Highway 401 stretching from Kingston to the Quebec border.

Or step back into the 1800's at Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg (401 exits 119 and 120), a complete town of 40-odd authentically restored buildings — a living history of pioneer Ontario.

And treat the kids and yourself to Old Fort Henry at Kingston (401 exit 104), and see life as it was in a nineteenth-century fort featuring the spectacular Fort Henry Guard performing precision drills within the massive limestone walls of "The Citadel of Upper Canada".

All facilities are open Mid-May to Mid-October. The Fort Henry Guard does not perform after September 15.

Sunbeam Home Aims for 'Normal Life'

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Retarded children have as much right to go swimming or munch a hamburger in a restaurant as normal children, says a specialist in the care and training of retarded children.

Mrs. Anthony Schumilas volunteer co-ordinator at Sunbeam Home, maintains that retarded children are "not sick children and it's important to develop their full potential."

Mrs. Schumilas said the aim of the home is to have the children participate in as many community activities as possible.

"We want the kids to see Sunbeam Home as their home and, as normal youngsters do, to participate and be involved in the community," she said in an interview.

The children have been taken to such events as an evening basketball game and groups of children have been swimming in local pools.

Margaret Anne MacBeathe, part-time program director at the home, said it is the first time a swimming program has been tried, and "it was rather amazing to see the natural ability of some although it was their first attempt at swimming."

Mrs. Schumilas said Sunbeam Home relies on volunteer workers to help the 126 children living there to participate in community activities.

She said the home also depends on a local program, Project Lift, for transporting the youngsters in wheelchairs for the swimming sessions.

Groups of children have been taken to a local restaurant to "munch hamburgers, just like any other kids."

Mrs. Schumilas said the volunteers who work with the children, (ranging in age from a few months to 16 years), realize the children 'can do many things if given the opportunity."

She said that as the community gets to know the children, they understand their capabilities better.

"We had a group of children from a local school come in and sing and dance for the children," said Miss MacBeathe.

"It impressed me how well they accepted the retarded children and they played and interacted well on an equal basis."

Michael Dowling, a teacher at the school, said it was the first time many of the children had met a retarded child.

He said some took it in stride while others were fearful at first.

One Grade 5 student said after the visit: "I want to work with retarded children when I grow up."

Another student, who said she had been nervous in the beginning, came to the conclusion that the retarded children were "special."

Mrs. Schumilas said children tend to mimic and want to do what others do, and by seeing normal children climb through tires and bars the retarded child might do the same.

Miss MacBeathe said even the game of ring-a-round-a-rosy helps socialization skills, balance and motor movements and the singing develops language skills.

"It may sound like babbling but it's a step towards normalization and that's our aim," she said.

Mrs. Schumilas said future projects scheduled include picnics, outings, birthday parties and a fishing trip.

Shopping Centres Should Serve Community

EDMONTON (CP) — "Shopping centres should be part of the communities they service," says Bob Depree, manager of the Southgate shopping centre. "They shouldn't just have the goal of making money."

Southgate, the city's second largest centre with about 600,000 square feet, was built in 1970 and is guided by Mr. Depree's community-oriented philosophy.

Southgate has "people islands"—open areas featuring seating places, fountains, potted plants and bright lighting.

Mr. Depree, a veteran of 20 yars in the shopping-centre business, doesn't deny that the islands are there to help sell the merchandise of the centre's 40 tenants.

"But we could have put kiosks in these islands, like some other shopping centres. Instead, Woodward's and The Bay, the centre's owners and major tenants, decided they want to keep the islands open to charitable and community groups."

Mr. Depree says opening shopping centres to community groups is good business.

"A lot of shopping centres think a good promotion is when they give away a free trip to Hawaii. But I believe in giving people something more lasting I'd rather spend my money on a fashion show or a modern dance presentation."

Shopping centres should evolve more and more toward becoming community centres because of their central location and convenience.

City planners should play a role in taking advantage of shopping centres as focal points.

Mr. Depree says there are mixed blessings when shopping entres becoming more than shopping centres.

Most centres in the city have had problems with vandals, mostly school children spending their afternoons in the centres instead of in school.

Mr. Depree fears centres such as Southgate, built before inflation made shopping centres an extremely expensive proposition, may be the last of the community-conscious breed.

"The way building costs are going, shopping centres are going to have to become more sparse. It's getting to the point where if developers have a choice between building for merchants, who will pay top dollar for space, or for public service tenants like libraries, community services won't have a chance."

He says the answer may be for governments to subsidize public service-oriented activities in shopping centres.

Scissors Create Silhouettes

STRATFORD, Ont. (CP) — Waterloo artist Heidi Strack is as talented with a pair of scissors as she is with a paint brush.

While displaying her craftsmanship on the lawn outside the Stratford Theatre this summer, few bystanders realized Miss Strack is skilled in an old art form—creating silhouettes.

As she quickly snipped with her scissors, one wide-eyed youngster shouted: "It's a leaf—no, wait—it's a tail of a bunny rabbit-"

And a man enthusiastically said: "You must have been a whizz at cutting out paper dolls."

"I never did cut out paper dolls," was the comment of the petite Miss Strack.

A native of Freiburg, Germany, she has been teaching German and modern literature at University of Waterloo for the last two years.

Miss Strack was 10 when she was expertly cutting animals, scenery and characters from fairy tales. Her mother admired her artistry and told her not to copy but be creative.

It was sound advice. She discovered she had plenty of imagination to create her own work.

On a visit to Mexico she saw the Tree of Life motif worked in colorful ceramics. It challenged her artistic creativity and she decided to make it in silhouette form using construction paper.

British Women Scientists Battling River Blindness

LONDON (CP) — Two British women scientists have gone to central Africa to play a role in an international effort to alleviate river blindness.

The disease is spread by a small fly and is known by the medical name of onchocerciasis.

The women, Dr. Joyce Magor and Dr. Jane Rosenberg are working in Upper Volta, studying the distribution and movement of a small black fly called Simulium damnosum. This blood-sucking fly injects a minute parasitic worm when it bites human beings. The worm breeds rapidly in the body and frequently works its way to the eye where it causes progressive loss of sight.

Comparatively mild instances of the disease are not usually fatal although it is debilitating to the victim; but badly infected people may die of its effects.

It does, however, cause thousands of cases of blindness and the only way of avoiding infection has been to shun river areas where the flies breed. However, these uninhabitable river strips of land are almost invariably prime agricultural land, badly needed to grow food. Countries concerned include Dahomey, Ghana, Ivory Coast, Mali, Niger, Togo and Upper Volta.

From Typist To Manager

TORONTO (CP) — When Nettie Lukow was 15½ there was a pressing need for her to get a job to help support the family.

So, armed with a Grade 11 education, she went with her mother Mary to a Canadian Bank of Commerce branch in Toronto's Chinatown where she lived.

And sure enough she got a job, as typist. She soon learned that, despite what it said on the door, bankers' hours were not from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

On her first night she finished a backlog of typing about 9:15 p.m. and went home dead tiredbut blissfully happy.

"I'm going to learn everything there is to learn about banking," she told her mother. "I think it's a job where a girl can get ahead."

Nearly 30 years later that prediction has been justified by a series of promotions that have taken her from typist to teller, from savings supervisor to accountant.

Then this spring she was appointed manager, completing her ambitions. As bank manager she will visit anyone who is unable to visit her. She has a strong social conscience and sense of community involvement that can be traced to her life in Chinatown where she says everyone helped each other and where if you made a friend you had a friend for life.

The area where she manages the bank has many seniors. Many of them live alone and experience considerable hardships.

She says, "There is a desperate need in this area for a home where you can live with some dignity and feel part of the community."

Nettie Lukow belongs to all four residents' associations in her ward, assists in the area newspaper and is treasurer and director of the businessmen's association.

Her theory has always been that one works as long as one can, however humble the job.

Her mother, a 73-year-old Ukrainian woman, came to Canada in 1926 and for most of her adult life worked as a charwoman.

"Mother was never ashamed of being a charwoman," she said. "That was one of the things she taught me. Do what you can. Do it to the best of your ability and you can hold your head high."

Ann Landers

Martyr Run Ragged by Mother

Dear Ann Landers: That letter from the woman who had to drag herself to the nursing home once a week to spend an hour with her semi-senile mother really got to me. Too bad she found the old lady's "crazy chatter" so depressing.

I wonder how she'd like to have had her mother living with her for the last seven years. And what if she had to drive her to the beauty shop, the bank, shopping, to the doctor, to church meetings—any place Mother decided to go on a moment's notice. What if she did all this and never received one word of thanks—only criticism and complaints?

I would be overjoyed if I could go visit MY mother every day in a nursing home. It would certainly improve my relationship with my husband and children. Our family has been in a state of upheaval ever since Mother came to live with us. They say I'm a fool to let her run me ragged. Maybe I am but I love my mother and feel it is my responsibility.

But at times I ask myself if I am being fair to my husband and children. One thing is certain, no child of mine will ever go through this kind of hell with me.—Seven Years Depressed.

Dear S.Y.: Any person who has been "Seven Years Depressed" is long overdue for counseling. I sense a martyr complex in your letter plus an enormous amount of ambivalence and resentment.

Is there no public transportation in your city? No taxi? Discuss these alternatives with a therapist and get your head together, woman. I'm glad you wrote. Your letter was a cry for help—even though you didn't mean it to be.

Dear Ann Landers: There was a time when my husband and I could travel and enjoy a full life. But now he is not well and we are both getting on in years. So we stay at home a great deal and make the best of it.

We have certain radio and TV shows that we like to listen to and watch. It is our major form of entertainment. This couple we've known for a long time has a habit of dropping in unexpectedly and it seems they always come right in the middle of a very good show. They stay only 25 or 30 minutes—just long enough to ruin a program for us. This puts my husband in a very bad mood.

Should we turn off the radio or TV when they show up—or say we'd like to finish the program and risk insulting them?—Sitting Ducks

Dear Ducky: Don't do either. Simply tell them the next time they show up that you'd appreciate it if they'd call before coming. Explain that you and your husband watch and listen to certain radio and TV shows and when they come you'd like to give them your undivided attention.

Dear Ann: If my penmanship looks shaky it's because I'm still shook. I took an attractive woman to dinner last night. She has done some import buying in the Orient and is very sophisticated.

When the menus were presented, she took a wad of gum out of her mouth and stuck it behind her ear. I looked horrified. She said, "Relax—it's an old Chinese custom. Even the very aristocratic do it."

True or false?—Small Town Boy

Dear S.T.B.: False. And if this is your idea of "sophistication"—you need a dictionary, honey.

A buoyant feeling of total relaxation comes over you quickly when your body is gently massaged by swirling current of heated water enlivened by millions of oxy-generated bubbles!

People around the world have long known about the sheer luxury of lolling in hot running water. But in ancient times such exquisite pleasure was reserved to kings and emperors, who built their private vacation bathing resorts over natural hot springs. In later times, health resorts grew up around thermal spas, but the expense of "taking the water cure" limited its comforting delights to the wealthy. Until only recently, the exotic pleasure of relaxing in comfort while submitting the whole body to gentle hydromassage was generally available only to patients of hydrotherapy departments of hospitals and members of expensive health clubs.

But not anymore! Any family planning to build a Hallmark Fiberglass Pool can combine it with the Hallmark-Spa at a cost far less than installing an equivalent thermal pool alone. A Hallmark-Spa can be easily added to a Hallmark Fiberglass Pool during construction of the main pool because it shares the circulating, filtering, chlorinating and heating systems of the main pool. And, oh! What luxury! There's no faster, healthier way for mom and dad to slip off the tensions and fatigue of the day. Hydromassage stimulates the body, relieves sore muscles and spasms, aid in the relief of stiff joints improves circulation and induces sound, restful sleep. Ask an athlete about hydromassage and its effects. All these benefits can be yours when your main pool is joined with the Hallmark-Spa thermal pool. It's a great combination!

Humane Shelter Distemper Haven?

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

Quinte area veterinarians say there is a high incidence of distemper and other diseases infecting dogs and cats purchased from the Ontario Humane Society shelter here.

A check of Belleville and Trenton veterinarians indicates most have been treating, on the average, 5-12 cases of canine distemper a month. The veterinarians said, that their information is, most of the cases involve animals from or who have been in contact with dogs and cats passing through the shelter.

The distemper season is at its peak, said Dr. J.A. Lange, a Trenton veterinarian, during the spring months of June and July when in his experience, most people adopt young animals. The doctor reports seeing 3-4 cases of distemper a week in the spring and this tapers off to 2-3 cases in the late summer.

The recovery rate, the veterinarian said, is 50-60 per cent with the mortality rate decreasing as the animal matures.

However, Harry Brown, manager of the shelter says illness at the kennel is "almost nil" and that there have been very few cases of distemper in the last year.

Dr. David Horton and his colleague Dr. Harry Burns, both of the Belleville Animal Hospital are two of the local veterinarians Mr. Brown said were handling most of the shelter's business.

The two Belleville veterinarians said that from their information, most of the distemper cases they treat are coming from or can be traced back to the shelter.

Dr. Horton said it appeared from his experience that: "Puppies and kittens coming from the society, just the kind people are interested in adopting, have the highest incidence of distemper."

Dr. Horton said from the information he received during questioning the owners: "Even dogs who are not purchased there, but who have been found to be in contact with animals dealing with the society have been infected."

Distemper is an air-borne virus affecting any part or organ in the animals, said the veterinarians, with an incubation period of one-three weeks.

The younger the animal the less chance of survival if it has not been vaccinated properly, said the veterinarians, which usually results in the animal dying in convulsions.

A puppy inherits a natural immunity from the mother if she has received shots but must be vaccinated two weeks after it has been weaned, said the veterinarians.

Dr. Horton and Dr. J.A. Lange of Trenton, said kennel cough, mange (resulting in hair loss) and other less serious diseases are also reported infecting animals dealing with the shelter.

Dr. Lange said he had instituted special procedures for examining animals he knew were from, or who had contact with other animals from the humane society.

Dr. Lange said these animals are not allowed into the waiting room with other domestic patients but are kept outside until all the others have been seen and then ushered into an examining room through a side door. The animals leave by the same route.

Doctors Horton, Burns and Green, all from Belleville, said they take similar pre cautions with suspected distemper cases.

The Intelligencer survey was instigated by the complaint of a Frankford woman who purchased a six-week old puppy from the Humane Society which died of distemper six days later.

The examining doctor was Dr. Lange, who said he sees two or three cases of distemper a week, that he says he was told came from the animal shelter.

"It is very likely the animal had distemper before it left the kennel," said Dr. Lange, "and that the final symptoms were aggravated by the stress of being in a new home.

The puppy was part of a litter of six who along with the mother had been dropped off at the shelter, said Harry Brown.

"This puppy is the only one in the litter we have a complaint about," Mr. Brown said. "If the others had been sick we would have heard about it."

Mr. Brown, however, refused to identify who adopted the remaining puppies and mother.

Animals are transported to the shelter by one of three trucks and Dr. Burns said unless it is sterilized after an infected animal is in it, a dog or cat not vaccinated for the disease is likely to contract it.

"The cages (kennel) are cleaned every day," said Mr. Brown, and currently we are re-painting one of the kennels."

Poor Bets for Pets

These puppies are shown in their temporary home at the Ontario Humane Society's Belleville Branch, RR 2. Area veterinarians say the kennel, a large converted barn, is conducive to spreading distemper.

Disease Thrives On Poor Ventilation

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

The Ontario Humane Society's (OHS) animal shelter is conducive to propogating diseases such as distemper and kennel cough, said Dr. Harry Burns of the Belleville Animal Hospital.

He said poor ventilation, lack of isolation facilities, lay help and the damp air in the OHS pound, a converted barn, were major reasons the disease was thriving in the shelter.

OHS Quinte Branch manager Harry Brown said the cages are cleaned every day and repainted twice a year.

The converted barn has about 35 pens in the two main dog-holding rooms with a third room used for larger animals and any overflow. (The middle room was being repainted and the displaced canines were in the cattle pens for a short time).

"It's extremely difficult to control airborne diseases in a pound," said Dr. Burns. "It's different in a hospital where there is likely an isolation room with the proper ventilation."

The converted barn is ventilated by three fans in walls, one in each section of the kennel and by doors at either end of the rooms.

Money, or lack of it is also a problem, agree Dr. Burns and Mr. Brown.

"Most people coming to the pound are looking for a cheap dog," said Dr. Burns, while Mr. Brown said the shelter is funded by donations and there was not an abundance of money.

The shelter handled 4,423 animals last year, Mr. Brown said, with 1,729 being adopted. He said the rest were dead on arrival or destroyed.

"It's a matter of common sense," said Dr. Burns, "they're constantly picking up dogs and they don't know if the animals are sick, and unless you isolated each dog there is no way to control distemper."

One animal carrying the disease or sick with it can infect an area, or other animals it passes, unless it has been thoroughly sanitized afterwards, said Dr. Burns.

Mr. Brown said after a dog has been impounded for more than the 72-hour period required by law, decision is made to keep or destroy the animal. If the decision is made to put the dog up for adoption it then receives distemper shots.

Mr. Brown was asked what improvements he would make if he had the money and they were listed in his order of preferance: (1) Paint the outside of the barn, (2) a fence surrounding the property (controlling herds of cattle) (3) isolation ward and (4) a children's area for educational purposes.

Finances Key Factor In City-OHS Agreement

An eleventh-hour presentation to the Belleville city council by Ontario Humane Society (OHS) vice president Tom Hughes was instrumental in a council decision to extend its contract with the society.

In mid-April, just over a month after a presentation by Mr. Hughes convinced them that terminating the city's animal control contract could be financially disastrous, aldermen voted to extend the OHS-city agreement.

Thoughts about terminatiing the contract arose after the OHS announced a higher fee schedule, prompting council to have city manager Wilbur Purcell explore the feasability of a city owned pound operation.

Mr. Purcell had investigated construction of a shelter on city-owned property and the contracting of animal control services. Currently, the OHS maintains a staff of three wardens and trucks but city council had been informed the job might be done satisfactorily by one warden with a single truck.

A typical pound with 20 pens would cost better than $15,000-20,000, Mr. Purcell said, basing the figure on a preliminary cost estimate from the provincial ministry of agriculture.

The OHS cancelled it's contract last year when it was discovered it was [illegible] a deficit, estimated by Mr. Hughes at $55,000, in its Quinte Branch, west of the city.

Mr. Hughes, who was attempting to negotiate the new and costlier contract, went before city council and warned them a city-owned operation might not only draw public criticism for its inadequacy but could prove more expensive in the long run.

The OHS proposed a new contract which would eventually raise the cost to the city by 67-per cent from the current .75 cents per-capita charge to $1.25 per-capita charge in January, 1976.

The OHS also asked for a change in the termination period of the contract from six months to 90 days, but Mr. Hughes indicated this was negotiable and suggested the city try the OHS services for another year, to which council agreed.

Election Costs About $35,000

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

It will cost taxpayers an estimated $35,000 for 37 days of electoral machinery in the Quinte Riding, says returning officer Gerry Joyce, who is gearing up this week for the Sept. 18 provincial election.

Mr. Joyce, who has headed the task once before, said Friday that printing expenses, estimated to be between $10,000 and $12,000 are one of the largest items on the books. Election material and voting lists are printed locally in the riding.

Other costs include $2,500 for enumerators salaries, rental fees at $5,000, salaries for deputy returning officers at $6,400 and salaries for poll clerks costing $5,000. Incidental business costs could be another $7,000.

Mr. Joyce said the estimate could be slightly low in view of that fact that the provincial government sends some printed material to the individual ridings. The number of ridings in the province has increased by seven from 117 to 125.

All Voters Must Be 18

Who can vote in the Sept. 18 provincial election? It's a simple and obvious question but one that many people ask themselves when it's too late.

A voter must be 18 or over and be a Canadian or British subject to be eligible. The voter must also have resided in the province of Ontario for the past 12 months prior to election day.

Another stipulation requires the voter to be residing in the riding he or she expects to vote in at the time the election is called.

Search For Voters

Gerry Joyce, (seated) the returning officer for the electoral district of Quinte, talks over enumeration plans with Sidney township deputy returning officer Russell Pyear, from Trenton. Enumeration starts next Wednesday and lasts through to Friday. The office is located at 432 Bridge St. E.

Quinte Voters Tracked Down

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

It's countdown time for returning officer Gerry Joyce, who along with some 300 enumerators, must track down nearly 40,000 eligible voters in the electoral district of Quinte.

The enumerators along with hundreds of volunteers begin crash courses in the art of enumerating in preparation for the Sept. 18 provincial election. The schooling includes film presentations and lectures conducted on an informal basis this week at riding office at 432 Bridge St. E.

Mr. Joyce, who was returning officer for this riding in 1971, said Friday work began immediately after the election was announced Monday. He and his staff began dividing the riding up into 147 polling subdivisions, of which 85 are located in Belleville. In the last election Quinte had only 134 polling subdivisions.

Mr. Joyce said each subdivision contains about 300 voters although some may vary from this figure. Two enumerators, one from the Conservative Association and one from the Liberal Association, will make joint visits to residents in order to obtain a list of all eligible voters in the subdivision.

He said the enumerators, who are not allowed to make partisan appeals, make two visits to a residence, one in the daytime and one in the evening.

If they fail to find a responsible person at home then it becomes the responsibility of the voter to phone the riding office to ensure his or her name appears properly on the voter's list.

Mr. Joyce stressed that the enumerators are well trained and people will be able to recognize them by a special kit or an identification card.

"For the best interest of the enumeration process cooperation from people and some courtesy are appreciated especially since the enumerators are working against time," explained Mr. Joyce, who personally loses his right to vote by virtue of his position.

Enumeration begins Wednesday, Aug. 20, through Thursday and Friday. The enumerators are expected to have their final lists by Saturday. An enumerator can earn as much as $85 in this time period but they spend about 25 hours on the job. Rural enumerators receive more expense money because of the distances involved.

Mr. Joyce expects to have about 300 enumerators on the road next Wednesday with about four special enumerators for spot work throughout the riding.

Enumerators are nominated by the party in power and the party who ran runner-up in the kast election. For this riding,, this includes the Conservatives and the Liberals.

Mr. Joyce said that often the two enumerators, representing each party, become good friends in the three days of work. In the last election, the riding had 39,093 voters and Mr. Joyce anticipates that the enumeration process reaches about 98 per cent of the eligible voters.

However, Mr. Joyce said that since the enumeration takes place right after the holiday season, there may be a few more problems this year. He expects the number of voters to top 40,000.

Most Agree TV Has too Much Violence

A sampling of Belleville opinions on violence in the media has produced as wide a variety of attitudes and reactions as is possible on a subject that is currently under investigation by a Royal Commission headed by Judy LaMarsh.

In about a dozen brief interviews it appears as if residents are definite about whether there's too much violence in the media, including television, newspapers and movies, but most were uncertain as to whethere there should be censorship to curb the effects.

Even young people interviewed expressed concern over some aspects of violence in the media and expressed a desire to have some controls placed on the visual media. Many felt newspapers and other print media only reflect society and violence is a part of this society.

The following statements reflect some of the more typical reactions to the queston "do you think there's too much violence in the media?"

STEVE CLANCY

Steve Clancy, a 15-year-old student from Belleville Collegiate Institute, said "yes, there is too much violence in the media and particularly television".

The Fifth St. resident said there are too many police and detective shows on television, especially for younger children and that these shows should be cut down to about half as many.

ERIC JENNISON

Rexdale, Ont. resident Eric Jennison answered no to the question and said "too many people are using the media as a scapegoat in this problem." He said he doesn't believe violent television shows or movies really have an effect on people other than shock entertainment value. "We certainly want to know what's going on in the world, therefore, we must accept the reality of violence added the 54-year-old visitor to Belleville.

EVA THOMPSON

Eva Thompson, a Tweed resident, believes there is far too much violence on television and that is should be restricted, at least some of the most violent aspects of it. A mother of two children Mrs. Thompson said that the violent programs on television do have an effect on children just as the education programs make an impact. Concerning the print media she said crime reports are always after the fact.

KAY BUSHELL

Kay Bushell, an estimator at Montreal Draperies at Quinte Mall, said she considers the violence on television and the movies to be only "make believe". The 49-year-old Charles St. resident said any type of controls on the media would produce no effect at all on crime rates. "From a news point of view, people have a right to know what is going on in the world and violence happens to be a part of it," she added.

CAROL CALLAGHAN

Marsyville resident Carol Callaghan, a 19-year-old first year university student at Queen's said "I think there's too much violence on television and that it does affect behavior." She said children and young people are very impressionable and can be deeply affected by movies and television. Miss Callaghan said there should be some sort of controls placed no the amount of violence in television and movies.

Larry Biittner

Part Timer? Not Larry

MONTREAL (CP) — Larry Biittner was not expected to be anything more than a part-time performer with Montreal Expos during the 1975 National League baseball season, but the left-handed hitter has become a valuable man for manager Gene Mauch.

Biittner, who has had one of the more consistent bats for Montreal in recent weeks, drove in two runs for the Expos Friday night as they defeated Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4 to snap a six-game losing streak.

"He figured to be on our club during the spring," Mauch said. "But I didn't figure he'd be playing as much as he is. We won't keep a .300 hitter on the bench."

Biittner boosted his batting average to over .330 with three hits as the Expos shelled Dodger starter Don Sutton and handed Los Angeles its first loss in seven games.

"There's a little bit of luck involved," Biittner said. "It feels good to see those hits dropping in like that."

Biittner got his first RBI of the night with a run-scoring single in the first inning. Winning pitcher Steve Rogers smashed his first major-league triple to score a run in the second and after the Dodgers scored in the top of the fifth, the Expos rallied for five in the bottom of the inning.

Rookie third baseman Larry Parrish belted a two-run double to highlight the outburst which sent Sutton down to his 10th loss against 16 wins this season.

Parrish, who now has a 12-game hitting streak, slapped his double to the left-field corner, to score Mike Jorgensen and Biittner. Biittner scored Rogers with a double earlier in the inning after Rogers and Jorgensen had walked.

19 Straight Losses But No Panic—Houk

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Manager Ralph Houk of Detroit Tigers isn't about to let a little thing like 19 successive defeats make him push the panic button.

"Everybody's been hustling," Houk said Friday after California Angels blanked the Tigers 8-0. "There's no dissension, no morale problem.

"Nobody's bawling anybody else out. A manager can't ask for anything more."

With Friday night's loss, Detroit crept within one game of the American League mark for this kind of futility. The record was set in 1906 by Boston Red Sox and matched by the old Philadelphia Athletics in 1916 and 1943.

In Friday's other American League games, Boston beat Chicago White Sox 3-2, Texas Rangers split with Baltimore Orioles, winning 10-6 and losing 13-1, Milwaukee Brewers belted Oakland A's 8-4, New York Yankees nipped Kansas City Royals 5-4 and Minnesota Twins defeated Cleveland Indians 8-4.

The Tigers could match the league mark tonight at Anaheim and eclipse it Sunday against the Angels, but there would still be worlds for them to conquer.

Philadelphia Phillies lost 23 National League games in a row in 1961 for what is regarded as major league baseball's modern record. The old Cleveland Spiders lost 24 consecutive games in the 1899 National League season.

RALPH HOUK

California's Frank Tanana pitched hitless ball for five innings and finished with a four-hitter, striking out eight Tigers to increase his major league-leading total to 179.

Mickey Rivers gave him the only run he needed with a sixth-inning single off Mickey Lolich, who went down to his eighth successive defeat.

Cecil Cooper hit a triple and his 11th homer to help lift the Red Sox past Chicago and increase their East Division lead over Baltimore to six games. Rick Miller singled in the sixth inning for what proved to be the winning run.

Tom Grieve hit a pair of two-run singles and Dave Moates hit a tie-breaking double in the eighth inning to give Texas its first-game victory.

The Orioles stormed back to win the nightcap as Mike Cueller pitched a five-hitter and Doug DeCinces drove in five runs with a homer and a bases-loaded triple.

George Scott drove in four runs with a pair of homers to carry the Brewers past Oakland and keep the A's from widening their six-game West Division lead over Kansas City.

Chris Chambliss' two-run double topped off a three-run eighth inning that led New York over the Royals, who got homers from John Mayberry and Tony Solaita.

Rod Carew singled home two runs in a four-run second inning and Steve Braun doubled home two more in a three-run fifth to power the Twins past Cleveland behind Bert Blyleven's six-hitter.

Fast Start—Jackson Leads

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—A quick start put Robbie Jackson ahead Friday in the Canadian amateur golf championship, with a frustrated Gary Cowan and an unhappy Doug Roxburgh close behind.

Jackson, from Ile Bizard, Que., had a five-under-par 31 after the first nine holes in the third round, but slipped to a 37 on the back nine for a three-under 68 on the Riverside country Club course.

"I had the putter going well today and I had it reasonably close in a lot of cases, although I was hoping to keep it down around 63 or 64," Jackson said. "However, the other people are having the same problem so I guess I feel it's refreshing to be where I am right now."

His 210 total after three days in the 72-hole tournament puts him one stroke ahead of Cowan, from Kitchener, Ont., with a third-round 70, and two in front of Roxburgh, the defending champion from Vancouver.

"I was extremely frustrated, especially with my putting game," said Cowan.

"I'm fortunate to be only two strokes behind, it could have been a lot worse," said the 23-year-old Roxburgh, who is after his third Canadian men's amateur crown in the last four years. "I scrambled around a lot out there."

The 20-year-old Jackson, current Quebec amateur champion and two-time Canadian junior winner and a top member of the University of Indiana golf team, had consecutive 71s in earlier rounds on the 6244-yard par-71 course.

Cowan, winner of this tournament in 1961 and a second-place finisher five times, opened the tournament with a 73 and shot a 68 Thursday.

Roxburgh started with a 72, putting him four strokes behind first-round leader Ken Tamke of Edmonton, but the Vancouver golfer took the second-round lead with a brilliant 68 before shooting a 72 in the third round for 212.

Sitting in fourth place was 21-year-old Jim Nelford of Vancouver, the British Columbia amateur champion, with a 72—213.

Tied for fifth were Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., and Tamke, who followed his 68 with a 79 and 70 for 217. Weslock, 57-year-old four-time Canadian amateur champion, had a first-round 71, then two 73s.

One of the highlights of the windy day—which bothered most of the golfers—was the hole-in-one recorded by Muncie Booth of Vancouver on the 10th hole.

Using a three-iron, the 25-year-old Booth said he hit the ball which went directly toward the stick then took one hop and trickled into the hole.

The hole-in-one on the par-three, 201-yard 10th helped to give him a 74 and a total of 222, three strokes behind Dave Webber of Dartmouth, N.S., with a 76 Friday.

Also at 222 were Cec Ferguson of Victoria, with a 74 in the third round, and Mike Mahaney of West Paradise, N.S., with a 75.

The day started with 72 golfers, trimmed from a field of 112 in the first two rounds.

Jackson might have little trouble winning the tournament if he could put together an impressive back nine score, instead of starting off fast and tapering off on late holes.

During the first three days, he has recorded nine birdies and an eagle on the front nine with only three birdies, on each day, on the back nine.

He had a 34-37 front and back nine scores Wednesday, then a 36-35 Thursday.

In the third round, he had a 40-foot birdie putt on the first hole and three more in succession on his way to the 31. Later, however, he got a bogey on the 13th and a double bogey on the 15th which put him at 37 for the back nine.

"This course takes its toll," Jackskon said. "As you keep playing it . . . some of the easiest holes you never expect to bogey, turn into holes you really have to concentrate on.

"Consequently, I guess, there are a lot of players out there making mental errors and getting themselves into trouble on some of the easier holes.

"I know I did it today, on two of the shortest holes on the golf course I went bogey, double which sort of really destroyed a great low round.

"I wasn't concentrating on the last four or five holes—good birdie holes—and it cost me a lot better score. The wind was definitely a factor, at times it came up in gusts. You had to allow for it on a number of holes."

The first group in the fourth round was to tee off at 7:30 a.m. EDT today with the final threesome scheduled to leave at 11:05 a.m EDT.

Pressure Getting to the Bucs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

As their lead melts away like an ice cube left outside on an August day, there are indications that Pittsburgh Pirates are beginning to feel the pressure of a pennant race—now that there is one.

The Pirates lost Friday night for the fourthtime in a row and the ninth time in the last 10 games. They fell 8-3 to Cincinnati Reds, the team they probably would meet in the playoffs.

During the game, Pirates pitcher Dock Ellis apparently refused to warm up in the bullpen for the second straight night. Ellis was reported to have left the bench abruptly when manager Danny Murtaugh approached to discuss the matter.

"Those guys are struggling," said Cincinnati's Fred Norman, the left-hander who cruised to his sixth straight victory at the expense of baseball's National League East leaders.

Norman contributed a bases-loaded single to the Reds' six-run first inning.

Pittsburgh's August record is 4-12. Their lead over Philadelphia Phillies after Friday's play was 1½ games.

The Phillies held a team meeting before their 4-3 triumph over San Diego Padres, but wouldn't admit the pressure was affecting them, too.

Greg Luzinski hit his 30th home run of the season to help the Phillies snap a four-game losing streak.

In Friday's other National League games, the Cardinals swept Atlanta Braves 4-1 and 2-1 in a twi-night doubleheader, San Francisco Giants beat New York 6-4 in the opener of their doubleheader, then dropped the nightcap 9-4, Montreal Expos downed Los Angeles Dodgers 8-4, and Houston Astros topped Chicago Cubs 4-1.

Johnny Bench hit his 23rd home run of the season with a man on and Norman hit his two-run single as the Reds romped past Pittsburgh.

Luzinski's two-run homer in the first inning and Mike Schmidt's 26th an inning later powered Philadelphia past San Diego.

Successive singles by Ron Fairly, Ted Simmons and Reggie Smith chased rookie Atlanta hurler Mike Thompson after six innings of no-hit pitching in the nightcap.

Mike Tyson drove in the opener's winning run with a bad-hop single in the fifth inning and Reggie Smith added an eighth-inning home run to back Ron Reed's seven-hit pitching.

Wayne Garrett, Rusty Staub and John Stearns hit home runs for New York in the nightcap one Met run. Marc Hill's three-run homer capped a six-run sixth inning that gave the Giants a 6-2 victory in the first game.

Larry Parrish delivered a two-run double to highlight a five-run fifth-inning and help the Expos snap a six-game losing streak.

DOCK ELLIS

Cliff Johnson's double capped a three-run seventh inning that carried the Astros past the Cubs 4-1, ending a three-game Houston losing streak.

Hubert May Get The Call

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Hubert Green, in a slump most of the season, has a share of the lead in the 200,000 Greater Hartford open golf tournament after Friday's second round.

But there's a chance he won't even finish the tournament. A new little Green is due to make an arrival at any minute. If Judi, his wife, calls, Hubert will be on his way.

"She knows my position," Green said Friday after hitting a five-iron only one foot away from the hole for the birdie that tied him with Don Bies.

Green, displaying a notable lack of expectant-father jitters, blazed over the 6,598-yard Wethersfield Country Club course in six-under-par 65 and, at 131, was 11 under par and tied with the veteran Bies for the top spot halfway through this chase for a $40,000 first prize.

Bies, 37, who has yet to win in nine long years of tour activity, had a 66 that did not include a bogey.

Three strokes back of the leaders are Lou Graham, J.C. Snead and Larry Nelson. Graham had a second 67, Nelson 66 and Snead a 68.

Andy North, with a 69, and Tom Shaw, 67, were at 135. Johnny Miller and defending champion Dave Stockton headed a big group at 136.

Lee Trevino played his front nine in 30, shot a 65 and moved up to 137. He was tied with South African Gary Player, who shot a 67.

Dennie Meyer, the California club pro whose 64 set the first-round pace, blew to a 73 and was six back at 137.

George Knudson of Toronto, with a 141 total, was the only one of three Canadians to qualify fr the last two rounds. He is 10 strokes back of the leaders.

It took a 142 total to make the cut.

Ben Kern of Toronto shot a 72 for a 145 total while Don Halldorson of Brandon, Man., had a 71 and 148 total.

Pamela's Last Shot Winner

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Pretty Pamela Johns ended a career Friday by capturing the Canadian junior women's golf championship by a three-stroke margin.

Miss Johns, who plans to go to university in the fall, was making her fourth and final appearance in the tournament for players 18 years of age and under.

"This was it. There was no other time," she said after touring the 5,437-yard Brightwood golf course here with a 78 and a three-round score of 237.

"I really wanted to win this one so badly. It was my big goal."

Miss Johns won the event by staging a steady charge over the par-71 course while others close to the lead were losing the battle with a high wind that whipped over the area throughout the day.

The Weston, Ont., golfer started the day five shots away from the lead held by defending champion Stacey West of Willowdale, Ont., and behind three other players.

Miss West, who had opened the 54-hole event with consecutive rounds of 77, fell away from the lead when she fired an 88. It gave her second place with a 240 total.

"I just didn't get a break out there anywhere," she said later.

Her most disastrous hole was probably No. 11, where she hit into the woods and could not play out. She took a four-over-par eight on the hole.

Denise Roch of Sherbrooke, Que., was close to the leading players throughout the tournament and closed with an 80 for a 242 total to claim third spot in the field of 63.

Louise Tremblay of St. Leonard, Que., was only a stroke out of first place starting Friday's play, but also found difficulty with the wind and the course, taking a 17-over-par 88.

Her 243 total left her in a tie for fourth place with Liz Ruttan of Unionville, Ont., who took an 84 Friday after rounds of 79 and 80. They were six strokes behind the winner.

Sydney Thomson of Victoria, whose 74 Thursday was the lowest round of the championship, was in at 88 Friday and had a 244 score.

Jackie Davies of Edmonton, whose game from the fairways deserted her, had an 85 in the final round, her highest score of the tournament. Her 246 total gave her sixth place.

Kathy Powers of Lunenburg, N.S., and Judy Ellis of Kitchener, Ont., were next with 247 totals and Jill Badger of Vancouver was alone at 248.

Margo Scully of Dartmouth gave the gallery at 18 something to cheer about when she reached the green in two and dropped her putt for an eagle on the par-five hole. It was the only two-under-par score on a hole for the three days.

Ilie in Charge

TORONTO (CP) — Ilie Nastase concentrated on playing tennis Friday night and overpowered Australian John Alexander to advance to the semi-finals of the $130,000 Canadian open tennis tournament.

Nastase, famous for his clowning and displays of bad temper, dominated the game as he defeated the sixth-seeded Alexander 6-3, 6-7, 6-2.

The Romanian meets Australian Phil Dent in one semi-final today and Spaniards Manuel Orantes and Juan Gisbert clash in the other.

One of the best clay-court players in the world, the 28-year-old Nastase served with unusual power and accuracy against Alexander. He covered the court with a tough mixture of lobs, drop shots and cross-court passing shots.

Nastase, famous for his short temper, even took in stride a change in a linesman's call in the second set tie-breaker.

He was leading 8-7 when he misjudged a down-the-line shot and sent it into the alley. The linesman called the ball in, but changed his mind after Alexander protested vehemently to the umpire.

Alexander was awarded the point and went on to win the tie-breaker 11-9.

Third-seeded Orantes is the top-ranked survivor in the men's singles section of the tournament. No. 1 seed Guillermo Vilas of Argentina withdrew before the tournament started and second-seeded Bjorn Borg of Sweden was upset Thursday night by West German Hans Plotz.

Orantes advanced Friday with a 6-4, 6-1 win over Italy's Adriano Panatta and 12th-seeded Gisbert defeated Plotz 6-2, 7-5. Dent, the No. 11 seed, downed unseeded Wojtek Fibak of Poland 7-5, 6-4.

Laura Dupont and Marcie Louie meet today in an all-United States women's singles final.

In Friday's semi-finals, Miss Dupont was a 7-6, 6-3 winner over Diane Fromholtz of Australia, who Thursday upset top-seeded Margaret Court of Australia. Miss Louie easily defeated South African Linky Boshoff 6-0, 6-1.

The only Canadian survivors in the tournament, Tony Bardsley of Vancouver and Dave Brown of Toronto lost 6-3, 6-4 to Brazil's Carlos Karmoyr and Paraguay's Victor Pecci in men's doubles action.

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Johnny Miller indicated Friday he may be forced to withdraw from next week's $250,000 Tournament Players Championship in Fort Worth, Tex. Miller, the 1974 Player of the Year and the record-setting winner of three events early this season, said a chronic ailment in his left wrist has flared up.

GRANTS FRANCHISE

BALTIMORE (AP) — The American Hockey League granted a franchise Friday to the revived Baltimore Clippers, providing the new owners can sign a lease with the Baltimore Civic Centre Commission for a place to play. Jack Butterfield, president of the AHL, said he expected to be notified of such an agreement in a few days. The franchise folded in midseason last year.

CANADIANS WIN

BELGRADE (CP) — Canada's national women's basketball team won one of its toughest games here Friday night by defeating Yugoslavia's national women's team 76-75 to extend its record to 6-2. Carol Turney of Chilliwack, B.C., topped the Canadian scorers with 26 points.

TAIWAN WINS

GARY, Ind. (AP) — Taiwan scored three runs on three consecutive wild pitches in the bottom of the ninth inning Friday for a 3-2 victory over West Tampa, Fla., in the winner's bracket of the Senior Little League World Series.

Trouble Spelled W-i-n-n-i-p-e-g

REGINA (CP) — "We always seem to have trouble with Winnipeg and I don't know why," quarterback Ron Lancaster of the Saskatchewan Roughriders said this week, discussing the Western Football Conference club's scheduled battle in Winnipeg against the Blue Bombers Monday.

Saskatchewan has two of its top defensive backs on the injured list and is still reeling from a 28-27 disappointment against British Columbia Lions Sunday.

And Winnipeg, which defeated Calgary Stampeders 18-15 Tuesday, has recently dominated games with the Saskatchewan club, winning two out of three games last year and taking a pre-season victory this spring 41-8.

But club spokesmen feel injuries on both sides may even the odds, and are preparing for a tough struggle.

"We're both in first place and it looks like a pretty keen game," Ken Preston, general manager of the Roughriders, said Friday.

Both clubs have 3-1 records and desoite Winnipeg's winning streak, Bombers' coach Bud Riley said the Roughriders are "as potent as they ever were offensively and their defence is sound."

Preston said players's were "a little disappointed" in their performance against B.C. and "I think they'll be back in top speed for this one."

The Roughrider manager noted Winnipeg "suffered a couple of unfortunate injuries—Scott and Williams."

Bombers' defensive half Paul Williams and wide receiver Tom Scott were placed on the injured list this week after Winnipeg's win over Calgary Stampeders Tuesday.

RON LANCASTER

Williams tore a knee ligament and Scott aggravated a hamstrng injury.

But Ray Odums, placed on a five-day trial Wednesday, is expected to be activated to take William's spot and coach Riley says he "wouldn't advise anyone, including Lancaster, to throw a whole lot in his area."

[illegible] Brown has come off Winnipeg's injury list and will [illegible] right defensive guard Monday.

Meanwhile, two top Regina defensive backs Ken McEachern and Ted Provost — have been placed on the injury list. McEachern is recovering from a knee operation and Provost suffered a broken arm.

Oshawa Pads Lead

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

An eighth-inning, bases-loaded double by Bob Burke sent Oshawa Tonys on to an 8-4 win Friday over Woodstock Warriors in an Ontario Fastball League game.

In the only other scheduled game, Terry Kay's ninth-inning single scored the winning run as Burlington Provisioners edged Hamilton Waxman Scrappers 2-1.

In Woodstock, Burke's double gave the Tonys a 5-4 lead and they went on to add three more runs.

Oshawa opened the scoring with two runs in the first inning on a single by Paul Gibbons and a triple by Bob Smith. The Tonys stretched the lead to 3-0 in the second inning on a pair of singles.

Woodstock took the lead 4-3 in the seventh inning on an error, a triple by Frank Koningshofer and a single by Pat Werby.

Smith led off for Oshawa in the eighth inning with a walk, Bob Solomon was safe on an error and Dave Stewart singled to load the bases. Then Wayne Colley slammed a two-run triple after Burke's double. [illegible] run scored on a ground ball to the shortstop.

Bill Fidlin took the loss for Woodstock. Colley was credited with the win as he struck out five batters and gave up seven hits.

In Burlington, the win gave the Provisioners a 2½-game bulge over Hamilton in the OFL standings.

Bill Drennan was credited with the win as he gave up eight hits and struck out eight batters.

Bill McNelis took the loss. He threw a five hitter, struck out 11 and walked two. Wally Dick relieved McNelis in the ninth and gave up two hits.

Burlington's Tim Salter was hit by a pitch in the eighth, scoring on Vern Agnew's double to tie the game.

Hamilton replaced McNelis with Dick after Drennan's single. Designated runner Dave Miller was advanced to third and was batted in by Kay.

Play continues Saturday with London at Belleville, Kitchener at Hamilton and Woodstock at Toronto.

You Know, Some Things Cause Us All Grief

Back at the sports desk after the annual two-week reprieve and I find nothing has changed much.

Still confronted with the usual bitter complaints about coverage or lack of same.

Rubbish.

Still buoyed by the actions of people in the office and a few outside these domains.

More convinced than ever that somehow, qualified officials for Eastern Ontario Baseball League games are a prime requisite . . . no, not just in Port Hope but in other areas, most notably our own Bay of Quinte region.

Growing more and more concerned about minor sports and some of the people involved in the operation.

Upset over the loss of a devoted sports fan and friend.

Elated by the success being enjoyed by The Intelligencer entry in the Belleville Industrial Softball League.

Taking the success of Toronto Argonauts with a grain of salt.

Seeking ways to console Montreal Expos fans.

Wondering how Gene Mauch escapes the blame for the rut Expos ar in.

At a loss to explain why Oaklkand A's refuse to supply photos of players when most other major league teams do so without hesitation.

Satisfied with the success of the recent Tam O'Shanter Coaches Symposium . . . more than a little satisfied, I suppose.

Expecting more than I should have from those in charge of Belleville Legion Branch 99 Bantams of the EOBA who failed to report they went out in two straight to Kingston Lions after putting Trenton State Farm on the sidelines.

Getting a kick out of Ken Revoy, called up from Legion 99 Bantams and still tearing the cover off the ball for Belleville Yardmen Midgets. And realizing that in the same big guy, this area has a great one on the way up. This one has the attitude to go with it.

More on my mind?

You bet.

But some of it will have to wait.

Hockey training camps are opening when?

Some Belleville minor clubs are already at it?

As an old acquaintance was wont to exclaim: Look out!

SLICES: Chalk up a hole in one for Belleville lawyer John W. Bailey. Playing in a foursome with David Blair, Tom Fleming and Dr. John Bonn, Bailey aced the 147-yard eighth hole at Bay of Quinte Country Club, Wednesday.

And he used a wedge.

Belleville McFarlands Oldtimers may be very busy this coming hockey season.

Former captain of the World and Allan Cup Champions, Floyd Crawford says the Macs are planning to play a series of charity games during the 1975-76 campaign.

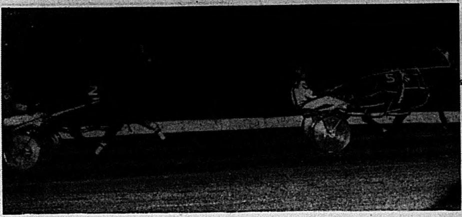
Complete details have not been announced but it is known the group will promote a hockey conditioning school with proceeds going to purchase the necessary equipment to outfit the squad.

The conditioning school will be for players in the 8-18 years age bracket and it's a cinch many of the former McFarlands will have plenty of tips to pass on to those registering for the sessions.

And Floyd emphasizes the price for registration will be reasonable.

There will be more information on this as it becomes available.

As this comes to light, Project Action in Brighton is right in the middle of a Men's Softball Tournament with games all weekend. Purpose of the event is to help raise funds for a new Brighton Arena.



Arkansas Traveller (5) leads the field in the Labatt's Invitational Race at the Quinte Exhibition Raceway on Friday night, followed by Single Impression, (2). Unfortunately for both horses this was in the first turn. When the race was over, Arkansas Traveller finished sixth and Single Impression came in fourth. The winner was Western D. Wann.

Boily Double Winner at QER

Rejean Boily had a great night at the races on Friday at the Quinte Exhibition Raceway as he was the winner of two races and a new watch.

Boily was the winning driver in the prestigious Labatt's Invitational, driving Western's D. Wann to the win in 2:07, one of the better times of the night.

The victory was good for $600 in purse and a Labatt's cooler (blanket). Boily was presented with a gold watch as the winning driver, second went to Mr. Chick and driver Jim Mayo, Jr.

In the eighth Boily was a winner again, this time driving Terry Jean Byrd to the win in 2:11, with Northwood Hazy a close second driven by Russ McQuaid.

The second race of the evening was another cooler presentation, with Wild Cat Shelley the winner, Ross Brown was at the reins. The cooler was presented by W. R. Frank Real Estate.

Another cooler was presented in the fourth, when Lottie Jones Florist made the presentation to Northwood Grant, driven by Walter Demille.

The term "fast track" certainly was appropriate at the QER on Friday, as no less than four horses broke their previous best times in winning.

Still leading the driver standings is Guy LaRush, with 20 wins. In second is Pat Hunt who is at the 14-win point. Third goes to Brian Bellamy with 11 wins and then Larry Zebedee, also with 11 wins.

With five nights of harness racing left any driver can still take the driver championships.

Next week the feature will be the Corby Preferred Invitational one of the biggest races of the year.

Big Weekend for Macs

When people around the Ontario Fastball League speak of pitchers certain names always stand out. Among them are Paul Wannamaker, Bob Domik, Peter Landers, Bill McNellis and so on, but, when they speak of the dean of the pitching ranks, they use one name, Metro Szeryk.

Tonight at the Alemite, Belleville softball fans will get a chance to see this veteran hurler pitching for the London Dukes in a doubleheader against the Belleville McDonald's.

Szeryk is not the most talned pitcher n the OFL, but he is probably the smartest. That is what has made him the chucker he is. In his younger days he could get by on speed, but no longer. At 42 years of age Szeryk uses a combination of curve balls and surprising speed when necessary.

At this time the Dukes are in second place in the West Division, just trailing the Oshawa Tony's, after leading the division for most of the year.

In competition the Macs have always done well against the Dukes, defeating them once 4-0 and coming close in a game which was rained out.

Jim Chase hurled a one-hitter at the Dukes last time in London and picked up the win.

Szeryk is not a one-man team, and he is not alone on the pitching staff. Dick Hames is not to be relegated to second place status, as he has battled back from serious arthritis problems to become a steady hurler again.

Hames hurled the Richmond Hill team to a World Championship in the United States and was also on a Canadian Championship club.

The third London starter is Don Dominas, one hurler the Macs have loved to hit against. In two meetings with Dominas Belleville hitters have knocked him out of the box, defeating him once.

London also has a big hitter in Jim Brown. He was the West's All-star catcher, and has pounded quite a few home runs in his OFL career, including the first one to leave the Alemite Park, early this year. Only Glenn Carleton and Larry Mavety have hit balls out of the park since, in OFL action.

So the Macs will meet tough pitching tonight, something they themselves have come up with recently. Ted Waite, Scott Reid and Jim Ch[illegible] have all pitched good gam[illegible] in recent weeks. The problem has been a lack of hitting.

On Sunday night it'll be another doubleheader, this time against the Toronto Waxman Globals, another team the Macs have beaten 4-0.

There will be no excuse for not beating the Globals at least once, Toronto has hovered near last place all season. Toronto pitcher Reg Martin was forced to pitch three games in one night recently because of illness on the club. The hope is that Belleville can touch the Globals pitchers.

Peter Harrison, Carl Boomhower and Larry Mavety have hit well over .300 against Toronto.

Belleville fans will be looking for more of what they saw two weeks ago, and there is no reason why they should'nt be satisfied.

Two Split the Purse

It was billed as a winner take all wrestling Battle Royale, but it turned out to be a two man show at the Memorial Arena Friday night.

The 10-man field, including two midgets, Bobo Johnson and Little John, was to have produced a winner that took the prize of $1,000. However, Crusader Robertson and Billy Red Lyons had differnt idas.

The pair after disposing of the other eight competitors in about 15 minutes, surprised the crowd of 800 fans by raising each others' arms in victory, sharing the $1,000.

The pair then had to dispose of several of the combatants that would not go down to defeat in graceful sportsmanlike style, including the Wolfman, Wildman, Stan Stasiak, and Toni Pavis.

Others included in the 10 man contest were Chris Tolos and Pat Kelly.

the winners of the 10 man matchup later challenged the winners of the final bout of the night, the Wolfman and Wildman to a tag team bout for the North American belt. That match will go during the final card of the season in two weeks' time.

The Wolfman and Wildman won the tag team bout on Friday night, taking the win after the favorites, the Kelly Twins, Pat and Mike, were disqualified. The disqualification came about after a frustrated Mike took a swing at the referee.

In the other bouts, Lyons pinned Billy Bass in the opener, Stan Stasiak and Crusader Robertson fought to a draw, and Tolos won over Parisi in the third preliminary.

Black Diamond, Brooke Bond Win

A seventh inning comeback by Post Office wasn't quite enough as they lost 3-2 to Black Diamond at the Alemite on Friday night.

The Belleville Industrial Softball League Playoff game was a tight one, Black Diamond now holds a 2-1 lead in the series.

In the other playoffs match Brooke Bond defeated The Intelligencer 5-1.

Ron Andrews was victorious for the Black Diamond club. He allowed eight hits and no walks and he struck out two batters.

The loss was abosorbed by Norm Lockhart, who gave up seven hits and walked one. He had three strikeouts.

Triples from Ron Bateman and Jack Francis scored the runs which gave Black Diamond the win.

Other safeties came from Terry Hiddleston with a double and a single and singles from Gene Francis, Bateman, Don Stewart and Jack Francis.

Brooke Bond took a 2-1 lead in their series with The Intelligencer.

Tom St. Jules was the winning pitcher. He gave up three hits and no walks, and struck out four batters.

Three pitchers were saddled with The Intell loss, Joey Edwards, Ron Culloden and Jim McKay. They gave up eight hits and four walks while striking out one.

Don Goodfellow singled and tripled for the winners to lead the way.

Other hits from Brooke Bond batters were contributed by St. Jules with a double, Lou Rivers with two singles, and other one baggers from Dave Middleton, Jack Walsh and Ross Geen.

The three Intell hits were all singles, from Jim McKay, Joe Edwards and Bill Cooney.

On Monday night the series play resumes, with two teams on the ropes, Post Office and The Intelligencer will both be looking to win in their next match.

Bow Out

KEMPTVILLE (Special) — Four runs in the first inning for Kemptville put an end to Belleville Ellis Junior hopes in the Ontario Amateur Softball Association playoffs.

The final score was 9-0 for Kemptville as they took the series 2-0.

Winning pitcher was Dave Dixie. He gave up just two hits on the way to his shutout.

The loss went to Paul Wilson. He was touched for 10 hits along the way.

The two Ellis hits came from Jim Richardson and Peter Wilson.

Rosebush, DeMille Leaders

After four years of being very close, Rick Rosebush finally won his first Quinte Fastball League batting championship this season. The steady Devolin Motors shortstop came up with a .350 batting average and 15 RBI's.

Second to him was young Steve Campbell, the centrefielder for the Ellis Juniors, he batted .338 and looks to be the hitter of the future.

Tops in pitching was old pro Ken DeMille of Bardon Supplies. He had an 8-2 won-lost record while recording a fantastic 0.73 ERA. He had six shutouts.

Teammate Earl Foster was second with a 9-3 record and a 1.27 ERA, he also led the league in homers, with two.

Getting back to the batting Dave Horwood was third. He had a strong finish and batted .333 for the year. Horwood was versatile in the field for Devolin, playing third base and even pitching.

DeMille is in the top 10 of the statistics again with a .333 batting average. He was second in the league in RBI's with 14.

Veteran Ralph Pine finished in the number five spot, he batted .328 for Devolin. Next was Ron Weese at .321, Dave Skelton with a .317 mark and newcomer Rick Graham at .316.

Third in the pitching department was Auger's Bob Swan, he was 7-3 with teammate Jamie Hunter next. Hunter had two no hitters over the season.

Don Holoway had another steady year for Devolin's, striking out 117 batters, to lead the league in that department.

Most runs scored were 19, by Bardon infielder Denis Neron, while the longest hitting streak came from Joe Theriault of Auger's. He had a streak of 14 games.

IN FAIR CONDITION

TORONTO (CP) — National Hockey League player Joey Johnston was in fair condition Monday at Sunnybrook Hospital after he was injured Saturday night in a two-car collision at Peterborough, Ont., 50 miles northeast of here. Johnston, a 26-year-old left winger with Chicago Black Hawks, had been listed in serious condition Monday night.

RACE DRIVER DIES

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Race car driver B. J. Swanson of the United States died in hospital Wednesday after suffering severe head injuries in a crash last weekend at the Mid-Ohio Sports car course in Lexington. He was injured when his car crashed into a bridge on the course Sunday shortly after the start of the Buckeye Cup Formula 5000 championship road race. Track officials blamed the accident on a stuck throttle.

It was every man for himself in Friday night's Battle Royal at Memorial Arena Pro Wrestling show. But here, the Canadian Wildman takes on two of the challengers in an effort to propel them from the ring.

THE UNEXPLAINED
by Allen Spraggett

The Occult Science Triumph

How much can an astrologer, a palmist and a psychic tell about a person they've never met?

This question was the premise for a television pilot, based on my original idea, which I recently hosted. The show was not rigged. I know because I was there.

Simply put, we brought together three experts in the occult sciences — astrologer Frances Sakoian, palmist Marcel Broekman and clairvoyant Irene Hughes — with two mystery guests.

The experts received no information about the guests except their sex. In addition, the astrologer was given their times, dates and places of birth; the palmist their handprints; and the clairvoyant a personal object belonging to each guest.

And how well did the occult experts do?

Well, the first mystery guest was identified only as having "an unusual career and hobbies." This guest was Mari-Lou MacDonald who has been a fashion model, an undersea diver and photographer, an accomplished horsewoman, and, to top if off, Canada's only professional stuntwoman.

What did the occult panel come up with about her?

Marcel Broekman, on the basis of her palm prints alone, said that "at the age of 12 you must have broken your shoulder."

Mari-Lou literally gasped. "Nobody knew that," she said, "except my mother!"

Marcel went on to add that somehow she seemed to him to be "a woman who takes cars apart or something."

Mari-Lou laughed: "Well, as a stuntwoman I certainly tear them apart when I crash!"

Irene Hughes the psychic, had been given a pendant belonging to the mystery guest. Fingering it, to "pick up vibrations," Irene correctly divined that Mari-Lou MacDonald "has some association with Elizabeth Taylor . . . I get the impression of skin diving . . . and I feel you're a fashion model."

Again, Mar-Lou gasped. Besides the two obvious hits, she admitted that she had once almost served as a stand-in for Elizabeth Taylor in the movie, Cleopatra.

Then Frances Sakoian, the astrologer, proceeded to amaze the guest by discerning from her horoscope that she was in the communications field, had a way of making up her mind so that nobody but she herself could change it and that her career had undergone many abrupt and dramatic changes.

The second mystery guest was Doug Henning, the world's youngest master of stage illusion and star of his own Broadway hit, "The Magic Show."

Frances Sakoian, the astrologer, correctly perceived from his horoscope that the guest had experienced a sudden, dramatic upsurge in his career "about April 1972," and that before going into his present career he had a marked interest in "phychology, philosophy and region."

Doug has a graduate degree in psychology and admitted to a deep interest in philosophy and religion.

Marcel Broekman, the palmist, detected in Doug Henning's handprint that "you are experiencing, right now, certain major obstacles in your career which you're clearing away." Doug energetically agreed that this was so.

Marcel went on to describe the mystery guest as having something of the "yogi" about him and probably being "very athletic, possibly a dancer."

Doug Henning admitted that he once thought seriously of going to India to pursue the yogi's path to spiritual wisdom and he added: "I've studied dancing and what I do on stage demands that I be very athletic."

Irene Hughes, the clairvoyant, holding a bracelet belonging to Doug, correctly divined that he was on the stage; that early in his career he started out in one of the social sciences; that he had suffered a painful affair of the heart recently which was still hurtful; and later she added that she kept hearing the name "Houdini."

Missed Medicine Problem Examined

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem I'm sure many others have. I am 60 years old and taking medicine for high blood pressure. Sometimes I forget to take a tablet, so I am concerned about the effect. What would occur if I were to miss one, or if I were to take two at once to make up for this?

Please don't think I'm silly. Anyone who is normally busy cannot remember if a habitual happening occurred or didn't occur, and that can be very disturbing—D. B. L.

It seems the only habits we slip into easily are bad ones.

Your problem is not a silly one. The seriousness of missing medication depends on several factors: the type, the frequency with which it is to be taken, etc. I assume you must take your medicine twice a day. In that case missing one could be more serious than missing a dosage that has to be taken four or six times daily.

But I don't think your missing just a single tablet would be really harmful. I would not, however, advise taking two to make up for the lapse. That could produce undesirable effects, depending on what the medicine is.

Medication is best taken at mealtimes, if you eat regular meals. One trick to make sure you take your two tablets each day is to remove them from the package each morning. Put them in a dish or some other container and place it in a prominent spot. But if there are young children around, you should be careful not to put medication in their reach.

Some patients I've known have tried using alarm watches to jog their memories. I know a friend who had his "alarm" go off in a particularly poignant silence at a play he was attending.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem of skin dryness of the vagina.

You have mentioned that there are suppositories or creams containing hormones. Are they available over the counter? I failed to find any in my drugstore.—C. C.

Such hormones can be administered for this purpose orally in pill form or locally as creams and suppositories. There are many brands, and your doctor should be able to prescribe one for you. Both pills and creams are available only by prescription.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please explain the cause of ringworm, and how to cure it? Will it recur? Is it dangerous?—J. M.

There are various types of ringworm, a fungus infection, depending on the part of the body affected. Ringworm of the scalp in children is highly contagious. Others are only mildly so.

Some ringworm can become chronic, and others occur spontaneously and disappear with treatment, which is either by local application of medicine or anti-fungal agents by mouth. It depends on the type and location.

A common type of ringworm infection is of the scalp. Athletes foot is another, requiring local treatment and scrupulous foot hygiene. Ringworm can occur in the groin (jock strap itch) and under pendulous breasts of women. Some types recur.

On the scale of "seriousness" it would have to rank rather low, but unchecked, it can lead to rapid transfer to others, and, if untreated, to secondary skin infections, especially with itching.

Show Biz Shorts

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — British television interviewer David Frost said Sunday that he has acquired the rights to a six-hour exclusive television interview with former president Richard Nixon in which Nixon would talk candidly about all subjects, including Watergate.

Frost said the agreement to film Nixon's Television Memoirs, in four 90-minute programs, was reached Saturday at Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., villa.

He said the film would be produced for an international consortium of broadcasting organizations he declined to name. He also refused to say how much Nixon would be paid.

Frost said the agreement included a stipulation that the former president would discuss the Watergate scandal which brought down his administration.

The British broadcaster said he expected at least one-fourth of the programs would be devoted to Watergate.

They would not appear on world television screens until after the 1976 presidential election because Nixon did not wish to appear to intervene in the campaigns.

The two biggest U.S. networks, CBS and NBC, backed out of negotiations to interview Nixon because they said he had refused to answer questions on Watergate and wanted to retain editorial control of the programs.

Frost, who last interviewed Nixon during the 1968 presidential campaign, said of his impressions on meeting Nixon on Saturday: "I was astonished by how physically well he was. He led us on a very strenuous tour of his house. It was a total contradiction of the ailing image."

Asked why Nixon has agreed to lift his self-imposed silence, Frost said:

"I sensed that he is ready to start reflecting on his life and times and achievements and his mistakes. I think he is ready to start talking about them candidly."

NEW YORK (AP) — In a stunning reversal of the standard backstage musical plot, superstar Liza Minnelli has taken over the leading role in Chicago from ailing Gwen Verdon.

Ticket sales and ticket prices have zoomed for the show although the management has discouraged publicity and made no formal announcement that Miss Minnelli has acted in "the show must go on" tradition her mother, Judy Garland, used to personify in films.

"I don't find it that unusual," the 1972 Oscar winner for Cabaret said Monday.

"People sing on other people's records. In the theatre in England, people fill in for one another. In Vegas, if you can't make it, you call another performer and they take over for you."

TORONTO (CP) — Unless labor difficulties with stage hands at the O'Keefe Centre are cleared up by Thursday, the Canadian Opera Company (COC), principal tenants of the 3,200 seat theatre, will cancel its contract with the theatre, a company spokesman said Monday.

The decision to impose the deadline was made at a special board of directors meeting "because of our responsibility to the artists contracted to us," the spokesman said.

The stage hands, members of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, have refused an offer from O'Keefe Centre management to raise wages by 15 per cent this year and 10 per cent next year, said Hugh Walkr, managing director of the theatre.

Mr. Walker said he would seek another meeting with the union before the Thursday deadline to try to reach a settlement.

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebecers buy twice as many records per capita as their counterparts in Britain and France, says a study by the provincial cultural affairs department.

But only 27 per cent of the records purchased were manufactured in Quebec, said the study made public Monday.

Quebec's record industry will require government assistance if it is to survive in a field dominated by large foreign companies, it added.

MOSCOW (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor completed her final day of work Monday in her starring role in Blue Bird, the first United States-Soviet Union film production.

As a farewell gesture, Miss Taylor threw a lavish party in Leningrad for the entire cast and crews, whose members included Americans, Soviets and Britons.

BIRTHS

CAMPBELL — Mr. and Mrs. Harry P. Ryan, 137 George St. are happy to announce the arrival of another grandson, Gregory Malcolm, weight 8 lbs., 6 ozs., born at Lakeshore General Hospital, Montreal, August 7th, 1975. Proud parents, Malcolm and Ann Marie (nee Ryan) Campbell.

IN MEMORIAM

KETCHESON — In loving memory of a wonderful husband, Jack Ketcheson who passed away August 17, 1974.
There's someone who misses you sadly,
In the house where you used to be.
There's someone who wanted to keep you,
But God willed it not to be.
You left some beautiful memories,
And sorrow too great to be told,
But to me who loved and lost you,
Your memory will never grow old.
—Too dearly loved to ever be forgotten by wife Evelyn.

KETCHESON — In loving memory of a dear dad and grandfather John A. Ketcheson who passed away one year ago on August 17, 1974.
The joys we shared together,
The memories we hold dear,
The love and happiness you gave,
Will always keep you near,
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.
—Forever loved and always remembered by daughters Joyce, son-in-law Eric and grandchildren Dawn, Mark and Paul.

HAGERMAN — In loving memory of a dear son, Garrie who passed away August 16, 1973.
In our hearts your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day dear son,
We do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Mom and Garn.

BROOKS, Aubry Milten — In loving memory of my dear husband who passed away 1 year ago, August 9, 1974.
You left some beautiful memories,
And sorrow too great to be told,
But in my heart, dearest husband,
Your memory will never grow old.
—Sadly missed and loved always, wife Mae.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sun., Aug. 17

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Follow your instincts where ambitious interests are concerned today. Don't let detractors throw you off course.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Leave your work in the office or shop today. Injecting business into a social situation will spoil your fun.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Take care of a family matter that has commercial overtones early today. This is a top-priority issue. It must be attended to NOW.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you come face-to-face with a relative who has an old axe to grind, side-step the issue today. It can't be settled. Hard feelings could result.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Don't let someone dictate how and what you should spend your money for. Unless they share your obligations, they have no right to talk.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your easygoing, fun-loving mood makes you vulnerable to a con job by one with selfish motives. Careful who you grubstake.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Service to family above self is most beneficial to you today, though you'll try to fight it. You'll be glad you gave into nobler instincts.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Suppress your more serious motives today. Get in the swim of things with friends who know you need to let your hair down.

SAGTTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't fritter time away with small talk. Let those you negotiate with know you mean business when discussing your purse or career.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 18) Acknowledge publicly today the help of those who have been instrumental in your success. This will assure their continued loyalty.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be grateful for a favor done by a friend. You may have expected more, but recall: She wasn't obligated to do anything.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A close associate has the reputation of being cool under fire. She's the person to talk to before making any decision you're unsure of.

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Monday Aug. 18

Aries – (March 21-April 19) You're apt to bank more heavily on chance than on commod sense today in competitive situations. Best odds with luck: Second place.

Taurus (APRIL ¼?May 20) You may do something today out of spite and opposed to your best interests, rather than go along with ideas of one you're peeved at.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Be careful today in joint ventures that cost you out-of-pocket. The larger slice of the costs could come from your end.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) It will be difficult for you to make major decisions today. You're apt to overemphasize both the pros and cons, then remain in the middle.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) You'll saddle yourself with more responsibilities than you can handle today if you mingle with overly dependent persons.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't make business impositions today upon a contact you know only socially. He'll resent your use of this type of leverage.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Today you are apt to take the course of least resistance and permit a family member to pressure you into doing something.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be judged more harshly than usual for your mistakes today. Be careful not to jump from the frying pan into the fire.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be sure you have old obligations well in hand today before taking on new ones. There isn't enough spread for both.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Try not to team up with one who always opposes your ways. She'll try to put the brakes on your efforts again today.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You must be realistic about issues confronting you today. Don't pretend they'll rectify themselves without action on your part.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You will later have remorse regarding a situation where you were overly generous. However, don't try to recoup folly.

Sorry M'Lord

SOUTHEND, England (CP) — A whole day's testimony was a wipe-out when a court usher pressed the wrong button on a tape-recorder. The recorder was being used in the absence of a shorthand writer. The judge apologized to the jury and ordered the trial begin all over the next day.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

The last hand in Victor Mollo's book is another real old timer. Not that it has appeared regularly in bridge columns, but rather that the swindle he discusses has been worked several times in tough competition.

North's bidding is only bad from the standpoint of potential result. He certainly can't imagine that South won't have a play for the spade slam, after South shows spades in response to North's Stayman three clubs.

Anyway, here is poor South, flying blind in a fog with all motors conked out. He has to lose a trick to the ace of diamonds and there is no legitimate way to avoid the loss of a spade trick.

Then what should South do? Just what the late Willard Karn did in a rubber bridge game some 45 years ago. He won the second trick, turned to West and said, "You wouldn't lead an ace unless you expect to take a trump trick." Then Willard slapped down the queen of spades: West played low and the impossible slam came home.

Ask the Jacobys

A Virginia reader wants to know the meaning of the jingle, "Eight ever, nine never."

This is supposed to tell the student that when you have a total of eight cards in a suit and miss the queen you should try to pick it up by means of a finesse, while if you hold a total of nine you should try to drop it.

Actually, it is nearly always proper to finesse when you hold eight, but there are many occasions when you should prefer the finesse for the queen when you hold nine.

(Do you have a question for the Jacobys? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and writers will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Churches Council Man Quits

TORONTO (CP) Rev. Floyd Honey, general secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches has resigned in protest over a proposed reduction in staff.

Rev. Honey, 59, a United Church cleric and secretary of the council for the last seven years, said his decision to resign from his $16,750 a-year job on Dec. 31 was triggered by a proposal to have one deputy secretary for the council instead of two associate secretaries as in the past.

The proposal was made by the United Church at a council executive meeting in June held to consider a replacement for Rev. Maurice Wilkinson, an associate secretary who left to take a parish in Parry Sound.

Mr. Honey, who said the council has been at the "minimum level to be at all useful as a national body" since its formation in 1964, said he felt "taken aback" that it was his own church that initiated the staff cut.

The executive will meet Sept. 23 to consider the proposal, but Mr. Honey said no one at the June meeting spoke in opposition to the idea.

The council has 11 member denominations representing about 2 million non-Roman Catholic adult Christians. It was established to facilitate common action by churches and to give "visible expression of the essential unity of churches."

Mr. Honey said the council suffers from a lack of support by member churches.

Get Raise

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Secondary school teachers in Durham region will be going back to school in Septemper with salary and benefit increases equalling 28.5 per cent.

An arbitration award giving the 900 teachers, vice-principals and principals the raise was handed down Thursday by Toronto lawyer George Ferguson.

Few Enumerators

TORONTO (CP) — Returning officers say they are having trouble finding enumerators for the Sept. 18 Ontario provincial election because of summer va cations.

"People are cancelling out right and left," Muriel Neundorf, returning officer for Scarborough West riding, said Friday. "A lot of them agreed to work as enumerators back in June thinking it would be an October election. I can't even remember enumeration going on in August before."

Reject Offer

HIGH PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP) — The family of a young oil worker who was killed in the crash last Oct. 30 of a Panarctic Oils Ltd. aircraft at Rea Point, N.W.T., has rejected an offer of $7,500 compensation for the death of their son.

Charles Killeen and his wife were given the offer by lawyers for British Aviation Insurance Corp. of Edmonton, insurers of the Panarctic Electra which crashed through sea ice, killing 32 of the 34 men aboard.

Big Plant

MONTREAL (CP) — A suburban Laval gardener needs a ladder to pick his tomatoes because one of his plants refuses to stop growing. Its already nine feet tall and still going strong.

"Its just fabulous" says Solomon Bross, 37, a maintenance manager for a large chain store.

"I didn't do anything special, the plant just kept growing," he said.

The Guinness Book of Records says the tallest tomato plant was a 20-foot giant grown in Southport, England, in 1957.

Mr. Bross planted the seeds in a flower pot in February and transplanted them to his garden during a two week hot spell in May.

Even the miniature tomatoes on Mr. Bross's plant—about 250 cherry tomatoes—"are three times as big as ordinary cherry tomatoes," he said. "They're about two inches in diameter.

Fees Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP) — Most universities across Canada will be holding the line on tuition fees during the upcoming academic year, although many are raising room and board fees, Statistics Canada figures show.

Tuition fees will be raised by some universities in four out of the 10 provinces as the degree-granting institutions maintain a lively competition for students.

Study Program

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's advisory committee on financial assistance for students is inviting briefs and planning public hearings in order to take a fresh look at Ontario's multi-million dollar student aid programs.

A request for submissions, released by the committee Thursday, mentioned nine possible objectives to be met, including accessibility, equality of opportunity, continuity of support, compatibilty with other programs and individual responsibility.

Hospital Food Handler Is Ill With Typhoid

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — A 20-year-old woman who was handling food for patients at Kingston General Hospital for three days last week has been diagnosed as having typhoid fever the hospital executiv director Friday.

James Flett said the woman has not worked at the hospital since Aug. 7 when she told hospital officals of her attendance at the Free Methodist church camp, the source of the worst typhoid outbreak in North America during the last 20 years.

The unidentified woman is one of 28 confirmed cases in Ontario with 24 in hospital here.

Freeman Huttchings, the local health unit's chief inspector, said Wednesday that water samples from the camp's well July 18 showed a coliform count of more than 80, indicating the water was contaminated.

The girl, who is at home under the supervision of the medical officer of health, was working in th dietary research department prior to Aug. 5 and started as a dietary assistant on that day.

Mr. Flett also said eight typhoid victims were transferred Thursday to the hospital at the Canadian Armed Forces base since they are responding well to treatment.

Won't Advertise

BARRY'S BAY, Ont. (CP) Forty-seven of 68 advertisers in the first edition of the Upper Ottawa Valley Tourist Guide said Thursday they will withdraw support for the publication.

Their action follows appearance of an advertisement by the Canadian Liberation Movement (CLM) that advertisers say is anti-American and leads readers to believe the advertisers support such a philosophy.

The advertisement reads: "Canadian novelties. Stop The U.S. Takeover stickers, Yankee Go Home stickers. 30 stickers for $1. Bumper stickers 35 cents each or three for $1. . . ."

The advertisement ends with a mailing address for the CLM in Killaloe, Ont.

No Alert

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — provincial alert message was not sent after convict Derek Atack escaped from a minimum security prison, despite assurances by Pembroke provincial police that such notice went to all Ontario police departments, says a provincial police inspector.

Insp. J. S. Eastwood said in Toronto on Friday that an investigation he conducted determined that an alert was not sent.

Losses Deliberate

TORONTO (CP) A spokesman for the Canadian National Exhibition says some parents deliberately lose their children at the CNE grounds so they can enjoy the show alone.

Dorothy Mitchell who has operated the lost children bureau at the exhibition for 12 years, said Friday lost children are kept at the bureau until midnight, then taken to the police station where they sit with the drunks until their parents are found.

It is not unusual for children to be left at the end of the day but most of the 500 youngsters picked up during an average weekend are claimed by their parents within a half hour, she said.

Spraying Skeeters

WINNIPEG (CP) — Spraying for mosquitoes got under way Friday night as the city and provincial government started a massive co-operative campaign to prevent a possible outbreak of equine encephalitis, or sleeping sickness, in the province.

The action follows a declaration Friday by Saul Miller, acting provincial health minister, that "an emergency health situation" exists in Manitoba.

Trucks pegan spraying methoxychlor in parks areas and, barring inclement weather, aerial spraying of 12,000 gallons of malathion, one of the most effective and dangerous insecticides, will begin tonight.

Larvaciding, the destroying of immature mosquitoes, is continuing on a 24-hour basis, as is ground spraying.

A DC 6 aircraft, specially equipped for aerial spraying, has been chartered from Abbotsford, B.C., and armed forces aircraft are ferrying in chemicals from Eastern Canada, Edmonton and the United States.

Authorities from Edmonton, Ottawa, and the University of Manitoba are joining city and provincial staffs in the battle against mosquitoes capable of carrying the encephalitis virus.

Rival Politicians Find Their Issues

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

As the first week of campaigning for the Sept. 18 Ontario election drew to a close Friday, the three major party leaders all found issues to sink their teeth into.

Premier William Davis chose the Police Association of Ontario meeting in Windsor to announce a tough new cabinet policy on fire-arms.

Liberal Leader Robert Nixon again attacked government spending, pledging a liberal government to cutting $50 million annually from government administration costs.

Stephen Lewis of the NDP used a news conference to decry what he called hazardous—conditions in steel mills, saying the health of workers is being ignored in favor of production.

The premier took a law-and-order stance before the police association audience, telling them the cabinet has produced a set of recommendations to tighten gun controls.

He said the cabinet wants to see all types of fire-arms controlled. Now, only bandguns and automatic weapons are registered.

Meanwhile, Mr. Nixon, in a speech to the Ontario Public School Men Teachers' Federation, said a Liberal government would save $50 million annually by cutting down on administrative expenses.

The Liberal leader, who has been pledging a series of spending cuts if elected, told the teachers that education ministry regional offices should be eliminated, to save $11 million annually.

Other cuts in administrative budgets would also save millions, he said.

Mr. Nixon also attacked the Conservative government for its education policies, saying the people have lost confidence in the education system.

He said he is concerned over the so-called experiments in education which he suggested have "seriously jeopardized the education of our children."

The Liberal leader said his government would end "the cynical charade . . . a school system that has sacrificed quality for quantity."

And in Hamilton, Mr. Lewis greeted NDP supporters and blasted the government and the Steel Co. of Canada Ltd., (Stelco) for ignoring what he described as a high cancer hazard for some steel mill workers.

Mr. Lewis said studies indicate that coke-oven workers in steel mills are 10 times as likely to develop cancer as ordinary workers.

He called the situation a moral outrage, saying that neither the province nor Stelco has taken any action to improve the pollution situation.

He said safety experts from the United Steelworkers Union have told him the coke-oven problem has existed for 15 years.

It was the second time this week the NDP leader has attacked an industry and the government over hazards to workers' health.

Earlier, he said Denison Mines Ltd., of Elliot Lake had allowed miners to drink radium-polluted waters since 1958 adding that the government knew of the situation.

Rhodes Asks for Halt In Pickering Demolition

PICKERING, Ont. (CP) — John Rhodes, Ontario minister of transportation and communications, has sent a telegram to Jean Marchand, federal transport minister, requesting he halt all demolition and construction at the proposed airport site in Pickering.

The telegram comes following the demolition of houses, which started Wednesday and continued Thursday, in the area of the airport's runway.

Mr. Rhodes's telegram calls for an "immediate" stop in construction until a meeting between the two government bodies has been held.

The telegram reads: "It is difficult to understand why the federal government should wish to proceed at this time, when there is no government agreement with Ontario as to roads, sewers and other support services."

The Ontario minister said that arrangements have been made for officials of the two governments to meet on the matter in early September.

Television Debate Rejected by Davis

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Ontario NDP leader Stephen Lewis said Friday the voters will be the losers if party leaders fail to agree on a province-wide television debate for the Sept. 18 provincial election.

"It would be too bad," he said, after learning on a campaign stop here that a proposal for a generally-televised debate had been rejected by Conservative Premier William Davis.

The CBC had offered to broadcast a three-way debate among the leaders on 13 network stations and affiliates across the province, but that was turned down by the premier.

Mr. Davis said he had agreed to appear with other leaders on a Toronto television station affiliated with CTV, but would not debate them a second time on a province-wide CBC hookup.

Subsequently, Liberal Leader Robert Nixon reserved judgement on the Toronto station proposal, raising the possibility that no television debate will take place atall.

Eleven-year-old Marianne Waite, of Wallbridge Road, says there's always one kitten in a litter that won't behave. The young Belleville resident was at the market Saturday morning trying to sell these three kittens. The one kitten insisted on being on her shoulder, an advantage in owner-hunting the other two didn't really appreciate.

Two Suspects Held

FBI Frees Bronfman And Regains Ransom

NEW YORK (AP) — Kidnapped whisky heir Samuel Bronfman II was in safe seclusion at his mother's mansion today after being freed early Sunday by FBI agents from a Brooklyn apartment where he had been held bound and gagged since he was abducted eight days ago.

Meanwhile, authorities are discounting reports an alleged kidnapper's story that two men still at large planned the snatch.

Dominic Byrne, 53, who with Melvin Patrick Lynch, 37, a city fireman, is being held on charges of extortion and illegal use of the mails, was reported to have told police and the FBI the two unidentified men commandeered his car for the caper.

However, FBI Assistant Director J. Wallace LaPrade said no other suspects are being sough atnd no further arrests are expected.

At a news conference Sunday, officials showed reporters the recovered $2.3 million in cash Bronfman's father paid for his son's return. The original $4.6-million ransom demand was halved during negotiations with the abductors. It has not been explained why.

Byrne and Lynch, both Irish-born, naturalized U.S. citizens, were to be arraigned today. Authorities said federal charges of kidnapping were not filed because the victim was not taken across state lines. But there remain state kidnapping charges which carry penalties of life imprisonment.

Michael Codd, New York City police commissioner, said law enforcement officials and U.S. state department intelligence agents are checking the possibility that the two men intended to give part of the ransom to the Irish Republican Army (IRA). LaPrade discounted any IRA connection.

Samuel Bronfman, 21, shaved his eight-day beard and showered at the Fifth Avenue apartment of his father, Edgar Bronfman, chairman of the Montreal-based Seagram Company Ltd. He and his father then went by helicopter to the family estate at Yorktown Heights.

There the young man was met and embraced by his divorced mother, Ann Margaret Loeb Bronfman. He spent the night at her home in nearby Purchase, where he was living at the time he was seized.

A family friend, Jonathan Rinehart, said that at the news of Samuel's rescue "there was a lot of smiling, a hell of a lot of smiling."

Another family friend in Yorktown Heights, Peter Kaufman, told reporters that family members came together in the middle of the living room and "almost went through the ceiling in a burst of joy." José Louis, the family butler, opened champagne for the celebration.

The Bronfmans declined to talk with reporters, but young Bronfman, clad in work shirt and jeans, appeared unhurt.

"He's a young bull of a guy and in good shape both physically and mentally," said a family spokesman.

LaPrade said it was "absolutely" untrue Bronfman had been "buried" with a 10-day supply of water and air as the kidnappers had claimed in a ransom note to Edgar Bronfman last Monday.

The young Bronfman, heir to part of the billion-dollar Seagram whisky fortune, was found in Lynch's Brooklyn apartment early Sunday. He was rescued about 24 hours after his father had delivered the ransom, one of the largest in U.S. history, to two men in a car in the Woodside, Queens, section of New York City.

A woman FBI agent in the car with the elder Bronfman was reported to have got the ransom car's licence number and city police traced it to Lynch. The car was found parked outside his apartment house.

The FBI staked out the car, but the case was not cracked until Byrne's daughter, Mary, 17, appeared in a stationhouse with a note from her father.

City detectives returned with the girl to the Bryne home which is near the Lynch apartment where, unknown to them, young Bronfman was lying on a couch, blindfolded, gagged and bound hand and foot with adhesive tape.

The girl told detectives her father was afraid of two men in a car parked across from his home and this led him to seek police help.

The detectives approached the car and found that by coincidence, one of the FBI cars staked out near the Lynch apartment had parked across from the Byrne home.

Detective Thomas Cerbone said later that police then went up to Byrne's second-floor apartment: "We didn't know whether we were following just another dead end. We didn't know if we would find a psycho at the top of the stairs or what."

After Byrne told police Bronfman was in Lynch's apartment nearby and he had fed him recently, detectives and FBI men moved in.

"We used Byrne's key, opened the door and made a frontal charge into the apartment," Cerbone said. "The kid was lying on the couch, blindfolded, with tape on his eyes and mouth and he was bound."

Refinery Blaze Kills 3

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Three firemen died when they were caught in flames Sunday during a spectacular refinery blaze and were turned into human torches.

At least three more firemen were missing and five others were among 13 persons injured in the fire which started Sunday and still burned out of control today at the Gulf Oil Co. refinery.

"The flames just engulfed them," said Fire Commissioner Joseph Rizzo, describing how he escaped the first of dozens of explosions, but looked back to see three of his men sealed in flames.

"They were trying to get under the foam, but to no avail," he said. "They were human torches."

The blaze at the second-largest refinery on the East Coast could be seen for 20 miles. Flames covering an area about a half-mile square roared into a spreading cloud of black smoke.

The fire satrted at dawn Sunday when an 80,000-barrel storage tank ignited while being filled with oil from a tanker. The ship was not damaged. The fire was brought under control and clean-up crews moved is.

They spent the day pouring chemical foam on to the smouldering tank. There was no apparent danger.

Refinery manager Jack Burk said the facility's sewage system failed to drain off oil spilled from the first fire and fumes backed up.

"Then it flashed," Burk said.

The area was crowded with equipment and men when flames erupted. There was one explosion, then another. Flames were everywhere.

Kissinger Hoping For Accord

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger says his new round of shuttle diplomacy stands a good chance of achieving an interim Israeli-Egyptian accord that will be "a significant step toward peace in the Middle East."

Negotiations have progressed to the point where all parties believe it would be useful for him to return to the Middle East "in an effort to bring the talks to a successful conclusion," Kissinger said Sunday.

The secretary told reporters at the Western White House he will leave Washington for Israel late Wednesday and later meet with President Anwar Sadat in Alexandria, Egypt. He also plans brief visits to Syria, Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Announcement of the forthcoming trip followed the Israeli cabinet's approval of negotiations conducted so far between Kissinger and Israel's ambassador in Washington.

However, a communique issued after a four-hour cabinet meeting in Jerusalem said there are "important issues still to be settled" in trying to reach a new interim accord for disengagement of Israelf and Egyptiam forces in Sinai.

Police Hear Kelly Writes to Papers

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Police officials said Sunday they have received word that fugitive Donald Kelly has written three letters which he plans to send to the news media explaining his side of his story.

They said it was not known exactly what would be in the letters.

Kelly, 37, escaped Aug. 2 from the North Bay district jail, where he was awaiting trial on two counts of murder.

Thursday morning, a man identifying himself as Kelly held 11 persons at gunpoint for 15 hours in a camping area north of here. The campers later told police that the gunman had made vague references to writing letters.

He let the hostages take his picture, while keeping them under control with two rifles, and autographed a Super Hero comic book for them, police said.

The man told campers he had a sack of dynamite and would not hesitate to use it, but police said they had no knowledge of any dynamite being stolen in the area.

At one point during the time the campers were held, police were within three feet of the gunman. Provincial police making a check of the area near McConnell Lake, 60 miles north of here, waved to the group as they turned their patrol car around.

The group, seated around a campfire while the concealed gunman kept a rifle pointed at them, waved back. The session with the campers ended at midnight Thursday night when the gunman left in a car owned by John Hebert, of Cambridge, Ont.

The car was found near a downtown intersection later Friday and a police tracking dog—who had been given Kelly's scent—reacted in a way that convinced police the man had driven it into the city.

Det. Insp. W. C. Craig of the provincial police said he thought Kelly was operating without help and was in the bush north of the city.

Insp. Craig said that if Kelly was still in the bush it was pos- to police roadblocks to overhear sible he had been close enough the cruisers' radios.

NDP Promises More Homes While Farm Land Preserved

TORONTO (CP) — Stephen Lewis unwrapped the New Democratic Party's platform for the Sept. 18 Ontario general election Sunday, pledging to increase housing starts to a minimum of 116,000 annually during the next 10 years and to halt the erosion of agriculture land to developers.

Both proposals, the only major committments made by the NDP thus far, were made in a speech by Mr. Lewis to a gathering of about 400 party supporters and candidates at a downtown hotel.

Housing starts will drop to 55,000 or 60,000 under the Davis government in 1975, far short of the minimum 116,000 needed yearly to make housing a social right, he said.

And the loss of prime farm land, now disappearing at a rate of 26 acres an hour, would force Ontario to import 60 per cent of its food by the year 2000 unless something was done.

He said last week that he would increase housing starts by changing government spending priorities and would halt land losses through development controls and stiffer zoning laws.

His hour-long speech was mainly an elaboration of the four main themes he announced at the beginning of the campaign—housing, land, energy and people.

Mr. Lewis accused the Davis government of insensitivity and said issues affecting individuals directly, such as pensions, prices and services, will be his overriding concern.

"The Davis government always says changes will come tomorrow . . . but tomorrow never comes for countless tens of thousands of people who are ill-served by their government.

Based on a $5,000 downpayment, a 30-year mortgage at 11¾-per-cent interest, and $50 a month in taxes, a house would be out of reach for families earning less $26,110 in Toronto, $19,748 in Ottawa, $18,789 in Thunder Bay or $17,791 in London he said.

He also renewed pledges made last week to refuse any petroleum price increases—"even 1-10th of one penny"—unless it is clear oil companies need it.

Air Cadet Squadron Here Seeking to Recruit Girls

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

The local squadron of the Royal Canadian Air Cadets, 608 Duke of Edinburgh, is looking for young women to join its ranks this fall, says commanding officer Capt. Tom Riley.

Capt. Riley said Saturday the squadron, which accommodates up to 65 air cadets between the ages of 13 and 19, will attempt to recruit girls He said advertising will be directed towards this goal.

The local squadron, which began for Quinte Secondary School students and later opened to general membership in 1962, has never had a female cadet. Currently, the squadron, which operates out of the Belleville Airport, has a membership of about 60 young men in various stages of training. The club meets every Wednesday night through September to June at the Armories.

Capt. Riley, a reserve officer in the Armed Forces, said the purpose of the air cadets is teach leadership, companionship and aviation skills. The official local sponsor of squadron 608 is Unit 201 Duke of Edinburgh ArmyNavy and Air Force Veterans.

The air cadets are issued uniforms and supplies through the Canadian Armed Forces. Other sponsors include the Air Cadet League of Canada, which often supplies scholarships for promising young fliers, and groups like the Belleville Yardmen, which has donated a plane to the squadron and has given scholarships.

Most of the squadron's basic training takes place at the Belleville Airport, a commercial landing strip, which is owned and operated by Jim Marker. Mr. Marker allows the squadron free use of the airport for training exercises. The airport is located three miles east of Belleville of Thurlow Concession 2.

Many of the young cadets achieve their private flying licence through the organization. A cadet must be 16 to hold a student licence and 17 to earn his or her private licence.

The squadron has a staff of about 13, which includes five officers, one adult civilian instructor and several senior instructors from the squadron itself.

Capt. Riley stressed that a service career is not necessary for the cadets following their training but it can provide a useful start for a career in aviation. The squadron offers all types of courses for all facets of the aviation business.

Capt. Riley said he feels the air cadets build character into the members and can provide a firm foundation for an aviation career either with the armed forces or n commercial business.

Car Dealership Target Of Weekend Thieves

Two 17-year-old Belleville youths are under city police guard at Belleville General Hospital and have been charged with break, enter and theft in connection with a break-in at Motorland Chrysler Plymouth Ltd. at 290 North Front St. and a truck accident on Highway 2, four miles west of Belleville early today.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie identified the youths today as James Bateman and Dennis Davis, both of 186 Station St.

A hospital spokesman said Bateman is in the intensive care unit in fair condition with a possible head injury and abrasions and Davis in in satisfactory condition with a concussion and a lacerated left thumb.

Chief Crosbie said someone broke into the car dealership sometime after closing time Saturday by smashing a rear window, broke a vending machine, sprayed fire extinguisher contents over automobile parts, smashed a cash register, threw battery acid and oil on the floor, broke an inside door window leading to upstairs offices and ransacked desks.

He said a 1975 Dodge pickup turck was taken and was later involved in the accident. Details and a damage estimate were unavailable from Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville by press time.

Chief Crosbie said damage estimates at Motorland are still being tabulated.

Impaired Charge Laid

A 17 Year-old Belleville youth has been charged with impaired driving, having an alcohol blood count in excess of .08 and failing to remain at the scene of an accident in connection with a two-car collision about midnight Sunday at the East Bridge and Front streets intersection.

Ciyt Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today the youth is identified as Ernest C. Finkle of 72 West Dundas St.

Chief Crosbie said a southbound car on Front St., driven by Kenneth John Mueller, 25, of 940 West Tennessee Ave. in Lakewood, Col., was in collision with a car westbound on Bridge St. which left following the accident.

Constable Gary Lazier estimated $1,300 damage to the Mueller car and $400 to the other car. Mueller was treated and released from Belleville General Hospital for minor injuries.

Damage Extensive

MARMORA — A two-car collision near here Sunday has caused a total damage of $1,000 to both vehicles. A 17-year-old Havelock man suffered minor injuries in the mishap.

Madoc OPP said the accident occurred on Highway 7, about one mile west of the here, at 10:42 a.m. Driver of the first vehicle was Jonas Wright, 66, of Queenboro, and driver of the second vehicle was John H. Maloney, of RR 1, Havelock.

Police said the Wright vehicle was attempting to make a left-hand turn off Highway 7 when the mishap occured Two passengers in the Maloney car, Donald Maloney 82, and VeVra Maloney, 79, received minor cuts in the accident.

Maloney was charged with following too close to another vehicle in the incident.

Truck Rolls, Youth Injured

PICTON — A 16-year-old Wellington youth received minor injuries in a single mishap about 2:30 p.m. Sunday.

Terance Grier of Main Street was taken to hospital for treatment and released following the accident at Hillier Township Road about 1½ miles south of Highway 33.

Picton OPP said the pickup truck travelling northbound rolled once in a field after entering a curve. Gordon Alexander Rutherford, 16, of RR 1 Bloomfield, has been charged with careless driving, said police.

Stowing It

Master Cpl. Chuck Clements stows and checks his equipment aboard the Twin Otter airplane used by the 424 Squadron for its rescue operations. Cpl. Clementsand the rest of the five-man, specially trained crew can be airborne within one-half-hour of receiving a request for aid.

High in the Sky Only Life for 17-year-old Pilot

Bradley Snider, a 17-year-School student and a member of the 608 Squadron Duke of Edinburgh Air Cadets, recently achieved a score of 100 per cent on his ground school flight examination for his private pilot's licence.

"It's a very rare score and one which only a few cadets ever achieve," said Lieut. Thorton Portt, chief insturctor for the local air cadet squadron, which is supported locally by Unit 201 Duke of Edinburgh Navy, Army and Air Force veterans.

Bradley, a RR 6 Belleville resident, went on to pass his flight examination for his private pilot's licence and is currently awaiting his papers.

The young flier couldn't have done without the help of Pelleville Yardmen. Bradley lost a $875 scholarship with the Air Cadet League of Canada because he wears glasses, a regulation the league adheres to strictly, despite the fact that Bradley scored very high on the scholarship exams.

The Belleville Yardmen came to rescue with the $875 which enables Bradley to take his training for the licence in Kingston. The Yardmen have also donated a plane to the club, which has a membership of about 60.

To earn his licence Bradley had to spend 35 hours in flight training of which 12 must be dual and another 12 solo to qualify. The additional hours can be divided up. A person must be 16 to hold a student's licence and 17 to pass his other private pilot's licence.

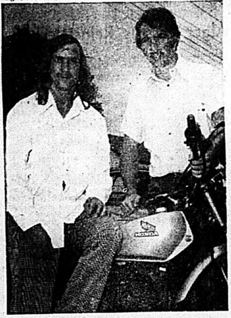
The examination, which netted Bradley a score of 100 per cent, included 100 questions about meteorology, navigation, air regulations, airplane parts and engine parts. He took the test in Toronto under the supervision of the ministry of transportation.

Bradley says he's a born flier and would rather be in the air than on the ground. Although he plans to pursue his education, he hopes to someday have a career in commercial flying.

He has been flying since he was 14. The age limit for air cadets is between 13 and 19. The squadron is currently trying to recruit young women into their ranks.

Happy Trails

To help Vince and Lois Gentile celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary, over 150 people held a banquet Saturday night at the curling club of Picton in their honor. One of the surprises waiting for Mr. and Mrs. Gentile was this hand-made car, built by Orval Robinson because Mr. Gentile is an "antique car buff."



Wins Honda

Bill Abrams, 20, of 131 N. Front St., recently won a MT 250 Honda Elsnore, valued at $1,260, from the company after his ticket was drawn in a sweepstakes sponsored by the company. Wayne Casselman, a salesman at Alton Hadley Ltd., sold the bike to Mr. Abrams which later turned out to be a free deal when Honda refunded the money. Honda gave away about 50 motorcycles across Canada in the contest.

Two Held Following Hit and Run

MADOC — OPP here have charged a 21-year-old Stirling man, Samuel John Donnan, with failing to remain at the scene of an accident following a hit-and-run early Saturday morning at the Whispering Pines Hotel, on Highway 7.

A second man, Leo Francis Quinlin, 16, of RR 2, Stirling, a passenger in the hit-and-run vehicle, has been charged with theft under $200 along with Donnan. Police have also issued a warrant for the arrest of John Vanderwater, 20, of RR 1, Roslin, a third passenger in the hit-and-run vehicle.

Donnan and Quinlin, both being held at the Napanee Regional Detention Centre, will appear in Belleville court today for a bail hearing. The two men will also appear in Madoc provincial court Tuesday to face charges of theft and abduction, involving a fourth female passenger.

Madoc OPP said several men were carrying food out of the Whispering Pines Hotel prior to the hit-and-run which caused a total damage of about $1.200 Constables Don Ball and Robert Bruce are investigating.

Three Hurt In Crash

PICTON — Three men are in hospital following a two-car collision about 3:40 a.m. Sunday at Highway 33 and Glenora Road.

Police estmate damage at about $4,300 after a car driven by Walter Keogh, 21, of RR2 Demorestville was in collision with a car driven by Bobby Vincent, 23, of Oshawa. Both drivers were taken to Prince Edward Memorial Hospital with fractured legs.

Evens Wirckickts, 24, of RR 4 Picton, a passenger in the Vincent vehicle, also was taken to hospital with a concussion.

Police have charged Keogh with failing to share the road.

Car Clips Telephone Pole

TWEED — A 19 - year - old Belleville youth, Richard D. Hurst, of 61 Pine St., escaped serious injury early Sunday morning when his car hit a telephone post on Bogart Rd., just east of the village.

Madoc OPP said the late model car was westbound when it went out of control and hit the post disconnecting two telephone lines. The car had $700 damage. Hurst suffered minor injuries and two passengers were unhurt.

Bradley Snider, 17, (left) recently passed his ground flight examination with a score of 100 per cent, a rare achievement for the test. Since then he passed his flight examination and now has his private pilot's licence. Bradley is a member of the 608 Squadron Duke of Edinburgh Air Cadets in Belleville. At right, commanding officer Capt. Tom Riley stands beside the plane donated to the cadets by the Belleville Yardmen. The Yardmen were also responsible for Bradley's training costs.

Minor Mishaps Keep OPP Busy

MADOC OPP here Sunday morning handled a rash of single-car accidents that caused a total damage of $4,700 to three vehicles. No one was seriously hurt in the mishaps.

The first accident took place at 12:30 a.m. on Centre Line Rd. (County Rd. 3); east of Marmora.

Driver of the car was 19-year-old Eric Randall Robertson, of Whitney. Police said the car rolled causing $1.00 damage. The accident is still under investigation.

A second accident occurred at 3:30 a.m. on Highway 37, about three miles north of Tweed. Driver of the car was Heather Marian Leveck, 25, from Peterborough. She suffered minor injuries but did not require hospital treatment.

Police said the Leveck car had $3,600 damage. She was charged with careless driving in the mishap.

The third accident occurred at 3:25 a.m. on Centre Line Rd., about seven miles east of Marmora. Driver of the vehicle was Michael John Glemiski, 21, of RR 2, Marmora. The car suffered $700 damage. Constable John Ball is still investigating.

Newman Guest Speaker

Des Newman, Whitby mayor and liberal candidate for the Whitby riding, will be the guest speaker at the Quinte Provincial Liberal Association Tuesday night at Centennial Secondary School.

Mr. Newman is a past-president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities and also served as the original chairman of the municipal liaison committee with the provincial and federal governments.

Riding president Lyn Harrington said a full-house is expected for Tuesday night's convention which begins at 8 p.m. To date two candidates, Hugh O'Neil, a Belleville realtor, and George Murray, a Belleville lawyer, will stand for election.

1 LABOR - SERVICE - PARTS PLAN

Our Labor, Service & Parts replacement plan at $39.60 — gives you service calls when you require them; 1 annual furnace cleaning service per year — as a matter of fact, it replaces your present oil burner should it be required. That's why they call us 'quality people'.

2 AUTOMATIC DELIVERY

No worries about fuel delivery. The meters on our trucks print automatically, and our friendly driver salesmen deliver automatically — so you can be free to enjoy "the quality people" home comfort.

3 SOUND ADVICE

There's more to a heating system than a furnace. Matching a furnace to a house, locating and correctly sizing ductwork and heating outlets requires an expert. Check with us and we'll give you sound advice on just how the job should be done.

4 QUALITY INSTALLATIONS

When we install a new furnace we do the job right. First time. Correct installation is important to the performance of any heating system. For your sake call "the quality people" and have the job done right.

5 BUDGET BILLING

Heating costs are now a significant part of the household budget, but "the quality people" make it easier with an equalized monthly payment plan, and no service charge.

Will Next Series of Conferences Bring Us Any Closer to World Stability?

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The Helsinki summit meeting of heads of European states, (including Canada and the United States), nearly all of them from the developed nations, is now behind us.

A new series of international conferences to be held before the end of this year lie ahead, all of them bearing on the developing world rather than the developed one.

The Helsinki meeting left many of us with an unhappy and sinking feeling that the Russians won acceptance of European boundaries carved out of their wartime victories while still playing the game of military super-power.

The unease about the results of the next batch of summit meetings could be even greater.

The Helsinki summit on European security and co-operation was held by the more predictable old nations of the continent where the industrial revolution began and spread into the world in the shape of European colonial empires, British, French, Spanish, Portuguese, Italian and long ago Imperial German.

The scene now switches to the same parts of the world, many of them still disparate, suffering from the excesses of the disappeared colonial systems, now split into about 135 new states.

Detente and arms reduction is not their main purpose in holding major international meetings or wanting a special session of the United Nations this fall.

They want to talk about economic and political survival.

Yet curiously while old Europe cuts down on weapons for themselves in a time of mounting inflation, the continent's leading arms makers, Britain, France, West Germany and on this side the U.S., are piling up huge arms purchase agreements with poor Third Wolrd nations.

The upcoming international conferences are these. Later this month the foreign ministers of the non-aligned nations will meet in Lima, Peru. This will be followed by the special session of the UN General Assembly, only the seventh called in its 30 year-long history and in between the annual meetings of the World Bank.

These have been advanced three weeks on the insistence of (many of the oil-rich ones with new muscle, that the [illegible] Feast of Ramadan be honored as a holiday by the huge bank as are Jewish and Christian religious holidays.

Comparing these events to Helsinki, we realize that the latter event was concerned largely with the past, the world of NATO and of the Atlantic alliance where common defence purposes still exist.

To a great degree, Helsinki was also concerned with a threat we have lived with for a quarter century, our possible self-destruction by the nuclear arsenals we have built up.

The "balance of terror" appears to have been maintained. We have moved on to other things which can bring doomsday closer—population expansion, starvation, environmental deterioration.

The future conferences listed give us the same time-gap which we were permitted during the concern with nuclear proliferation.

How we all use it in the new concern to feed people, share resources equally, avoid social breakdown, will be gauged by how well the nations function in these new rounds of major summit-style meetings.

By the end of 1975, mid-point in a decade just about as unsettling and uneven as the last one, we will know if we have achieved or come closer to a new balance involved with humanity rather than weapons.

Service Mobility

Canada is a young counry and this is reflected in the comparative youthfulness of the top echelons in business and in the armed forces too. Indeed where the latter are concerned, youth and fitness are essential not only in the nature of the job itself, but from the standpoint of mobility and adaptability as well.

The serviceman becomes accustomed to moving home and being realistic about it. Still, we cannot help noticing the very human reaction of Maj.-Gen. K. E. Lewis to leaving CFB Trenton.

Appointed deputy-commander of the new armed forces Air Command, based in Winnipeg, Gen. Lewis has been in Trenton only a little over a year but says he enjoyed living there more than anywhere else and was sorry to leave.

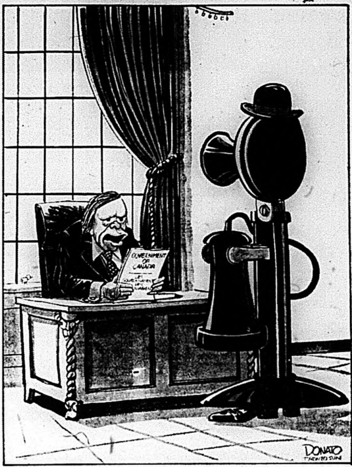
He should know, having made 19 major moves, including four tours of duty overeseas since joining he forces.

Gen. Lewis' transfer stems from administrative reorganization marking the end of Air Transport Command as such, and establishment of Air Command in Winnipeg. Component units of the command in Trenton under the new set up are a training facility and an air transport group under the command of Brig.-Gen. L. V. Johnson and Brig.-Gen. R. G. Husch respectively.

These men are a special breed of Canadian, handsome and military in bearing, as might be expected — many still in their forties, dependable men who are skilled at their jobs and show the flag in a variety of situations abroad, from disaster relief to servicing embassy needs in various capitals, as well as patrolling our far-flung coastline.

Indeed, the discipline that still obtains in the Canadian armed forces, demonstrated in various UN peacekeeping missions over the years, might be the envy of others.

A recent picture of a Dutch soldier showed how the men of that army are being permitted to move with the trends that have been the despair of many in recent years. Long hair and less discipline for instance. Apparently that is going to be the Dutch way from now on. It is not the kind of image our forces here project, and it is doubtful if it will ever be thus. The men who operate from Trenton and Canada's other armed forces bases are in the tradition of real military men — clean cut and disciplined. We can be proud of them.



'I'M SORRY MONSIEUR, BUT WE SEEM TO HAVE FILLED OUR QUOTA OF ANGLOPHONES'

They Missed the Dance

The letter is unsigned, but here is the gist of it, from a disappointed youngster who complains in neat handwriting about being refused admittance to a dance following the Cavalcade of Corps show recently.

It seems the dance was advertised and "the ticket was to entitle you to see the show along with entrance to the dance afterwards as advertised.

"Following the show my friends and I were looking forward to the dance, but when we arrived we were told by one of the many policemen that there was no admittance to the dance if under 18 years."

"We were led to believe that the dance was for anyone who attended the Cavalcade of Corps show. There was no mention of alcoholic beverages or age restriction to anyone."

So there it is, from one among "a lot of young people who were greatly disappointed."

No age is given, but maybe kids are well away from any function that has to be policed as extensively as this one evidently was. It is one of the anomalies of our time that an event that should be pleasurable, with more than just a hint of grace, decorum and good manners, is deemed safe, not to say presentable, only with the representatives of the law lurking in the shadows.

We don't hear all that much from the youngsters, on subjects such as this. If they have anything to say on recreation in Belleville, or the lack of it, let's hear from them.

Looking around, there are the playgrounds for the smaller youngsters, with their supervisors, and the swimming and park facilities at Zwick's Island. But there remain gaps and it would be interesting to know the thinking of the younger set in this regard. As it is, summer holidays are almost over, but it is the future we are concerned about.

The Liberals Could Blow It Again With Pique and Red-herring Issues

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Will the Liberals boot it again?

Over the past 32 years, sadly, the Liberal record is one of having run terrible election campaigns.

At various times in the nine elections since, they have started off reasonably close to the government but invariably they have dropped support sharply once the campaigns have begun.

This has been partly because they always have been faced with some form or other of Big Blue Machine.

But it has been just as much their own fault in that they have booted away votes.

In two elections, 1951 and 1963, they actually started out with an apparent chance of winning.

My recollection is that each time in the preliminary polls they were within a couple of points of the government.

But each time disaster struck.

In '51 Walter Thomson with his wild promises, sashaying through the country, within an incredibly short time had the gap widened to a dozen points, and it grew more from there.

In '63 John Wintermeyer was cursed by his charges about organized crime.

He had a good platform but he couldn't get it across.

The reporters with him wrote about practically anything he said on crime and little else.

And the leader didn't have sense enough to drop any mention of crime from his remarks.

He too took a nose-dive, though he managed to hang on to the 20 or so seats he had held in the last house.

Now we have Bob Nixon.

Will he make the same mistake?

There is just one ground for suspicion that he might.

This is that he says he is not going to be reluctant in dealing with the government's scandals and other sins.

He should be careful of those "scandals."

Long experience should tell him that apparently the Ontario public just doesn't buy them.

We have the Wintermeyer episode. Then back in the 1950s in his two elections against Leslie Frost, NDP Leader Donald MacDonald tried to make issues of scandals and got nowhere.

The public undoubtedly wants to see a more forceful Nixon than it did in 1971.

But when you get this force mixed up with wrong-doing there is a fine line between pleasing and offending.

U.S. Legislation Promotes The Ideal of Free Trade

WASHINGTON (CP) — President Harry Truman once remarked in a fit of pique that if you placed all the world's economists end to end, they would point in all directions.

And nowhere has his contention been more clearly illustrated than in the arguments which have gone on during most of this century over the pros and cons of free trade.

But in the U.S., an economic giant capable of competing in any world market, the economists can happily conclude that unrestrained international commerce is as desirable as apple pie and motherhood.

Now, under a new trade law signed early this year, an avenue has been opened to bring pressure on the White House to see nothing gets in the way of the free trade doctrine.

The Act contains a key section which allows a recognized business, industrial or agricultural organization which feels it is being hurt by foreign trade barriers to demand an investigation by the administration's office of the special trade representative. The office must act.

If the investigators find that the controls in question are illegal or, simply fit the nebulous description of unfair, they can recommend virtually any form of economic reprisals to the president. The office also can initiate investigations on its own.

Already, three requests for reviews of foreign trade barriers are being acted upon by the trade representative's office and sources say dozens more are pending.

One of these was a demand by the United Egg Producers, a large U.S. lobby, and the Federation of Farm Bureaus for an investigation of quotas on foreign—mainly U.S.—eggs imposed by Canada last month.

Other countries, which have to negotiate the reduction of barriers with the U.S., find the automatic clause in the new act a hindrance because it places a kind of timetable guillotine over such talks which usually are long and arduous

Another example of the sweeping nature of the Trade Act is the fact that under it, the special trade representative is not bound by findings of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

In the case of the Canadian egg import quotas, for example, the U.S. has asked for a ruling by GATT. But even if the international body finds them to be legal, the U.S. agency may disagree or may determine they are unfair and go ahead with recommending reprisals to Ford.

The U.S. often has used economic retaliation against foreign countries in the past, but the difference in the policy which now seems to be emerging is mainly one of tone.

Said one administration official: "We've become determined to fight and fight hard against trade barriers wherever they're raised and affect us. We've been too lenient for too long and we're determind to stop it. The Trade Act is going to go a long way in making this possible and we're ready to use it to the limit."

Alger Hiss Is Reinstated

Christian Science Monitor

The reinstating of Alger Hiss to the Massachusetts Bar is a step toward closing one more chapter in this country's cold-war period and the divisive ill will it engendered. Justice has been tempered with mercy in a case that also points up recent progress in making government more accountable and accessible.

Under the recently amended Freedom of Information Act Mr. Hiss has obtained copies of the famous "pumpkin papers" used to implicate him, and his supporters now are pressing for more government - held documents which they hope will provide vindication. Such action by a convicted criminal would not have been possible in those earlier years of wrenching national debate.

Twenty-five years after his imprisonment for perjury in connection with charges that he provided U.S. intelligence information to a communist spy, Mr. Hiss maintains his innocence. The Massachusetts court noted the former State Department official's exemplary behavior, but wisely refrained from either considering his earlier conviction or requiring an admission of guilt.

"Such a harsh, unforgiving position is foreign to our system of reasonable, merciful justice," the court said. "Simple fairness and fundamental justice demand that the person who believes he is innocent though convicted should not be required to confess to a criminal act he honestly believes he did not commit."

A Good Year in Canada for Wheat But Global Situation Is Discouraging

By KEN POLE

OTTAWA (CP) — The general outlook for grain yields this year is average at best, but the Canadian wheat board is confident there will be enough to meet domestic and traditional export market demands.

The main weakness may lie in being unable to fill any large unexpected orders.

Poor weather in the current crop year, following on the heels of similar conditions in 1974-75, means that the most important crop—wheat—will have about the same total yield as last year despite higher acreages. A maximum of about 625 million bushels, strictly average, is expected in this autumn's harvest.

While the situation may be hopeful from a Canadian marketing viewpoint, it is anything but heartening from a global aspect.

World stocks of wheat are not expected to improve much, if any, over their 1974-75 level of 48 million metric tons. A metric ton is the international grain unit and represents about 26.75 bushels. The 1973-74 reserve was 57.5 million metric tons.

A report released recently by the London-based International Wheat Council and another, issued Wednesday by the agriculture department, indicate that total world production seems likely to be between 355 and 370 million metric tons this year, three to four per cent higher than last year's 348 million.

This is below original forecasts for 1975-76 and should mean world prices will remain steady, both reports suggest.

The main yield increase should be in the United States, where a record crop of 2.14 billion tons is expected, compared with 1.79 million in 1974-75.

Chinese wheat production this year is estimated at about 30 million tons, up two million from last year.

Elsewhere, the picture ranges from gloomy to downright disastrous.

The European Economic Community (EEC) expects 40 to 41 million tons, down from 45.3 million last year. Drought conditions in the Middle East and northern Africa have produced smaller-than-expected crops and the same is true for parts of Australia, where the total wheat crop is forecast at between 1.5 and three million tons less than the 1974-75 harvest of 11.5 million.

In the Soviet Union, Canada's largest traditional customer, a three-month drought in the union's richest farmlands, the lower Volga region, has chopped wheat yields to less than a half a metric ton an acre.

The wheat council says that although official figures are unavailable, the total Soviet wheat crop is projected at 85 to 90 million tons, down from the original forecast of 95 to 100 million. The 1974-75 crop was 83.4 million tons.

An indication of the Soviet Union's crop situation is its purchases from Canada, the United States and Australia in recent months.

The latest Canadian sale, announced Wednesday by the Winnipeg-based wheat board, was 28 million bushels of utility wheat and 3.3 million bushels of high-grade wheat and 37.3 million bushels of durum wheat.

Gerry Vogel, chief commissioner of the Canadian wheat board, the sole foreign marketing agency, said Wednesday in an interview that Canadian prospects are good in 1975-76.

"It has to be a good year; there's obviously going to be a demand for all we can produce."

This, coupled with the stable price situation arising from world conditions, bodes well for the Canadian producer. But, because the Canadian harvest is expected to be only about average, the benefits will be restricted.

Mr. Vogel said the latest sale to the Soviet Union "virtually used up all we had left from last year's crop," so the flexibility of the Canadian supply system is limited as far as low grade grains are concerned.

The reserve of other grades is fair, but this still leaves Canada a limited amount of manoeuvering room on the international market.

Street Meet Entries Exceed Club Estimate

SALMON POINT — On Sunday, the final day of the first Prince Edward Auto Club Street Meet, club officials termed the event so successful, they are planning to have the street meet, again next year

"We originally expected to draw about 20 entrants but so far we have five times as many," said Bruce Allen, chairman of the event.

"It has just been great. We've had fantastic weather, and fantastic crowds," said Mr. Allen.

Mr. Allen said the club received entries from Ottawa, Windsor, Montreal and as far away as Sarnia and Georgian Bay.

First day of the event, Friday, was registration day followed by a "get acquainted party" said Mr. Allen.

The following day included a small road tour of about 40 cars.

Mr. Allen said this event had to be shortened because some of the roads on the route were just gravelled and "you don't want to take your car down those roads, and risk a paint job."

Part of the competitions started on Saturday. The test was known as the Street Sweep Contest, and the tug of war contest.

The contestants, two per car, had to push a beach ball around a course with a broom. The fastest competitor won.

Later that same day, another banquet was held followed with a dance at the Hayloft.

On Sunday, Mr. Allen reported more entrants registering: the swap meet continued; and three more competitions were held, the tire changing contest, the spark-plug changing contest, and the blind driving test. Each event was based on time.

As part of the opening ceremonies Saturday MPP Jim Taylor, and Mayor of Picton, on King, were there.

One of the competitors who travelled from Berweck, Ont., (about 30 miles west of Cornwall) to take part, was Jack Courville.

Mr. Courville drove a 1972 Chevrolet Van which he called Van On The Run.

The van is completely carpeted, with stereo, and bench seats along the side.

"The inside of the van took six to eight months to build with help from my friends. And the outside paint job took seven weeks," said Mr. Courville.

Another competitor who said he has been going to meets for a number of years, said this meet was one the best ones he has attended.

Fred Babineck of Kitchener said the hospitality has been really good.

"The attitude towards outsiders is quite different than elsewhere," said Mr. Babneck.

Mr. Babnecks's car was a 1969 Camaro which he said he races.

"You ask about miles per gallon: you whould say gallons per miles."

Before the three-day event closed Sunday, meet officials report there were over 100 entrants and more than 500 spectators.

"We definitely will be planning a meet next year," said Mr. Jim Benvie, president of the Prince Edward Auto Club.

Placement Officer Doubles Student Jobs

PICTON — For the first time in Prince Edward County this summer there was a student whose job was to find jobs for other students.

In May, Marg Silver was hired as Student Assistant Placement Officer for the county of Prince Edward, through the Canada Manpower Centre.

"I think it has been a successful summer," said Miss Silver.

Comparing the jobs placement figures from last year to this, more than 200 jobs were filled this summer by students than last year, Miss Silver reported.

"At the end of July of last year, there were 42 placements; 168 registrations; and 23 referrals. This summer within the same three months, there were 245 placements; 505 registrations; and 199 referrals," reports the Queen's University student.

Miss Silver said she feels the difference was "due to the office having a student placement officer for the first time. "I'm the first in the entire county."

One of the programs Miss Silver started this summer was the Rent-a-Kid program.

"It was a considerable success."

Students did casual jobs like raking leaves, cleaning garages, and baby sitting, said the former Toronto resident.

Before the high schools were out, Miss Silver said the Manpower centre ran a counselling program, with co-operation of the school.

One aspect Miss Silver said she stressed was the encouragement of the students to get "in contact with employers and don't just wait for the phone call."

A resident of Picton for the last four years, Miss Silver said she is returning to Queen's in the honors history program.

Student Assistant

The first student placement officer for the Canada Manpower Centre in Prince Edward County, Marg Silver said the summer was a success. Miss Silver reported that for the first three-month period of the summer, the number of job placements was up sharply from the same period last year. "I think this is due to the office having a student placement officer," said Miss Silver.

Van on the Run

More than six-months work modifying the interior of his van netted Jack Corurville of Berweck two trophies at the Prince Edward County Auto Club Street Meet this weekend. Van on the Run, which took seven weeks to paint, won Mr. Corurville the main trophy of the three-day competition, the people's choice trophy and the trophy for best latest model.

Decline in Canal Use Noted by Lockmaster

TRENTON — Boat traffic through Trenton Lock Number 1 on the Trent-Severn Waterways has dropped nearly nine per cent, show records kept by veteran lockmaster Jim Howard.

Mr. Howard reports so far this year 1,235 water craft have passed his station compared to 1,350 in the same period in 1974.

He attributes the reduction on decisions of the federal government to add 10 cents tax on a gallon of gasoline and charge boaters for using the 240-miles long inland canal system.

The fall-off in enthusiasts using the facilities started when the price of $3 a day for a permit was implemented, Mr. Howard said.

Tourists with larger size craft apparently are actually on the increase and a majority of them accept the hike in the gas tax and the new expense of the $4 a day permit charged for watercraft over 18-feet long, he said.

The lockmaster received only one complaint so far this year. A yachtsman from the United States referred to the permit cost as "rip-off", Mr. Howard said.

Base Tent City Folds For Another Summer

TRENTON — Tent City at CFB Trenton, occupied by air cadets from centres all across Ontario for the last eight weeks, is closed for another year.

Friday Col. R.M. Edwards, AFC, CD, deputy chief of staff of operations CFB Trenton, officiated at the final inspection of camp personnel and pinned wings on 47 graduates of the glider course including Susan Horvath of Toronto, the only female cadet accepted for flights training out of CFB Mountain View.

During the period the camp was operated this year some 1,600 air cadets received basic and advanced instruction in various facets of military procedures.

The camp commander for TACC-75 this year was Lt.-Col. Robert R. Massier, CD.

Knights Get New Home

TRENTON Archbishop J. L. Wilhelm of the Kingston Diocese cut the ribbon to officially open the Trenton Knights of Columbus' new $240,000 building at 57 Stella Crescent Saturday.

Taking part in the ceremony were Monsignor W. Lynette, Grand Knight Jim Clements, deputy mayor of Trenton George Greer, Knights of Columbus State Advocate John Rodino and Trenton Knights of Columbus Club president Rex Hunter.

A dinner and dance that followed was attended by more than 250 couples.

Construction of the lodge's permanent headquarters and meeting place was started early in the spring.

TRENTON — The prize for the largest pickerel caught in the recent Central Bridge company's fifth annual fish derby and family outing went to Garry Foshay of Trenton with a three pound, nine ounce entry.

Other derby winners, all from Trenton, were Vince Strone (largest pike); Jim Thompson (largest bass and miscellaneous fish) and the partnership of Tommy Auger and Bobby Vieau (most pickerel — six).

Two Hurt In Crash

BRIGHTON — A highway traffic accident on the east limits of the village Saturday, sent two teen-agers from the Cobourg area to hospitals in Trenton and Kingston.

Brighton OPP reported a van the youths were riding in went out of control, left No. 2 Highway and crashed into a tree. The vehicle was listed as a "write-off" by police.

The driver, Kim Linton, 19, of RR 1 Baltimore, who received cuts on his jaw and over one eye, was treated at the Trenton Memorial Hospital and later released.

His passenger, Terry Irwin, 19, of Cobourg suffered head injuries and was taken to the Kingston General Hospital.

Diane Honeyman's backyard is an oasis of flowers, fruit trees and vegetable all summer long, a result of her devotion to the garden. Mrs. Honeyman enjoys working in her kitchen too, and likes to make this cold dish during hot weather, a recipe she's translated from her native Latvian.

Latvian Fish with Sauce

one large can of tomatoes
½ cup finely shredded carrots
¼ cup finely chopped celery one medium onion, chopped finely one tbsp. finely chopped parsley pepper, salt, sugar, bay leaf vinegar, beef consomme
one lb. fish (sole, pike, pickerel) boned

To make the sauce, drain the tomatoes and then pass them through a strainer, fine enough to hold back the seeds.

Simmer the carrots, onions and celery in a little oil, then add the strained tomatoes with a bay leaf, and enough consomme to make up two cups of sauce. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, and continue to simmer until the vegetables are tender.

Now add sugar and vinegar to taste, and then add the parsley.

Cut the boned fish into serving-sized pieces, and roll in a little flour, salt and pepper. Fry in hot oil till browned.

Place fish in a casserole dish and cover with the hot sauce. Cover the dish and allow to cool, then place in the refrigerator for 12 hours before serving.

Serve chilled as an appetizer, or with a salad plate.

4-H Clubs Display Results At Annual Achievement Day

Displaying the fruits of their labor at the Quinte Exhibition Grounds, members of Hastings County 4-H Homemaking Clubs met Saturday for an Achievement Day.

During the morning program, arrangements of flowers and vegetables were on view, the result of summer gardening projects undertaken by the clubs. Accompanying the exhibits were files and booklets kept by club members during the past weeks.

In the afternoon, 4-H and Women's Institute members were entertained by presentations from various groups.

Demonstrations of flower arranging were given by girls from Chapman, Madoc, Quinte and Bay of Quinte clubs. Members of Stirling, Sidney South and Cooper-Remington and Eldorado clubs showed how to choose and prepare vegetables for an exhibit. Topics such as landscaping, planning flower beds and vegetable plots, and improving home surroundings were covered by Crookston, Ivanhoe, Plainfield, Bethel Zion and Marmora groups.

Special awards were given to the following 4-H members: provincial honors to Judy Fleming, Lorna Gunning, Wendy Aylesworth and Joanne Easthope; county honors to Miriam Chard, Shellie Fleming, Marylea Harry, Denise Morgan, Pam May, Julie Simpson, Heather Sine, Carol Reynolds and Shirley Brooks.

Home economists Lois Ferguson of Kingston and Christine Dukelow of Lindsay gave their comments on the show prior to the presentation of achievement certificates and 4-H spoons by county home economist Kate Ann Follwell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ferguson

Ferguson — Grant

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was the setting for the summer wedding of Heather Adele Grant, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Donald Grant, of RR 4, Stirling, and Robert Lloyd Ferguson, son of Dorothy Ferguson of RR 5, Trenton, and the late John Ferguson.

Rev. John A. May performed the service.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore an A-line gown of bridal satin with a full train. The rounded neckline and empire waist were trimmed with imported Swiss organza and rose appliques. Tiny white pearl buttons closed the deep-cuffed full sleeves and also the back of the dress.

Her veil was a double full-length illusion tulle with a short shoulder-length layer to frame her face. She also wore a double strand of cultured pearls and earrings worn by her mother on her own wedding day. She carried an arrangement of red American Beauty roses.

The matron of honor, Sandra Christopher wore an empire-line gown of azure blue floral border print organza, with white scalloped edges on the hem of the dress and capelet sleeves.

Bridesmaids were Sharon Bower, Maureen Grant and Jane Reid. They wore similarly-styled dresses in shades of mint green, pastel pink and maize yellow of flowered border print organza with white-scalloped edges.

The groom's brother-in-law, Grant Reid was the best man and the ushers were Jerry Bower, Steven Christopher and Peter Grant.

The wedding supper took place at St. Paul's United Church hall. The couple is honeymooning in the Maritimes and upon their return will reside at Pine Hill Cres., in Stirling.

GRAZIANO REUNION

The Graziano family picnic was held on Saturday, August 9, at Crystal Beach, Madoc Tent and Trailer Park.

Over 100 persons attended, coming from Hamilton, Toronto, Trenton and Consecon.

Swimming, ball games, a haywagon ride, corn roast and dancing in the evening made it an enjoyable day for all.

TWEED TEA

A patio tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff McCaw of Tweed on Saturday, was successful in raising $371 towards the cost of taking a number of special care residents in the area on a bus trip to Bowmanville Zoo and Oshawa Shopping Centre.

The event was organized by Myrtle McCaw, Violet Lucas and Viola Park, assisted by a number of interested people who donated articles for the tables of knitted goods and home baking.

Several people paid to have their fortune told by Verna Stewart.

Two draws were made, a quilt being won by Jack Adams of Havelock and an afghan going to Keith Thompkins of Marmora.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Gregg wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Maureen Janice to Albert Miller, son of Mr. Ken Miller and the late Phyllis Miller, Belleville. The wedding will take place September 6, at Westdale Park Free Methodist Church, Napanee, at 5:00 p.m.

SHARON MAGEE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon Magee, graduated from the Nightingale School of Nursing in Toronto recently. A former student at Moira Secondary School, Sharon has accepted a position at Toronto Western Hospital.

Ann Landers

Does Permissiveness Cause Impotence?

Dear Ann Landers: I was interested in your statement that health departments of colleges report many young men complain of impotency.

I'm a man of 75. Although I heard of no such complaint when I went to college, I had an experience that may explain the plight of young men today.

Like many other youths my age, I often tried to seduce (not rape) the young ladies I took out. I seldom succeeded, but I had no trouble performing when the girl was willing. One young lady, however, surprised me by letting me know she expected the evening to end with sexual intercourse. This made me think how humiliating it would be if I were unable to perform. The thought became a fear, and the fear became a self-fulfilling prophecy.

Impotency is almost always psychologically based. I believe the sexual permissiveness of some college girls has brought on this impotence which is worrying so many young men today. What do you think?—Experienced

Dear Ex: I think you could be right. The male who is the aggressor stands a better chance of hacking it.

Dear Ann Landers: May I say a word to the woman who isn't sure it's in good taste to wear her Phi Beta Kappa key?

Put it on your charm bracelet, honey, along with all the other trinkets. When I earned my key in 1929, I wouldn't have been caught dead wearing it. In fact, I didn't even bother to buy one.

When I married, however, my husband bought me one as a gift and had it put on a chain bracelet.

Shortly after I began to wear my key I encountered a U.S. Senator's wife who was parading a Phi Beta Kappa key of obscene proportions. She confessed (when she caught me staring in astonishment, no doubt) that her key was a gift from Chief Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. He didn't believe she had earned it until he checked Vassar.

So, Ann, if you have it, flaunt it! And the same goes for other females. Brainy women have suddenly come into vogue.—Out Of Hiding.

Dear Out: Sorry, I don't have it to flaunt. I went to Morningside College and they didn't have a chapter. Moreover, if they had had one I'm not sure I would have made it.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister is getting married in the fall and she and her fiance have decided they don't want children at the wedding or the reception. They specified, "No one under 16 years of age."

This is causing a major hassle with two of my aunts who have children between nine and 13. These aunts say they will not come to the wedding unless their children are welcome.

My sister says she has attended too many weddings and receptions which were ruined by children. She vowed it would never happen to her. Incidentally, my sister and her fiance are helping Mom pay for the wedding. Dad died four years ago.

What is your opinion?—Trying To Referee

Dear Ref: This day belongs to the bride and groom. Their wishes should be respected—no matter who gets mad.

HALIFAX (CP) — Laurie Cadegan enjoys her summer-time job as a groundskeeper with the city of Halifax parks and grounds department even though it has some unusual aspects. The 19-year-old College of Cape Breton student was unable to find work in her hometown of Glace Bay, N.S., and didn't mind taking the outdoor job in Halifax. She trims the lawns and keeps grounds neat at a number of cemeteries administered by the parks department.

Princess Anne Receives Obscene Phone Calls

LONDON (Reuter) — A man has been making obscene telephone calls to the secret home telephone number of Princess Anne, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said Sunday.

Staff at the home usually answered the phone and it was extremely unlikely the princess had received any of the calls, the spokesman said.

A change in Princess Anne's unlisted number did not stop the caller.

The caller first began telephoning her home about two weeks ago, so the phone number—available only to a select few—was changed. But after a halt of only a couple of days the calls resumed, the spokesman said.

British Police Arrest 100 In First Soccer Game

LONDON (Reuter) — Police said Sunday that they made more than 100 arrests because of hooligan violence which marred the opening of the British soccer season Saturday.

Worst hit was the city of Wolverhampton, which was host to Manchester United. Eighty-six fans were arrested, but were later freed on bail pending court appearances in September and October.

Eleven fans will appear in court in Nottingham today on charges arising out of clashes between supporters of Nottingham Forest and Plymouth Argyle in which about 20 persons were slightly hurt.

A 23-year-old man was operated on by Birmingham surgeons for a throat wound suffered a clash between Leicester City and Birmingham supporters. He [illegible] in satisfactory condition Sunday.

State Resource Board Fines Chrysler $328,200

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The California Air Resources Board (ARB) says it is ordering a halt to the sale of about 1,000 Chrysler Corp. cars with 440-cubic-inch engines and levying a $328,200 fine for smog-control violations.

The three-member board's executive officer, William Simmons, said Saturday it turned down an offer by Chrysler negotiators to send 18 expert mechanics to California "to fix all the cars they could get their hands on."

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, MONDAY, AUGUST 18, 1975

Macs Settle for One Victory

Two More One-run Setbacks

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Somehow things just never change for the Belleville McDonalds, as they had another disappointing weekend here.

The Macs won one of their four scheduled Ontario Fastball League matches with London and Toronto.

On Saturday night at the Alemite the Belleville club lost the first game 3-0, then bounced back to take the second match 5-3. On Sunday Toronto was victorious 2-1 and 3-2, making it 17 times the Macs have lost by one run.

In the second game of the doubleheader with Toronto the Belleville team readily admitted they should have won.

"I've never seen us play worse defensive ball two games in a row," said general manager Doug Adams.

"Just when we start hitting the rest of our game falls apart," he added.

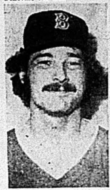
The Macs jumped off to a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the second inning when Terry Meagher scored on a Toronto error. Meagher had singled to get on base.

Ivar Jaunzems turned out to be the Belleville nemesis, as he smashed a double in the third and came in on Mike Thompson's triple to tie things up.

Jaunzems homered in the fifth to score another Toronto run. They chalked up another run in the sixth.

It was then that the Belleville hitting came alive, for awhile, as Ted Waite tripled in the bottom of the seventh.

He came in on Glenn Carleton's long fly ball to centre field. That was it however, as Belleville lost 3-2.



GLENN CARLETON

Waite was saddled with the loss. He gave up six hits and no walks. He overpowered 12 batters for third strikes.

The winner was Toronto ace Reg Martin. He had no strikeouts, while giving up eight hits and walking none.

Other Belleville safeties came from Steve Ling, Larry Mavety, Gary Goyer, all with singles. Carleton and Meagher each had two singles.

In the first game of that twin bill, Toronto scored first, in the first inning. Belleville tied it up in the bottom of the second. A controversial umpire's call kept Belleville from going ahead, as Paul Goodfellow was called out sliding home.

A McDonald error in the eighth inning made a Toronto run possible and finished the game at 2-1.

Scott Reid ended up the losing pitcher. He gave up eight hits and four walks. He struck out four batters.

Rubber armed Reg Martin was the winner. He allowed just three hits, he walked one and struck out five.

Belleville hits came from the bats of Mavety, Peter Harrison, and Goodfellow. Goodfellow's hit was a double, the other two were singles.

The Macs had Doug Dafoe on base in the eighth but couldn't bring him around to score.

Against London Belleville did a little better, but not in the first game, as they lost 3-0.

Metro Szeryk pitched very well for London in the win. He struck out 12 batters while allowing just one hit and a walk.

Scott Reid lost the game, though he also pitched well. He was touched for seven hits, he had two strikeouts.

The only Belleville hit was a single by Carleton in the first inning.

Don Dominas probably wished he never played the Belleville McDonalds. He lost 5-3 to them in the closing game of the twinbill.

So far this year the Macs have beat him twice and he needed relief help in the win he threw.

His team jumped into a 5-0 lead, before the Dukes battled back for three runs.

Carleton's second homer of the year clinched things for Belleville, as the team was buoyed enough to stop the London charge.

The winner was Jim Chase, with his third victory of the year. He was relieved by Ted Waite.

Chase gave up five hits and two walks. He set one batter down on third strikes. Waite allowed two hits, while striking out one.

Dominas gave up no less than seven hits and two walks. He came up with five strikeouts.

Leading the way at bat for Belleville was Carleton, with two hits, including his blast over the centre field fence. Terry Meagher singled twice for Belleville, while other one baggers were contributed by Mavety with two, Paul Goodfellow, Frank Robinson and Pete Harrison.

That gives Belleville eight wins for the year. They have lost more than a team of their calibre should.

On Thursday night the Macs are in Newmarket for two games, the fences are short and home runs are plentiful there. However, that will be no excuse for the local team to lose. If everyone is there, and that's the way it should be, then a split is not too much to ask.

Zdravko Fundic of the Belleville Olympics, as well as being a top goal scorer in the Premier Soccer League, also does his part on defence. Here he is about to block a shot by a Toronto Ferma player in Saturday's game at Sir James Whitney School. Fundic scored the only Belleville goal as the Olympics tied Ferma 1-1.

ZDRAUKO FUNDIC

Fundic Salvages a Tie

The Belleville Olympics came up with a 1-1 tie with Toronto Ferma in Premier Soccer League action, Saturday. The game was played before a large crowd of spectators at Sir James Whitney School.

The game was a close one all the way, with neither team showing a real edge in play at any time. Both teams came up with good solid, two way efforts, with the respective defences outstanding.

The first half went scoreless, with the goaltenders on both sides turning aside some close calls.

Toronto opened the scoring, late in the second half, with a good passing play that resulted in a hard direct shot that eluded Belleville netminder Gary Donavon.

About five minutes later, Zdravko Fundic equalled the score, heading in a shot that seemed to float over the Ferma goalie. The Toronto goaltender apparently thought the ball would go over the net, and made no effort to stop the header.

The Olympics had several other good chances in the dying minutes, including shots by Kevin Kirby and Charlie Nesterovski, who missed an open net, but failed to put away the winner.

The Olympics are idle in league play now until September 7, when they take on Kingston Italo Canadians, in the Limestone City.

DRIVES TO VICTORY

WEST ALLIS, Wis. (AP) — Veteran Mike Mosley took the lead on the 53rd lap, shook off two advances by pole sitter Johnny Rutherford, and cruised to victory Sunday in the 200-mile Tony Bettenhausen auto race at State Fair Park. Gordon Johncock was second, Tom Sneva third, Wally Dallenbach fourth and Steve Krisiloff fifth.

Foxboro Merchants Are on the Move

Foxboro Merchants withstood a late Shannonville rally to post a 10-8 South Hastings Baseball League playoff win, Saturday and take the quarter-final series in three srtaight games.

Merchants now await the winner of the Melrose-Canniffton series which is led 2-1 by Melrose with one game tied. Melrose jumped in front Sunday with a 3-1 victory.

Foxboro had a 10-1 lead early in their match with Shannonville but the visitors wouldn't quit and before it was over made it very close.

Ron McTaggart and John Masterson split the pitching chore for the winners while Bill Barberstock, Jan Morris and Glen Barberstock looked after the loser's hurling.

Dale Tummon and Masterson each belted a double and a single for the Merchants while Bill Arthurs and Rob DeJong supplied a pair of singles each.

Barry Brant led Shannonville with a double and two singles. Jason Morris and Wayne Sager managed two singles each and Blaine Loft had a triple.

Ted Abrams picked up the win for Melrose as the winners counted twice in the first inning and after Canniflon made it close with a single counter in the fifth, the home side notched an insurance run in the bottom of the sixth.

Abrams twirled a four-hitter. He struck out five and walked only one.

Charged with the loss was Larry Adams who allowed 12 hits, faned two and walked one.

Rick Meagher, Terry Pascoe and Bruce Pascoe each had two singles for the winners.

Ontario Crews Clean Up

Crews from Ontario wrapped up the first three placings in the Eastern Canada Junior Regatta, held on Saturday and Sunday at the CFB Trenton Yacht Club. The races were sailed just off Baker's Island, in the Bay of Quinte.

Andy Cumming and Arnie Maki, sailing out of the National Yacht Club, of Toronto, took the top prize, winning three of the seven races over the two days. They also had two thirds, a fifth, and an 11th place finish, to total only 21.4 penalty points, 6.9 better than the second place crew.

In second place was the team of Frank McLaughlin and John Millen, of Toronto's Royal Canadian Yacht Club, the pair did not win a race out of the seven, but were no worse than seventh in any of them, to accumulate 28.3 points. They had three seconds and two thirs, along with a fourth.

Sailing out of the Fanshawe Yacht Club of London, Doug McEwan and Grant Dietrich combined to give Ontario the top three sweep, finishing with 29.1 points, 16 better than the fourth place crew. The McEwan boat managed to win the last of the seven races, with a ninth their worst placing.

The races were held in Olympic fashion, with points accumulated on the basis of how far behind the leader a boat is. No points are picked up for a win, while for an 11th place finish, 17 were tallied against.

At the end of the seven races, only the best six are taken into consideration for point totals, with the worst of the seven drpoped.

It was a very cleanly contested regatta, with no protests lodged in any of the races. With the extensive lists of rules, many protests are usually the case, with long periods of sorting-out time most always holding up official results.

A total of 11 boats were entered from Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, and Prince Edward Island, with Newfoundland the only eastern province not represented. The Junior Regatta is broken into two parts, with no meeting of the east and west in this division.

Tadpole Baseball Final Shapes Up as Tight Fit

The final series in the Belleville Minor Baseball Association Tadpole section is only a game old but it is shaping up as a keen one.

In the opener, Trudeau Motors shaded Belleville Conductors 17-16 as Valdy Rossit and Jimmy Wright combined for the pitching win. Jimmy Crouchman and Rod Murray toiled for Conductors.

Second game in the best-of-three final is scheduled for Monday.

Wright and Rossit said it with more than their pitching. Each supplied a homer and two doubles to their team's attack. Tony Nelson also homered and Gallagher stroked three singles. Tops for Conductors were; Glen Papper with a homer and two singles; Chris Bonner, a triple and a single, and Mike Pynappels, three singles.

The Conductors put Legion House Dart League on the sidelines 20-11 to reach the final while Trudeau Motors got by Kinsmen 13-12.

At the Tyke level, A and B Precast has captured the Thurlow section title, topping Bob Sullivan Auctioneer by scores of 13-7 and 17-9.

Brian Beer took the 13-7 win with Jeff Woodward on the losing end. Carl Vance slammed a triple for the winners. Todd Woodward doubled in defeat.

In the deciding match, Carl Vance picked up the win. Pitching for the Auctioneers were Randy Hill and Jeff Woodward. Beer and Shawn Doyle each belted a homer for Precast. Donald Wellman and John White followed suit for the losers.

Other Tyke games saw Belleville Broadloom top Alhambra 109 9-6 and Cablevue blank Kinsmen 17-0.

Broadloom pitching was handled by David Shank and Todd Goyer. Robin Bunnett blasted a homer and double for the winners while Steven Goyer and Mike Wood also hit safely, twice each. Ronny Strathern belted a circuit smash for Alhambra and John Gosson collected three singles.

Brad Gray threw shutout ball for Cablevue. And he also cracked a home run as did teammate Jim Cook. Mark Stapley had two singles for Kingsmen.

Playoffs are also under way at the Peewee level where Cablevue opened with a 13-1 defeat of Mel Barriage. Robby Revoy was the winning pitcher. Ken Donaldson and Lyle Kelleher shared the Barriage pitching.

Bill Harvey collected two doubles for the winners who also got two safeties each from Trevor Powell and Brad Gray. Kelleher homered and doubled in defeat.

Dick Ellis shaded Bob's Sports 10-9 behind the pitching of Al Thompkins and Steve Goulah. Steve Hay and Peter Goulah split the pitching chore for Bob's.

Scott Woodall helped himself to three singles and Danny McGrath had two for the winners. Peter Goulah homered and doubled. Larry Mavety cracked two doubles and Brian Cleaver poked a double and two singles for the losers.

It was all H and M Variety in a romp over Bob's Sports. Final score was 21-7. Al Carlington, Kevin Jones and Danny Manning pitched for the Variety crew. Four pitchers, Peter Goulah, Larry Mavety, Brian Cleaver and Steven Hay saw action for Bob's.

Carlington's bat was alive. He came through with a triple, double and single. John Ricketts had three singles. For Bob's, Cleaver's homer and a triple by Jay Bochnek were the big hits.

BAKER WINS

TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP) — Buddy Baker edged Richard Petty by three feet for victory in Sunday's Talladega 500 stock car race, in which veteran Tiny Lund was killed. Lund, 43, was fatally injured when his car was involved in a six-car collision minutes after the start of the $156,000 race. Four other drivers suffered minor injuries in a series of crashes that damaged 11 autos in the 50-car field.

Stormy Series Even

What has turned into a stormy Easten Ontario Baseball Association Midget playoff between Port Hope and Belleville Yardmen continued Sunday at Centennial Park here when plate umpire Ron Lucas called the second game of the series after six innings with the home side leading 11-1.

The best of three series is tied at 1-1 and it is expected the deciding match will be played tonight with the site yet to be decided. Officials of the Belleville team were making efforts to have the third game played on neutral grounds.

Peter Hall went six innings to pick up the Sunday [illegible] He threw four-hit ball while striking out four and walking two.

Port Hope starter Ken Swales lasted four innings before he was given the heave-ho by the umpires. He gave up seven runs off the bulk of 15 Belleville hits while fanning five and walking two. Vic Andrus finished up, touched for four runs in two innings. He struck out two and walked one.

Bill Whalen slammed a triple and two singles to lead the Yardmen. Mike Bulke tripled and singled and Terry Pascoe had three singles. Ken Revoy checked in with two singles.

Tops for the lsoers was Chris Bullen with a triple.

Hamilton Skipper Home in Front

A Hamilton boat, skippered by Ken Burley, won the Class L title in the annual Around the Country Race, held Saturday.

The Hamilton crew pulled into Belleville harbor from Presqu'ile at 6.44 Sunday morning, to take the Elwood G. Wickerson Trophy. In second place was Pat Calnan, of Port Hope, arriving at 7.04. Wes Powles of Kingston finished third, another 44 minutes back.

The best local entry came from Dick Bird, a former commodore at the Bay of Quinte Yacht Club. His boat, Mai Tai, crossed the line at 8.12, Sunday morning.

In Class II, a Belleville entry, skippered by Rod Folwell, was the first to finish, sailing in at 12.58. He won the Craig Trophy for the win.

Regyna Armonas Shares in Boost

From The Ottawa Bureau
Of The Intelligencer

OTTAWA — Volleyball player Regyna Armonas of Belleville is one of 242 student athletes aparticipating in Olympic sports who have received a federal grant-in-aid, Health and Welfare Minister Marc Lalonde has announced.

All 242 are "carded" athletes, a designation given under Game Plan '76 to those who are potential Canadian competitors in the Olympics at Montreal, Que., next July.

Value of each award depends on the athlete's academic level. University students receive 1,800 compared to $1,200 for those in community colleges and $600 for those in high school.

In addition, an allowance is available for individual training needs upon approval of the national sports governing body involved and Game Plan officials.

An extra $600 is automatically provided to all "carded" athletes who live away from home or are married.

Bantam Opener To Belleville

NORTH BENDALE (Special) The Belleville Downtown Merchants took the first game of the best of three Ontario Amateur Softball Association Bantam A playoffs here Saturday, edging North Bendale 4-3.

Tim Soule went the distance for the winners on the mound, striking out seven and walking one. He gave up eight hits in the nine inning contest. Barry Holt gave up only six hits in taking the loss, fanning five and issuing two free tickets.

Don Turner had a home run and single to account for two RBI's, with Doug Campbell stroking a triple. Bob Hedge had two singles and Ward Morrison a base hit to round out Belleville's hitting.

Paul Glasgow had four singles for the North Bendale crew, with Paul Merger rapping a double.

The second game of the series will go in Belleville, Saturday.

In the other OASA contests sheduled for Belleville Saturday, it seemed to be the same story, as a pair of Ottawa area teams failed to show for squirt and peewee games.

The Kinsmen squirts after winning the first game in Ottawa last week, by a 17-4 score, won the series by default, and now may have to wait until mid-September to begin their next series.

The SACO Peewees, who also won their first game last week by a large margin, also won the series with the no-show by Ottawa.

The two teams played an exhibition game, with the score probably closer than it would have been in the scheduled contests. The Peewees managed a 5-2 win over their younger counterparts, in seven innings.

Chase Doing Job For McDonald's

When Jim Chase joined the Belleville McDonalds they had three pitchers before him and he was considered a "reliever". Less than a month later the Macs had three pitchers and Jim Chase was an important member of the Belleville rotation.

"Moby", as his teammates call him, has won three games this year, and has only had one bad outing.

Chase doesn't depend on a blazing fastball or a trick pitch to get batters out. He uses experience and common sense much of the time to record his outs in a game.

"He has to be one of the most knowledgeable softball men I know," said teammate Steve Ling not long ago.

Chase, of course, is not new to the game of pitching, he is 32 years old, and therefore is one of the "veterans" of the team.

He started playing softball when he was 19, as a catcher in Cobourg, where he has spent much of his playing career.

In 1968 Jim tried pitching for Rollins Construction, then joined the Cobourg OASA team when it was formed. By some twist of fate he ended pitching against his former teammate in the OASA playoffs.

One teammate Jim is especially fond of is Peter Harrison, the Macs left fielder, as well as catcher and first baseman.

"He's the most friendly and enthusiastic ball paayer I've ever played with," said Chase.

"Peter has lots of talent and should be a top player in this league," he added.

Chase has already got a one-hitter under his belt. He threw that win in London, his first victory ever in Ontario Fastball League play.

"That will always be one of my personal highlights", he said.

He has some more too, like the time he pitched a no hitter against Picton in the OASA playoffs in 1971. The game was in Picton and he struck out 18 batters, the first time a no-hitter was ever thrown at that team in their home park.

"That team had Warren Ostrander, Marv Stacey, Keith Stacey and some other good hitters," Chase stated.

He threw a perfect game against an Oshawa team in the Oshawa City League.

His best record was in 1971, when he was 14-2 for the Cobourg entry in the Trent Valley League.

Chase is not only a pitcher, he's become a dependable hitter in the OFL.

At this time he is, batting well over .400 with six hits to his credit.

"I just go out there and try to meet the ball, not kill it like some people do," Chase said.

"I've really enjoyed my year with the Belleville boys in the OFL, and I'll never forget it," said the big righthander.

"I'd like to turn to coaching when I'm finished playing ball, either here or in Cobourg," the hurler stated.

One thing that bothers Jim is the fact that players just don't seem to be as dedicated to the game now as they once were.

"It's time to go back to the old standard," Chase said.

Jim is one of the players who has to commute to play for the Macs, as he lives in Cobourg. So far this year he hasn't missed much of the action since joining the team.

Chase was picked up at the beginning of the year to "fill in". He worked his way on to the starting staff, and is now a full fledged member of the rotation.

"I'd like to see Jim get a .500 record this year," said general manager of the Macs, Doug Adams.

If any player earned it, it's Jim Chase.

The trials of Jim Chase, Ted Waite and Scott Reid have already been mentioned. Seventeen one-run losses can't be blamed on the pitching. That's been one of Belleville's strong points this season.

If this is Jim Chase's last season, he will be able to say that he went out of it a success. If not in the won-loss column, then in the desire department.

Manuel Orantes – Coasts to Title

Orantes Has Gift - wrapped Championship

Somebody Robbed Me, Complains Ilie

TORONTO (CP) — Ilie Nastase stopped trying early in the second set Sunday and let Manuel Orantes of Spain win the men's singles title in the Canadian open tennis championships.

The Romanian appeared to lose interest after a call went against him during the first-set tie-breaker and lost to Orantes 7-6, 6-0, 6-1.

Later Sunday night tournament officials wired a formal complaint to the Men's International Professional Tennis Council (MITPC) over the play of Nastase and of Bjorn Borg of Sweden and Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia earlier in the tournament.

"I didn't try (after losing the point in the tie-breaker)," Nastase said. "It was a very important point.

"I worked for an hour to win the set and then lost on a bad call. It was like somebody robbed me. I couldn't play after that."

Orantes collected $16,000 of the tournament's $130,000 prize money for his victory. Nastase won $8,000.

Leading 3-1 in the tie-breaker, Nastase, whose temper has frequently landed him in trouble with tennis officials, served an ace that a linesman called out.

When Nastase and Orantes protested that the ball was in, the linesman changed his call but the umpire ordered that the point be replayed. Nastase lost it and the tie breaker 7-4.

In the next two sets, he barely won a point, serving carelessly, not chasing playable shots and occasionally not even bothering to return service.

When the crowd booed the Romanian, he yelled obscenities and gestured obscenely to the spectators.

Orantes, runner-up in the tournament in 1973 and 1974, was not happy with the way he won.

"It was a very sad match," he said. "I don't think I'll ever act like that."

Richard Evas, European director of the Association of Tennis Professionals (ATP), said Sunday fines, which have been imposed on Nastase in the past, don't make much difference to him.

The MIPTC is governed by three representatives of the ATP and four from the International Lawn Tennis Federation (ILTF).

"I think some action must be taken but I don't think anyone can do anything to stop Nastase short of throwing him out of the game for life," said Evans. "It's a shame because he's one of the greatest players in the world but he's so nervous, so emotionally screwed up inside that he's not responsible."

At one point after Sunday's singles match, Robert Hawkes, president of Rothmans of Pall Mall, the tournament sponsors, asked tournament officials not to let Nastase back on the court to play in the men's doubles final.

Nastase finally was allowed to play and teamed with Kodes to lose to Cliff Drysdale and Ray Moore of South Africa 6-4, 5-7, 7-6.

Borg, the No. 2 seed, double-faulted on the final three points of a surprising 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 loss to lightly-regarded Hans Plotz of West Germany after a linesman failed to call an apparent double hit by Plotz in their third-round match.

Kodes walked off the court when he was losing 7-6, 5-2 to Colin Dowdeswell of Rhodesia in the second round.

On Saturday, Marcie Louie defeated Laura Dupont 6-1, 4-6, 6-4 in an all-United States women's singles final.

The women's doubles title went to Margaret Court of Australia and Julie Anthony of the U.S., who ground out a routine 6-2, 6-4 victory over Americans Jane Stratton and Joanne Russell.

Captures Hartford Open Top Prize

Bies Finally Has His Big Day

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Frustration, failure and disappointment came to an end Sunday for Don Bies when he rolled in a six-foot birdie putt on the second playoff hole and beat Hubert Green for the $40,000 first prize in the Greater Hartford open golf tournament.

"I couldn't believe it when the putt went in the hole and I was a winner," Bies said.

Bies, who joined the tour almost by accident eight years ago, had won a lot of money but nothing else in his pro career. At 37, he may be the oldest first-time winner ever. The records don't show.

"I thought I might never win," Bies said. "I've played reasonably good over the years. I've been in contention before.

"About half those times, when I was in contention, I played pretty good. It wasn't like I was choking all the time. Sometimes the putts just wouldn't fall. Sometimes somebody just played better than I did."

To win Sunday's tournament, he first had to make a 20-foot birdie putt on the 71st hole to regain a share of the top spot and force the playoff.

He had to make a nerve-testing, six-foot par-saving putt to stay alive on the first playoff hole.

And he had to make another six-footer on the second hole to win it.

Bies led by three strokes at one time in the final round, watched the margin fade and disappear, then reclaimed a share of it with the critical birdie on the 17th.

It helped give him a final round of 69 and a 267 total, 17 under par on the 6,598-yard Wethersfield Country Club course.

Green, a four-time winner last season but in a slump most of this year, birdied two of his last three holes in regulation for a 68 that forced the playoff.

Actually, it was a four-man race down the stretch. J.C. Snead needed only a par on the last hole to gain a playoff spot. But he bogied it, missing the green from a flying lie in the rough.

Larry Nelson had a 10-to-12 foot birdie putt on the last hole to make the playoff. He three-putted for bogey.

Snead, who barged into contention with four birdies in a row over one stretch, finished with a 67-268, one shot back. Nelson's 69-269 was two back and put him in a tie with Victor Regalado, who had a last-round 67.

Johnny Miller, wearing a support brace on his ailing left wrist, managed a 67 for 271. Lee Trevino had 69 for a 274, Gary Player a 66 and 272 total.

George Knudson of Toronto, the only Canadian to survive the halfway cut, fired a final-round 69 for a 282 worth $450.

Bill Brack Sharp

SHUBENACADIE, N.S. (CP) — Toronto's Bill Brack so dominated the Players Maritime auto race Sunday that he needed a truck to take away the money, silvervware and other awards.

Brack, starting his STP special from the pole position at the Atlantic Motorsport Park, collected his third Canadian driving championship in winning the Players Maritime.

To win the championship, Brack had to win Sunday's race and hope that Bertil Roos of Sweden would finish lower than third. Roos retired his Schweeps Castrol special on the 25th lap when his throttle cable broke. With the victory, Brack finished the six-race Players Challege series with 112 points, 18 more than Roos who had 94.

Brack grabbed the lead on first corner of 65 lap race around the 1.6-mile road course and eventually lapped the 28-car field except the second-and third-place finishers.

Tom Klausler of Palatine, Ill. finished second in a Lola, about 20 seconds behind Brach, while a Howdy Holmes of Ann Arbor, Mich. finished third, also in a Lola. Klausler finished the series with 93 points, good for third place.

Fourth behind Holmes was the Quaker State Lola of Dave Walker of Australia followed by John Nicholson of New Zealand in a Tui and Bruce Jensen of Newcastle, Ont., who was driving the Exotic Plants Chevron.

"My car was ideally suited for the bumpy track and my crew gave me the best-prepared car in the field," Brack said after the race.

Toronto's Peter Ferguson finished eighth Sunday in his Samsonite Special after making a second-lap pit stop for a new nose section. Craig Hill of Mississauga, Ont., took 12th after losing the brakes on his Gabriel Strider March when a line was broken by a stone thrown off the tracks.

Three Straight Senior Wins

HAMILTON (CP) — Bill Kozak made it three in a row Sunday as he won the third annual Canadian Professional Golfer's Association senior championship at King's Forest golf course Sunday.

The 53-year-old Niagara Falls, Ont., native, who has won the tournament the three years it has been a separate competition from the CPGA championhip, fired a 75 to finish the 54-hole tourney at one-under par 215.

He won the $1,500 first prize.

"This is the one I like the most," he said. "I've been keyed up for this one for three weeks now. If you win three in a row, it's got to let you know you're still alive and doing something well . . .

"It was a tough day today. The pins were in some awfully tough spots and it made it a different course."

The course was tough enough to make Kozak shoot his worst round of the three-day tournament and it also got to his nearest rival, Gerry Proulx of Ste. Eustache, Que.

Proulx started the day three-strokes off the pace in second place but came in with a final round 80 to finish at 223, eight strokes back of the leader.

His second place finish this year netted him $1,000.

Frank Mann of Richmond Hill, Ont., won third place money of $750 with a 76-226. Two shared fourth place—Damien Gauthier, Montreal, and Bill Thompson, Bramalea, at 228. Gauthier fired his third straight 76, Thompson had a 74.

Dick Borthwick of Ancaster, Ont., was next at 78—229. At 230, after a 78, was Murray Tucker of Woodbridge, Ont., followed by Bill Thomson, Winnipeg, 75—231.

He Wasn't Planning to Compete But Nelford Takes Top Prize

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Jim Nelford of Burnaby, B.C., wasn't planning on attending the Canadian men's amateur golf championship.

He lacked the necessary funds, although he had won his province's amateur title earlier this year in a sudden-death playoff over Doug Roxburgh of Vancouver.

But the B.C. Golf Association wanted its champion in the tournament and arranged the trip for the 20-year-old Brigham Young University student.

It was a good move.

Nelford recorded a four-under-par 67 Saturday in the final round of the 72-hole tournament to win the title by four strokes over Roxburgh, the defending champion.

Nelford wound up with a 280 total which included rounds of 72-69-72 over the 6,244-yard Riverside Country Club course. Roxburgh's 284 score put him one stroke ahead of Gary Cowan of Kitchener, Ont., and three in front of Robbie Jackson of Montreal, the third-round leader.

Roxburgh shot a final-round 72, Cowan a 74 and Jackson a 77.

Jackson, former Canadian junior champion and winner of the Quebec amateur this year, held a one-stroke lead over Cowan, two ahead of Roxburgh and three in front of Nelford entering the final round.

Although Nelford recorded consecutive eagles on the par-five, 488-yard 14th and par-four, 340-yard 15th holes, which enabled him to complete the back nine with a four-under 31, he said the key hole was the seventh.

On the par-four, 425-yard seventh, his tee shot went over to the right side in the low rough and his second was high on the right side of the green.

He then chipped to about 15 feet from the hole and made the putt for a par.

"I was struggling on the hole but when I made the putt it gave me a big lift," Nelford said.

Cowan, Jackson, Roxburgh and Nelford were tied after 63 holes but the winner of the 71st amateur broke it open with the eagles and then clinched the title with a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th.

Nelford was quick to credit the B.C. Golf Association and veteran Nick Weslock of Burlington, Ont., for helping him.

The B.C. organization got approval from the Royal Canadian Golf Association to assist Nelford under a special clause. The clause enables provincial golf associations to help top amateurs under 22 years of ago who can't afford major trips.

Nelford, low medallist in the 1974 Willingdon Cup team competition, wasn't expected to give the favorites much trouble. However, he stuck to the leaders with consistent play while Roxburgh, Cowan and Jackson had their problems on separate days.

Nelford's 72 put him four strokes behind first-round leader Ken Tamke of Edmonton. Tamke slipped in the second round and Roxburgh took over with a 68 for 140 while Nelford fired a 69 for 141.

Tamke was alone in fifth place at the end of the tournament, which started with a field of 112 but went to 70 after the cutoff, with 291. Dick Siderowf of Westport, Conn., was sixth with 293.

At 294 were Dave Webber of Dartmouth, N.S., and Cec Ferguson of Victoria. Kelly Roberts of London, Ont., was ninth with 295 followed by Weslock, 57, and Graham MacIntyre of Halifax, both with 296.

Next year's tournament will be held in Victoria.

Canada Retains Coveted Governor General's Award

SOUTH MARCH, Ont. (CP) — The Governor-General's Prize for marksmanship stays in Canada for the second consecutive year after Arnold Parks of Saint John, N.B., captured the award at the final day of the Dominion of Canada Rifle Association (DCRA) annual meet Saturday.

Parks, who won the award in 1969 and captured the Queen's Prize at the Bisley matches in England in 1968, scored 287 of a possible 300 in the three-stage event. The final stage included 150 of about 450 shooters at the meet, after earlier elimination rounds.

George Sanderson of Ottawa, who won the prize last year, captured the top spot in the Canadian target rifle aggregate with a score of 863 of a possible 905. The aggregate is a combination of results from eight different matches held during the week-long meet, and is used to determine the make-up of the 18-member Canadian team to compete at Bisley next year.

Second place in the Governor-General's event was taken by Pat Fortney of Calgary, competing for the first time at the national meet. He scored 286.

Flt. Lt. David Calvert, a member of the Great Britain Rifle Team, also had a score of 286 but finished third because Fortney had a better score in the 900-yard round of the final stage. Flt. Lt. Calvert is with the British air force.

Sanderson placed fourth in the Governor-General's with a score of 284 and Dennis Corcoran of Ashcroft, B.C. finished fifth, also with 284. Sanderson's higher score in the 900-yard rounds broke the tie with Corcoran.

Italian Driver Formula 1 Champ

ZELTWEG, Austria (AP) — Italian Vittorio Brambilla won the Austrian Formula 1 Grand Prix auto race which was halted in the 29th lap because of dangerous track conditions in driving rain Sunday.

The day also was marred by an accident involving Mark Donohue of the United States, who crashed during a practice about five hours before the race was scheduled to start. He underwent surgery for a blood clot in the brain and is recuperating. Two track guards were seriously injured in the incident.

Organizers said that with 60 per cent of the race—29 of 54 laps—completed, the first six drivers will be given half the points usually awarded for these ranks.

Pirates Return Home Things Remain Tough

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Pirates are undoubtedly happy to be back home after four disastrous National League baseball games in Cincinnati.

But after a two-game midweek series against San Francisco, the Bucs will find themselves face-to-face once again with the Reds for a four-game series this weekend.

On Sunday, a pop-fly single by Dan Driessen broke a sixth-inning tie, then Bill Plummer and Pete Rose singled for seventh-inning runs that gave the Reds a 3-1 victory, their eighth consecutive triumph.

It was the Pirates' sixth defeat in a row and 11th in their last 12 games, a skid that has slashed their once-imposing lead in the East to a scant one-half game over Philadelphia.

In Sunday's other NL games, the Phillies beat San Diego 10-4, St. Louis pulled within two games of first by ripping Atlanta 8-1, New York shut out San Francisco 3-0 to climb within 3½ games of the top, Los Angeles downed Montreal 5-3 and Chicago defeated Houston 11-7.

Saturday, Chicago edged Houston 3-2, New York beat San Francisco 4-2, Cincinnati downed the Pirates 5-3, Atlanta stopped St. Louis 8-7, San Diego downed Philadelphia 5-1, and Montreal edged Los Angeles 3-2.

Dave Cash, who drilled a two-run triple in the second inning, part of the Phillies' 14-hit attack against San Diego, said: "I can't worry about the Pirates. I don't play for them anymore. You can't tell about this race. We played under .500 on our homestand and picked up ground."

Larry Bowa singled for a run in the first inning, then the Phils got three in the second, two on Cash's hit. They got two more in the third on successive homers by Jay Johnstone and Greg Luzinski, his 31st of the season, and wrapped it up with four in the eighth, two on a single by Garry Maddox.

The Cardinals beat the Braves handily as Ken Reitz drove in three runs and Ron Fairly added two runs batted in.

Tom Seaver of the Mets drove in one run and scored one to become the league's first 17-game winner with relief help from Jerry Koosman. Seaver pitched three-hit ball for 7 1-3 innings and fanned six Giants to take over the NL strikeout lead with 175.

The Mets gave him the only run he needed on third-inning doubles by Mike Phillips and Del Unser.

Jose Cardenal snapped a tie with a fifth-inning double, then the Cubs scored six runs in the seventh on six consecutive singles to beat the Astros.

Boycott Grand Prix

ZELTWEG, Austria (Reuter) — Grand Prix racing teams will stick to their decision to boycott the Canadian Grand Prix after failing to reach financial agreement with the organizers, it was announced Sunday.

Two days of talks on financial disputes between the organizers of the race, due to be held on Sept. 21 at Mosport, Ont., and the powerful Formula One Constructors Association, failed to find a compromise.

"After a long discussion no agreement was found between the various points of view," a statement issued by the C.S.I., governing body of motor racing, said.

The formula one teams said they would stick to their decision, announced at the West German Grand Prix at Nuerburgring, to boycott the race.

There was no mention of further talks.

The decision means that only two more Grand Prix races remain this season—the Italian at Monza and the U.S. at Watkins Glen, N.Y.

Mike Marshall

Boos No Bother, Mike Does Job

MONTREAL (CP) — It was shortly after Gary Carter's two-run homer off Doug Rau in the eighth inning that Los Angeles manager Walter Alston took the long walk from the Dodgers' dugout to the mound to talk to his starting pitcher.

Soon, a signal was made to the Dodger bullpen for Mike Marshall to come in and cool off Montreal Expos.

As Marshall ran in, there was a growing chorus of boos which reached a peak when the public address announcer said Marshall would pitch for the Dodgers.

Marshall, traded by the Expos to Los Angeles for Willie Davis following the 1973 season, was not bothered by the fans and came on to get his job done and record his 11th save of the year as the Dodgers topped Montreal 5-3.

"The booing doesn't bother me," said Marshall. "I don't know why they do it. They must be frustrated or something. I feel sorry for them."

Marshall, beaten 3-2 Saturday by Montreal, walked pinch-hitter Mike Jorgensen and gave up a single to Larry Parrish after Jim Dwyer's sacrifice bunt. He got Pete Mackanin to force Jorgensen at third and Barry Foote to fly out to end the threat.

After the Dodgers added their fifth run on a run-scoring hit by Dave Lopes in the ninth, Marshall retired the side, preserving Rau's 10th win of the year against nine losses.

The Dodgers took a 1-0 lead in the first inning when Lee Lacy smashed his fifth home run of the season on the first pitch from Montreal starter Steve Renko.

Montreal tied the score in the bottom of the inning without the benefit of a hit. Pepe Mangual and Carter walked and Jose Morales flied to centre-fielder Lopes. Shortstop Bill Russell took the relay and threw the ball past first baseman Steve Garvey and into the Dodgers dugout to allow Mangual to score from second.

Los Angeles broke the game open with three runs in the second, sending Renko to his 10th loss in 14 decisions. Willie Crawford started the outburst with a single and advanced to second on Cey's walk. A double by Steve Yeager scored Crawford and Russell drilled a two-run single to centre to drive in the other two runs.

Suddenly the Tigers Commanding Respect

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The three-time world champion Oakland A's don't scare easily, but they were scared of the baseball Sunday. Tonight, their knees will be shaking because they're up against one of baseball's hottest teams—Detroit Tigers.

The reason for their baseball phobia was Milwaukee fireballer Pete Broberg who hit three A's batters, the same number who hit him back. Broberg gave up three hits, none of them in the second inning when the A's scored all their runs in a 3-1 victory over the Rangers.

Broberg walked Billy Williams, then hit Sal Bando and Gene Tenace on successive pitches to load the bases. A walk to Jim Holt forced in the first run, Bando scored on a double-play grounder, then Gene Tenace scored on Robin Yount's 34th error of the season.

"My fastball was moving, maybe too much," said Broberg, who walked eight men in eight innings. "They've got some hitters who stand close to the plate, and the ball was jumping up and biting them."

The A's are afraid of being bitten by the Tigers, who have finally found their teeth after 19 consecutive losses. Ray Bare broke the futility string Saturday night with a two-hitter as the Tigers won 8-0, then rookie Vern Ruhle made it two in a row Sunday with a five-hit, 7-0 victory over California Angels.

"I'm not surprised," said Oakland manager Alvin Dark of the Tigers' winning streak. "They're major league ballplayers, and any big league team is capable of turning things around quickly like that."

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston dropped the first game of its doubleheader with Chicago 6-2, then won the nightcap 4-3 in 11 innings; Baltimore blanked Texas 4-0, Cleveland pounded Minnesota 14-5, and Kansas City tripped New York Yankees 5-3.

In other games Saturday, Boston beat Chicago 5-0, Minnesota beat Cleveland 9-1, Oakland edged Milwaukee 2-1, Kansas City beat New York 4-3, and Texas downed Baltimore 5-1.

Ruhle, whose 2-0 victory over the Yankees July 28 was the Tigers' last victory before Saturday night, was backed by an 11-hit attack which included Tom Veryzer's two-run homer and three hits by Ron LeFlore.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer, 19-7, silenced Texas on four hits. This was his third shutout in his last four outings, two of which were two-hitters. He has pitched nine shutouts this season.

Left-hander Fritz Peterson now owns both Indians victories in their last six games. But this triumph actually belonged to Cleveland's hitters who mauled five Minnesota pitchers for 19 hits, highlighted by George Hendrick's three-run homer and Buddy Bell's four RBIs.

John Mayberry took over the the American League lead in home runs with his 29th of the season—his third in the last three games—to help Kansas City beat Jim (Catfish) Hunter and the Yankees. Paul Splittorff pitched a five-hitter and sent Hunter to his 12th defeat in 28 decisions.

One of Four Named

Hall of Fame For Ralph Kiner

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Ralph Kiner Sr. never saw his son play baseball. Beatrice Kiner wanted her son to be a doctor.

But Ralph Kiner Jr. wanted a life in sports, and he got his way—the way that led to the Hall of Fame.

"If I got my baseball ability from heredity, it wasn't from my father," he said fondly before his induction into the shrine today. "My dad was such a terrible player, they wouldn't let him into the games."

Kiner got his talent from someplace, starting out shagging flies for a neighbor's son in a vacant lot in Alhambra, Calif., some 40 years ago. Then it was sandlot games, minor league ball, and eventually the majors—with some stops along the way.

Kiner was installed by the Baseball Writers Association of America, receiving only one more vote than the minimum for election 15 years after ending a career that produced 369 home runs, 1,015 runs batted in and a .279 batting average over 10 seasons with Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs and Cleveland Indians.

He was to be joined by Billy Herman, a second baseman who set or equalled four records for putouts and was one of the top hit-and-run batters during the 14 active years of his career with the Cubs, Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves and Pirates.

Also selected were Bucky Harris, who managed five teams to 2,159 victories over a 29-year career and was an outstanding American League second baseman, and Earl Averill, the all-time home run and RBI leader for the Indians.

William (Judy) Johnson, one of the great third baseman in black baseball history, was honored by the specially-formed Committee on Negro Baseball Leagues.

Thunder Bay Makes It

CALGARY (CP) — Thunder Bay Continentals won the 1975 Canadian Little League baseball championship Sunday, defeating Calgary Centennials 6-2 on a one-hitter by Dallas Allaire.

Allaire was one out away from the no-hitter when Calgary rallied for two runs on the hit and two costly Thunder Bay errors in the last of the sixth.

Thunder Bay, representing the Ontario zone in the five-team tournament won a two-game special playoff series to advance to the final.

Following regulation play Thursday, Ontario, British Columbia and the Prairies, represented by Lethbridge, were forced into the extra playoffs to break a three-way tie for second place.

Allaire, 12, fanned eight Centennial batters and allowed four walks.

Manchester United Marks Return

LONDON (Reuter) — Manchester United bounced back into the English League's First Division on Saturday with a 2 0 road win over Wolverhampton Wanderers with Lou Macari scoring twice in seven minutes.

Other marksmen on form on the opening day of the 1975-76 league season were David Cross of Coventry, Peter Lorimer of Leeds United and Malcolm MacDonald of Newcastle.

Cross scored three goals in Coventry's 4-1 win at Everton, with his first two goals coming in the opening 10 minutes. He netted his third in the 73rd minute with Alan Green getting the fourth for Coventry.

Leeds trailed Aston Villa on a seventh-minute goal by Leighton Phillips before Lormer tied the score with a 27-minute penalty and then scored the winner in the 74th minute.

MacDonald scored in the 27th and 68th minutes in Newcastle's 3-0 win at Ipswich, Tommy Craig completing the scoring with a penalty.

Chris Garland of Leicester became the first player to be sent off this season when he was dismissed in the 22nd minute for striking Birmingham's John Roberts during a 3 3 draw.

Howard Kendall scored twice for Birmingham, which led 3-2 with five minutes remaining when Leicester was reduced to nine players, but Roberts scored on his own goal to give Leicester the tie.

Charlie George, making his league debut for title-holders Derby County after being transferrd from Arsenal for £100,000 (about $210,000), gave his new club a point with a goal seven narrowed West Ham's lead in the closing minutes.

Dennis Tueart scored twice in Manchester City's 3 0 win home victory over newly-promoted Norwich while Queens Park Rangers also began with a home win, beating Liverpool 2-0 with goals by Gerry Francis and Mick Leach.

minutes from the end of a 1-1 tie with Sheffield United.

Sheffield goalkeeper Jim Brown saved an 11th-minute penalty shot by Bruce Rioch before United went ahead with a 56th minute penalty by Keith Eddy.

West Ham United, the Football Association Cup-holders, scored an impressive 2-1 win at Stoke after taking a 2-0 halftime lead through Bobby Gould and Alan Taylor. Ian Moore's goal

Relegated Chelsea started their Second Division campaign with a 2-1 loss at Sunderland, where Dennis Longhorn scored the winner, while England striker Mike Channon scored twice in Southampton's 3-0 win over West Bromwich Albion.

The first goal of the season was scored by Terry Gray of Huddersfield in the 48th second of a 1-1 tie against Northampton.

Canadian Team Upsets USSR

TORONTO (CP) — Canada's national basketball team handed the Soviet Union their first loss in seven starts in Intercontinental Cup play Sunday night with an 86-84 win before an estimated 4,000 fans.

The game marked the first time a Canadian basketball team has ever beaten the Soviets in international competition. The Soviet Union, 1974 world champions and 1972 defeated the Canadians 92-60 at the world championships last year in Puerto Rico.

In an Intercontinental Cup match in June at Leningrad, the Soviets beat the Canadian team 87-73.

Jamie Russell of Burlington, Ont., led the Canadians with 26 points, with team-mate Bill Robinson of Chemainus, B.C., adding 21.

Lars Hansen of Port Coquitlam, B.C., and Phil Tollestrup of Raymood, Alta., had 11 points each.

George Rautins of Toronto and Derek Sankey of Vancouver had six points each and Martin Riley of Winnipeg and Bob Sharpe of Guelph, Ont., had two each. Romel Raffin of Kitchener, Ont., added a single point.

Six-foot-three Sergei Belov of the Soviet Union was the game's top scorer with 38 points. Mihail Korkiya added 12 points and Alzhan Zarmuhamedov, at six-foot-nine, had 11 points.

Alexander Salnikov and Alexander Belov each had six points for the losers.

Canada led 39-36 at the half, but the Soviets scored four consecutive points in the opening minute of the second half to pull ahead 40-39.

The teams rallied back and forth for the next five minutes before Canada went ahead 49-48. From there, the Canadian team never looked back.

The victory was Canada's fourth in eight tries in Intercontinental Cup play.

Roach Conquers Lake

TORONTO (CP) — Debbie Roach, 17, of Mississauga, Ont., successfully completed the 35-mile swim across Lake Ontario about 6:40 p.m. EDT Saturday.

Miss Roach entered the water at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Ont., at 12:05 a.m. EDT Saturday and arrived at the Canadian National Exhibition grounds after about 18½ hours in the water.

The record for the lake swim is 15 hours and 10 minutes set by Cindy Nicholas of Toronto last year.

Miss Roach trained for the swim for about a year. Ted Roach, her father and coach, was in a pacer boat next to her in the water.

William Boyd, captain and owner of the Richard C which accompanied the swimmer, said in an interview that Miss Roach was in good spirits during the swim.

He said the water was about 21 degrees Celsius when Miss Roach left Niagara-on-the-Lake and 20 degrees in Toronto Harbor.

In another distance attempt, Pat Stoeffels, 31, a Toronto nurse who tried to swim up the lake from Oakville west of Toronto to Oshawa, was pulled unconscious from the water after two hours.

RUNNER DIES

MOSCOW (AP) — Vladimir Kuts, the record-smashing long-distance runner who earned the Soviet Union its first Olympic gold medals, is dead at the age of 48. Tass, official Soviet news agency, said Sunday that Kuts, a track and field coach for the last 18 years, died Saturday of a heart attack. Kuts broke two Olympic records and won gold medals in the 5,000-and 10,000 metre runs at the Melbourne Olympics in 1956.

Young Track Stars Excel

RICHMOND, B.C. (CP) — Canada's young track and field athletes took another giant step forward this weekend in their quest for a chance to compete in the 1976 Summer Olympic Games in Montreal.

And many of the competitors came up with strong performances during the weekend at the Canadian junior track and field championships.

Two of the most notable performers were sprinter Cole Doty of Mississauga, Ont., and hammer thrower Scott Neilson of New Westminster, B.C.

Doty, 20, powered a strong Ontario team to its second straight junior title by scoring a double victory in the men's sprints. He won the 200-metre event in 21.1 seconds Sunday, two-tenths of a second off the Canadian junior record.

On Saturday, he won the 100-metre dash in 10.4 seconds on a wet track.

Neilson, 18, set a Canadian junior record Saturday in the men's hammer throw with a toss of 63.98 metres, bettering his own mark of 57.92 metres. He also had a toss of 83.25 metres earlier this year, yet to be ratified by the Canadian Track and Field Association.

Neilson's record-setting toss came on his second of six attempts. He fouled only once.

Like many of the athletes here, Neilson will compete in the Canadian senior championships Saturday and Sunday in Sudbury, Ont.

Ontario had little trouble in retaining its team championship in the five-region event. Ontario finished with 478 points, while B.C. had 418 points. Quebec was third with 190 points, followed by the Prairies with 151 and the Maritimes with 18.

Rev. John Redmond of Toronto, manager of the Ontario team, was happy with the team spirit shown by his athletes.

He also sees a bright future for athletes like Doty, Neilson, middle-distance runner Glen Bogue of Islington, Ont., and distance runner Tom Lobsinger of Waterloo, Ont.

Panasiuk Captures Alberta Open

CALGARY (CP) — Bob Panasiuk of Windsor Ont., who has proved time and again he is one of Canada's best professional golfers, reiterated Sunday as he pocketed the $2,900 winners' cheque from the Alberta open golf championship that he wants no part of the $7-million United States tour.

"I don't need the rat race," said the 33-year-old winner of five Canadian events in the last two years. "I work the pari-mutuels at Windsor Raceway in the winter, play the Canadian tour in season and make myself a nice living. I'll continue to play it this way."

Panasiuk shot an even-par 71 during the final round Sunday at the 6,551-yard Earl Grey Golf Club to win his second straight Alberta Open by two shots over Greg Pidlaski of Thornhill, Ont., and Dave Barr of Kelowna, B.C.

Pidlaski carded a superb four-under-par 67, playing in mist and drizzle, to finish at two-under-par 211 for the 54-hole tournament. Barr shot a one-under-par 70.

Panasiuk, who has qualified for eight U.S. Open championships and has had little trouble gaining an exemption for the Canadian Open in recent years, plays three other U.S. tournaments a season, as the American Professional Golfers Association (PGA) allows.

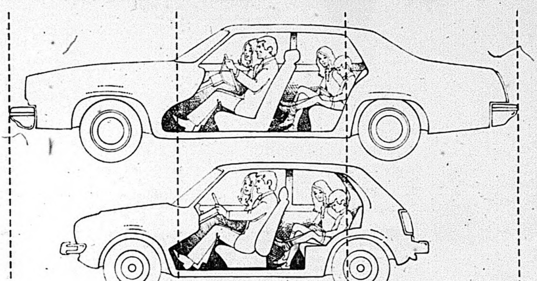
First we built a mid-size car inside. Then we built a sub-compact around it.



Most cars are built the other way around. Body style first; passenger comfort second. Which is why in the back seat of so many cars, your head slants forward. Or your knees meet your chest. Or you shift positions sitting over the hump every time you hit a bump.

At Honda, we've virtually eliminated these problems. Because we designed our car from the inside out. What we ended up with is a sub-compact car with as much room as some mid-size cars. The experts have described our car best.

"Many makes talk about small on the outside, big on the inside, but Honda has done it." (Road and Track).

How'd we do it? Our car's shape is trapezoidal. A rectangle that's wider at the bottom than the top for all kinds of good reasons. For example, we give you more room where you really need it. More leg room on the floor and more seating room.

Another part of our roominess story is also a performance story. We gave our car front-wheel drive, not just to eliminate the hump inside, but for its excellent road-hugging ability.

Then we mounted the engine sideways to provide even more space. This also places the engine weight directly over the drive wheels for better traction. For added comfort, we equipped the Civic with a McPherson strut suspension, independent on all four wheels, for a stable yet cushioning ride.

The Honda Civic is more car than you'd expect. It's fast and yet it's economical to run. In fact, in the 1975 U.S. Environmental Protection Agency gas mileage test, the Honda Civic recorded a remarkable 49.2 miles per gallon for highway driving and 33.6 miles per gallon for in-city driving. Now, just try and find another car that performed as well.

Ford Raises Prices

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Lee Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Co., says Ford's 1976 car prices will be raised in line with the 4.7-per-cent average increase announced last week by General Motors.

The Detroit News says in a copyrighted story that Iacocca said in an interview that Ford also expects to call back by next year all of its hourly and salaried workers now on layoff.

GM has announced price increases averaging $268, including options, on cars other than the new Chevette, to be marketed this fall.

Iacocca said Ford's prices will be in that area because "we have to be competitive."

Iacocca said an expected sales rebound and work on several small car projects will result in the recall of workers now idled by the industry's slump.

CP News Roundup

Race Horses Die

DUNDAS, Ont. (CP) — Seven harness race horses were killed in a fire in a barn Saturday near Flamboro Downs Raceway on Highway 5 just west of Hamilton. Fire officials said the barn, owned by Richard Hyde of Dundas, was not insured.

James Davey Dies

OTTAWA (CP) — James Davey, 45, a former aide to Prime Minister Trudeau and a major force in designing the recently-announced national transport policy, died in hospital Saturday after an accident at his home last week.

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A strike by hotel bartenders and waiters spread to a fifth hotel Saturday, and union members said there is no prospect for an early resumption of talks.

CP Lay Off

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — A spokesman for CP Rail said Friday that 33 men will be laid off within 14 days as part of an economic move by the company. The spokesman said 28 men in the repair shop and five in the locomotive department will be affected by the move. He said the layoffs are part of a Canada wide program to reduce costs that began last March when 4[illegible] men were laid off in the city.

Fire Kills 25

MATSHETSHA, South Africa (AP) — At least 25 persons have been killed and 2,000 others left homeless in a bush fire in the Transkei African reserve southwest of Durban, it was reported Saturday. Authorities said the blaze, whipped up by strong winds, began Thursday and destroyed scores of African huts and killed thousands of sheep, pigs, goats and horses.

Algerian Seized

PARIS (AP) — A group of French Algerians seized the head of the Algerian Workers' Organization in central France Sunday and demanded that the French government provide housing for 1,400 persons living in refugee camps, police reported.

Getting Colder

NORWICH, England (Reuter) — Despite Europe's recent heat wave, the world has grown cooler since 1950, British weather expert Prof. Hubert Lamb said Sunday. Average temperatures have dropped by about a quarter of a degree Celsius, and one effect in Britain has been to cut by nine days the length of the growing season for crops, he said.

Python Found

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — A 19-foot python missing from Omaha's Henry Doorly Zoo for a day was found Saturday on a street south of the zoo. Zoo Director Dr. Lee Simmons said the snake appeared to have been run over by a car, and efforts to save the reptile's life were in vain. Simmons says vandals probably released the snake from his glass cage.

British PM May Have Broken Law

LONDON (Reuter) — A British prime minister, worried about national security in the last decade, ordered a burglary at another politician's home, it is reported in a book to be published in next month.

The burglary was said to have been carried out by a detective of the police special branch because the prime minister was dubious about some of the politician's acitvities and was concerned about a security risk.

The only two British prime ministers in the last 10 years have been Harold Wilson and Edward Heath.

The book's authors, Clive Borrell and Brian Cashinella, do not say who was in office at the time, nor do they offer any supporting evidence because to do so would have pinpointed the period involved.

"We have to protect our source," Borrell said in reply to questions about the book, titled Crime in Britain Today.

Borrell has been crime reporter of The Times since 1967 same paper in the crime field for some years before transferring recently to The Daily Express.

Officials at 10 Downing Street, Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government residence, refused to comment and there was no immediate reaction from members of the House of Commons, currently on their summer recess.

Nixon and Lewis Woo Voters, Davis Keeps Low Profile

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The campaign for the Sept. 18 Ontario election enters its second week today, with Premier Davis maintaining a low campaign profile. But Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and NDP Leader Stephen Lewis are hard at work, wooing voters in southwestern Ontario.

The premier's itinerary for today bears only two public items, a luncheon with Progressive Conservative candidates and an appearance at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

He has a private meeting with the party candidates as well.

Mr. Davis took Sunday off, after campaigning in Hamilton on Saturday.

He used the Hamilton visit to attack the federal government and take swipes at his two opponents.

The premier insisted he is not campaigning against Ottawa, but added he reserves the right to voice his opinion "when those fellows in Ottawa are making damn fool mistakes."

He mentioned the federal 10-cent-a-gallon tax on gasoline as a federal mistake, saying he doubts the tax is necessary to the survival of Confederation.

Turning to his opponents, he said Mr. Nixon has made some mistakes in speeches about the provincial education budget

"Bob has had trouble with mathematics ever since he entered the legislature," he said.

The premier also said the NDP does not have the answer to the province's problems.

As for Mr. Lewis:

"If Stephen thinks people are going to be fooled by his moderate, family-image approach he's mistaken."

Meanwhile, the two opposition party leaders were hard at work.

Mr. Nixon spent Saturday with a group of Liberal candidates and organizers, encouraging them with a rousing address.

He drew a standing ovation with his prediction that the party "is in the process of winning the confidence of the people of the province."

The Liberal leader moved into southwestern Ontario on Sunday, attending a party picnic in London.

He said a Liberal government would take steps to ensure that future oil and natural gas price increases are justified, by giving the Ontario Energy Board the power to demand explanations for price jumps.

"Before the current oil price freeze ends, we'll empower the Ontario Energy Board to require full justification for every proposed increase for oil and natural gas," he said.

Today, Mr. Nixon is to continue touring the area, hitting Windsor, Chatham and a series of smaller centres.

The Enumerators are coming!

From August 20 to 23 the Enumerators for the Ontario Provincial Election will be calling on you.

One day this week... Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday... you're going to be visited by two Ontario Election Enumerators who will identify themselves.

They're just two of the 40,000 people who are compiling the list of qualified voters for the Ontario Election. They'll ask you the name of everyone 18 and over at your address who is a Canadian citizen or British subject, and has resided in Ontario for at least 12 months preceding Election Day. With this information, they'll put together the Ontario list of voters.

A new list is compiled for each election, so even if you have voted before, you must be included on the new list to vote this time.

Remember, the only way you will be able to vote on Election Day, September 18, is to be on the list of voters. And the best way to get on that list is to be enumerated. It's that easy.

Keep your Form 103 as proof of enumeration.

The Enumerators will fill out Form 103 with your name and address and give you a copy of it, which you should keep until Election Day, September 18. Space is provided on the form to show your Electoral District, polling place number and address.

Check the List.

A short time after enumeration takes place, the list of voters will be posted in your area and at your Returning Officer's address. Check it and make sure that your name and address are correctly listed.

FAST SEAT BELTS

Proxy Voting

If you are a qualified voter, and enumerated, but will be absent from your polling subdivision and unable to vote at the regular or advance polls because:

a) you are employed in long distance transportation;
b) you are a member of the Canadian forces on active duty;
c) you are away attending an educational institution; or, you are physically handicapped and unable to attend a polling place, you may vote by proxy in your Electoral District.

If you wish to vote by proxy, contact your Returning Officer whose number is on your proof of enumeration, Form 103.

IN MEMORIAM

KETCHESON — In memory of a dear father and grandfather, John A. Ketcheson who left us August 18, 1974.

He is away, yet ever near,
His presence fills each day,
His voice, his smile are everywhere,
A memory away;
And though he is no longer seen
By family and friend,
He lives because he was dearly loved,
And love can never end.

—Always remembered and sadly missed by Ray, Carol and granddaughter Shannon.

DESIGN R3-2482 1216 SQ. FT.

The home illustrated is designed specifically for planning jurisdictions requiring a minimum of 1,200 square feet of living space — and, without its garage, it would need only a 55 foot frontage, even less in many municipalities.

The traditional centre-hall plan provides easy traffic flow and the front kitchen location is preferred by many homemakers. The garage is large enough to provide generous storage space, it has an extra storage cupboard and it is directly accessible from the terrace. The powder room location is noteworthy. It is immediately accessible from garage, kitchen and basement, and only slightly less so from the living-dining area.

The exterior shows an interesting combination of horizontal and vertical siding with brick veneer accents. The design is well suited to any type of heating.

Plan for Design R3-2482 cost $35 for the first set, $11 each additional set and are supplied by return mail. New second editions of two books, "Home Designs for Canadians" are available at Home Planning 40 Jarvis St., Toronto for $1.50 each or by mail. Book one presents 95 designs for homes up to 1,600 square feet for one storey and split level, 1,850 square feet for one and one half and two storey. Book two shows 91 larger homes. (Ontario residents please add 5 per cent to all purchase orders to cover Sales Tax.) (Copyright 1975, Toronto Star Syndicate)

Poetry Relates Story of Romance

By JANET FINE
The Canadian Press

The book of poetry, By Death Never Leave Me and Pilgrimage: Follow A Dream of Love, is what Stephanie Nynych has hoped for — a eulogy for John Nguyen.

The images, her drawings and tone of the book give the reader a chance to contemplate and comprehend the non-performances of things. Her etchings in the bright yellow book depict exotic women: crying, laughing or travelling through the universe of time.

John Nguyen, who was 19 when he died in 1963, forms the basis of the poetry themes. Poet Nynych writes of their meeting in London, a portrait of the slender man and their love and final departure. While visiting Egypt, she learns of her lover's death.

In the poem, Suicide is Courageous but With Piety, the poet and the reader try to understand why John Nguyen killed himself. For the woman who loved him, the author traces his life to the point of her departure, re-creating raw memories of love and moments of life.

"I shall never be warm again, but once," her poem laments, and the reader experiences the sense of loss, especially in the incomprehensible suicide.

The second half of the book, Pilgrimage: Follow a Dream of Love, was broadcast on Toronto's CHUM-FM radio in 1966. Her pictures and poetry turn more into the quest for the Egyptian beauty, Cleopatra, and reconfirms constant movement, as if justifying knowledge as a road to new hopes and dreams.

The author conveys in her poetry a feeling of sadness but remote hope at the prospect of having someone leave a link behind, even after death or disappearance.

By Death Never Leave Me, Stephanie Nynych; $4; 107 pages; Fiddlehead Poetry Books.

FBI Bothers Couple

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — Lawyers for sports critic Jack Scott and his wife, Micki, say the FBI is subjecting the couple to massive harassment in its search for fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

The constant surveillance became so severe earlier this year that the couple hid from federal agents between Feb. 27 and April 10, the Scotts charged in legal briefs.

The papers were filed by the Scotts' lawyers in preparation for a hearing today in U.S. District Court. The Scotts are trying to suash subpoenas ordering their appearance before a federal grand jury investigating the harboring of Miss Hearst.

Mrs. Scott offered sworn statements of several incidents that she said constituted FBI harassment.

She said last July 30 she called a Portland record shop to order tickets for a concert and told the salesperson she would be right over. When she and her husband arrived, federal agents served them with subpoenas.

U.S. Total Tyranny Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the Senate panel investigating U.S. intelligence agencies says the government has the technological capacity to impose "total tyranny" if a dictator ever came to power.

"There would be no place to hide," Senator Frank Church (Dem. Idaho), committee chairman, said Sunday on NBC's Meet the Press.

Church said the eavesdropping technology which intelligence agencies have given the government would enable it to impose total tyranny "and there would be no way to fight back because the most careful effort to combine together in resistance to the government, no matter how privately it was done, is within the reach of the government to know, such is the capability of this technology."

Church said that U.S. intelligence agencies, "in the need to develop a capacity to know what potential enemies are doing," perfected a "very extensive capability of intercepting messages wherever they may be in the airwaves.

"Now, that is necessary and important to the United States as we look abroad at enemies or potential enemies," he said.

"At the same time that capability at anytime could be turned around on the American people and no American would have any privacy left, such as . . . telephone conversations, telegrams, it doesn't matter."

In other matters, Church said covert CIA actions on behalf of Portugal's non-Communist majority would "at least conform to our values as a country and to our professed principles."

Bomb Shelter Strategy Being Revived in U.S.

WASHINGTON (CP) — Beneath the huge National Geographic Building in central Washington are dozens of crates of disposable babies' diapers, a small morgue, emergency shower rooms and stacked cartons of sanitary napkins.

There's also an emergency broadcasting system, blankets, hotplates, dried food, a 300-foot drilled well, cots, blankets, soap and protective clothing.

"When the balloon goes up," says the proud caretaker, "head for this building quick. It'll be popular."

The garage under the National Geographic is one of thousands of such areas across the United States designated as fall-out shelters in the event of a nuclear attack. It's better equipped than most but not essentially different.

The distinctive yellow and black signs marking the shelters strike an outsider as a faintly ludicrous, slightly chilling reminder of the kind of bomb-scare mentality that pervaded the Cold War.

To most Americans, the shelters, intended to provide protection against radioactive fallout from a nuclear blast, seem to be a little-noticed fact of life which could just as well be done away with.

But to the country's civil defence planners and military chiefs, they still form a vital part of over-all strategic planning and the protection of the population in a nuclear war has suddenly again become a preoccupation of the defence department.

At the heart of a broad review of the whole civil defence setup now under way in the United States is a gradual reversion to a strategy that was prominent in the early 1950s when the main "threat" was from an attack by Soviet manned bombers. At that time, planning centred on how to get people away from main target areas before the bombers arrived. This was later abandoned, only to be revived again in recent months.

John Davis, director of the Defence Civil Preparedness Agency (DCPA), says a major study has already been launched in a number of metropolitan areas to determine whether it would again be possible to evacuate whole cities to the countryside if an atomic attack was feared, using the shelters to protect the skeleton staff which would have to remain behind.

Interviewed in his Pentagon office in suburban Virginia, Davis said "we're basically testing, in nine prototype cities, the best ways of taking huge numbers of people out of the urban centres into the countryside before an attack."

He added: "The whole idea of evacuation was really born during the Second World War when it was done, to some extent, in European centres. Then when the Cold War began and there was a fear of attack by Russian bombers we began to look at the same process here and tried to find out how we could evacuate the main cities during the hours it would take an aircraft to reach us.

"With the coming of the missile age," he said, "it was considered simply unrealistic to talk about evacuation since it would only take a warhead minutes to rach us."

The fall-out shelters then seemed the only practical defence to the planners because they would at least offer protection to those who survived a blast until the resulting radioactivity passed.

But official thinking has changed yet again, said the urbane North Dakota native.

"Now we've come to the general conclusion that nuclear exchange wouldn't just happen out of the blue. It would likely be preceded by several weeks of increasing international tension and during that time we probably could evacuate if our plans were in place."

Critics of the most recent proposals argue that they are nothing more than an excuse to keep an outdated civil defence bureaucracy in existence.

And Davis himself acknowledges that the task of moving hundreds of thousands of people out of the cities and providing food, water and sanitation in the country for two weeks or more staggers the imagination. But he argues that for all but the most densely populated areas a workable plan can be developed in five to seven years.

"It's not as wild as it sounds," he says. "Any weekend in New York City, if it's hot, you get a spontaneous evacuation."

The main difficulty is convincing local authorities—and the people themselves—that it's worth all the bother of making plans for living through a nuclear war during an age of detente and lessening world tension, Davis says.

Wind Powered Generator Being Tested

FREDERICTON (CP) — To some, it could be a regressive step in the production of energy but conservationists would probably be pleased with the New Brunswick Electric Power Commission's latest experiment—a wind-powered electrical generating station.

The wind-powered generating station, to be installed in Sackville, near Moncton, will be the latest in a series of experiments conducted by the commission.

The wind-powered unit consists of a 12-foot-diameter, three-bladed propeller designed to produce 750 watts of 12-volt direct current in a 20-mile hour wind. The current will be stored in two batteries, and then converted into standard 115-volt alternating current for household use.

In a 10-mile an hour wind, the unit would produce 60 kilowatts of power a month—enough to operate 12 40-watt light bulbs for that period.

Other experimental projects carried out by the commission deal with solar energy and biomass conversion.

Superman Scared

Superman has lost his X-ray vision and has developed a fear of heights. Actor Kirk Alyn, the original Superman in the Columbia Picture serials of the 1940s, was persuaded to mug for a few photographs atop the Toronto Star Building while attending a science fiction convention in Toronto. The actor turned pistachio green before crawling up a ladder to the highest point on the roof and there it was discovered his horn rimmed glasses were for real. He has lost his x-ray vision he's short-sighted. (CP Photo)

Disney Plans 10,000 Acre Resort

TRUCKEE, California (AP) — Walt Disney Productions, stymied in its dream of a year-round resort high in the Sierra mountains, has set its sights on a small man-made lake near the California-Nevada border.

Independence Lake, serene in the shadow of 9,143-foot Mt. Lola, will be the site of Disney's latest family "destination" resort, if local authorities approve.

Plans for the facility 192 miles east of San Francisco and 50 miles west of Reno, Nev., were outlined at a meeting for county supervisors and local planners.

Disney will build the resort on 10,000 acres, of which less than 10 per cent will be developed. The rest will remain in its natural state.

Included will be a pedestrian-oriented village, a 275-room lodge, underground parking, condominiums, shops, an electric-cog railway, a mountain-top restaurant and a variety of outdoor recreation activities, including skiing, hiking, camping and fishing.

The project is similar to one derailed by environmentalists at Mineral King, a narrow, two-mile-long valley 7,800 feet up in Sequoia National Forest of Central California.

The Mineral King project drew opposition from environmentalists, led by the Sierra Club, which filed a suit in 1969. The court battle snarled Disney's plans.

Disney spokesmen say they haven't really given up on Mineral King, but say it will have to wait until Independence Lake is finished, probably in 1978.

Disney conceived Mineral King as a destination resort for the millions of Southern Californians, who already have easy access to Disneyland in Anaheim. Independence Lake is designed for visitors from Northern California and the Pacific North west.

The Independence Lake resort had its birth about two years ago, when Sierra Pacific Power Co. of Reno approached Disney Productions with a suggestion that one of its water storage lakes might offer a suitable location.

After studying several sites, Disney entered into a joint venture agreement last July with Sierra Pacific and with the Southern Pacific Land Co., principle property owners in the lake area.

The main difference between Mineral King and Independence Lake is that while Mineral King would have required use of mostly public lands, almost all the property to be used north of here is privately held, although there would be some skiing on U.S. Forest Service property and some ski-lift towers might be built on public lands.

Specific figures on money investment are not available, officials say, because of the early stages of the development. The Mineral King project was to have cost $35 million in the late 1960s.

Still to come are detailed design and cost studies by Disney employees and studies of ecology, recreation and social-economic aspects. A detailed environmental impact report is expected to be completed by late this year.

Disney Productions also must obtain clearance from local planning authorities and the boards of supervisors in the two counties involved.

Boom on Shark Jaws

Ralph Ferguson holds one of many shark jaws he is selling fast since the movie was released. Shark jaws had collected dust for years on the shelves of Ferguson's warehouse near Los Angeles Harbor. Within weeks, Ferguson's original inventory of 15,000 jaws was down to 5,000 — and the rest are going fast. "It's a joke", says Ferguson, Since the movie, all of a sudden people are begging for them. Theatre Stagehands Accept Two-year Pact

TORONTO (CP) — A two-year contract between the O'Keefe Centre and striking stagehands, members of Local 58, International Association of Theatrical and Stage Employees, was ratified Sunday.

Warren Reynolds, chairman of the centre's board of directors, said both sides ratified the contract after negotiators reached a tentative agreement Saturday.

Another spokesman for the centre said terms of the new contract will make the stagehands the best paid in North America with the lowest paid member now receiving a minimum wage of $8.95 an hour.

Wage increases generally are between 36 and 42 per cent with department heads will get raises of 36 per cent, bringing their weekly salary to $454.

The union has been on strike since Aug. 5 and the Canadian Opera Company, scheduled to begin rehersals at the centre Aug. 20, had threatened to cancel its fall season with the theatre.

The company announced late last week it had arranged to rent a convention hall in nearby Mississauga in order to prevent the season from being cancelled.

This Superman Afraid of Heights

TORONTO (CP) At 64, Superman has lost his x-ray vision. The man of steel no longer travels faster than a speeding bullet and far from soaring like a bird or a plane, he has developed a fear of heights.

Actor Kirk Alyn, the original superman in the Columbia Picture serials filmed in the 1940s, displayed all these weaknesses in a recent visit to Toronto.

As guest of 600 comic book buffs attending a science fiction convention, Alyn was persuaded by a local television station to stage a press interview on top of the Toronto Star building.

After all, Toronto-born cartoonist Joe Shuster had originally conceived Clark Kent as being a seemingly sissified reporter for The Star (the name was later changed to The Daily Planet.)

After switching into his skin-tight Superman livery, with the big red S and the flowing cape, the invincible man from the planet Krypton would leap fearlessly to Lois Lane's rescue—but from the top of the old Star building 23 storeys high.

Scaling the heights of the Star's new 25-storey home proved a little scary— to Kirk alias Kent alias Superman.

Before crawling up a ladder to pose on the highest point of the roof, the actor turned pistachio green.

Reaching the top, where he mugged for a few photographs, pretending to change from his guise as the bespectacled Clark Kent, it turned out his horn-rimmed glasses were for real.

"I'm short-sighted," he said. "At the age of 64, what do you expect?"

How did Superman fly? Cartoonists animated his flights far in the distance. For close-up shots, he either leaped out of windows on to mattresses, or special-effect cameras rolling beneath his outstretched figure were used with smoky smudge pots creating the illusion of clouds.

Showbiz Shorts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — What's so funny about a prison? Plenty, says John Rich, who managed to wrest thousands of laughs from a bigot.

Rich, who directed the first 85 episodes of All in the Family, has branched out with his own company.

His first product, On The Rocks, will appear on ABC Television Thursday nights beginning Sept. 11. The locale is a minimum-security prison.

"The humor in prison comes out of winning little victories against the system. One of our episodes will concern a stolen can of pineapple chunks. Things like that are terribly important in prison.

"The main thing for prisoners is how to cope and how to keep the system from crushing them. Our lead, played by Jose Perez, will not be crushed.

"When he is entering prison and is being measured by the doctor, he bends his knees. When another prisoner asks why he did it, he says, 'I screwed the system out of two inches.'"

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Stevie Wonder was named best male vocalist and Joni Mitchell best female vocalist at the first Rock Music Awards on Saturday night.

Wonder, Miss Mitchell and Elton John, named outstanding rock personality of the year, headed the list of those honored in 16 categories at the show, televised over CBS from Santa Monica Civic Auditorium.

The Eagles were named the best rock group and Bad Company was honored as the best new rock group.

You're No Good, a song by Linda Ronstadt, was named the best single recording, while Bob Dylan's, Blood on the Tracks, was named the best album.

Dan Fogelberg was voted the best new male vocalist and Phoebe Snow took the honors in the female category.

In the Rhythm and Blues category, Lady Marmalade by LaBelle was named the best single and Earth, Wind and Fire's, That's the Way of the World, was named best album.

Chuck Berry was named to the Rock Music Hall of Fame and Joan Baez won the public service award.

"Tommy" won the prize for best rock musical or theatrical presentation.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — David Niven, actor, author and bon vivant, has returned to his Hollywood haunts for his first film here in seven years and his first Walt Disney movie ever.

It is called No Deposit, No Return. Niven plays a wealthy, aristocratic Californian whose grandchildren try to trick him into paying ransom for a fake kidnapping. He refuses to go along with it, hence the title.

Niven, who stars in the Disney production with Darren McGavin, Don Knotts and Herschel Bernardi, is making two films this year. The second is Neil Simon's, Murder By Death.

NEW YORK (AP) — Old brown eyes is back. That is Eddie Fisher, explaining for anybody who missed the pre-rock 1950s, when he had 22 recordings in a row to become the No. 1 best-sellers in the United States.

"That's the most anybody ever had," he says. And, just like they did for Old Blue Eyes, Frank Sinatra, the bobby soxers screamed and fainted when Eddie Fisher sang.

This year, Fisher, 46, is singing again and reviewers say his voice is better than ever. He has played in New York City's suburban areas and has been to Las Vegas twice and will return soon.

The audience is not screaming and fainting any more, it's an older group, but Fisher says he doesn't mind.

"I haven't been married in eight years" says Fisher, who has been married to Debbie Reynolds, Elizabeth Taylor and Connie Stevens. "I'm looking— but not in show business."

KANAB, Utah (AP)—Western actor James Arness has handled a lot of hombres in his day. But along with the rest of a movie company filming here Wednesday, he nearly panicked when a swarm of bees descended.

Joe Santley, a spokesman for MGM Studios, said filming for a forthcoming ABC television movie, The Macahans, was in progress in Johnson Canyon, nine miles east of here, when the bees appeared.

He said the film's female lead, Eva Marie Saint, first spotted the black cloud of bees.

The actors and technicians froze while the swarm buzzed round and departed without inflicting any stings.

MEMPHIS (AP)—Police say entertainer Elvis Presley came to the assistance of his stepbrother, paying an early-morning visit to police headquarters.

Officers said Presley showed up about 5 a.m. Wednesday and sought release of Richard Stanley, 21, who had been charged with attempting to obtain a drug through fraud or forgery.

Stanley and Richard Gordon, 23, were released on their own recognizance later in the day.

The two had been arrested Tuesday night at a hospital pharmacy where police said the two attempted to get a prescription filled for the drug Demoral.

Stanley is the stepson of Vernon Presley, Elvis' father.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actor Edgar Buchanan is back home after brain surgery, and his doctors say he is making an "amazing recovery."

Buchanan, 72, was released from Hollywood West Hospital on Wednesday. He underwent surgery there July 31 to relieve pressure on his brain.

The actor's son, Buck Buchanan, said his father is looking forward to returning to work "as soon as possible."

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, Aug. 19

Aries (March 21-April 19) Though you're often more comfortable acting independently, it behooves you today to be a team player. The right associate can advance your interest.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Success may not come on the first try today. If you're persistent and hang in there, it won't elude you for too long.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Prompt action on your part today can turn a speculative situation around to where it's a benefit, rather than a liability.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) A matter you're very concerned about because it affects others as well as yourself looks like it'll work out nicely.

Leo (July 23-Aug 22) You anticipate more opposition on an issue than you will actually get. Don't let your self-doubts hold you back from trying.

Virgo, (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Stand up for your rights today where work or career is concerned. If you feel entitled to additional compensation, speak out.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Don't make a hasty negative assessment of one you'll be meeting socially. Get to know this person better. You'll have much to share.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may have to step in today to protect the interests of one you feel responsible for, when you see him getting a bum shake.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A close friend and yourself are operating on the same wave, though neither will think so at first. The gaps between your ideas aren't wide.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your material prospects will be brightening but returns may not be immediate. However, they'll be there when needed.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Fep. 19) Plans you hope to realize in the near future will be slightly changed. The alteration will prove beneficial.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Your chances of succeeding in an important endeavor will be very promising the next couple of days. Do what needs to be done quietly.

To Your Good Health

Temple Artery Arthritis Severe

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What information do you have on temporal arteritis? I had an artery biopsy, which determined that this was the cause of my terrible headaches. That was eight months ago and I'm still taking cortisone.—Mrs. G. I. S.

This is also called "cranial arteritis," and as the name implies, is an inflammation of arteries in the temple area. It occurs mostly among perons over 50.

I sympathize with you, knowing the very painful headaches that can accompany this problem. On the brighter side, however, it is the onset of these headaches that brings most victims to their doctors for relief.

While the temporal arteries are the ones inflamed, the brain itself usually is not affected, the effects mostly limited to the vessels of the eyes and the outer head. The temple becomes sensitive to the touch, and in svere episodes the arteries themselves can be seen visibly throbbing.

The usual treatmnt is with steroid drugs such as the cortisone you are taking. Treatment is continued until the inflammation is brought under control. Untreated, it can affect vision.

The disease is diagnosed definitely through arterial biopsy, as was done in your case.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write something about Valley Fever. I know there is little known about it, and there is no effective treatment. My doctor has prescribed vitamins. How long does it take to get this infection out of your system?—Mrs. R. T.

Medically, this is known as tongue-twister.

It is caused by a particular fungus that affects the lungs, with coughing, fever and chest pain as accompanying symptoms. There can also be bloody sputum. In these respects it resembles tuberculosis and, in fact, is sometimes mistaken for TB. It can be differentiated through appropriate skin tests.

The spores are breathed into the system from the air. Because the spores seem to thrive best in dry areas, it is also called "desert fever." The American Southwest is one such area, so the disease is often suspected among residents or former residents who exhibit the symptoms I've mentioned.

eqeoiqezelyd vsvktkezb zqtryr

There are two forms, chronic and progressive. Ordinarily, there is no specific treatment for the chronic form, which may subside with time and rest. Amphotericin B, an antifungal agent, is used in the progressive variety.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 18. I have a problem called cryptorchidism—the failure of the testicles to descend, in my case only one.

It is embarrassing, not to mention being scary, so I would like to know what is happening. What problem does this present? What can be done to become a normal human being?—C. W. K.

Well, I suppose it's a matter of what you mean by "abnormal." What is happening? It has already happened.

You have one testicle nestled snugly in your scrotum, where it belongs. The other one was intrrupted in its descent. Chances are this is a functional problem, which should be good news to you. With both testicles undescended, one might suspect a glandular disorder, which would have indicated possible sterility. If that were the case at your age, hormone treatment would not help. This treatment is effective only if begun before puberty.

There is some risk in leaving the undescended testicle where it is. I suggest, therefore, that you see a nurologist to determine its exact location and condition Surgery might be indicated, possibly to remove it.

This need not affect your fertility.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have what they call Tietze Disease, and have been doctoring three years for pain in my chest. A doctor finally told me that was what I had. The pain is terrible, and you would think you were having a heart attack.

The doctor put a shot of medicine into the area around my right breast and the pain has eased. Would you please explain this desease, how serious it is, and what can be done for it? I am 47 and in perfect health. I have had pneumonia and pleurisy. — Mrs. P.T. M.

This is a painful swelling of joint cartilage where a rib attaches to the breast bone, usually involving the second or third rib. It is also called costal chondritis, or Tietze's syndrome, after the doctor who described it Alexander Tietze.

It is a fairly common disorder, yet one that is frequently overlooked since it can mimic other problems. Pain in the front part of the chest is the usual symptom, thus focusing attention on the heart. But it has nothing to do with the heart or the lungs. Certain chest movements, as in coughing or twisting, well aggravate it.

The cause is not known, but it is thought that an injury in the area may be a factor.

The injection you had was mostly likely hydrocortisone into the joint space. Heat and simple pain killers usually help, and hydrocortisone will give prompt relief. You may require other injections later on it the pain persists.

Jim: "Traditionally, a four-level, vulnerable, preemptive bid should be made with an eight-trick hand that has little or no defence against any other suit. South's preempt had another feature. He thought he might make it even if partner held very little."

Oswald: "When South looked at dummy things didn't appear to be satisfactory. Dumm's ace and king of clubs were unavailable to help South while they would be sure tricks against any East-West contract."

Jim: "East played the queen of diamonds on his partner's king and West continued with a low diamond. South ruffed and decided the best line of play would be to run off trumps quickly and hope that his opponents would hang on to clubs."

Oswald: "The play worked beautifully. As each additional spade was led, the discarding by East and West got more and more painful. But all these painful discards were red cards. Eventually, after the eighth trump was led, East did discard a club, but it didn't matter. West was down to the ace of hearts and three clubs. A heart threw him in and he had to give South his contract."

A Florida reader complains, "I opened one club in fourth seat. My opponents proceeded to bid and make four spades. My partner says I should have passed the hand out since my hand:

♠ x x ♥ A x x ♦ K x x ♣ A Q x x x had no defense against spades.

The answer to our reader is that his hand qualifies as an opening bid in any and all systems. All opening bids don't lead to a profit. All he need know that year in and year out he will gain by opening that hand in any position, vulnerable or not.

California Tests Lettuce Harvester

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Growers in the salad bowl of the United States are quietly pushing development of a mechanical lettuce harvester which could cut the size of the work force and, supporters claim, improve quality.

The machines, which will cost more than $40,000 each, would cut the field work force in halves. The United Farm Workers (UFW) and the Teamsters, the two major unions representing field workers, have not commented on the idea so far.

Although developers say the mechanical harvesters would allow five men to do the work of 10, with less crop damage, growers tend to play down the impact of mechanical harvesters on the work force.

"These machines are not going to go out and replace a lot of people," said Jack Buffington, manager of one of the largest lettuce farms in the Salinas Valley, where 70 per cent of the nation's head lettuce is grown.

Buffington said machines to wrap the lettuce in the field are already in use, and "this is just one more function we're trying to mechanize."

Lettuce is big business in California, boasting a $243-million crop in 1974.

The size of this year's crop has not been estimated. In recent years, however, there has been an overabundance of lettuce and growers have been getting only six cents a head, although lettuce in supermarkets sells for up to 50 cents a head, depending on location.

Caryl Saunders, who calls herself a volunteer iceberg lettuce promoter and whose work is financed by lettuce growers, said mechanical harvesters would help growers get higher prices because the lettuce would be more uniform in quality.

"Men in the fields are paid by how much they pick, so they tend to be careless," she said, adding that the density of the heads they pick varies. The machine would provide uniform quality.

Bud Antle, one of the biggest growers in the Salinas Valley, has obtained non-exclusive licence to produce a mechanical harvester developed by University of California at Davis. It will incorporate features of a similar machine developed by the U.S. department of agriculture at Salinas.

Roger Garrett, who heads the research group at Davis, says a crew of five, working on a two-row harvester, could do the work of about 10 men picking lettuce by hand.

The harvesters cut the lettuce heads off at the base, and load them onto a conveyer belt which carries them to the top of the line, where workers standing beside the belt can sort and pack the lettuce.

Both the Davis and agriculture department machines feature an "electronic freeze," enabling them to cut firm, ripe heads and skip loose, immature ones.

Repeated efforts to get comment on the harvesters from the Teamsters and Cesar Chavez' UFW were unsuccessful.

In the past, both unions have said they don't oppose automation, but want their members to share in any benefits.

Black Community Police Squad Formed

TORONTO (CP) — A new form of police squad has been formed here—one to guard against racial strife

Under the personal inspiration of Police Chief Harold Adamson, the black community squad was founded.

"Leaders of the black community had gathered for a meeting at police headquarters to express their concern," said Inspector Gordon Lennox, commander of the operation.

"They told us a permanent contact with the police department was needed—officers who could see both sides to a problem and iron things out."

Two officers formed the basis of the squad.

Winston Melchor, 40, served five years as a policeman in the Caribbean island of St. Lucia, where he was born

He specialized in ethnic community police work here.

Al Miles, 37, was also in community services for three years and 10 years with the police force.

"Melcher is black, Miles is white," said Inspector Lennox.

"It was essential for us to be sure that both men were free of any prejudice."

The two officers were immediately aware of problems in even defining Toronto's black population. There were no statistics only estimates, as to its total with a figure of around 100,000 the most widely accepted.

"It is not a community as such," said Constable Melchor "Blacks are widely scattered with concentrations in a few areas."

The squad began to form contacts with black businessmen, religious groups and special West Indian organizations. The two men said they found nervousness on the part of blacks who were afraid to talk to them.

The Western Guard, a white supremacist organization, particularly terrorized some of the black organizations, the policemen said.

The two men are usually occupied wit hroutine investigations. On a shift they called average, three calls were answered.

They have also showed that they help persons of all nationalities.

Talking to a black hairdresser, a white customer sat there, without saying a word, Constable Miles said. "As we were leaving," he said, "she called out. 'Hey, what do you guys do for us Canadians.'"

"It appeared we had given her the impression we were only concerned with the black community," Constable Miles said.

"In fact, it turned out that she did have a problem, and we were able to help her."

Kissinger Denies Firing Ambassador

VAIL, Colo. (AP) State Secretary Henry Kissinger refused Sunday to confirm reports that Beverly Carter Jr., who played a leading role in helping free four persons kidnapped from Tanzania, has been fired as United States ambassador to that country.

Kissinger said when asked about the report that it is U.S. policy not to negotiate with terrorists for the release of American captives.

To do so, he said, would endanger the lives of thousands of American citizens who might become victims.

Kissinger denied a report that Carter had been transferred out of the state department, but avoided a direct answer when asked if Carter had been relieved as ambassador to Tanzania.

The reports said the black diplomat was being reassigned to the U.S. information agency at a reduction in status and pay.

Isabel Peron Makes Public Appearance

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A smiling President Isabel Peron, seemingly unaffected by Argentina's economic and political crises, was cheered long and loud Sunday by thousands of supporters in her first major public appearance in weeks.

"Isabel, Isabel, long live the chief," shouted thousands of men, women and children gathered at the Plaza de Mayo, the city's main square, as the 44-year-old Mrs. Peron waved at them and smiled continuly.

She presided over the 125th anniversary ceremonies of the death of Argentine liberator Jose de San Martin.

A police official estimated the crowd at about 6,000, most of whom shouted cheers for Mrs. Peron constantly. Others raised their arms in victory salutes. There were no visible anti-Isabel demonstrators.

Observers thought there were signs that the atmosphere of tension and crisis in the Argentine capital was easing, at least for the time being. They said it was partly because most everyone is waiting to see how her new cabinet will perform.

Crown Attorneys Fed Up with Wages

TORONTO (CP) — Some of Ontario's 160 Crown attorneys are fed up with their wages and are talking about hiring a lawyer to plead their case to the government, Sydney Robins, a former head of Ontario's 10,200-member legal profession, said Sunday.

Mr. Robins said he had been approached by the Crown Attorneys' Association of Ontario, but said it would be premature to comment on a possible confrontation with the government.

The Crown attorneys "simply want to talk about it," he said.

Mayor R. Jeffrey To Resign Friday

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey ended a week of speculation Monday when she announced her resignation effective this Friday.

Mayor Jeffrey told city aldermen shortly before the close of council session her decision was based on her new responsibility as Conservative candidate for the upcoming provincial election in Quinte ridings.

She explained she is resigning, "not through necessity, but because I believe that this action is in the best interest of the people of this city."

Although her provincial candidacy does not require Mayor Jeffrey's resignation from office, election in the Sept. 18 Ontario election would.

Mrs. Jeffrey also said the decision on who will be her successor and the means by which one will be chosen is entirely in the hands of city council and she would neither comment nor suggest anything on the matter.

In late July four aldermen, Paul Russell, Ben Corke, George Zegouras and Art Keegan said they were interested in the mayor's chair. Mrs. Jeffrey has declined to swing her support to any one alderman.

Under Ontario municipal law council must fill the vacancy this year either by appointing one of its members or calling an election.

She said her provincial campaign "will require my whole attention and energy. Because of this, I cannot in the weeks ahead devote my full time and thoughts to the concerns and problems of the people of Belleville as they need and expect and as I had promised."

Mayor Jeffrey was acclaimed to her second term as the city's chief magistrate last December. Prior to her first election as mayor, she was a city alderman for five years.

She was chosen the Conservatives candidate at a nominating convention Aug. 11 in Trenton.

Mayor Jeffrey told Council Monday only her husband, campaign manager Fred Deacon, an unnamed Trenton friend and city manager Wilbur Purcell knew of her decision beforehand. "I wanted to be fair to each member of this council", she remarked.

She said she wished to pay tribute to, and express appreciation for, the city's administration staff — city manager Purcell, department heads and personnel and the staff and appointments to the various city boards, commission and committees — "the men and women who loyally and faithfully serve this community as our civil service and volunteer citizens."

Ald. Jack Ireland commented on council's reaction to the announcement. "The announcement you made, we foresaw, but it was startling," he said, commending Mayor Jeffrey for the city's "great growth of planning under your leadership."

Portuguese Red Unions Denounce 'Fascist' Foes

LISBON AP — The Communist dominated central trade federation Intersindical called a 30 minute general strike today to protest "escalating Fascist reaction" and attacks on Communist parties across the country.

Communist party leader Alvaro Cunhal planned to lead a rally tonight in the Crystal Palace at Porto, 175 miles north of Lisbon, continuing his battle for Communist control of the Portuguese revolution.

In Moscow, the Soviet Union accused "imperialist forces" of interfering in Portugal, called for "massive solidarity" behind its Communist leaders and charged that North Atlantic Treaty Organization military forces staged manoeuvres to threaten the Lisbon government.

An article in Pravda said Western powers were using pressure tactics reminiscent of "things that happened just before the Fascist coup in Chile." Kremlin propagandists have endorsed charges that the American CIA helped overthrow Chile's Marxist president Salvador Allende and install a rightist junta.

The general strike was called after an evening in which a Communist worker was killed and 100 persons injured in a shoot-out in a small northern town and Premier Vasco Goncalves lashed anti-Communists in a speech to 5,000 left-wing labor union members in Almada, near Lisbon.

Reports from the town of Ponte de Lima said Antonio Lima, 47, was caught in a crossfire when soldiers opened fire at an anti-Communist mob trying to attack a Communist work centre.

Lima, a worker from Lisbon vacationing in the town, was shot by Portuguese troops, the Portuguese news agency ANI said.

The wounded were hit by pellets from shotguns fired by Communists inside the work centre, ANI said.

At Almada, a Communist industrial stronghold, Goncalves told the union crowd that "some fascist elements are steering the process" of anti-Communist violence and called on "patriots and revolutionaries" to support the ruling junta.

The crowd roared back: "Death to fascism!"

American Pilot Rescues Germans

TRAUNSTEIN, West Germany (AP) — A wounded American helicopter pilot faces possible border violation charges for flying three East German refugees out of Communist Czechoslovakia under a hail of bullets, the Bavarian state border police said today.

A police spokesman said the American, Barry Meeker, 33, of Hartford, Conn., was under investigation for alleged illegal border crossing from West Germany into Austria initially, violation of foreign air space and filing a false flight plan. Meeker, police said, reported on departing Munich-Riem Airport Sunday that he was making local flights.

Investigators also were trying to determine whether Meeker had flown similar escape missions in the past, the spokesman said.

Mekeer, describing himself as a decorated Vietnam war veteran and former member of Special Forces, said friendship motivated him to take part in the perilous airborne escape.

"I wanted to help an East German family to flee," Meeker told reporters at his hospital bed. "They were friends of friends of mine."

He brought out two men and a 14-year-old girl who was shot in the leg, but he said that gunfire forced him to take off without a man who had requested the rescue and an injured woman.

German authorities identified the man as "Thaddeus K.," a stateless person from Marburg, West Germany.

Meeker emerged as a mystery man to United States and West German authorities. There was speculation that he was working for an organization that smuggles refugees out of Eastern Europe.

Meeker told reporters he was the son of a businessman, had grown up and gone to a private school in New York and received a bachelor of arts degree from Columbia University.

Meeker said he entered active duty with a 2nd lieutenant's commission, joined Special Forces and later qualified as a helicopter pilot. He was in Vietnam in 1969-70, rising to captain and commander of a helicopter unit, he said, adding he was shot down on more than one occasion and decorated for bravery.

In 1970, he said he was transferred to the U.S. Army air field at Ludwigsburg, near Stuttgart, and left the service in 1972. He went to Munich where he married and took a job for a helicopter charter company. He also worked for a firm that evacuated injured persons from the Bavarian Alps and, it was during this time that he became familiar with the Traunstein Hospital where he landed Sunday after the dramatic escape from Czechoslovakia.

Authorities identified two of the three escaped refugees as Guenther Neukirchner, 60, of East Berlin, and his daughter, Birgit, the injured girl. The other refugee was described only as a 19-year-old student, a friend of the Neukirchners.

He is sponsored by an exchange program between the National Federation of Young Farmers's Clubs and the Junior Farmers of Ontario.

Plan Secret Sinai Pact

TEL AVIV (AP) — The newspaper Ha'aretz reported today that Israel and the United States will sign a secret agreement of understanding containing about 40 clauses as part of a second stage Sinai pact.

The newspaper said the pact will cover three years and will include these major points:

—The U.S. will ensure that another force independent of the United Nations Security Council will replace UN troops in the Sinai buffer zone if renewal of the UN peacekeeping mandate is vetoed in the Security Council.

—The U.S. will not press for a partial settlement with Jordan.

—Washington will agree that no more interim settlements with Egypt will be initiated without Israeli approval.

—Washington will co-ordinate future holitical moves in the Middle East with Israel, including strategy at the Geneva peace conference, if it is reconvened.

—Israel will agree to negotiate another partial settlement with Syria, but it will provide only "cosmetic changes" of the present ceasefire lines.

The foreign ministry would not comment on details of the report. A spokesman said only that Israel will sign an agreement with the U.S. as one of three parties to a Sinai accord.

It was understood the agreement would require approval by the U.S. Congress, other newspaper reports said.

Ford Threatened

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Bail was set at $100,000 Monday for a man accused of threatening the life of President Ford. Thomas Elbert, 34, who was released from prison last May after serving five years for threatening the life of former president Richard Nixon, did not post bail.

Reports Censored

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — Foreign correspondents here were told Monday night that they must submit all their reports on developments in Bangladesh to the Indian government for censorship before sending them abroad.

Must Raze Addition

TORONTO (CP) — The borough of York has ordered Giovanni Chido to tear down a two storey extension to his house at a cost of about $15,000. Mr. Chido said a building company told him he could get the extension approved by the city. The house is three feet longer than allowed by the borough's building permit.

FBI Probes Deaths

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) is investigating the circumstances surrounding 41 cases of respiratory failure, including seven deaths, during the last three weeks at the Veterans Administration Hospital. The FBI confirmed Monday it was investigating at the request of hospital administrators.

Four Charges Laid

SASKATOON (CP) — David William Threinen, 27, of Saskatoon appeared in court Monday to face four charges of murder punishable by life imprisonment following the discovery by police a week ago of the bodies of four Saskatoon children.

Kidnappers Threatened Victim and His Father

NEW YORK (AP) — The alleged kidnappers of whisky heir Samuel Bronfman II planned the abduction months ago and threatened to kill him and his multi-millionaire father unless a ransom demand was met quickly, the FBI says.

In a complaint filed Monday In U.S. District Court, the FBI said Mel Patrick Lynch, a New York City fireman, and Dominic Byrne, a limousine operator, admitted seizing the 21-year-old victim.

Rejecting a defence plea that the two were "amateurs involved in some kind of lark," U.S. Magistrate Martin Jacobs set $500,000 bail for Lynch and $200,000 for Byrne on a charge of extorting the $2.3-million ransom.

Later Monday, Westchester District Attorney Carl Vergari said he would press state kidnapping charges against the two Irish-born Brooklynites because they had not taken their alleged captive across state lines, a necessary qualification for applying federal kidnap statutes.

In court, FBI special agent Joseph Conley said Lynch, described as the "prime mover" in the alleged plot, prepared the ransom letter to Edgar Bronfman sometime in June "demanding a ransom and further informing him he and his son would die if payment were not made as instructed."

None of the Bronfman family attended the court proceeding and Samuel spent his first full day of freedom at his mother's Purchase, N.Y., estate watching TV and swimming, said his brother, Matthew, 16.

Rehabilitation Not Possible Says Professor

TORONTO (CP) — Criminal behavior is not necessarily a sickness, so it cannot be "cured" through prison rehabilitation programs, law professor Joseph Weiler from the University of British Columbia said Monday.

"Very few prisoners in rehabilitation get rehabilitated." Mr. Weiler said in an interview from the home of his brother, Toronto lawyer Robert Weiler.

"The inmates know this— most of them call the programs phony games."

Prisoner Asks Guard Be Charged

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP) — One of three British Columbia penitentiary prisoners charged with murder punishable by life imprisonment in the death of a prison employee called Monday for a charge of murder against a penitentiary officer.

Dwight Lucas said Albert Hollinger should be charged with murder.

Mr. Hollinger was accused last month by B.C. Chief Justice John Farris of mixing up the guns used in the fatal shooting of classification officer Mary Steinhauser, 32, so the identity of the person who fired the shot would not be known.

Miss Steinhauser was one of 15 hostages held at the penitentiary by the three knife-wielding prisoners for 41 hours in June. She died and prisoner Andy Bruce was wounded after guards rushed the vault where the hostages were being held.

U.S. Labor's Refusal to Load Grain For Russia Angers Farm Leaders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Farm organization leaders and political figures in key grain states are reacting strongly against the announced refusal of maritime unions to load United States grain on ships headed for the Soviet Union.

AFL-CIO President George Meany said Monday the unions will refuse to handle the grain until the Ford administration guarantees that consumers are protected from higher prices and takes steps to provide more work for American seamen.

The stop-work order came after the International Longshoremen's Association and five other AFL-CIO maritime unions threatened last month to boycott the new Soviet grain shipments.

The boycott is being imposed at Great Lakes, Gulf and East Coast ports because the grain sales to the Soviet Union would "cost American consumers billions of dollars," Meany told reporters in Washington. West Coast dock workers are represented by an independent union which has not joined the protest.

There was no immediate reaction from Ford administration officials.

However, Gov. Robert Bennett of Kansas—the biggest U.S. wheat-producing state—said the boycott "is an ill-conceived grandstand play that could have tragic consequences for the wheat-producing Midwest and our entire nation."

He urged President Ford "to take quick and forceful action to see that the export of U.S. grain is not disrupted."

Board members of the Kansas Farm Bureau directed John Armstrong, their president, to investigate the possibility of a $1-billion class action suit against the AFL-CIO and the International Longshoreman's Association.

In neighboring Missouri, C. R. Johnston, president of the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation, said the boycott is "piracy or worse," adding that "the maritime unions have no right to decide where we sell our wheat."

Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch
Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most important—this improvement was maintained in cases where clinical observations were continued over a period of many months. Furthermore, these tests and observations were made on patients with a wide variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. All this was accomplished with a healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a stated cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator).

Satisfaction or your money refunded.

Picton Residents Favor New Off-street Parking Lot

PICTON — With the growth of the traffic problem in the downtown area of Picton, one of the attempts to solve the situation was the paving of a lot on Mary St. on the site of the former St. Mary school.

Three years ago, the school which was not in use was torn down and the empty lot was left for some parking.

It was not until this year that the lot was paved and turned into the town's only free parking lot.

In a recent survey taken in the parking lot and around the downtown area people were asked to reply to the question: Do you feel this parking area has helped with the problem of the downtown parking?

Here are some of their responses:

SAM ARMSTRONG

A resident of Cherry Valley who comes to Picton to shop Sam Armstrong said, "Absolutely, it has helped with the parking problem."

"The downtown area is a parking problem and that's why people go to shopping centres," said Mr. Armstrong.

"The distance is no problem. It makes no difference where one parks."

"The lot is smooth, and is really wide to avoid accidents," said the retired Mr. Armstrong.

MRS. KEITH ROSE

Mrs. Keith Rose, of West Lake said, she thinks the parking lot is "ideal".

"It is not as handy as downtown but it is better than some of the other parking areas in the town."

Mrs. Rose said the town needed the lot badly and said she used it before it was paved.

"I come to town about twice a week and I think the parking lot is just wonderful," said Mrs. Rose.

BILL KUSTERS

A 31-year-old former Picton resident who said he is going to return to Picton to live, Bill Kusters said he thinks the idea of the parking lot was good.

"I park here most of the time," said Mr. Kusters.

Mr. Kusters, a residental counsellor, said he used to do most of his shopping in Belleville but, "I do more shopping in town now than before."

"I like places where I can park free, and this is one of those places."

BARBARA HOAG

The manager of the Quinte Office Supply Ltd. at the Armory Mall, Barbara Hoag said, "Since I haven't got my car fixed, I don't use it but I used to use it all the time."

"It is the only free parking lot in the town that I know of," said Miss Hoag.

The 26-year-old manageress, said, "it has improved business."

"It is better than ones where you have to put money in the meter," said Miss Hoag.

BEVERLEY SKIDMORE

"The parking lot was needed badly," said Beverly Skidmore, co-owner of the County Book and Craft store in the Armory Mall.

"The previous site was in disrepair," said Mrs. Skidmore.

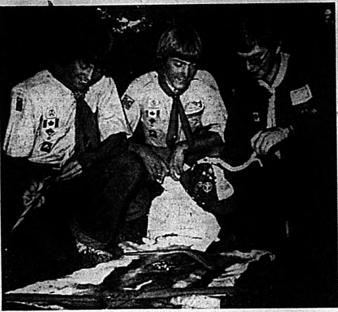
"The town could probably use a couple more located conveniently around," said the 30-year-old entrepreneur.

CHUCK DURANT

A teacher at Prince Edward Collegiate, Chuck Durant said he thinks the idea of the parking lot is good.

"This is the first time I've used it but it is handy, and I'll probably use it again," said Mr. Durant.

An English teacher, Mr. Durant said the idea of having no parking meters "may bring people here."



Jamboree Loot

Examining the items they traded for while attending the 14 World Scouting Jamboree in Lillehammer, Norway are, from left, George Moase, Mike Gray and Lyle David. The boys, part the nine-member Trenton contingent, spent almost a month travelling in the Nordic countries before arriving home Sunday.

World Jamboree Example Of Co-operation Say Scouts

TRENTON — "Five fingers-one hand" was the theme for the 14th world scouting jamboree but the nine-member Trenton contingent would like the word "tuk" to be added.

"Tuk" to their hosts," "tuk" to their new friends and "tuk" to the old friends and families that made the Nordic trip possible.

Tuk means thank you in Swedish.

Recently back from the "month-long trip to Lillehammer, Norway, the site of the jamboree for more than 15,000 scouts from 94 countries, the boys said they had only fond memories of the journey.

"Five finger-one hand meant it was only possible for the five Nordic countries Denmark, Iceland, Norway, Sweden and Finland to sponsor the jamboree if they worked together and this feeling was evident throughout the nine-day jamboree," one of the scouts said.

"You met and got to know many different people from all over living the tent-city and there was very little trouble understanding anyone," another said.

They said the most common languages were English and German.

"Sometimes the message had to pass through two or three people before it was understood but eventually the meaning got across."

After almost a year of fund-raising activities in Trenton by the boys, and all the other scouts in Trenton they left on July 18.

"The highlights of the trip for me was living with the host family" said Lyle David, 17. I learned more about the culture and people, sampled food I never would have ordered in restaurants and travelled to places with the family I would not have normally seen."

"I also enjoyed the rescue camp," he said "because we learned proper procedure for locating a lost person, emergency first aid treatment and how to transport them out over tough terrain."

There was a lot of trading going on at the jamboree, all the boys said.

"I traded my official Canadian jacket for this coat with a Swedish scout," said Mike Gray, 14. "I really enjoyed the opportunity to meet all the scouts."

For Mike and George Moase, 14, the highlight of the trip was the 24-hour march they took as one of the main features of the jamboree.

"We were divided into groups of eight, each with a nordic leader, and we all pulled together during the hike over the rough terrain," George said.

After the jamboree ended the boys went on a week-long trip, one of four offered to the scouts.

One went on a boat and bus trip to the Norwegian Fjords, while another went on a cycle tour of Denmark with the third visiting three of the Nordic capital cities.

Hydro Rates On Way Up

TRENTON — If the 25.7-per-cent increase being considered by the National Energy Board is granted to Ontario Hydro, Trentonians can expect a raise of at least 10-per-cent in their January, 1976 electricity bill, said Douglas Manlow, manager of the Public Utilities Commission (PUC).

"Usually there is only one rate adjustment a year but when they raised the rates effective August 1, they only included a 15-per-cent buffer for additional costs," he said in an interview Monday.

He said the additional 10-per-cent difference between the buffer and the new hike would have to be passed on to the consumer as quickly as possible.

"Most people are becoming acclimatized to rising prices and rates and there was little hue raised after the last increase, he said.

Firm Joins Picton Park

PICTON — The Industrial Commissioner for the county of Prince Edward, William J. Duggan, industrial commissioner or Prince Edward County said Monday CER-A-MET Manufacturing Ltd., which produces castings for the machinery manufacturing market, will commence production next month in Loch Sloy industrial park here.

With an initial work force of about 15 in the first year, it is expected to increase this number to 35 in the future, Mr. Duggan said.

Picton was chosen for the site because of the availability of building and services, and through a loan provided by the Ontario Development Corp., he said.

Convention Date Set

PICTON — The secretary of the PPrince Edward-Lenox Liberal Association, Malcolm S. Dulmage, has confirmed the date of the nomination convention.

The convention will be held Monday, August 25, at 8 p.m. at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, in Picton, said Mr. Dulmage.

One of the contenders for the Liberal Party banner, Mr. Dulmage said, is Keith MacDonald, past warden for the county of Prince Edward.

THE DATSUN SPIRIT.
IT'S WHAT YOU GET OUT OF WHAT WE BUILD IN.

You'll get the feeling the first time you drive a 710. We call it the Datsun Spirit. And it has to do with the driving pleasure you get from a 710. Comfort is an important part of it, but so is the performance of the car, and the styling. Put them all together with the same engineering expertise that built the Datsun "Z", and you've got the feeling.

You've also got economy, with a thrifty 2000 cc overhead cam engine that delivers the typically high gas mileage of all Datsuns. And on the practical side, there's enough room for comfortable family driving, with four different models to choose from, 2- and 4-door sedans, 2-door hardtops, and 5-door wagons.

So test-drive a 710 at your Datsun dealers' today. We think you'll feel what we mean.

Extraction of Oil in Marketable Form Key Problem for Both U.K. and Canada

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

It's great for a country to discover vast new deposits of oil and gas.

But the discovery doesn't mean much until somebody solves the problem of extracting the oil and gas from beneath the earth's surface, and converting it into usable energy.

That's a lesson that Britain is learning, and that we in Canada will have to learn as well.

The British discovery of huge amounts of oil and gas in the North Sea was initially thought to mark the beginning of a golden age of energy oil-sufficient for the United Kingdom.

But the treacherous North Sea doesn't give anything up easily. The recent decline in sterling on foreign-exchange markets probably reflects a withdrawal of capital by foreign investors who have become disillusioned about the prospects of an early self-sufficiency.

Here in Canada, we are steadily losing our self-sufficiency in oil. The location of big new supplies is pretty well known—but, like the British, we are encountering endless problems in trying to develop and distribute those resources in a form that consumers can use.

The oil and gas industry in Canada last year completed 11.3 per cent fewer wells than in 1973, and reduced its exploratory drilling by 21 per cent.

In the first half of this year, the industry's spending on land acquisitions in Western Canada was down 26.7 per cent from first-half 1974, and our oil production for the full year is expected to be a 11 per cent lower.

This is the year, in fact, when Canada will again become a net importer of oil. Last year our oil exports exceeded imports by about $800-million.

"It's clear that Canada will become increasingly dependent upon imported oil, at least for the next decade and until major new domestic oil reserves are developed," says the current Monthly Review of the Bank of Nova Scotia.

What has happened is this: The success rate of discovery has fallen, and shown that forecasts of a few years ago were far too optimistic. The technology needed to extract and synthesize the oil in the Athabasca tar sands is still imperfect. Federal and provincial taxes and royalities have become an important disincentive to exploration activity. And special-interest groups have managed to delay work on new pipelines that could transport supplies from the frontiers to the country's main distribution systems.

In a nutshell, the energy crisis is real, and the deficit in oil is sure to grow worse.

By the 1980s, Canada's increased dependence on oil bought from the cartel (the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries) will likely lead to a serious deficit on our international payments—not as unmanageable as Italy's, perhaps, but bad enough.

It's probably too late already to ward off the intensified energy shortage and the payments deficit that are in store. Too much time has been wasted.

But it isn't too late for governments to bury the hatchet and agree on policies that would stimulate greater production and the construction of badly needed distribution facilities.

Let's have a national energy policy that puts the essential needs of the Canadian people first, rather than proclaiming political dogma about federal-provincial rights, foreign investment and the like.

Belleville's Progress

There's word of the closing of a cloth plant in Campbellford with the loss of 80 jobs, and that is one of those economic facts of life in these recessionary times.

Belleville though seems to belie any talk of recession. The Century Place development downtown is proceeding apace, in the course of a year that has seen an increase over last year in building permits. A mini-mall at the corner of Coleman and Moira is another project scheduled soon. More town housing too scheduled for the North Park Street area.

There has been word of the opening up of 180 acres of industrial land in the northeast area of the city, with spur lines being constructed to service Fabricon Manufacturing Ltd. and the Proctor and Gamble plant. Also locating here, in the northwest Industrial Park, is Tru-Glass Ltd., with work already under way.

But overshadowing even these promising industrial activities is the prospect of a big expansion involving the Quinte Mall. Preparation for this is expected to get under way shortly — for expansion of the mall itself and apartment construction adding up to a $10 million enterprise which officials say could make the Cambridge Leasehold mall complex the city's largest single taxpayer.

Belleville is growing industrially at a pace that is the envy of many a community in the province. Increasingly cosmopolitan it is a city that is being enhanced by such growth. There's room for expansion too, residentially, through prospective arrangements such as the one with Thurlow township.

It's a promising picture, and it reflects growth which we are likely to see continuing.

A Region's Charm

Globe and Mail travel writer Robert Turnbull, whose dispatches frequently come from exotic places overseas, found himself in Prince Edward County recently.

The result was a wide-ranging survey of the vacation attractions of this unique corner of Canada which locals know as Little Spain and visitors regard as one of the most scenic and charming of the province's holiday locations.

The county's beaches are well-known, but for sheer beauty its eastern reaches: the chain of peninsulas and small islands, plus the fragmented terrain south of Napanee — extending southward from highway 15 where it overlooks Long Reach to Highway 8 and Waupoos Island, is one of the most rewarding.

Highway 9, just out of Napance, to the south, for one, affords a milieu of sweeping farmland, far horizons, woodland and water. At one point, where the road skirts waterside cottages and a farm feed plant, the view is across to the Adolphustown area where there is a tiny beach and park and memorial to Sir John A. MacDonald.

Flattering as it is to find this region noticed by the big city travel writer, these are the kind of places it is fun to find on one's own, as it is easy to do with a little help from the official Ontario road map, or better still the large detailed map of the county available in at least one of the city's bookstores.

Ministerial Charisma

If he were not a politician—and a provincial cabinet minister, Claude Bennett might pass for a movie star or a professional golfer.

The minister is a handsome, youthful-looking man, conservatively enough dressed but with that touch of flair which sets someone apart.

As Minister of Tourism, Mr. Bennett gets around. Didn't they have his picture up in lights or something for a recent New York promotion? But it's not just the big cities that gain his attention or presence. He was in Bancroft again of late, when Hinterland Handcrafts Ltd. received the government's "A" for Achievement award for their outstanding contribution to the economy of the province.

Clarke Rollins and Jack Ellis, representing Hastings at the provincial and federal level respectively, were there too and while they are well-known in the area, Mr. Bennett might be thought to be electioneering locally as well. For wasn't he in Bancroft not too long ago?

Maybe it is time we got to see Mr. Bennett in Belleville. This election period would be as good a time as any, given this area's interest in tourism.

DONATO

Personalities An Election Key: Minority Government Possibility

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Anyone at this stage would be a fool to make on-the-line predictions about the election.

In the 32 years of Tory power there never has been a vote, unless it was the first one in 1943, that started out in such a state of uncertainty.

It is still generally assumed that the Davis government will be returned.

But in just what shape is anybody's guess.

The most disturbing factor is the hard core of anti-government resentment that is spread through the province.

There is no doubt that it is there and also that it spreads into pretty well every corner.

But how big is it and how important will it turn out to be?

This is the question for which there is no answer.

Though it should be noted that people who are resenting tend to be voluble and perhaps there is much greater sound than fury to the dissent.

Another question about the election is that a good many people, it seems, are not any more pleased with either of the opposition parties.

Which automatically presents the problem of just how much pull Bill Davis can exercise.

The polls show him personally running strongly ahead of Liberal Leader Bob Nixon and NDP Leader Stephen Lewis.

But will this transfer into votes?

In a good many cases it probably will not.

For generally speaking there is a rather exceptionally good list of candidates in this election, which can mean local fights, and which in turn can translate into wins and losses based on local personalities much more than leaders or parties.

A development that is at least sufficiently possible to consider at this beginning stage is that we will end up with minority government.

It will take 64 seats to provide a clear majority in the next, 125 seat, house.

The government now has 74 and there are eight new seats up for grabs.

This means, in effect, that it would have to drop 18 seats for minority.

One would say this is perhaps not probable but still it is far from impossible.

There are a few sitting members who are in for close fights, including two cabinet members (Policy Secretary Margaret Birch and Environment Minister Bill Newman) and there are at least 14 PC's who are retiring, which means their seats represent a new deal.

There could be a minority.

Five women were hanged for witchcraft 283 years ago today—in 1692—at Salem, Mass. Trials began when a book on witchcraft by Cotton Mather, Congregationalist pastor of Boston, published in 1689, stimulated the clergy as well as laity. In Salem, 10 girls accused Tituba, a Negro slave, and two other old women of bewitching them. Within months hundreds were arrested and tried. 19 hanged and one pressed to death for refusing to plead. Governor ordered release of all charged with witchcraft in 1693.

People — both private and in government — are more than ever conscious that conservation goes beyond protecting a particular monument or historic building and that what is conserved should be for the use and pleasure of all, the humble as well as the mighty.

"In restoring the historic areas of old towns, architects and planners must beware of creating rich men's ghettos," a British Member of Parliament told a recent Council of Europe debate on European Architectural Heritage Year (1975). "We must be aware of conservation's social and economic factors. We do not want our town centres to be offices and insurance companies. We want housing, and rents which make it possible for the original inhabitants to live there."

He was voicing a view generally held by others who spoke in that debate, including a Norwegian parliamentarian who cited the example of Bergen. Planners there had intended to raze a large area of modest, whitewashed wooden homes which, they assumed, would result in providing better housing conditions for more families. But a survey showed the redevelopment would have housed fewer families. Furthermore, the residents were opposed to the destruction of their community. So the authorities abandoned the project and substituted individual housing improvements.

The case was also cited of Bologna, where a vigorous city council is pushing through the renovation of the old city centre in such a way that the residents will be able to return and benefit from low-rent housing.

Another example of the new concept of "integrated conservation" — preservation of historic towns and city centres as living units — is the Danish city of Elsinore where planners are working closely with the public as part of a comprehensive plan to halt the city's population growth at 65,000.

"In Elsinore," says Toren Echkardt-Hansan, in charge of the slum-clearance and rehabilitation, "we can show you a town where the people really like the town centre: they identify with it, care about it." The Elsinore team is convinced that people living in the old centres are more content than those living in new parts of towns.

In Belgium, a 25-year master plan calls for the renovation of some 6,000 old houses in the ancient Flemish city of Bruges. No sooner did work begin on the first houses than the first tenants took options to buy. Some 600 smaller homes have been subsidized by a local committee to be used for elderly people and low-income residents.

The human dimension in conservation is also apparent in a new book just published by Unesco, The Conservation of Cities.

The folly of failing to take into account the human element was vividly illustrated in New York City, when some of the massive box-like apartment houses built to replace old neighbourhood tenements, soon became such festering sores that they had to be blown up.

In Paris, where the height of buildings was once strictly limited, it was still possible for the critic Lewis Mumford to remark in the 1950s that of all the great cities in the world, Paris still kept its human scale. But, as the Unesco book notes, Paris has succumbed to the growth of high-rise structures.

Mayor's Nomination by P Cs

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Bellevillians who have been suffering the torment of uncertainty need do so no longer. The Tory crew have nominated their candidate for the upcoming provincial election.

Mayor Robin Jeffrey got the nod over Trenton's Doug Whitley so we can now brace ourselves for the avalanche of political platitudes about to be launched.

Voters in the Quinte area should check their docking facilities so that Mayor Jeffrey can safely dock her bathtub as she paddles her way around the riding.

In her nomination speech, she made some six-point program suggestions ranging from "friend of the family farmer" to the building of the new Bay bridge. From what she said, one is left with the firm impression that her predecessor, Dr. R.T. Potter either did little or cared less about those things the Tories feel are important.

So, be prepared to accept a mooring line should the Blue Bathtub pass your way. Who knows, you might even get some wine and cheese.

WILLIAM C. HOCKLEY.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FILES OF BYGONE YEARS

AUGUST 19, 1955

Town council in Trenton is considering providing homes for the aged and disabled. The matter was brought to council's attention by the president of the Quinte Disabled Persons' Club. Clerk-treasurer O.W. Larry explained that such a project would be amortized by the provincial and federal governments bearing 90 per cent of the cost.

40 YEARS AGO

A fire test was carried out today at the Hasting County Home. It took but thirty-five seconds for the automatic alarm to be sounded simultaneously in the Home and the Belleville Fire Department. Two and a half minutes later, the slowest fire truck in the department (scheduled to be taken out of service) reached the scene, about a mile from the Fire Hall.

P.M.—at Odds with the Press as Ever—Vacations While Inflation Burns

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — The government hates the media.

The feds see the press in an adversary role, always putting out the news they would prefer to keep under cover.

If the news is good, casting a favorable light on the government, the feds feel it seldom gets the public exposure it warrants.

All governments feel that way.

Mackenzie King was convinced that it was the press which brought on the "conscription crisis" that brought his government to the brink of breakdown through cabinet resignations and dismissals.

Louis St. Laurent believed that it was the press which inflated the issue of the natural gas pipeline financing into a "scandal," disrupting Parliament and wrecking his administration.

John Diefenbaker has held the press at least partially responsible for the destruction of his government.

The scenario for that drama involved certain picked members of the press being "fed" information by the United States Embassy in league with the opposition Liberals to create a political crisis over the Bomarc missile.

Lester Pearson always faulted the press for "overplaying" such skeletons in the government closet as the bribery scandal involving the remarkable prison escape of narcotics king Lucien Rivard.

Prime Minister Trudeau came into power publicly castigating what he called "the crummy press," and there has been little indication since that he has changed his opinion of the media.

He continues berating the press for "getting the facts wrong," as he phrased it at his recent press conference when faulting the media for not checking the "completely false" information that he had asked for an $8 refund on his 624-acre Laurentian estate.

He had taken issue with the amount of the tax, it wasn't a mere $8 but involved "many hundreds of dollars a year."

But if the Prime Minister believes, as he so obviously does, that the press gives him a shabby shuffle, he has taken positive counter-action in a style approached by no other PM.

To put out its side of the government story, his administration has more than 800 public relations men on the payroll, some of them drawing as much as $30,000.

Many of them are refugees from the nation's newspaper, radio and TV newsrooms, and never had it so good.

They pump out huge wads of press releases, puffs, blurbs and assorted flackery — and, to be fair, useful background material and summaries that condense and make quickly understandable such involved government documents as the budget, the estimates and those ever-soaring mountains of special reports.

But when some politically embarrassing situation confronts the government — as, with an Opposition trying to make waves, it invariably does — the public relations men go into hiding.

So it is left to the "working press," as it is called — compared, presumably, to the 800-plus federal publicists — to dig out the facts.

Or, as the Prime Minister so often regards them, the "distorted facts."

So how valid is the government's continuing conviction that the press is "against" it?

Well, the Prime Minister at his press conference presented himself for a skewering with his own words.

He said, at one point: "We all hope to be on vacation," and so he was "not anxious to see" United States Secretary Henry Kissinger in Montreal.

Then, at another point, speaking of continuing inflation and excessive wage settlements, he said: "It's still a very stark reality and it's something we must absolutely solve otherwise we'll go down the drain."

So if any member of the press cared to shaft the Prime Minister, the lead on the conference story could legitimately, on the basis of the quotes themselves, have read:

"Prime Minister Trudeau is leaving on vacation with the country, as he phrased it, confronted by 'the stark reality' of economic disaster if inflation isn't 'absolutely solved.' "

But no such lead was written even though the quotes were there in the printed conference text. Fair?

CP News Roundup

Extension Of Nurses' Job Urged

TORONTO (CP) — Five Ontario medical organizations have recommended the establishment of a special program to train registered nurses to expand their functions in hospital emergency departments.

This recommendation and others are contained in a brief submitted last June to the Ontario ministry of health and the ministry of colleges and universities by the Ontario Hospital Association, Ontario Medical Association, College of Nurses of Ontario, Registered Nurses Association of Ontario and the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Ontario.

The brief also recommends that the program should be four months long and that applicants be registered nurses with experience in emergency procedures.

The program should be conducted by university health science divisions already offering such training, the brief says.

Extends Poll

TORONTO (CP) — Roderick Lewis, chief election officer of Ontario, announced Monday that he has extended the advance poll for the Sept. 18 general election.

Mr. Lewis said a special advance poll will be held Friday, Sept. 12, from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. Advance polling dates designated by the Election Act are Saturday, Sept. 13, and Monday, Sept. 15, from noon to 9 p.m.

Mr. Lewis said the extra poll has been added because Saturday is the Jewish sabbath and the Monday poll falls on the Jewish holy day of Yom Kippur.

"Many people are still away from home on weekends in mid-September, so the additional day will be a convenience to many voters wishing to cast their ballot early," said Mr. Lewis.

176 Fires Burning

TORONTO (CP) — The ministry of natural resources reported 176 forest fires burning in Ontario Monday, 77 of them in the northeastern region.

Ministry officials said 39 new fires have been reported since Sunday in the northeastern region, most of them originating from a lightning storm.

Vote on Offer

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — About 3,500 workers at Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd. will vote Wednesday on whether to accept the company's final offer of a 90-cent-an-hour increase across the board this year, 20 cents next year and 20 cents in 1977.

The offer was reported to members of Local 598 of the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers Union by its bargaining committee Sunday night.

Kidnapping Charge

GODERICH, Ont. (CP) — John Clark Webster, 29, of Exeter, Ont., was remanded Monday to Sept. 15 for a bail hearing on charges of kidnapping, threatening to cause death and possession of a dangerous weapon.

Webster was to undergo mental examination during the remand.

He was charged in connection with an incident last Thursday in which his mother, Martha, of Zurich, Ont., was kidnapped and held hostage for about 90 minutes.

Goderich is 60 miles northwest of London.

Halt Service

MONTREAL (CP) — The city's public transit service will halt for the third time in less than a month Wednesday when transit workers plan another 24-hour work stoppage to hear a progress report on contract negotiations from their union executive, a union spokesman said Monday.

Building Opened

TORONTO (CP) — A $29-million building housing the province's forensic scientists, coroners and pathologists was officially opened Monday by Solicitor-General George Kerr, who called the 22-storey structure "evidence of Ontario's intention to provide law and order."

The building, named after former Ontario premier George Drew, will consolidate facilities for the province's crime investigators under one roof just minutes from Queen's Park.

Facilities for the investigators had been scattered in several locations across the city.

THE TRUTH OF THE MATTER

Shopping Service

TORONTO (CP) — Three women have developed a personalized grocery shopping service called The Shopping Cart by buying food for persons who cannot or do not want to shop.

Jo Anne Villone, Janefer Wyman and Michele Duval, all about 30 and with a common background in advertising, said they provide grocery shopping for customers. Orders phoned in the morning are delivered at night to persons who do not have time to shop, are ill, need supplies for last-minute entertaining or simply dislike grocery shopping.

Wrong Information

OTTAWA (CP) — Thousands of homemakers are being advised by the consumer affairs department that lids for canning preserves will be in good supply this year—although the minister admits its a mistake and two provinces are conducting inquiries into lid shortages.

The advice is contained in an article in Consumer Contact, the department's publication with a circulation of more than 150,000. The summer issue is being mailed this week.

A spokesman for Consumer Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet says the department now admits there is indeed an acute shortage of the canning lids.

Police Strike

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — More than 90 per cent of this city's 1,935-member force went on strike late Monday after the San Francisco board of supervisors refused to meet pay increases demanded by the Police Officers Association.

Picket lines immediately went up outside the city's nine police stations.

"Major crimes such as rape, robbery, murler and serious assaults will be answered, but such things as barking dogs and broken windows will not," Police Chief Donald Scott said.

Police public affairs officer Lieut. Frank Jordan said detectives, plainclothesmen, juvenile hall staff and sergeants at the patrol force level are replacing striking officers. But he said only three or four patrol cars were out, compared with the usual 45 to 50.

Recover Bodies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A single crude oil storage tank continues to burn as the killer fire at the Gulf Oil Co. refinery here slowly dies out.

The bodies of six city firemen were recovered Monday from pools of hot crude, foam and water around the tank where the blaze erupted before dawn Sunday.

The fire forced closure of the Penrose Avenue bridge, main artery between the city and Philadelphia Internaitonal Airport, but police opened the span to traffic at the start of the evening rush hour Monday.

Davis Promises Help for Tenants

TORONTO (CP) — As the campaign for the Sept. 18 Ontario election rolled into its second week Monday, the three major-party leaders were hard on the campaign trail, making election promises and taking shots at their opponents.

Premier William Davis used a Toronto luncheon address to about 100 Progressive Conservative candidates to attack Liberal Leader Robert Nixon and the Opposition leader took advantage of an evening nomination meeting in Windsor to do the same.

Meanwhile, NDP Leader Stephen Lewis was in London, decrying the government's policies on energy, land use and social welfare.

The premier also said he plans to take action against landlords who gouge tennants on rent, but said the full details will come later in the campaign.

Mr. Davis told the Conservative candidates that Mr. Nixon was wrong in his recent comdemnation of the Ontario school system.

Mr. Nixon has said the education system of the province is costing more and accomplishing less every year.

Mr. Davis, minister of education for nine years before becoming party leader and premier in 1971, said Ontario's educational system is the best in North America.

In Windsor, Mr. Nixon had harsh words for the premier's announcement Friday of tigher controls on firearms.

"A very worthy aim," Mr. Nixon said. "But according to Mr. Davis's solicitor-general, the law that is only now being proposed was approved by the Davis cabinet several weeks ago.

"Rather than presenting his gun-control measures to the legislature as soon as they were ready, Mr. Davis delayed his announcement until after the election was under way."

Mr. Nixon said the premier deliberately delayed the announcement in order to glean the maximum amount of publicity.

"Again and again, under Mr. Davis's government, the interests of the Conservative party have been put befort those of the people of Ontario," Mr. Nixon said.

Meanwhile, Mr. Lewis was in London, attacking the government for Ontario Hydro's proposed rate increases.

The NDP leader said the rate increases, if allowed to go ahead, would triple residential electric bills by 1980.

He said the government should take steps to put the Crown corporation under tight legislative control and put more public representatives on the board of directors.

Mr. Lewis said Ontario Hydro has become, in effect, a private company, backed by government underwriting, with no thought for the public interest.

He also said the Ontario Energy Board, which hears Hydro's rate-increase applications, exerts too much influence. That influence should come from the government, he said.

Mr. Lewis also said the government should take steps to ensure that developers are not allowed to speculate in land needed for housing.

He said an NDP government would expropriate land, if necessary, to help increase the rate of housing starts.

It would not be done artibrarily and developers would not lose money, he said. However, they would not turn a profit on the transaction.

STOL Service Studied

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says Ontario is studying the possibility of a STOL (short take-off and landing) program in southern Ontario.

The study will be based on the DHC-7 class of aircraft designed for short take-off and landing being tested by de Havilland Aircraft Ltd. in Toronto for commuter use, the newspaper says.

The province will decide whether it would be a good idea to get involved in intra-provincial air services as well as assessing demand for STOL service in 46 centres, including Brockville, Chatham, Barrie, London, Kitchener, Owen Sound, Peterborough, St. Catharines Pembroke, Bancroft, Oshawa and Woodstock, the newspaper says.

The study, to be completed in October, is part of a program to assess the possibility of turning the airport on Toronto Island into a STOL terminus.

It will also examine deficiencies in existing air services, the role of air transportation in regional economic development and possible jurisdictional conflicts with the federal government, the newspaper says.

Nominated

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Treastrer Darcy McKeough was nominated Monday as Progressive Conservative candidate for Chatham-Kent, the seat he has held since 1963.

Rabies Doubles

OTTAWA (CP) — Reported cases of rabies have nearly doubled in the Ottawa-Carleton region a semi-annual report prepared by the health unit said Monday.

The report shows there have been 58 cases of rabies reported during the first half of 1975 compared to 22 cases reported during the first six months of 1974.

Postal Consultation Described as Failure

OTTAWA (CP) — Consultation between the post office and the Canadian Union of Postal Workers (CUPW) has not produced satisfactory results and should be replaced by formal negotiations, Jean-Claude Parrot, CUPW national vice-president said Monday.

Mr. Parrot was presenting the position of his 22,000-member union, representing postal clerks and mail sorters, at the opening day of hearings by a three-man conciliation board named in the union's contract dispute with the post office.

He said the consultation process had broken down and the post office was making decisions on questions such as automation and job classification by itself.

E. C. Waddington, in charge of the government negotiating team, said the union had advised the post office department it no longer would be involved in voluntary consultation during the course of negotiations.

The board, chaired by Judge Jean Moisan of Quebec Superior Court, was named under terms of the Public Service Staff Relations Act. It is expected to hold hearings for about two weeks and present a report.

The union is legally entitled to strike seven days after the report is received. The earliest possible strike date would be Sept. 8.

The last contract was ratified in February, 1973 and expired at the end of December. The postal workers staged two weeks of illegal strikes in April of last year over the department's automation program.

Ann Landers

Breast Examination Should Be Routine

Dear Ann Landers: Recently I had plastic surgery on my face. Before going to the hospital for the operation I was told to drop by the doctor's office. He wanted to take pictures of my face for the "before and after" file and give me instructions for entering the hospital.

When I arrived at the office a nurse instructed me to go into a private room and remove my blouse and bra so the doctor could listen to my heart. He came in and he listened to my [illegible] from the back. Then he [illegible] around and felt my [illegible] "for lumps."

I wonder if this was necessary, seeing as how I had come in for a face operation. What do you think?—Slightly [illegible]

Dear S.S. I think it would be wonderful if every doctor took the time and trouble to examine every female patient's breasts for lumps no matter what they came in for.

Also, if they'd take every patient's blood-pressure thousands of strokes and heart attacks could be prevented. I'm all for making these examinations routine. They take only a few minutes and are painless.

Moreover, knowing you are okay is a very good feeling.

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you insinuated that the reason Elizabeth Taylor lost so many husbands was because she didn't fix breakfast in the morning.

Your theory that wives who took themselves out have successful marriages is ridiculous. The laziest women I know are the most pampered and adored. The workhorses are kicked in the rump. I know because I'm —One Of The Latter

Dear One: Talk about a lash-up in communications, your letter wins the fur-lined bathtub.

I said nothing about breakfast or workhorses. What I DID say was, "With beauty does not come a lifetime guarantee that the marriage will succeed. Liz Taylor, one of the world's most beautiful, is considering her sixth."

Dear Ann Landers: My daughter, age 24, has been treated for gonorrhea and pronounced cured. Following that, she had two abortions 11 months apart. One man was the cause of it all. He did not marry her. All expenses were borne by me—her mother.

After these nightmarish episodes the girl has pulled herself together and appears to be in excellent health, both emotionally and physically.

She is now going with a wonderful young man and they plan to be married. I need to know, what are her chances for becoming pregnant and producing a healthy normal child?

I have worried myself sick over this although she doesn't seem the least bit concerned. Please reply soon.—Holding Together

Dear Holding: If the abortions were well done, with no complications, and her gynecologist has pronounced her "cured," your daughter's chances of producing a normal, healthy child are excellent.

Value Judgments Belong in School

VANCOUVER (CP) — Should the Palestine Liberation Organization be allowed entry into Canada?

Can stealing or disobeying your parents, or breaking a premise, ever be morally justified?

A University of British Columbia professor says this sort of question is rarely discussed in classrooms.

Dave Williams says the questions are loaded with value judgments and teachers often feel ill-equipped to handle them appropriately.

"Some schools either try to ignore values and value issues in the curriculum, or they go to the other extreme and deal with them in an indoctrinative way, or in a way that suggests to students that values are just a matter of personal preference."

He and some colleagues are so convinced of the importance of rational classroom discussion of values issues that they've prepared a new diploma program on the subject for teachers.

The in-service program is the equivalent of a 10-month program and can be taken on a full-time or part time basis.

Mr. Williams, assistant professor of social studies and curriculum, said he believes the program is unique because it offers a diploma.

"What we want to do is enable teachers to criticize their own practices and to develop programs encouraging youngsters to behave rationally and responsibly in making value judgments, and in resolving value conflicts."

Moral questions arise in almost all school subjects and from day-to-day behavior in class or on the playground, and teachers must handle the issues responsibly.

Mr. Williams said the tendency has been for teachers to avoid such issues as fairness rules, prejudice and civil rights because they are afraid of indoctrinating students or are uncertain about how to tackle the questions.

But he says avoiding the issues tends to give young people the impression such questions are unimportant.

And he thinks the danger of indoctrination is greater if teachers lack the skills and concepts needed to promote rational discussion of values.

Under the program's methods, students would be asked to evaluate a situation and to separate facts from value judgments. After discussion, written work, role-playing or other activities; several opinions could emerge.

Mr. Williams thinks that in the process, some students should be learning to apply certain standards of reasoning in arriving at certain decisions.

Women Face 'Super Machismo' Attitudes in Newsroom

OTTAWA (CP) — Journalism students should be prepared to deal with the "super-machismo" atmosphere in newsrooms, Gail Scott, CTV parliamentary correspondent, said Sunday.

She told the annual meeting of the Association for Education in Journalism that "the newsroom has always been a super-machismo territory and journalism has always been a sexy, male profession."

"Women have a problem in dealing with it," she said.

Ms. Scott said most successful newswomen have avoided getting caught up "in roles which are strictly male or female."

But they still have to learn to cope with their own reputations. "All successful women are referred to as hard-nosed bitches, whether they are or not."

Sociology professor Gertrude Robinson of McGill University told the conference that 25 per cent of the full-time news employees on Canadian daily newspapers are women.

"Only five of the 106 papers have no female staffers."

Prof. Robinson said there are indications that "there are probably barriers interfering with female progress along the managerial track."

"In spite of the fact that the whole print industry is bottom heavy, with the greatest number of personnel involved in news gahering and production, the fact that so few women are promoted to managerial ranks must cause concern."

Prof. Robinson said the average salary for all news personnel in 1974 was $12,827, "whereas the mean for women was only $10,958."

No Relief in Sight For Price of Meat

OTTAWA (CP) — Consumers can expect little or no relief in the price of beef, pork and poultry over the next year or so. This is suggested in a recent report on the world feed grains situation by the agriculture department.

Although production in the 1975-76 crop year is expected to exceed last year's, feed grain supplies are expected to remain tight, virtually eliminating any possibility of lower prices.

Agriculture department economist J. S. Carmichael said in the report that most Canadian feed-grain yields should be average. Total production is expected to be slightly more than 18 million tons.

"Production is not likely to be large enough to give any increase in supply over that of 1974-75," Mr. Carmichael said. "This means no improvement in the relatively tight supply situation that has existed in Canada for the last two years."

The poultry industry is most dependent on feed; up to 80 per cent of the cost of producing a broiler chicken is in grains and feed supplements. The proportion is 40 to 45 per cent in hogs and up to 33 per cent in slaughter cattle finished in a feedlot. Cattle matured by grazing require less feed grains.

Couple the anticipated stabilization of feed grain prices at their present high level with higher costs in every other agricultural sector and higher consumer prices are the almost inevitable result.

A possible offsetting factor is increased stocks of cattle, hogs and chickens, but agriculture department officials think this likely will occur only in hogs and will mean only a slight decline, if any, of currently high pork prices.

Computerize Data

OTTAWA (CP) — A $5,000 grant has been received by the Media Club of Canada from the ministry of national health and welfare to implement a computerizd registry of notable Canadian women. From material gathered by club members, abstracts of biographical data will be prepared by professional writers and programmed into a computer at Toronto's York University Data Centre. It is anticipated this data will be available continent-wide.

Young Volunteers Loved Their Work

By ISABEL HUGGAN

At an age when "love" is how you feel about cute boys, horses, pop groups and milkshakes, nine Belleville girls have discovered the word has another meaning.

Students in grades seven and eight at Sir MacKenzie Bowell Public School, they've spent the past seven weeks assisting with the LIP-sponsored recreation program for mentally handicapped children at the William R. Kirk School. And in that time they've moved from initial hesitancy, and a little fear, to deep affection for their young charges.

"These kids are so loving," explained Linda Vesterfelt last Friday (the final day of the program), as three or four children clustered around her in the playgrounds. "We all really love them now. It's going to be so hard to leave, we're hoping to continue seeing them once school starts."

"They're all so smart in their own way, we've found that out," said her sister Debbie Vesterfelt. "These kids may need more attention, but they sure show more appreciation than ordinary kids. That's one of the reasons it's been such a great summer here."

The other girls — Sandy Stewart, Judy Skinkle, Janet Vicker, Debbie Horton, Dindy Hansen, Andrea Hale and Velvet Briand — echo the enthusiasm of the Vesterfelt sisters, and acknowledge that they have learned "more than they thought they would" during their days of play supervision.

"Quite frankly, this project wouldn't have worked without these girls," said Nancy Bronson, who with Peter Crawford and Barb MacQuarrie has been in charge of activities ranging from arts and crafts to films and field trips.

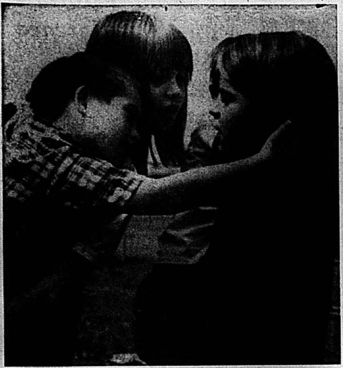
"They've spent so many hours here with the children, and never let us down. They've been so fantastic there's no way to properly thank them.

"When we first started canvassing for volunteers we went to the high schools, but students there all want jobs where they can make money. When we went to the public school, we got a tremendous response, and it worked out even better than we'd hoped," she said.

"Perhaps because they're younger they started out with fewer inhibitions, and began handling the children very well right from the beginning."

One of the aspects of the project that most pleases Nancy is that it has taught the girls the value of volunteer work, and the reward that comes from helping others.

The girls in the playgrounds agree that the summer has added to their understanding of human nature. They know more now about exceptional children, and more about themselves.



Hugs were part of playground duty for the volunteers.

Vandermeer — Windsor

Monica Windsor became the bride of Hans Vandermeer in a wedding service held August 2 in Westminster United Church, conducted by Rev. Frank Mitchell.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross Windsor of RR 5, Belleville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Vandermeer of RR 5, Belleville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of sheer over sharkskin with a high neckline and sleeveless bodice, featuring a front and back ruffle accented with alencon lace and pink rosebuds. A lace-edged veil fell from a crown-type headpiece of lace and seed pearls, and the bouquet was a cascade of white carnations and sweetheart roses.

Valerie Brinkert was maid of honor in a pink gown with a set-in yoke and raglan sleeves, trimmed with pink flowers. Dona Windsor and Jennie Vandermeer were bridesmaids in yellow gowns in the same style. The three attendants carried nosegays of pink roses, white carnations, yellow prims and baby's breath.

Arnold Vandermeer was the groom's best man, and Darrell and Greg Windsor were ushers.

Kimberly Allen was soloist for the occasion.

A dinner and dance at the Parkdale Community Centre followed the wedding ceremony.

The newly-married couple now live at 165 Charles Street.

Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Berry

Berry — Corrigan

Sharon Harriet Minerva Corrigan and Kenneth Wayne Andrew Berry exchanged marriage vows recently in St. Paul's Church, Shawville, Quebec.

Archdeacon M.K. Roberts officiated at the double - ring ceremony.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elvyn Corrigan of Shawville, and the groom is the youngest son of Mrs. Dorothy Berry.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown with a chapel train of white peau de soie, an empire waistline and long nylon puffed over lace sleeves. The high lace neckline was studded with pearls. A pillbox of appliqued Alencon lace caught her elbow length veil. Sharon carried yellow silk roses with blue forget-me-nots and baby's breath.

Jean Faris of Ottawa, was maid of honor in a yellow gown of taffeta, with an empire waistline, short puffed sleeves and square neckline. She carried a nosegay of blue daisies and forget-me-nots, yellow black-eyed susans with baby's breath.

Aletha Wilson of Campbell's Bay, and Dawn Messer were bridesmaids. They wore similar ensembles in blue and carried similar nosegays. All attendants wore white wide brimmed hats.

George Messer was the groom's best man, assisted by ushers Stephen Poole of Ottawa and Allison Corrigan of Shawville, the bride's brother.

The wedding supper was held in the Church Hall.

After a honeymoon trip to the Kawartha Lakes, the couple are residing in Ottawa.

Why Not?

HALIFAX (CP) — Sylvia McGuire says it's International Women's Year and women should be able to do whatever they want—"including entering beauty pageants." Miss McGuire, 20, and a third year education student at Dalhousie University, did just that recently. She won the Miss Halifax pageant and plans to compete in the Miss Nova Scotia contest.

Queensboro WI Holds Meeting

Lois Gordon was hostess for the August meeting of the Queensboro branch of the Women's Institute, and vice-president Grace O'Rourke was in charge. The roll call was "What future does a farmchild have?"

Hilda Declair, agriculture convener, presented the program assisted by Marguerite Thompson and Goldie Holmes. 4-H girls entertained with songs and acrobatic stunts, and several members spoke on the motto "Credit makes cheap things dear".

Because of the large number of photographs used on these pages, it is not possible to return engagement, wedding or graduation pictures through the mail.

However, all prints and negatives are kept in a file at the women's desk upstairs in the editorial department of The Intelligencer, and may be picked up as soon as they have appeared in the newspaper.

When sending a photograph for use in the newspaper, choose a glossy black and white print if you can, since reproduction will be clearer from this type of print than from a color photo.

Phillies Share The Top Rung

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh Pirates are so low they can lose twice without playing against major leaguers.

The Pirates, booked on a six-game tailspin, had a night off from the major league rat race but still took it on the chin, losing some pride and then sole possession of first place in baseball's National League East.

The International League all-stars, not above hitting a team when it's down, stepped on the Pirates 5-2, then Philadelphia Phillies clubbed Atlanta Braves 6-3 to join Pittsburgh atop the East standings.

In Monday's other National League games, Cincinnati Reds rolled to their ninth successive win by beating St. Louis Cardinals 3-2 and in the process eliminated Houston Astros from any mathematical chance at the West title.

Undaunted, the Astros blanked New York Mets 4-0, Los Angeles Dodgers tripped Chicago Cubs 3-1 and Montreal Expos beat San Diego Padres 4-1 before losing the second game of a doubleheader 5-2.

Pittsburgh, after losing 11 of its last 12 games, has the same 67-55 record as the Phillies, their cross-state rivals. The Pirates had been alone in first since June 6.

"We're winning them one by one and that's what you have to do when there are 40 or more games left," said Mike Schmidt, who hit two homers for the Phillies. "It's good to be in first place.

"But what counts is where you are when your season is over. It's going to be tough from here on out."

Schmidt hit his first homer of the night in the first inning, after Dick Allen, making his first appearance in Atlanta since he refused to play for the Braves earlier in the season, belted a two-run homer. Schmidt led off the seventh with his 28th homer of the season.

Cincinnati ace Don Gullett pitched for the first time since a hairline fracture of his right thumb sidelined him June 16.

Gullett delivered 67 pitches and five shutout innings before giving way to Pedro Borbon. Will McEnaney, Clay Carroll and Rawley Eastwick all got their turns in relief as the Reds dropped the Cardinals 2 games behind the Pirates and Phillies.

The Reds remained 17½ games ahead of the second-place Dodgers and 38½ games ahead of the last-place Astros.

Houston manager Preston Gomez saw the figures on the wall long before Monday night. "We've been out of it for two months," he said.

James Rodney Richard pitched a six-hitter and contributed a run-scoring single, one of two hits by the Astros.

Los Angeles pitcher Burt Hooton, 11-9, gave up five hits before leaving for Mike Marshall in the eighth.

Fourth Quarter Production Does Job for Saskatchewan

WINNIPEG (CP) — Saskatchewan Roughriders took over sole possession of first place in the Western Football Conference on Monday night with a 20-13 win in a defensive battle against Winnipeg Blue Bombers.

The game held little excitement for the sellout crowd of 25,210 except for moments of offensive strength in the second and fourth quarters. Lorne Richardson snuffed out any hope of a Bomber recovery in the final seconds by intercepting a pass in a Bomber third-down gamble in the Saskatchewan zone.

Riders needed a 10-point fourth quarter to take the victory which left Winnipeg in second place with three wins and two losses.

STEVE MOLNAR

Molnar who ran for 14 yards and a two-point conversion on a pass from Ron Lancaster to Rhett Dawson.

In the fateful final quarter, the Roughriders got a safety when Winnipeg quarterback Ralph Brock was called for grounding the ball while being hit in his end zone. Riders then got a touchdown from Steve Saskatchewan's first touchdown came on a 59-yard strike from Lancaster to Tom Campana in the second quarter. Jack Abendshan converted the major and added a field goal in the first quarter to round out the Rider scoring.

Winnipeg's only touchdown came in the second quarter when Brock completed a 20-yard pass to Gord Paterson. Other Winnipeg points came on a pair of field goals and a convert by Bernie Ruoff.

One of Ruoff's field goals completed a 41-yard offensive march by Winnipeg in the third quarter to give the Bombers their only lead in the game, 13-10.

But it was an 81-yard march directed by Lancaster that sewed the game up for the Roughies. The distance was covered in five plays and was finished off by Molnar's run.

The Bombers' only touchdown was set up by a Saskatchewan fumble. Lancaster was mobbed by Winnipeg tacklers and Jim Heighton recovered the fumble for Winnipeg at the Saskatchewan 20-yard line. On the first play, Brock connected with Paterson in the end zone.

Riders dominated the game statistically with 18 first downs to Winnipeg's 11. Riders had 169 yards rushing—102 of them by George Reed who carried 20 times—and 188 passing as Lancaster completed 15 of 30 attempts. Bombers rushing total was a mere 72 yards and they moved only 137 yards through the air.

Bombers' biggest threat on the ground was Steve Beaird who carried 13 times for 28 yards.

Campana led Saskatchewan receivers with five receptions and 113 yards while Paterson for Winnipeg hauled in four for 49 yards.

Expos Folkers' 'Cousins'

MONTREAL (CP) — Rich Folkers has managed only five wins in 13 decisions during the 1975 National League baseball season, but every time he faces Montreal Expos, the San Diego Padres left-hander seems to enjoy his share of success.

Folkers scattered six Montreal hits Monday night as the Padres topped the Expos 5-2 for a split of their twi-night doubleheader. In the opener, the Expos took a 4-1 win.

"I finally had a good first inning," said Folkers, who fanned the first three batters he faced. "Usually I have everybody running around and warming up in the first."

Of the five wins this season, Folkers had registered two against Montreal. Lifetime, he is unbeaten in four appearances against the Expos.

The Padres staked Folkers to a 2-0 lead in the first inning with Dick Sharon and Bobby Tolan slapping run-scoring singles. A two-run single by Ted Kubiak gave the Padres a 4-0 lead in the fifth and after Montreal added a pair of run in the sixth, Tolan collected his second RBI of the game with a run-scoring single in the seventh.

In the opener, the Padres and Expos were tied 1-1 heading into the bottom of the eighth inning. With two out, Montreal catcher Barry Foote reached on an error by shortstop Hector Torres and went to second when Tim Foli walked.

Pinch-hitter Jose Morales stepped up and lined a single to centre to send Foote home and as the Montreal catcher crossed the plate, he smashed into Padres catcher Fred Kendall, knocking him back and the ball towards the San Diego dugout. Foli scored and Morales went to third on the play and Morales came in on Jim Lyttle's single.

"I have to try and score," said Foote. "I hate to do things like that and I certainly didn't want to hurt him. But I have to score."

Carew Enjoys Downing Birds

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rod Carew loves beating Baltimore Orioles—but he loves beating their manager even more.

Carew banged out three hits in three at-bats Monday night and scored a pair of runs in Minnesota's 6-1 American League baseball win over the Orioles.

"I love to beat Baltimore, and particularly Earl Weaver, because he pops off so much," Carew said later.

In Monday's other American League games, Detroit Tigers defeated Oakland A's 5-3, California Angels beat Milwaukee 5-4 Brewers and Cleveland Indians swept Texas Rangers 4-3 and 4-2.

Dave Goltz limited the Orioles to six hits while Dan Ford and Johnny Briggs drove in two runs each for the Twins.

"A couple of hits in the right spot might have turned it around in the early innings," Weaver said. "We had them on the ropes, but Goltz got a lot tougher as the game wore on."

Bill Freehan's 13th homer, a three-run blow off Vida Blue in the third inning, paved the way to the Tigers' third successive win and trimmed Oakland's West Division lead over Kansas City Royals to 5½ games.

Tom Campana caught a 59-yard touchdown pass from Ron Lancaster in Saskatchewan Roughriders 20-13 Western Football Conference win over Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday night to move into second place in the individual scoring race.

The touchdown gave Campana five for the early season and a total of 30 points, just five behind kicker Dave Cutler of Edmonton Eskimos.

Riders' Rhett Dawson caught a two-point conversion pass from Lancaster to move him into third place with 26 points on four touchdowns and the convert.

2-point Efforts Make Difference

TORONTO (CP) — When are 74 convert points not equal to 72 converts?

When they're scored in the Canadian Football League.

Up to last weekend, there had been 74 touchdowns scored this season and 74 convert points.

In actual fact, only 67 of the touchdowns had been successfuly converted, seven of them on the new two-point conversion ule in which a team can run or pass for two points.

Montreal Alouettes exercised the two-point conversion rule most often with one quarter of the 1975 season gone and were successful on three of six occasions—two passes to Peter Dalla Riva and one pass that was ruled complete on a pass interference call.

Of the conventional kick for the point after, CFL toes have been successful on 60 of 60 attempts, making the kick still the surest form of putting points on the board.

Where to find a 10¢ pay phone.

The cost of making a local call from some pay phones in Belleville, Picton, Trenton and surrounding areas is increasing to 20 cents. But there are still 10 cent pay phones around. And we'd like to tell you where you can find them.

The 10¢ Pay Phones
Generally, you'll find these phones on sidewalks, in railway and bus stations, hospitals, nursing homes, rooming houses and churches.

The 20¢ Pay Phone
Pay phones in most other locations, such as hotels, airports and restaurants will go up to 20 cents.

Pay Phone Emergency Calling
At the same time, a new service will be added to all outdoor pay phones. What this added service does is enable you to reach the Operator, Directory Assistance and Repair Service without depositing a coin.

From now on, when you're calling from a pay phone, look for the information card above the dial. It clearly tells you whether it's a 10 cent or 20 cent pay phone.

Black Diamond to Final

Black Diamond has advanced to the Belleville Industrial Softball League playoff final, sweeping Post Office three straight after dropping the opener of their best of five semi-final series.

Monday night at Queen Elizabeth Public School, Black Diamond wrapped up the set, overcoming an early 1-0 deficit with a three-run fourth inning on the way to a 4-1 victory.

Winning pitcher Ron Bateman not only stopped the Posties while scattering seven base hits, he had a key double in the winning rally. Bateman fanned five and walked one while holding the losers off the scoresheet in every inning except the first.

Norm Lockhart took the loss. He matched Bateman's seven-hitter, striking out six and walking one.

Posties were charged with five errors and the winners, three.

Bateman, Jack Francis, Ralph Francis and Doug Stewart each banged a double for Black Diamond. Checking in with a single each were Gene Grancis, Ron Andrews and Myles Mconnell.

Leading the Posties was Soup Campbell with a double and single. Bob Wludyka and Lockhart checked in with two singles each and George Johnson had one.

Black Diamond will meet the winner of the Brooke Bond - Intelligencer semi-final which resumes at Queen Elizabeth tonight. Brooke Bond leads 2-1.

Cannifton Stays In Contention

Five clutch runs in the last inning gave Cannifton Plane's Concrete an 8-6 win over Melrose in South Hastings Baseball League playoff action, Monday.

Things couldn't be closer now, as each team has won two games in the series, and tied one.

Bob Robb and Larry Adams combined for the Plane's win. They allowed eight hits while walking four and striking out the same number.

The loss was shared by Terry McTaggart, John Pepper and Ted Abrams, combining to give up seven hits, six walks and strike out six.

Garney Adams' home run helped Plane's on the way to the win, John Tweedy singled twice and Larry Adams doubled to lead the winning attack.

For the losers Larry Pascoe doubled and had two singles while Rick Meagher doubled and Glenn McMechan had a three bagger.

The series is now at a point where the winner of the next game goes on to the SHBL semi-finals to meet Foxboro Merchants.

Kings Trade Young

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Los Angeles Kings have traded centre Tim Young, their first choice in this year's National Hockey League draft, to Minnesota North Stars.

"We did not want to pay the high salary demands of Young considering our acquistion of centre Marcel Dionne earlier this summer," said Kings general manager Jake Milford on Monday.

There are already six centres on the Kings roster.

The Kings said they would get Minnesota's second-round pick in the 1976 amateur draft in exchange for the six-foot-two, 178-pound Young, who was the second leading scorer in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A series last year with 56 goals and 163 points in 70 games for Ottawa 67s.

Los Angeles also announced it had signed Andre Lebeck, its third pick in the 1975 amateur draft.

Lebeck, a 195-pound defenceman, played with Sherbrooke of the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League last year. He scored four goals and 26 points in 68 games as his team went to the Memorial Cup playoffs. He is the first of the Kings' 1975 draft picks to sign a contract.

DOAK SIGNS

BOSTON (AP) — Defenceman Gary Doak and left winger Dave Hynes have signed contracts with Boston Bruins, the National Hockey League club said Monday. Doak will be in his ninth season with the Bruins. Hynes, who scored four goals for Boston in limited action last season, also had 42 goals and 25 assists in 59 games for Rochester in the American Hockey League.

Port Hope Midgets Winners

PORT HOPE (Special) — Ken Swales was one inning away from a shutout here Monday night as he and his mates disposed of Belleville Yardmen in Eastern Ontario Baseball Association playoff action, taking the third and deciding game 12-1.

Swales had the Belleville batters hitting the ball to his mates most of the night while fashioning a solid five-hitter. He struck out 11 and showed excellent control, walking none.

Meanwhile his teammates were backing his effort with a 10-hit attack on three visiting pitchers. Frank Meloche, Peter Hall and Bill Whalen shared the losers' pitching.

Dale Sidey tripled and singled twice to lead the Port Hope attack. Bill Austin and Chris Bullen connected for a triple each.

For Belleville, Terry Pascoe rapped a triple in the ninth when Yardmen took away Swale's bid for a shutout. Howie Coons stroked a double with a single each for Ken Revoy, Bruce Bell and Meloche.

MISSES TOURNAMENT

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Johnny Miller, complaining of an ailing left wrist, withdrew Monday fro mthe $250,000 Tournament Players Championship. The golf tournament, a designated event in which all leading players are required to compete, begins Thursday on the Colonial Country Club course. Miller received a medical release. Miller is the only one of the game's major stars who is missing from the 144-man field.

CONCEPCION SIDELINED

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Shortstop Dave Concepcion will be sidelined for two to three weeks because of a fractured bone in his right wrist, Cincinnati Reds of the National League reported Monday. Concepcion, hitting .258 in 109 games, was hit on the wrist with a pitched ball during a baseball game Aug. 8 and has not played since. X-rays taken Monday revealed the fracture which was placed in a splint.

BYBF Sweeps To Pennant

Now the Belleville and District Ladies' Softball League can get down to the business of post season playoffs. Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund has been officially declared the pennant winner after a convincing 11-1 defeat of Purinaettes Monday in a sudden death contest to decide first place.

The teams went into the Monday game with 41 points each at the top of the list of standings.

BYBF broke out in the hitting department in this one, rattling out an even dozen safeties off Purinaette starter Sandra Fleming and Darlene Bedore who came on to pitch the last two innings.

Sue Morton, Shirley Gulliver, Carol McFarlane, Marj Reid, Donna Preston and Helen DeMille each connected for a pair of BYBF safeties.

Joan and Jane Bailey, Fleming and Roseanne Chapman shared the only four hits given up by winning pitcher Gulliver whose neat pitching performance received plenty of backing. She struck out three and walked two.

Carol McFarlane won a Red Barn barnbuster when one of her hits went the distance for a home run.

Errors Hurt Devolin's In Loss to Auger's

By TOM GAVEY

Sports Staff

Devolin Motors pitchers must be wondering what's happening behind them, as the Motormen lost another one on errors Monday night.

This time the victim of the miscues was Don Holoway. He allowed just two hits and four walks, while striking out four.

There were five errors made behind him, the second game in a row the Devolin defence has been suspect.

The final score was 4-0 in Auger Men's Wear favor, to give them a 1-0 lead in the Quinte Fastball League playoff series.

In the other game Bardon Supplies defeated Howard and Robert 4-1.

Bob Swan was the winner for the Trenton entry. He gave up just four hits, while walking none and striking out five batters.

LINESCORE

Auger Men's Wear	100 120 x—	4	2	0

The Auger safeties came from Dave Lott with a single and Bob McAlpine with a pinch hit triple.

Triples from Rick Rosebush and Rick Watt still couldn't produce a Devolin run, as Dennis Orr of Auger's stood firm at the plate. Dave Horwood and Jim Horwood both singled.

If Devolin is to win any games in the series they will have to tighten their defence, as that is what Auger's have been capitalizing on.

In the second game the H and R team played with only nine men all night, which, to say the least, cramped their style.

Carl Stacey did the pitching for Bardons, giving up five hits and one walk. He set down four batters on third strikes. Relief help came from Ken DeMille. He was touched for one hit and walked two, as well as striking out two.

The loss went to Ted Baker, who allowed six hits and two walks. He had three strikeouts.

Rob Wallwork and Doug Noble both tripled in the winning cause and Denis Neron doubled. Singles came from Ron Weese, Warren Ostrander, and Stacey.

Hits for the losers came from the bats of Terry Pope, with two singles, Larry Potter, Rick Graham, Ron Hill and Rod Ridley with one single each.

Two of the league's established teams, Howard and Robert and Devolin Motors will have to iron out their problems if they are to advance in the playoffs.

The Motormen will have to cut down drastically on miscues if they are to get by the aggressive Auger team. Howard and Robert will have to have more players turning out to stand an even chance with the league pennant winners, Bardon.

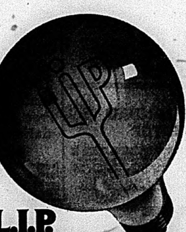
If you've got an idea that will make jobs, then you've got the right idea about L.I.P.



L.I.P. Sending ideas out to work.

The Federal Government's Local Initiatives Program is all about ideas that help fight unemployment. Canada's Local Initiatives Program has been praised by both the U.S. and Great Britain, and has been adopted for use in Australia.

In short, it works. To keep it working, we need your help. If you've got a creative, original, and innovative idea that will make jobs where there were no jobs before, drop by your Local Canada Manpower Centre and pick up a L.I.P. application form.

Your L.I.P. program has up to $150,000 for every approved municipal project and up to $100,000 for other approved projects.

Want to turn that vacant lot into a safe playground for the kids? Or make your old town hall look like new again? Tell us about it. But do it now. All applications must be in no later than September 12, 1975. The ideas you have this summer could create a lot of jobs this winter. And that's the best idea of all.

Top Seeds Find Going Tough

OTTAWA (CP) — There were at least five upsets in more than 150 matches among about 225 young Canadian tennis players competing in the first day of the Canadian junior national junior tennis championships Monday.

In girls singles under 12, second seed Marie Claude Goyette of Granby, Que., was defeated by Louise McDonald of Toronto, 6-3, 7-5. Fourth seed Lorie Leighton of Calgary was defeated by Francine Black of Trois Rivieres, Que., 7-6, 6-1, in the girls singles under 14. The third upset was in the boys singles under 16 when Nigel O'Rourke of Toronto beat sixth seed Chirl Little of Clarkson, 6-0, 6-4.

In girls singles under 18, Laurie Rope of Toronto defeated fourth seed Pat Sinclair, also of Toronto, 6-0, 7-6. And Lawrie Dale of Toronto dumped fifht seed Harry Knoester of New Glasgow, N.S:, 6-4, 6-4 in boys under 14 singles.

There were few other surprises in the first round. In one of the quickest matches of the day, top seed Marjorie Blackwood of Ottawa disqualified Jane Boultbee of Burlington, Ont., in girls singles under 18, 6-1, 6-0.

Miss Blackwood's male counterpart, John Picken of Burnaby, B.C., rapped Toronto's Henry Cole, 6-2, 6-2, in a much longer and more relaxed match.

All matches in regular rounds are best two out of three sets using a 12 point tie-breaker at six games all. Some thirds sets stretched over hours, including that between Richard Boyd of Calgary and Ian Dolphin of Kingston, Ont.

Dolphin won 6-3, 3-6, 7-5, after the pair quarreled several times, unable to call an umpire as none are used until second quarter games. The receiver calls the shots and tournament officials rely on players integrity for honsest, though sometimes only verbally-won decisions and results.

Greg Dummett of Ottawa took advantage of an open spot from a cancellation by Brent Hogan of Regina and defeated Louis Lambert of Victoriaville, Que., 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, in boys singles under 12. Lambert would have won by default and Dummett, who was listed as a standby, might not have had a chance to swing his racket.

At least half a dozen players made second-round standings through default as some competitors did not show up. Tournament chairman Barbara Knapp said some players cancel out after looking at the draw list but others had legitimate reasons. No reasons were given for any player's absence.

RED SOX WIN

COOPERSTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Fred Lynn and Dwight Evans cracked two-run home runs in the first inning Monday, starting Boston Red Sox toward an 11-5 triumph over San Francisco Giants in the 33rd Hall of Fame exhibition baseball game. Carlton Fisk hit a solo home run in the third inning at Doubleday Field. Denny Doyle added a two-run homer in the sixth as the Red Sox blasted four San Francisco pitchers for 14 hits and ran away with the American League's 19th victory against 13 losses.

Six-goal Night for Bob Wasson

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bob Wasson scored six goals Monday to lead Peterborough Gray-Munros to a 14-10 win over Whitby Builders in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Junior A semi-final playoff game.

In the other semi-final game Monday, Mississauga Chiefs defeated Bramalea Excelsiors 16-9 to take a 3-2 lead in that best-of-seven series.

In Peterborough, the Gray-Munros led 7-1 at the end of the first period and 11-5 at the end of the second. The win gave Peterborough a 3-1 series lead.

Paul Evans scored two goals for Peterborough and Greg Lustic, Dan Green, Steve Plunkett, Bob Short, Gord Duncan and John Martin scored one goal each.

Chuck Lepine and Larry Graham led Whitby with two goals each. Rich Lebrash, Bryce Jordan, John Jordan, Jeff Hooper, Les Reed and Ken Colley added one goal each.

In Mississauga, Rob Gemmell led the Chiefs with four goals and Stu Aird and George Chandler scored three goals each. Dave Pirog and Dave Legree added two and Greg MacDonald and Mike Hicks scored one goal each.

Greg Walmsley, Ian Robinson, and Gord Lyons scored two goals each for Bramalea and Terry Mastine, Steve Wilson and Ken Archdekin added one goal each.

Rain Halts Canada's Comeback

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Versatile Ted Springenatic appeared well on the way to home plate with Canada's tying run Monday when he was cut down at second base by a heavy rain.

An hour later, umpire Paul Lepage called off the remainder of the Canada-Italy game at the Intercontinental Cup baseball tournament and Italy had its first win in three contests, a 1-0 victory.

Springenatic, working behind the plate after playing third base and contributing some heavy hitting in two earlier Canadian wins, walked in the bottom of the sixth Monday and was sacrificed to second by Al Watson.

Canadian coach Wayne Norton was hoping he would be able to get home to wipe out a one-run Italian lead but Lepage called a one-hour delay at that point to see if the rain would let up.

It didn't and Lepage, saying he was particularly worried about the condition of the mound, awarded the game to Italy on the strength of Giorgio Costelli's run-scoring single in the first.

Canadian pitching coach Vern Hanrahan and Norton showed their displeasure over the decision, indicating better work by the grounds crew might have made it possible to continue.

The game was the last Canada will play before the series finishes here Thursday and moves to Montreal.

Italy moved up a notch in the standings ahead of Colombia, which has lost both its games in the tournament.

Canada and the U.S. have four points each, better than the other six teams in the tournament but Canada has played one more game than the Americans.

Kitchener and Burlington Split

BURLINGTON, Ont. (CP) — Kitchener Evergreens defeated Burlington Ancaster Provisioners 3-1 in the first game of an Ontario Fastball League doubleheader Monday, but lost 6-2 in the second game.

In the first game, Kitchener scored three unearned funs, two in the fifth inning and one in the sixth.

Burlington's Keith Baw scored from first base on a triple in the first inning for the only Provisioner run.

Keith Wagler, who gave up nine hits, was awarded the win. Bill Brennan was the loser.

In the second game, Burlington scored two runs in each of the first, third and fourth innings.

Hal Kemp was credited with the win as he struck out seven batters. Terry Gallamore took the loss.

Play continues today with Burlington at London and Hamilton at Oshawa for a doubleheader.

Port Hope Blast Kills Kingstonian

PORT HOPE, Ont. (CP) Thomas Yates, 32, of Kingston, Ont., was killed and four persons injured when a gas line on the main street of this community exploded Monday.

A three-storey brick office building, largely vacated because of noise made by a construction crew, was damaged.

A hospital spokesman said Mr. Yates, an employee of Northern Central and Gas Co., died before doctors were able to perform surgery.

Police said construction and Northern and Central Gas Corp. workers were digging in front of the building, owned by Bell Canada Ltd., in preparation for widening of Walton Street when the explosion occurred.

A construction worker said the explosion occurred when a man smoking a cigaratte walked past the site. Fire officials said the north wall of the building was blown out, the east wall completely demolished and the roof dropped to the foundation.

Some construction workers were buried in the rubble of the building after it collapsed onto the street. Others helped dig the men out from under a pile of wood and bricks.

Two men were admitted to hospital where one died later in the day.

Hospital officials said Sophie Coss, 55, who lived in a third-floor apartment in the building, was treated for minor injuries and released from hospital.

Police said she was taken out of her apartment by firemen. Her clothes were torn to shreds by the explosion.

Hospital officals said construction worker Neil Hardin, 30, of Marlbank, about 25 miles northeast of Belleville, was also treated and released. Gas company workman G. Naccarato, 48, of Toronto was treated for minor cuts and bruises.

Police said the building contains one apartment and doctors' and dentists' offices, which were vacant this week because of construction.

The street was closed to traffic after the explosion. Walton Street has been under construction since July and trenches line the south side of the street where gas lines, sewers and water mains are being installed.

Port Hope is about 25 miles east of Oshawa.

Police Suggest Kelly Surrender

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Police here, concerned that fugitive Donald Kelly is being made into a folk hero by news media reports, arranged Monday to get word to him that they are willing to negotiate a surrender.

Known associates of the suspected murderer were being contacted to have them, if possible, pass information to Kelly that police are prepared to bring the manhunt to a peaceful end.

Police spokesmen said there is concern about some news reports that Kelly has little chance of being captured alive.

Chief William Wotherspoon of the North Bay police said at a news conference Monday that police will not propose any specific intermediary themselves, but will talk to Kelly's friends, including criminals if necessary.

Asked whether he thought Kelly would respond to the offer to negotiate, the chief said: "I really don't know, but we certainly want to give him this opportunity."

Insp. W. C. Craig of the provincial police said Kelly will be treated like any other escaped prisoner.

"Our main concern is to see that no one is hurt,". he said. 'We are prepared to guarantee his safety if he surrenders.'

About 150 police officers armed with high-powered rifles have been searching for Kelly since he escaped Aug. 2 from the North Bay district jail, where he was being held on two charges of murder punishable by life imprisonment.

Police said Monday a man they have identified as Kelly held 11 campers at gunpoint for 15 hours north of here last Thursday. The man, who posed for pictures while covering the campers with two rifles, told the captives he had been close enough to a police cruiser radio to overhear a shoot-to-kill order.

This made him decide he would shoot to kill also, the captives told police.

Insp. Craig said no such order has been issued by police and emphasized police do not wish to create a situation in which the fugitive would be forced to act violently.

Nunckaku to Be Banned

OTTAWA (CP) Four devices normally connected with oriental martial arts will be added Sept. 8 to the list of weapons prohibited in Canada, Justice Minister Otto Lang announced Monday.

The four devices are:

—The Nunckaku; two sticks, clubs, pipes or rods connected by a rope, cord, wire or chain.

—The Shuriken; a hard nonflexible plate with three or more radiating points, designed to be thrown.

—The Manrikigusari; a length of rope, cord, wire or chain fastened at each end to a handgrip and normally used in a twirling swinging motion.

—The Spike; a ring with blades or other sharp objects projecting.

No one is permitted to possess a restricted weapon without a registration certificate issued by the commissioner of the RCMP.

It is an offence to buy, sell, barter, give, lend, transfer or deliver such a weapon. It also is an offence under the Criminal Code to find a prohibited weapon and not deliver or report it to the police, or to be an occupant of a motor vehicle which is carrying a prohibited weapon.

A person found guilty of any of these offences is liable to imprisonment for up to five years.

GM to Raise Car Prices

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — General Motors of Canada Ltd. said Monday it will increase the manufacturer's suggested list price on its 1976 base cars by an average of $154 or 3.3 per cent from current prices.

President David Collier said in a statement the company experienced large cost increases in the last year.

"The price increase, to recover a portion of the increased cost of labor and materials, recognizes the intense competitive pressures of the marketplace and represents an effort on our behalf to help stem inflationary forces in Canada," he said.

Mercury Poisoning May Still Occur

OTTAWA (CP) A Japanese expert on mercury contamination warned Monday that cases of mercury poisoning may still occur among Indians in northwestern Ontario although no such cases have yet been diagnosed.

Jun Ui, a research assistant in the urban engineering department at the University of Tokyo, was speaking at a news conference called by the National Indian Brotherhood (NIB).

He is one of eight Japanese engineers, economists and doctors, who have visited the Grassy Narrows and White Dog reserves on the Wabigoon and English rivers, where high mercury levels have been found in the blood of Indians who have eaten mercury-contaminated fish.

Mr. Ui said in the Japanese experience, there were delayed cases of mercury poisoning, called Minimata disease, among people who had stopped eating contaminated fish.

The disease, which causes damage to the brain and nervous system, is named after a Japanese town where more than 100 people have died and 700 have been crippled after eating fish contaminated by mercury from a nearby chemical plant.

Mr. Ui, who will meet a government inter-departmental committee on mercury in the environment Wednesday, said a doctor on the Japanese team had discovered some symptoms of poisoning among 50 Indians examined at the reserves.

He said many of the Canadians who are studying the situation are not experienced enough to discover symptoms of Minimata disease. It is possible that deaths from the poisoning may be diagnosed instead as brain hemorrages or pneumonia.

Mr. Ui said he doubts the effectiveness of pollution controls taken by a pulp-and-paper mill on the northwestern Ontario rivers suspected as having contributed to the mercury problem.

On Tour

ORILLIA, Ont. (CP) About 100 cyclists passed through the city Monday on a preliminary tour for the 1976 cross-Canada Olympic tour organized by Cycle Canada.

The cyclists were on the second day of a 374-mile round trip from Toronto to Ottawa.

Among the cyclists was a British Columbia woman riding a 10-speed tandem bicycle with her eight-year-old daughter. About 3,000 cyclists will attempt to ride across Canada in 1976, a spokesman said.

Mayor Urges Council to Act on Downtown Redevelopment

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey, presiding over her final city council session Monday before her resignation this Friday at 4.30 p.m., advised city aldermen to support developers interested in the preservation of the downtown core.

Mayor Jeffrey, in her resignation speech, revealed, "although it is a confidential matter," she has had two or three developers visit her interested in the redevelopment of the downtown area but noted they need approved controls from city council before they can act.

She recommended, "develop and pass a downtown control bylaw that will ensure protection for those who are willing to spend millions of dollars in the redevelopment . . . of the city's downtown core."

Mayor Jeffrey commented, "there are projects now started that I hope this council will see through to completion."

As well as the downtown aspect, she listed the following:

— "to commission the research necessary to give this city an official coat of arms that can be proudly used during Belleville's centennial in 1978 and through all future years.

— "authorization for the planning and spending of funds in the capital budget for the civic square as proposed and recommended by the civic group on the steering committee for Centennial '78.

— "during the term of office of this council, give final approval to the zoning bylaw that will implement the new official plan of this city which is now before the OMB (Ontario Municipal Board).

— "continue the consideration and study of and finally pass a minimum maintenance bylaw for this city. This document has been worked on by a committee as well as have consideration given to deputations and briefs heard by council."

— "continue the road renewal program established last year which makes the provision of extra funds to rebuild the streets in this city at a faster pace than previously and in a manner that will not overburden the taxpayer.

— "continue the leadership and co-operation with neighboring municipalities which is essential in the planning and development of the Quinte area, and which will make it possible for this area to ready itself for the 21st Century."

Hydro May Cut Power To Palmer Highrise

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Forty-two families in a highrise apartment building at 191 Palmer Ave., may be burning candles in their windows Sept. 10 if the building's owner doesn't fix temporary wiring systems.

Ontario Hydro's inspection department says it will resend the building's temporary permit if wiring is not brought up to standards.

Belleville Public Utilities Commission has been ordered to cut off power on that date if nothing is done.

Perc Pickering, Ontario Hydro inspection superintendent said today lighting and fixtures in stairways are not completed.

"We want all the wiring corrected up to the eight floor, as far up as people are living," said Mr. Pickering.

Renewable 120-day permits have been issued to the building since it was begun in 1972. Mr. Pickering said the permits were renewed on the understanding with the owner that no apartments would be rented above the bottom five floors' where wiring was up to standards. The building has 114 apartments.

Mr. Pickering said tenants now are living in apartments on the seventh and eighth floors.

"It's not that unsafe but it's not in a permanent condition," said Mr. Pickering.

He said the building has been a "bone of contention" for over a year.

Mr. Pickering said Ontario Hydro's inspection department was alerted to the temporary condition and renting of additional floors by Grant Stickle, city building inspector who inspected the building about a week ago.

"They haven't gone ahead and done what they were supposed to," said Mr. Stickle.

"We'd like to get the building completed," he said.

Mr. Pickering said the building could be brought up to standard within two or three days. The building will be re-inspected by hydro Sept. 2.

Residents have been notified of the possible hydro cutoff and given 30 days notice.

Marcel Goldhagen, president of Starmount Investments Ltd., of Toronto, could not be reached for comment.

A resident in the building said some of the families are worried about the warning from Ontario Hydro but have been told by building management the wiring will be fixed before the deadline.

Lights Out ?

Hydro may be cut off for 42 families in a highrise at 191 Palmer Ave., if temporary wiring conditions aren't changed to meet permanent standards. Ontario Hydro has given the Toronto owner until Sept. 10 to do the job.

Airport Request Reviewed

City council was floating on air Monday due to the receipt of five letters from various municipal, provincial and federal departments which indicated Belleville's desire to maintain Toronto Island Airport for future regularly scheduled air services will receive consideration.

John Rhodes, provincial minister of transportation and communications, said Belleville should be assured his ministry intends "to provide the highest possible level of transportation facilities available to the communities of Ontario."

He pointed out his ministry is currently examining, "through a Southern Ontario Airports and Air Services Planning and Policy Study, the present and future role of airports and scheduled air services as the impact on the development of transportation facilities within southern Ontario."

Mr. Rhodes said a joint analysis regarding "the long-term role of the Toronto Island Airport will yield results leading to a rational decision as to the future of that facility."

Jeffrey Says Her Career In Local Politics Over

Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey said Monday she will not return to municipal politics should she be unsuccessful in the Sept. 18 provincial election.

Mrs. Jeffrey is the Conservative candidate for Quinte riding. She announced to city council Monday her resignation as mayor, effective Friday, to devote more time to her campaign.

She said in an interview she has spent eight years in municipal government in various capacities and should she not succeed in provincial politics, she would like to serve in other areas.

"There are so many needs in this country that I would go anywhere to serve," she commented.

Mayor Jeffrey related that before she won the Conservative nomination last week in Trenton, she realized she would be faced with three possible decisions if she became the candidate.

She listed these as immediate resignation, appointment of an acting mayor until after the election or taking an extended holiday.

She explained she chose the first one because "resigning when the job is in your lap . . . is not in the best interests of the city."

Three Held on Thefts

Kingston police department have charged three Kingston brothers in connection with a theft Friday night at the Belleville Club.

Ronald, 31, James 34, and William Kehoe, 26, all of Kingston were charged with theft after an investigation. City police said some of the stolen goods, including silverware, have been recovered. There was a quantity of liquor also missing in the incident.

Heritage Route Questioned

Belleville city council has thrown its support behind the Ontario Motel Association (OMA), in urging the provincial ministry of industry and tourism to designate Highway 2 between Trenton and Kingston as a Heritage Highway.

The OMA has noted, in a letter to the ministry that the province has named Highway 33 between Trenton and Kingston as the only Heritage Highway route in this area.

The OMA emphasized it does not disagree with the route but questioned the wisdom of selecting it as the only Heritage Highway in the Bay of Quinte area.

OMA president Kenneth Willcocks pointed out both tourists and motel operators along Highway 2 would benefit if that highway was included in a Heritage Higaway profile.

The OMA suggestion is the same one adopted by city aldermen in a resolution Monday — suggesting that either Highway 2 or Highway 33 be designated as alternative Heritage routes.

Puppets Entertain

Working with the Experience 75 program and the Lake Ontario Library System, three students travel to entertain children through the library system. As the role of the jester and narrator, Carol Armstrong prior to the show, talks to children. The people behind the hand-puppets in the Monday afternoon performance at the Armory Mall in Picton are Margie Lyon and Walt Freeman. The director of the show, Walt Freeman said there are 96 libraries in the system and they will be visiting 88 during the summer.

Council Briefs

No Exchange Difference

Belleville city council learned Monday from Bell Canada that the Belleville exchange will not receive a "rate group" change which was previously assumed. It was explained the Canadian Transport Commission ordered July 4 "a change in the method of determining the telephone count for rate grouping purposes from total telephones to total telephone numbers . . ." The previous assumption of a possible change was based on the "total telephones" basis.

Sewer Service Requested

City council will study a petition containing the names of seven resident requesting sewer service in their part of the city. The route affected is from Union St. to North Frank St., then south to the Canadian National Railway underpass.

Apple Day Set

An apple a day for six days in October should assist the Belleville District Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada in its fund-raising campaign. City council approved Monday an earlier approval by the Bellevile Financial Appeals Review Board which will allow the Boy Scouts to carry out Apple Day activity from Oct. 20-25.

Subsidy Promised

John Rhodes, provincial minister of transportation and communications, advised city council Monday Belleville will receive a second advance payment of subsidy of $204,300. He said, "the amount is a further 30 per cent of your initial subsidy allocation rounded to the nearest $50."

Speed Limit Set

City council gave approval to a bylaw Monday which will regulate the speed of motor vehicles on a portion of Dunnet Blvd. The municipal legislation sets a maximum speed limit of 25 mph on the portion from Palmer Rd. to West Bridge St.

Coach Tender Approved

The Belleville Transit Commission will be able to receive a new bus next year. City council gave permission to the commission Monday to call tenders for the supply of a 45-passenger transit coach this year. The coach will be ready for delivery in the fall of 1976.

Explaining Views

Quinte NDP candidate Carson McLauchlan officially launched his campaign Monday night when he appeared before members of Local 126 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers. Mr. McLauchlan (left) talks with union president Jack Thomas prior to his speech. The 30-year-old Canadian National employee officially opens his office today at 6 N. Front St., at 5 p.m.

McLauchlan Launches NDP Campaign With Four - prong Attack on Tories

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Quinte NDP candidate Carson McLauchlan began his campaign trail Monday night with an attack against area home builders and the Conservative government's policies on housing.

Speaking to members of Local 126 of Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers at the Engineer's Hall, Mr. McLauchlan said building standards in the Quinte area are low and that Conservative housing policies and programs don't help the situation.

Labelling his campaign "HELP" — Housing, Energy, Land and People — the 30-year-old Canadian National Railway office clerk said the Home Ownership Made Easy plan should have some kind of a guarantee. He promised that an NDP government would increase these plans to provide at least 30,000 units this year rather than 5,000 projected in the province this year.

"Housing costs more in Ontario than any place in the country," said Mr. McLauchlan, who ran for city council last November but was defeated. He quoted 1974 figures showing that average house prices were 31 per cent higher in Ontario than the rest of Canada.

"Average house prices have risen 60 per cent since 1972 . . . and rent increases of 25 per cent and more are common," he added.

He said the NDP party, if elected, would maintain a land bank large enough for the 10 years' housing needs. He also said the NDP would make low interest rate (six per cent) mortgages to assist first-time home buyers.

Mr. McLauchlan also promised a rental review board would be established to determine a rate fair to both tenant and landlord.

Mr. McLauchlan later challenged the price increases in all forms of energy. "The freeze on gas in Ontario has to be extended to give the board a chance to study the gas prices in Ontario," he recommended.

"The consumer of Ontario needs a government to provide a long-range price review, not a short-term policy, which at the end, costs us more," he complained.

Mr. McLauchlan, who has been associated with the NDP for five years, said the Davis government shows no concern for the loss of agricultural land in the province. "The family farm is an issue the NDP has always fought for and will continue to do so in Ontario," he added.

British Farmer Gets Look at Quinte Methods

REDNERSVILLE — British farm mechanic Graham Willmetts is on a three-month tour of Ontario farmlands and he's currently getting a good lesson in corn growing on a farm near here.

Mr. Willmetts, a 25-year-old farm mechanic from Bridgewater, in south-west England, is in Ontario as part of an exchange program between Britain's National Federation of Young Farmer's Clubs and the Junior Farmers of Ontario Association.

He, along with eight other members, arrived in Ontario June 5 and have each been spending a week in different parts of the province exploring and seeing first-hand the way Ontario farmers work and the types of farming they do.

Mr. Willmetts has spent a week near Niagara Falls, one in Kent County near Chatham, one in Wellington County near Guelph and one in North Simcoe near Barrie. He now is staying with a Prince Edward County farmer, Malcolm (Mac) Hubbs, of Carrying Place. The farm grows corn has beef cattle.

Mr. Willmetts is getting a first-hand view of the kinds of machinery Ontario farmers use to harvest their crops and maintain their dairy herds.

The hosts, who usually have sons and daughters in the Ontario Association, give the young farmers a good knowledge of the area in which they are staying as well as the type of farming. The Hubbs will take Mr. Willmetts to several canning factories in the county as well as in Brighton where their corn is processed.

Mr. Willmetts said he has learned a great deal about Ontario and the way people live. He said it's been a worthwhile experience. He is employed by Massey Ferguson in England.

Cars Target For Vandals

City police are searching for two youths involved in vandalism Monday night at the Quinte Hotel.

The three men will apear in Madoc provincial court to- They were released on their under $200 and abduction involving a juvenile female

Free Dental Program Part of NDP Platform

Carson McLauchlan, Quinte NDP candidate, says his party if elected Sept. 18 will introduce a dental plan in Ontario that would provide free care for all six-year-olds, similar to that in Saskatchewan.

Speaking to members of Local 126 of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Transport and General Workers Monday night Mr. McLauchlan criticized the Conservative government for their lack of interest in a dental plan.

"The following year the NDP will provide free dental care for all six and seven-year-olds and by 1979 all children between the ages of 2 to 12," said the 30-year-old Canadian National office clerk.

Cyclist Earns $171

PICTON Prizes were given away Sunday, August 17, to the top money-makers in a bike-a-thon held Saturday— May 24, in Picton.

Robert Jones, minister of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Picton, said the winner of the bike was Durle Matthews, 13, of 4 Union St., Picton, who raised $171 to help with repairs of the church's Sunday school.

A total of $1,300 was raised in the 20-mile bike-a-thon, held as part of the Presbyterian Church's centennial celebrations.

Energy Bus Checks Power Consumption

Arnold Sandler drove into Belleville Monday to scare industry.

He's co-ordinator of a ministry of industry and tourism energy management [illegible] which sends experts to do on-the-spot analysis of industry waste energy.

Mr. Sandler and a computer-equipped energy bus manned by two students visited Stephens-Adamson division of Allis-Chalmers Canada Ltd.

The program, said Mr. Sandler, "is intended to scare people to do something now."

In a one-day visit-by-appointment computers in the air-conditioned bus can assess the efficiency of an industry's energy use and projected costs in the next five years.

The bus, prepared by Mohawk College following a tender, began making calls about a month ago and has visited about eight companies.

Ron Bruck, electronics, technician student, said they make a visual survey of a plant and feed energy costs for about a year into the computer to determine how efficiently the company is using the energy it is paying for.

Due to the short time spent at each industry, the results are approximate.

Bob Fredrick, manufacturing manager and G. S. Stanton, operations manager with Stephens-Adamson, spent much of Monday in the energy bus studying the computer results.

"With the rapid analysis available the mobile unit pointed out some areas of potential savings," said Mr. Fredrick.

Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act

ONTARIO

PART I

Notice of Sittings for the Hearing of Representations

In November 1964, Parliament enacted a law called the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act. Every ten years an independent commission responsible for recommending the boundaries of federal electoral districts, and their names, is appointed for each province. Such commissions were, in 1972, set up in each province but the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Suspension Act in 1973 suspended the work of these commissions and the commissions were dissolved.

New electoral boundaries commissions were established in 1975 under the authority of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, 1964-65, Chapter E-2, R.S.C. 1970, as amended by Chapters 10, 13, 25 and 28, Statutes of Canada, 1974-75.

Appointed to make the revision in Ontario are The Honourable Mr. Justice Campbell Grant of the Supreme Court of Ontario, Chairman of the Commission; Professor Walter S. Tarnopolsky, York University, Deputy Chairman of the Commission; His Honour Judge F.L. Gratton; Nelson Castonguay, Representation Commissioner for Canada.

In this revision, Ontario will have ninety-five (95) members, seven (7) more than at present, as determined in accordance with the provisions of section 51 of the British North America Act as amended and the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act as amended. Subject to what is stated below, the population of each electoral district in the province shall correspond as nearly as may be to the electoral quota for the province, that is to say, the quotient obtained by dividing the population of the province as ascertained by the 1971 census (7,703,106) by the number of members of the House of Commons to be assigned to the province. The Ontario quotient is 81,085.

The Commission has now concluded the first phase of its work. Published with this notice is a map showing the proposed districts and their names. There is also a schedule describing the boundaries and indicating the population of these proposed districts.

In its Statute, Parliament provided that each Commission should hold public sittings to hear representations by interested persons with respect to said districts. Accordingly, the Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario will sit for this purpose at the following times and places:

(1) TORONTO, Federal Court of Canada, 145 Queen Street West, Monday, October 6, 1975, 9:30 a.m.

(2) THUNDER BAY, District Court House, 277 Cameron Street, Thursday, October 9, 1975, 9:30 a.m.

(3) LONDON, Court Room, Faculty of Law, University of Western Ontario, Tuesday, October 14, 1975, 9:30 a.m.

(4) WINDSOR, Moot Court Room, Faculty of Law, University of Windsor, Thursday, October 16, 1975, 9:30 a.m.

(5) BELLEVILLE, Court Room, Court House, Tuesday, October 21, 1975, 9:30 a.m.

(6) OTTAWA, Court House, Wednesday, October 22, 1975, 9:30 a.m.

(7) WELLAND, Court Room, Court House, Tuesday, October 28, 1975, 9;30 a.m.

(8) SUDBURY, President Motel, Thursday, October 30, 1975, 9:30 a.m.

Parliament has provided in subsection 17(4) of the Statute that:

> "No representation shall be heard by a commission at any sittings held by it for the hearing of representations from interested persons unless notice in writing is given to the secretary to the commission within twenty-three days from the date of publication of the advertisement referred to in subsection (2), stating the name and address of the person by whom the representation is sought to be made and indicating concisely the nature of the representation and the interest of such person."

Acting under section 16 of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, the Commission has made rules governing sittings for the hearing of representations. They are appended to this notice as Part II.

This is the advertisement referred to in subsection 17(2). Notices should be addressed to:

Brian S. McCool, Secretary
Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario
Room 301, Arthur Meighen Building
25 St. Clair Avenue East
TORONTO, Ontario
M4T 1M4

Dated at TORONTO, this nineteenth day of August, 1975.

CAMPBELL GRANT
Chairman of the Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission for Ontario

PART II

Under and by virtue of the powers conferred by the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, Chapter E-2 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1970, and of all the other powers enabling them in this behalf, the Electoral Boundaries Commission for the Province of Ontario hereby makes the following rules.

BRIAN S. McCOOL
Secretary

RULES

1. These rules may be cited as the Electoral Boundaries Commission Rules for Sittings for the Hearing of Representations, 1975.

2. In these rules, "Act" means the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, Chapter E-2 of the Revised Statutes of Canada, 1970.

3. Sittings shall be held in public, and representations shall be made thereat with due regard to formal procedure.

4. In the presentation of a representation, only one person shall be heard unless, in its sole discretion, the Commission decides otherwise.

5. (a) Every person giving notice under subsection 17(4) of the Act, shall state the place at which he wishes to have his representation heard.

(b) For the purpose of interpreting subsection 17(4) of the Act, it is understood that the twenty-three (23) day delay shall apply to the date of mailing of the written notice by the person wishing to be heard by the Commission. The postmark on the envelope containing the written notice shall be proof of mailing within the proper delay. If it appears to be impossible to determine the date of mailing, the Commission will have discretion as to the admissibility of the written notice and may, for such purpose, require from the sender a statement under oath.

6. If, when the written notice of a representation is received by the secretary, the person signing the notice has not stated the place at which he wishes his representation to be heard, if time permits before the sitting, the secretary shall ask that person at which one of the places set out in the advertisement he wishes it to be heard.

7. If, under rule 5, no request for the hearing of a representation is made in respect of any one or more places named in the advertisement, the Commission may cancel the sitting at such place, giving notice of the cancellation by an advertisement published in a newspaper which circulates in the area where the sitting was scheduled, or by any other means calculated in its discretion to be effective.

8. (1) Two (2) members of the Commission shall constitute a quorum for the holding of a sitting to hear representations.

(2) If it appears to the Chairman of the Commission that a quorum cannot be present at a sitting at any place named in the advertisement, the Chairman may postpone that sitting to a later date, and the secretary shall advise any person who has given notice under subsection 17(4) of his desire to have his representation heard, that the Commission will hear the representation at the later date named.

PART III

Map and Proposed Boundaries and Names of Electoral Districts

There shall be in the Province of Ontario ninety-five (95) electoral districts, each of which shall return one member. The Commission proposes that the electoral districts be named and described as follows.

PART IV

Reasons for Proposed Boundaries

As a result of amendments made to section 51 of the British North America Act by the Representation Act, 1974, Ontario is entitled to be represented in the House of Commons by ninety-five (95) members, seven (7) more than at present. By the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act, enacted in November 1964 (now Chapter E-2, R.S.C. 1970), the quotient for each electoral district is to be established by dividing the population of the province by the number of members of the House of Commons to be assigned to the province. In Ontario, the 1971 census indicated a population of 7,703,106. Therefore, the Ontario quotient (or electoral quota) is 81,085.

Although section 13(a) of the Electoral Boundaries Readjustment Act provides that the population of each electoral district "shall correspond as nearly as may be to the electoral quota for the province", nevertheless clause (c) thereof (as amended by S.C. 1974-75, Chapter 25) provides that the Commission may depart from such equality for any of the following reasons:

(1) special geographic considerations—sparsity or density of population, accessibility of regions, size or shape of regions;

(N.B. Because of this amendment, relative rate of growth of population is no longer a factor to be considered.)

(2) special community or diversity of interests of the inhabitants of the various regions.

However, in no case shall the population of any electoral district depart from the electoral quota to a greater extent than 25% more (101,356) or 25% less (60,814).

The Commission has departed from the electoral quota, although in no case to the extent of the 25% tolerance above or below the quota. Because of such special geographic considerations, sparsity of population, inaccessibility and size of the regions concerned, all of the non-urban electoral districts in Northern Ontario are below quota. Similar considerations prevailed in constituting other non-urban electoral districts where ever possible.

Keeping in mind density of population as well as community of interests, the Commission has drawn the boundaries of the major cities, Toronto, Ottawa, Kitchener, Waterloo, Windsor, Mississauga, St. Catharines, London and Hamilton so as to follow municipal boundaries where ever possible.

In proposing names for electoral districts we have used existing or historical designations. In some cases, in order to avoid an excessively long name, we have chosen to designate the constituency by that region which constitutes its major portion.

These proposals are subject to changes which may be made as a result of consideration of the representations submitted at public meetings.

Republican Duo

Political observers believe that President Gerald Ford is virtually unassailable from any potential challenger for the Republican nomination next summer. One party stalwart has managed to keep open the possibility of taking on Ford in a contest for the presidential nomination: Actor - turned - politician Ronald Regan. Regan is the former governor of California who retired earlier this year at the end of his second term. (CP Photo)

Kinky Gene Could Bring Explosion of Gonorrhea

LONDON (AP) — Scientists are on the alert for a "kinky" gene that could cause an uncontrolled explosion of gonorrhea.

Gonorrhea already is a worldwide epidemic. And some strains are beginning to show resistance to antibiotics.

That is worrisome enough, says Dr. Stanley Falkow, but it would become catastrophic if the kinky gene finds its way into the genetic machinery of the gonococcus.

For this gene makes germs resistant to most antibiotics. Called the R gene for resistance, it can wander from one organism to another, somehow cutting itself loose from the genetic material, or DNA, of one organism and inserting itself into the DNA of another.

So far this hasn't happened with strains of gonococci that cause gonorrhea. The resistance appearing so far is from gradual mutation or selection in response to drug treatment. Some of the germs are not affected, and so reproduce themselves.

The R gene suddenly appeared a few years ago in Hemophilus influenza, the most common cause of meningitis in children, Dr. Falkow told a conference on sexually transmitted diseases here. (Hemophilus influenza despite its name has nothing to do with flu.)

Throughout the world, samples of the Hemophilus influenza bacteria showed resistance to penicillin, tetracycline, and kanomycin. This sharply limited the drugs available to combat it.

The R gene shows up as a "kinky" region, under the electron microscope, at the point where it has become inserted into the bacteria's DNA.

Why the R gene hasn't shown up yet in gonococci is not known, said Dr. Falkow, professor of microbiology and genetics at University of Washington in Seattle. It may never do so. But its appearance would call for a quick search for new drugs that could stem an explosive spread of the disease.

Penicillin is the favored drug in combatting gonorrhea, but about five to 15 per cent of North Americans are sensitive to it, and get bad side reactions. Other antibiotics are quite effective so far against resistant strains.

Gonorrhea is the leading sexually transmitted disease.

The R gene has managed to find its way into some group A streptococci, the cause of strep sore throats, and into Clostridium, the cause of gas gangrene, Dr. Falkow said. Pneumonia germs have suddenly begun to show resistance to chloramphenicol and tetracycline in France because of the R gene.

Handle With Care

LONDON (CP — The world-record auction price for a piece of glassware was broken recently at Sotheby's auction rooms. A collector paid &30,000 ($69,000) for a copy of the Portland Vase.

Hit-run Cases Solved In Dartmouth

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — If you're involved in an accident in this city, you'd better not run away. Chances are you'll get caught.

Dartmouth city police say 75 per cent of all hit-and-run accident cases in the city are solved, and Chief Roger Smith says its largely because of the co-operation the police department receives from the community.

He said police receive a lot of help from witnesses who write down licence numbers. The police department also watches certain people carefully because they have been formerly involved in accidents, and it doesn't take long for police to solve hit-and-runs committed by drivers with poor records.

There were 215 hit-and-run accidents in Dartmouth last year—most of them minor bumps in parking lots—and 149 were solved. There has not been a hit-and-run pedestrian case since January.

Ford Proves He Can Play Fast Political Hardball

WASHINGTON (CP) — As the Republican party begins its warm up for the 1976 presidential election, President Gerald Ford is proving he can play political hardball just as well as he once played college football.

The unelected president, who succeeded a disgraced Richard Nixon a year ago, has ensconced himself so firmly in office that veteran political observers now believe he is virtually unassailable from any potential challenger among the Republicans.

But speculation still swirls around one party stalwart who has managed to keep open the possibility of taking on Ford in a contest for the Republican nomination next summer: Actor turned politician Ronald Reagan.

Reagan, too, is adept at the rough-and-tumble of politics and he is reputed to have a far larger following in the conservative right wing of the party than many outsiders realize.

Reagan, 63-year-old former governor of California who retired earlier this year at the end of his second term, has given his blessing to a large, fund-raising committee which has been set up in anticipation of a possible bid for the nomination.

But the most visible effect of his manoeuvring so far has been on 62-year-old Ford, once a star centre with University of Michigan football team.

Suddenly, Ford is showing that he is more—quite a bit more—than just the amiable, unpretentious, outgoing fellow he appears to be on the surface.

House minority leader until he was made Nixon's vice-president in 1973, Ford has demonstrated clearly that he wants the presidency badly for an elected full term and that to get it he is ready to step hard on a lot of sensitive toes.

As his campaign manager he has appointed Howard (Bo) Callaway, a tough conservative who enjoyed immense success as Nixon's organizer in the South.

But that was just the first move toward snatching away Reagan's right-wing constituency. The next followed almost immediately when he authorized Callaway to say publicly that Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller, considered by rightists to be unacceptably liberal, would be Ford's "No. 1 problem" in securing the nomination.

White House press secretary Ron Nessen has been repeatedly authorized by Ford to say the president rates Rockefeller highly but that he will leave the choice of a nominee in 1976 entirely to the Republican convention.

Callaway has also issued strong suggestions that Ford may want to look for someone younger and more conservative than the 67-year-old vice-president for his running mate. Rockefeller, meanwhile has been set adrift, in effect, and advised by the president to get out and do his own campaigning through the country to determine what kind of support he really commands.

While all this is taking place in Washington, Reagan, a one-time movie actor whose last picture, Hellcats of the Navy, was made in 1957, has been stumping the U.S. making highly-publicized speeches and hammering home his views in a syndicated newspaper column and radio commentary.

Reagan insists he has not decided whether to challenge Ford. He says that for the moment he is simply enjoying life on his 630-acre ranch overlooking the Pacific near Santa Barbara, Calif.

But as the money pours into his campaign coffers, many observers believe, the temptation to run may become irresistible for him.

Time, however, is running out for Reagan as a majority of state Republican party chairmen in the South who once favored him over Ford, now are indicating that his delay and uncertainty are rapidly cooling their ardor. They may also have been swayed by the president's reassurances to the right.

Even if Reagan does take on Ford, while he would gain valuable exposure for his ideas and probably place himself in a strong position for an influential cabinet post in a future Republican government, he would likely trip himself up well short of grabbing the nomination.

Man Living in Earth House Seeds With Compressed Air

LAJORD, Sask. (CP) — At the Jerome Bechard farm 3½ miles south of here, they grow ideas.

Officials from the Soviet Union have sought marketing rights to a new seeding machine designed by the 64-year-old farmer, who appropriately lives in an unusual earth-covered house he also designed.

About 15 years ago, Mr. Bechard decided he was tired of being too hot in the summer and chilly in the winter on the plains southeast of Regina.

He roughed out the design of an earth-covered home and after three months of patient explanation convinced an architect it could be built.

A column of pillars supports a concrete slab 137 feet long which in turn supports the covering of earth protecting the Bechard home from the elements.

In the winter, he says, the well-insulated house holds warmth so well the furnace comes on only twice a day.

Inside, curtains open and close at the touch of a button and rooms are furnished with home-made furniture, including tables constructed from old crankshafts.

His latest invention, which has drawn visitors from provincial governments and agricultural schools, is a forced-air seeding machine.

Soviet officials, he says, sought marketing rights, but he declined.

"They told me, 'Jerome, we've got lots of iron and lots of labor in Russia and we can build this cheaper than you can over here and send it over.'

"But I said 'No, I'd like to do something for Saskatchewan.' "

Bill Reed, a research officer at the University of Regina agricultural engineering department, said in an interview the new system has the potential to replace current seeding machines on the Prairies.

The system pushes seed into the ground with forced air, a procedure used in Europe, instead of letting seeds drop by gravity.

Mr. Bechard said the seed and fertilizer boxes now in use make seeding machines sink further into the ground when full, producing uneven seed depths.

In his system, the seed and fertilizer are carried apart from the seeding machine. Forced air is provided by a fan.

A photo-electric cell monitors the flow of seed through hoses and lets the operator know if seeds have jammed up in the hose.

Mr. Bechard says his equipment can be used with almost any type of seed and for some types is better than conventional equipment. Fava beans, for example, make it through the system in one piece while conventional equipment breaks about 30 per cent.

Mechanized Death Film Shown Drinking Drivers

VANCOUVER (CP) — A film called Mechanized Death is featured on opening nights of a course established to persuade those found guilty of impaired driving that drinking and driving do not mix.

The film shows a series of mangled cars and bodies and John Peterson, provincial course co-ordinator, tells the audience: "It's a look at what could have happened to you if you weren't picked up."

A typical class consists of 11 persons convicted as impaired drivers attending as a condition of their probation. There are 12 other courses operating elsewhere in British Columbia.

The theme stressed by the course is represented by a simple mathematical formula: two stick figures and a jug of liquor over a car equals a skull and cross-bones.

"I'm not here to get you to quit drinking," Vancouver traffic Constable Jake Jacobsen tells the class. "I'm not trying to get you to stop driving. Just don't combine the two."

People should make up their mind before they start drinking that they're not going to drive, said Constable Jacobsen.

It's too late to make that kind of decision after a few drinks have impaired judgment and co-ordination.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, Aug. 20

Aries (March 21-April 19) Today is the day to clear the air between you and a friend or relative. You can say wh t's on your mind and be correctly understood.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) A rewarding day. You'll get recognition, as well as some material benefits. You deserve it.

Gemini (Mary 21-June 20) Aggressive action brings excellent results for you. Take advantage of this fortunate cycle in matters that really count.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) You're quite intuitive today in making changes to attain a desire. Trust your judgment. It won't lead you astray.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone will offer to team up with you on a project they've been developing. Pitch in. Two heads are better than one.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Take direct action at work or in any area where you have responsibility. It pays off today. Much can be accomplished.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Someone you're interested in romantically will be very responsive to your charming and gallant ways today.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today, you can put into effect those changes you wanted to make around home. Your energies are intense, well-directed.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A day when co-operation is at your beck and call. Ask for it. You'll receive the assistance or material you desire.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A small enterprise you're interested in on the side can make a profit today as long as you direct your energies toward it.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You may want to spark a little social activity today. You'll have many willing accomplices.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll spring a surprise on the family today. It will go over big as long as you don't let the cat out of the bag.

Easy Bruising Proves Problem

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain why the skin on my arms bleeds beneath the surface, leaving ugly red bruises for weeks. This can be caused by a touch or a slight bump. Is it a vitamin or hormone deficiency? I am 54.—B. H.

There are several possibilities to consider, dealing mainly with the clotting efficiency of your blood. This condition can arise from an abnormal quantity of platelets or other clotting factors. Also, fragile capillary walls that allow blood to "leak out" into surrounding tissue can be involved. Or there can be a combination of these possibilities.

A lack of vitamin or calcium can also play a role. If you have not had a thorough physical, you should have one now. Or if you have had one that did not involve a careful blood analysis, this would be in order.

If a vitamin or calcium deficiency is found, appropriate supplements can alleviate the problem. Such bruising can be attributed to a variety of other causes, certain drugs (aspirin, medication for arthritis, some antibiotics) among them.

If none of the suggested causes I've mentioned can be identified in your case, you must look for more serious culprits. Blood platelet deficiency can involve several organs—the kidneys, liver, spleen, for examples. In most cases, treatment of the underlying cause brings results.

A warning note: If you experience other, more dramatic symptoms such as nosebleed or bleeding from the rectum, along with the arm bruises, you should seek immediate attention.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you please advise me on how I can help a teen-age boy who has complained of having hemorrhoids and the itching along with them? Is this unusual in a boy his age? He refuses to go to a doctor.—F. R.

One might doubt his self-diagnosis on this, even though hemorrhoids are not unheard of in someone his age. So you shuld begin with a proper diagnosis and go from there.

Hemorrhoids in a youngster often can be traced to basic problems—poor bowel habits, constipation or insufficient liquid in the diet, which is essential in maintaining stool softness.

Fortunately, he is probably young enough to correct whichever problem is causing his irritation. Both of you would benefit from an understanding of what hemorrhoids are.

Any routine checkup, as for camp admission, etc., would reveal hemorrhoids if they were present, especially if the physician were alerted to look for this.

Dear, Dr. Thosteson: My wife always wears dark glasses when the sun shines. I never wear them.

I think they are a crutch and that the more she uses them the greater her need of them will be. Please tell me if I am right or wrong—G. S.

Your argument doesn't hold water. Eyes have amazing abilities to adjust. We do this every day when we move from a dark room into a light one or vice versa. If the sunglasses make your wife comfortable there's no reason she shouldn't wear them.

A greater concern would be for persons who must wear corrective lenses but abandon them in favor of standard sunglasses in dangerous situations—in driving, for example. These persons should use prescription-ground sunglasses.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I recently had the German measles and at the same time I was two months pregnant. All of my doctors told me of the chances of having an unhealthy baby. So my husband and I agreed to the obortion.

The specialist who performed the abortion said that the miscarriage rate for the first three months after an abortion is very high. Is this so or not? I want to become pregnant again as soon as possible. Is there any chance of the measles affecting a new baby? — N.V.

Deferring pregnancy for from four to six months would be wise. After this period of time, your organs and other structures essential to a healthy pregnancy would have returned to normal.

The risk of German measles affecting the fetus is greatest when it is contracted during the first trimester three months of pregnancy, and this is why your doctors suggested the possibility of fetal damage in your two month old pregnancy.

Having had the German measles will not affect subsequent pregnancies.

Sometimes it doesn't pay to preempt. East was having a very good game in a matchpoint duplicate. Everything was going well and he decided to preempt with the East hand.

It is the sort of preempt we don't recommend. He is four tricks short of his bid, but that didn't cost him this time.

What did cost him was that South was allergic to preempts and made a very unsound double. After two rounds of bidding South found himself in a very bad grand-slam contract since North also hated to be shut out.

South won the spade lead in dummy, entered his hand with a heart and led the queen of clubs. West's king fell to South's ace.

South thought a long time. He finally entered his hand with the second high heart, led a club; finessed against West's 10 and had taken care of the trump suit. After that it was a simple matter to finesse against the king of diamonds and wind up with his grand slam.

It was a top score to end all top scores. No one else either bid or made seven.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's article was inspired by a letter from Illinois. The writer wanted to know how East and West could have discarded better.

The first part of our answer is that East and West have our sympathy. However, after the third spade lead West would know that South had eight spades and would be sure of his contract if he held a club. Hence, West might have thrown his clubs right then and there whereupon the swindle play would not develop.

Ancient Babylon Could Be Rebuilt

BABYLON, Iraq (Reuter) — The tower of Babel, the hanging gardens, and the rest of King Nebuchadnezzar's ancient capital of Babylon may soon be rebuilt a few miles from their original site.

The city, which was a centre of civilization and culture from about 2000 BC up to the time of the Greeks, now is little more than a series of broken foundations of sun-baked bricks.

Most of the ancient site has been destroyed by time and Arab builders who pillaged the city for bricks. German archeologists who excavated the remains in the years before the First World War took whole sections of brightly-colored tiled walls back with them to Germany.

But the artistry of the remaining brickwork, in which mythical beasts stand out in relief, and the wide main street paved in brick and covered with asphalt give an idea of the achievements of the lost civilization.

A plan to rebuild the city to its former glory over the original foundations now seems likely to be ditched in favor of a reconstruction some distance from the original site.

Iraqi archeologists prefer this scheme although they say civil engineers involved still would like to use the ancient substructure.

It is estimated that the project would take 10 years and cost an initial 12 million dinars (more than $35 million.)

In contrast to earlier appeals for foreign assistance in preserving and restoring the remains, the archeologists now insist the work will be done with Iraqi money and Iraqi manpower.

The Tower of Babel itself, the biblical origin of the world's languages, was built during the first Babylonian empire in about 1,750 BC by the great King Hammurabi.

The biblical story tells how the sons of Noah built the tower to reach up to heaven. But God put a stop to their efforts and threw them into confusion by making them all speak different languages.

Archeologists have determined that the seven-storey tower was about 300 feet high and 300 feet square. It was the main one of Babylon's many temples, called "ziggurats."

Although Babylon and its great empire was to decline, the tower was restored by the Chaldean king, Nebuchadnezzar.

It was he who built the hanging gardens, considered by the Greeks as one of the seven wonders of the world, apparently to comfort a Persian courtesan who was homesick for her native mountains.

The gardens are believed to have been set up on terraces above an arched building and irrigated from the waters of the Euphrates River, which has since shifted its course.

After Nebuchadnezzar the city was to fall into decline. It fell to the Persians and then to the Greeks under Alexander the Great, who died there in 323 BC.

Early attempts at reconstruction have stopped short at rebuilding the monument's gate and a minor temple with sundried mud.

Sacks of cement and straw binding lie in one corner of the temple, but if the archeologists have their way the materials will be shipped along the road to the new site.

Electrical Wheelchair Wins Praise

TORONTO (CP) — Scott Taylor, 8, enthusiastically approved the new electrical wheelchair built by Scott Walder, research designer of the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre.

The boy tested the new model for its steering and mobility.

Divided into four sections, the heaviest weighing under 40 pounds, the wheelchair can be carried in the trunk of a car and easily reassembled.

For nearly two years, Mr. Walder has concentrated on Project Wheelchair—an electric wheelchair for pediatrics, meeting children's requirements.

"The demands of a child in a wheelchair are greater than those of an adult," said Mr. Walder. "They tend to treat them like toys and there is therefore a need for greater durability."

The wheelchair, 36 inches long and 20 inches wide, resembles a mechanical lawn mower on which a comfortable chair has been mounted.

Although mass production costs of the model are still undetermined, Mr. Walder estimated the machines will cost under $1,200, in the price range of ordinary electrical wheelchairs.

Shriner support for the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre made the wheelchair project possible through a $15,000 grant.

Hees Happy

Ellis Disappointed With Riding Changes

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Hastings MP Jack Ellis has reacted with disappointment and disbelief over the new proposed federal electoral boundaries which, if implemented, would separate Belleville from most of Hastings County.

But Prince Edward-Hastings MP George Hees says he is sorry to lose Prince Edward County but happy to be centred in his home county of Northumberland. The electoral changes, announced Tuesday by the Ontario arm of the Federal Electoral Boundaries Commission, proposes sweeping changes in the existing boundaries in the Quinte area.

Mr. Ellis said he will be forced to seek election in the new riding of Prince Edward, which includes Belleville, Thurlow and Tyendinaga Townships. Mr. Hees said he will be forced to run in the new riding of Northumberland.

"The commission has simply overlooked any historical significance of Hastings County . . . they have gerrymandered the boundaries without reason," said Mr. Ellis Tuesday.

The new electoral map dissolves the riding of Hastings to form a much larger riding called Hastings-Frontenac which includes rural areas surrounding Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston and which stretches as far north as Algonquin Park.

The redistribution draws Belleville, Thurlow and Tyendinaga Townships into a new riding called Prince Edward which takes in all of the county plus North and South Fredericksburg Townships to the east.

Mr. Ellis said he will formally lodge a protest against the changes at the commission's public hearings in Belleville Oct. 21 at 9.30 a.m. at the Court House. "Hastings County has been a total unit in many ways and for many years," complained Mr. Ellis.

"To divide the existing Hastings riding among three other federal ridings is totally unreasonable," said Mr. Ellis. "They have simply taken all the rural areas in this part of the province and thrown them into one large riding."

Mr. Ellis declined to say whether he thought the redistribution was politically motivated. He said he would have to give the new map a more comprehensive look before arriving at any conclusions.

The new map came as a surprise to Mr. Ellis. He said he thought that the original opposition to the boundary changes in 1973 would have made more impact on the commission's proposals.

"They have completely ignored Hastings as a county," explained Mr. Ellis. He said the county has been a geographical and historical identity for 110 years.

Mr. Ellis said no official opposition has come from the Conservative Party but he expects a caucus meeting will be called next week to deal with the proposals.

Mr. Hees said he would not be personally opposing the new boundaries "because we all must accept changes." He said he will be happy to be representing the Trenton area once again.

Will Protest Boundaries

Hastings MP Jack Ellis pours over the new federal electoral boundaries Tuesday. Mr. Ellis is upset with the changes and plans to lodge a formal protest October 21 at the commission hearings into the boundaries to be held at the Belleville Court House. Mr. Ellis says the new boundaries ignore the historical significance of Hastings County.

Three Leaders Plan Debates

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Premier William Davis and Liberal Leader Robert Nixon kept up their long-distance campaign duel Tuesday as they continued their search for votes in the Sept. 18 provincial election.

A Toronto television station announced Tuesday it has arranged for three half-hour debates between the premier, Mr. Nixon and NDP Leader Stephen Lewis.

Station CFTO announced the debates will be broadcast on three consecutive Saturdays starting Aug. 30. The arranged format will see Mr. Nixon meet Mr. Lewis first, then the NDP leader will confront Mr. Davis before the Davis-Nixon final debate Sept. 13, five days before the election.

The debates are to be broadcast on CTV television network stations across Ontario and CFTO said the programs will be offered, free of charge, to any station that wants them.

Police Inspector Thinks Fugitive Weary, Confused

NORTH BAY, Ont. (CP) — Somewhere in the 100 square miles of dense bushland north of here a weary, confused Donald Kelly is in hiding.

This is provincial police Insp. W. C. Craig's assessment of the armed escaper's current dilemma. The behavior pattern established by Kelly, 37, of hiding out, venturing to take hostages, releasing them, then hiding out again, betrays the lack of a real plan, Insp. Craig believes.

"We have to get the whole thing back into perspective," said Insp. Craig. "Kelly is simply an escaped prisoner and he has to be tiring of the hunt by now."

Though Insp. Craig said general police morale remains "surprisingly high," he admits the men are also beginning to tire. All of the more than 100 officers on duty in the manhunt, which started Aug. 2 when Kelly broke out of North Bay district jail, are working 12-hour shifts.

"We've got the same personnel as before searching the bush area north of the city," said the inspector. "In some ways they are up against the terrain more than Kelly himself."

"I don't think that what Kelly is doing is such a great feat. It's not that difficult to hide out in that much bush area. Anybody could do the same thing."

Insp. Craig said the public has responded favorably to the negotiated surrender approach offered by police.

"We are leaving the details of the negotiations entirely up to Kelly. He can choose his own method of communicating with us. Now we have to wait for him to make a move."

This waiting game on the part of police has been the situation throughout most of the 17-day hunt for the suspected murderer. Up against a thick wall of wilderness police have had no real luck in forcing the armed fugitive's hand.

Liberal Wants Yardmen Aided

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

[illegible] proposed Belleville Yardmen sports complex must be constructed "with the assistance of the provincial government," says Hugh O'Neil, acclaimed Liberal candidate for Quinte riding.

Mr. O'Neil, a Trenton realtor, made the complex part of his campaign platform during his nomination speech Tuesday at the Quinte Provincial Liberal Association nominating convention in Belleville.

Mr. O'Neil also said the Bay Bridge "needs to be built right where it is and now, not years from now."

He promised, if elected, he will open constituency offices in both Trenton, where he resides, and Belleville and will be open to personal contact — not by going through a secretary or designated spokesman.

Mr. O'Neil tore away at the Conservative government's industrial park loan plan and blasted the Tories for concentrating industry in separate locations — for example, the proposed industrial city at Spencerville near Prescott. He said industry must be "spread around where it's needed most."

Claiming there is discontent among university students and school teachers, he commented, "our dream of education has to be a return to common sense — the three Rs."

Mr. O'Neil said he will not criticize the Conservatives for being in power too long but just the years of the Davis government. "The runaway spending in this province means we can no longer afford the Davis government," he remarked.

"Much of this overspending is pure waste," he said. "This policy of overspending has put inflation on an ever upward spiral."

Czech Jet Crashes, 125 Killed

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A Czechoslovak airliner carrying 128 persons crashed into a sandy knoll and exploded early today while trying to land at Damascus airport. Authorities said there were only three survivors, two children and a man.

It was the worst air disaster in Syrian history.

The four-jet Ilyushin 62 was approaching for a landing after a flight from Prague when it dipped below the flight path and ripped into the hillock about 12 miles south of Damascus, an airport control tower official said.

"When it hit it, the plane jumped up and exploded," he said. "The wreckage came crashing down. Those who were not killed in the explosion were killed in the fire."

Fire trucks rushed to the open plain from the airport and doused the blaze within a short time, officials reported.

Egypt, Israel Disengagement Accord Reached

Oil Prices and Health Care Chief Topics for Premiers

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada's fragmented petroleum price structure and the federal government's intention to curb shared health-care financing have emerged as the overriding issues at this year's premiers conference which opens Thursday in St. John's, Nfld.

The premiers face a heavy agenda during their two-day closed-door meetings, ranging from foreign investment to land ownership and control and the issue of a 200-mile offshore fishing limit. But they are expected to set aside some of these matters to concentrate on energy and shared-cost programs.

Most premiers have already indicated their displeasure with the federal government's June budget increase in the price of gasoline and fuel oil and proposed changes in health financing which would leave the provinces with a greater share of the cost.

On the energy issue, four provinces have placed a freeze on prices of gasoline and other oil products for varying periods of time. Three others have indicated they will support the establishment of a federal-provincial agency to monitor and control petroleum products to achieve uniformity across Canada.

Included in the energy discussions will be a report prepared by the Interprovincial Advisory Council on Energy on viability of an electrical grid of particular interest to the eastern provinces.

Premier William Davis of Ontario will interrupt his election campaign for one day to sound out the premiers on his proposal for a federal-provincial restructuring of government.

He said recently it is important for the federal and provincial governments to find ways of rationalizing the division of responsibilities and provide a more effective matching of resources for the discharge of those responsibilities.

Premier Peter Lougheed will attempt to get a national consensus on land ownership controls.

The Alberta initiative follows a recent Supreme Court of Canada decision allowing provincial governments to restrict land ownership on the basis of residency.

"We would like to come up with some censensus that would involve a common policy for all of Canada," the premier said recently.

The premiers are expected to have little difficulty in finding common ground on the matter of health-care financing after Ottawa told them in June it intends to withdraw in five years from existing agreements under the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act and place a ceiling on the annual payments under the Medical Care Act.

Premier Gerald Regan said this week Ottawa's decision to change the ground rules after pushing the provinces into these programs amounts to "dirty pool."

He argues that the poorer provinces are not in a position to pick up the slack when formulas are altered.

Premiers Richard Hatfield of New Brunswick and Alex Campbell of Prince Edward Island intend to pursue their proposal that Ottawa establish a federal-provincial agency to monitor and control petroleum products across Canada.

Macdonald To Defend Oil Policy

OTTAWA (CP) — Energy Minister Donald Macdonald will use a brief visit to Montana next weekend to drive home the Canadian views on oil and gas for American news media.

"He's going to say something fairly substantial about oil and gas and the Canadian position, but nothing new and startling," an aide said Tuesday.

Mr. Macdonald will visit Libby, Mont., Sunday for ceremonies dedicating the Libby Dam. It is also expected he will meet briefly with U.S. President Ford who also is to attend the ceremonies.

Mr. Macdonald will fly in from Castlegar, B.C. Shortly after the ceremonies, he will fly to Cranbrook, B.C., and then back to Ottawa.

His aide said he basically will take the opportunity to emphasize Canada's oil and gas stance for the large group of American reporters accompanying President Ford.

Canada is charging the U.S. the going world price for oil, which is higher than the price paid by Canadians. As well, Canada has announced plans to reduce oil and gas exports to the U.S. over a period of years.

Reporter Could Be Charged For Interview with Fugitive

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — A reporter with The Record is open to charges of harboring a criminal after interviewing a man who escaped from the Burtch Correctional Centre earlier this month, a police spokesman said Tuesday.

However, the spokesman did not say whether charges would be laid against Frank Etherington, the reporter who met the escaper in a park and wrote a story outlining alleged brutality by other prisoners and a lack of concern for the escaper's protection by prison guards.

The escaped prisoner, identified in the story as Jerry (not his correct name), said he was beaten and sexually assaulted by other prisoners and suffered other forms of physical abuse.

One of his claims was that he was raped while in his cell and that prisoners beat him up because he had testified against some prisoners regarding break-ins.

Meanwhile, Prof. Ronald Price of Queen's University in Kingston confirmed Tuesday that sexual assaults on attractive, male prisoners do occur in Ontario.

A spokesman for Arthur Maloney, Ontario ombudsman, said Tuesday Mr. Maloney will take "any necessary initiatives" and is interested in reviewing the case.

Jerry was sentenced in February, 1974, to nine months for breaking and entering three Kitchener homes.

A spokesman for the ministry of correctional services in Toronto said the incidents of brutality alleged by the 20-year-old escaper were under investigation by two police departments earlier this month. A prisoner, whom he would not identify, had been charged with assault.

Accord Reached on Size Of Perch Fishing Nets

BRIGHTON — Brighton's commercial fishermen and the ministry of natural resources have established an informal truce in the net-size controversy that forced nine of the boat-owners to apply for welfare.

Through the efforts of Russell Rowe, MPP Northumberland and his negotiations with William Foster, assistant deputy minister for southern Ontario, the fishermen will be allowed to use smaller nets and not be required to switch over completely to the 2⅝-mesh until 1976.

The fishermen have contended it was impossible to gather enough fish to make a living using the larger gill nets, citing examples of six-pound perch catches for a five-day period with the larger nets.

For a six-pound catch they earned $2.10 and had to spend more than $28.00 for gas and oil.

The ministry has said the area would soon be depleted of yellow perch, the fishermen's main "cash crop", if they continued to use the smaller nets. Officials say the men were gathering fish that had not spawned twice, the times necessary to maintain the fish level in the lake.

Stanley Cooper, a fisherman for 30 years and one of the men who works out of the Gosport in Brighton, said he is wasting his time using the larger nets.

"About 25 per cent of my nets are the larger size and I have to use them just to show the conservation officers I am switching," he said. "I haven't caught any fish with the nets."

Mr. Foster, speaking from Toronto said the entire controversy was necessary to make the men switch over to the larger nets.

"We have been trying for the last three years to make them accept the change," Mr. Foster said.

"We don't want to persecute anyone or stop them from earning a living, we just want to make sure they have fish to catch," he said.

"When all things are examined it will show that we have the interests of the fishermen at heart," Mr. Foster said.

"This was the most merciful, humane, considerate way to make them change," Mr. Rowe said. "The ministry didn't want to force anyone out of business, they were just putting a little pressure on them."

Ken Hutton, spokesman for the fishermen, said most of the 10 men with a yellow perch licence are respecting the arrangement.

"None of the men have been approached by the conservation officers since the agreement was reached last week so we assume everything will be okay. "They start fishing with their hoop nets on Sept. 20," Mr. Hutton said.

Frank Taylor, a ministry conservation officer responsible for enforcing the net sizes said the inspections are continuing and by the start of the 1976 season everyone should be using the legal size.

War Veteran Recounts Escape from Germans

PICTON — Memories of the Second World war were rekindled at the weekly Rotary meeting held at the Prince Edward Yacht club Tuesday afternoon.

Guest speaker for occasion was Bob Desautels an escapee from the German army in 1944.

Introduced by another escapee Bill Jones, Mr. Desautels started his talk by saying, "It was 31 years and one month to the day, I was shot down over occupied France."

Mr. Desautels joined the Royal Canadian Air Force in 1940, and later transferred to England where in 1942 he joined the Royal Air Force of Britain.

Shot down on his 17th bombing mission, July 19, 1944. Mr. Desautels said the first thing he did was gather his parachute and have a cigarette.

Moving only at night, Mr. Desautels said he came upon a farmer who put him up for the night and gave him a change of clothes.

Leaving the first farmer the escapee said he met another farmer who introduced him to a group from the French undergound.

"The underground took me and four other Canadians and one American in a car carivan to an airstrip where we were to get lifted back to England," said Mr. Desautels.

Things did not work out as planned.

"We were caught by the Germans who took us to the town of Troy".

Taken to an old school, "one night me and another Canadian climbed over the wall and went to the town's cathederal," said Mr. Desautels. From there they were told to go to a convent to see if the nuns would put us up.

The convent hid the two men who were later freed when the town was entered by General Patton.

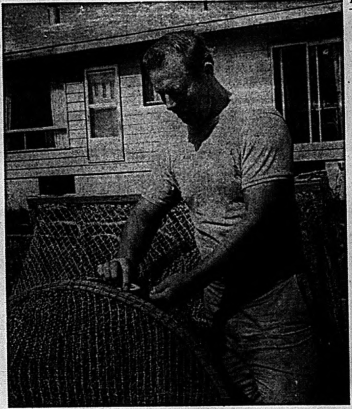
Mr. Desautels returned to Canada, December 23, 1944.

Four Local Winners

Four Belleville residents have collected prizes totalling $3,000 following the August 15 Wintario draw. Norman Kent of 37 Frank St., and J.A. Reader of Country Club Drive each won $1,000. H.D. Whyte and Stephen Whyte of 266 Bleecker Ave., shared a $1,000 prize.

Seeks Nomination

Reeve Keith MacDonald left, his wife Margaret, and campaign director, Roy White talk about the coming provincial election at a news conference at the Prince Edward Yacht Club, Tuesday afternoon, where Mr. MacDonald announced his intentions to run for the Liberal Party nomination. The convention will be held Monday, August 25, at 7.30 p.m. in Prince Edward Collgiate, Picton.



Jumping Through the Hoop

Jumping Through the Hoop

Stan Copper, one of the Brighten fishermen involved in a disagreement over net size with the ministry of natural resources inspects and repairs his hoop nets so they will be ready when the season opens September 20. The government has allowed the yellow perch fishermen to use smaller nets sizes until the hoop net season opens and to complete the switch to the larger 2⅝ gill net size for the 1976 season.

MacDonald Seeking Liberal Nomination

PICTON — Keith MacDonald, reeve of Hallowell Township, has announced his intentions of seeking the Liberal nomination in the Monday, August 25 convention to be held at Prince Edward Collegiate here.

Mr. MacDonald said in a news conference Tuesday, "I'm green at this level of politics, but I will try to take the feeling of Prince Edward to Queen's Park."

One reason Mr. MacDonald gave for making the decision is the need to have a change in government.

"The Conservative party has been in power too long," said Mr. MacDonald. "It's time people had a change."

"There has been too much of a gap between the people and the government and I plan to cut a lot of red tape," said the farmer-businessman.

'I feel there is a very stronge Conservative party and we have a real up-hill battle. We have to have a lot of help and a lot of work," said the 48-year-old Liberal.

Born in Picton, Mr. MacDonald has been a county councillor for two years; deputy reeve for two years; and currently is in his third year as reeve for Hallowell Township. He also served as the county warden in 1974.

Mr. MacDonald said he is still farming the original land his family "cut out of the woods" about 100 years ago. He currently owns or rents 800 acres used for mixed, beef, and cash crop farming.

Labrador Man in Hospital Following One-car Mishap

A 31-year-old Labrador man is in Belleville General Hospital with fractures following a single-car accident on Highway 62 south of Madoc about 6.50 p.m. Tuesday.

Steven Ashley was injured when the driver of the vehicle lost control while trying to pass another car, said Madoc OPP. The car landed in the east ditch, hit a fence and rolled. Damage is estimated at about $2,000.

Paul Richard Davy, 19, of RR 3, Tweed has been charged with careless driving, said police. He was not injured.

County Study Delayed

PICTON — Prince Edward County Council's county government committee Tuesday postponed plans to release a brief on single-tier government pending a meeting with a representative of the ministry of treasury economics and inter-governmental affairs.

Hallowell reeve and chairman of the county government committee, Keith MacDonald, said it was decided a ministry representative should meet with the committee to review the material prepared before it is placed in final form. Committee members are scheduled to meet today with James Farrington, a ministry representative.

It is expected the brief on county government — Council's second in about fifteen months time will be presented to council early this fall. Reeve MacDonald said it is expected the information presented to council will be further discussed at public meetings.

Gerald Ford Could Be The Man to Normalize U.S. Relations with Cuba

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

In this day and age of everything passing by swiftly, post-mortems are not made after a leader has been in power five years or a decade, but after a single year.

That's the case with President Gerald Ford who agreed to participate on what you could call post-mortems in advance on how he has done after 12 meagre months in office as a non-elected president.

I'm sure President Ford would have preferred to wait on such comment, possibly until later next year if and when he is elected president in his own right.

On the other hand, it has been a very busy year, this past one from the day in early August when former president Nixon quit.

And of course a major interest of the interviewers has been the fast-moving events abroad. President Ford after all did preside over the final withdrawal of the United States and of American influence in South Vietnam.

The Helsinki conference, otherwise known as the European Conference on Security and Co-operation, was also signed by him and 33 other European leaders a few days ago. He did make a major visit to remote Vladivostok, Pacific base of the equally remote Soviet Far East Fleet to meet Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev.

And he has just completed a visit to selected Eastern European states before and after the Helsinki conference, following a route more or less taken by former president Nixon less than two years ago.

And this was the nub of the Ford's foreign policy has been largely a continuum of that emenating from Richard Nixon.

It's equally true his foreign policy is largely set and maintained by the hard-driving and constantly-moving Henry Kissinger, in whose hands the president wisely left the direction of the continuing on-sight talks over a Middle East peace.

At the same time, it should be said President Ford's low-key approach, if it has been a continuity of Nixonian foreign policy, is not necessarily bad, rather wise and commendable.

Nixon in office was not besmirched and attacked for his foreign policy positions. Inded the time is not far off when prominent American authors will wish to detach the former president from the Watergate disaster and look at him solely in the light of foreign policy innovator.

And perhaps the major area of his success was in detente from the time he was elected president in 1968 and agreed the Russians could build up land and sea missile strength to that of the U.S. without major objections from his administration.

Detente under Ford has been a Nixon policy in cursu. It will be useful if the Grand Rapids politician with his easy-going ways is the president in office who will bargain with Fidel Castro to renew Cuban-American relations in the late '70s.

Castro's return this week of a $2 million ransom from a 1972 hi-jacking of a U.S. commercial jet to Cuba is another sign that Fidel will bargain some day. First he wants the long U.S. blockade against Cuba removed.

In his own hemisphere, a re-elected President Ford may have to do more on his own even if Henry Kissinger is still by his side. Kissinger has snubbed Latin America, cancelling four visits there.

And if Cuba doesn't test them both, the future of the Panama Canal will do so. It sits in a piece of U.S. territory called the Canal Zone straddling super-nationalist Panama which wants both the territory and the canal.

Panama unlike Cuba doesn't want to wait.

Municipal Efficiency

Apart from the direction and coupling of government in the future (whither Trenton in relation to Belleville, for instance?), to what extent can local governments become more effective?

Dr. C. R. Tindal of Queen's University told city council recently that after more than a century in operation it was time for local governments to re-appraise their effectiveness.

The municipal affairs expert did not offer any concrete suggestions as to how government could become more efficient. Some may get things done more expeditiously than others. but given the tedious and tiresome processes of democracy, it is difficult to see how things can be done much quicker, or effectively.

Computers come to mind. They are used in so many processes these days. Can they be harnessed more to the needs of government, even at the local level? It's worth thinking about, especially when it comes to the technicalities.

How else can government run more smoothly? As we have suggested, the detail, the storing and harnessing of information and the like, is something modern technology can handle, but the actual democratic process: the presentation of opinions, the reaching of consensus and all that involves people and discussion. That side of things is unlikely to change.

Meanwhile, it is interesting to observe some observations of provincial Housing Minister Donald Irvine. He was in Trenton recently and he restated the government's policy not to impose regionalization. He said the government was listening and there would be no regional government unless it was desired.

Democracy — ii may be tedious, boring, but has anyone thought of anything better?

Business of Coping

The put-down.

To a greater or lesser degree it's responsible for a lot of the grief and frustration of this world.

A walk down the street, up the street, whichever, there are a few smiles, people chatting, most hurrying along though, bent on some business or other. But what's beneath the surface?

Suddenly some mother berates a child. Sometimes it is for nothing; no cause, no reason, no provocation. You see it on the street, in the store.

All this in our affluent . . . and yet insecure and tension-filled world. People are suffering from "chronic strain," a Soviet scientist said recently.

Why?

Why should this be? Is it because things are too easy? Well, it's not so easy for that young mother — at home a lot of the time with the children. For the husband too, there is tension on the job.

But those put-downs of the children — how much, cumulatively, are they responsible for older, teenage disaffection, psychological problems, and even crime. Vandalism, for one thing, crimes against the person, and so on.

The young are the adults of tomorrow. Why then — allowing for some necessary discipline — treat them harshly, even unfairly, as is so often the case?

A boy of about 10 in a store says he wishes to return or swap an item purchased earlier. A book. The woman behind the counter frowns,says he can't just hand it back, he must fill out a form.

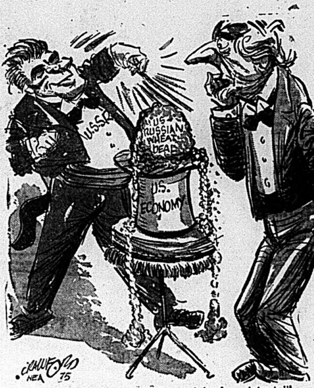
The put-down again.

A stern visage exhibited by the person in the public place and/or the parental heavy hand, applied even against the very young.

Where does it lead? At its worst, to violence, say somo mind snapping someplace and the kiling of little children, as in Saskatoon.

Where is the love, sweet love? People in public places, given the things they say to each other, are "tactless." This, from a young university student who has been working during the summer months in a bar. You learn about human nature in such a place.

Reflections of our time, and on our not altogether happy society.



"All I had to say is 'abracadabra' — detente!"

Grits' Nixon Cannot Nail Davis On Issue of Personal Integrity

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — The battle in the newspapers has started.

In any election the press plays an exceptionally important part.

Much of the public takes its opinions in a campaign from what it gets in the print media.

Local meetings don't have nearly the impact they had some decades ago. And as one consequence all parties attempt very few mass meetings today. They don't consider them worth the time and effort.

Radio and television also play some part, particularly in advertising. But they are largely a quick-glimpse approach.

The bulk of the communications aspect in any campaign takes place in the newspapers.

In the current vote Premier William Davis got off the mark to a good start in the press.

Liberal Leader Bob Nixon gave him an opening when he said that the key issue in the campaign would be "integrity."

Within hours the premier had pounced on this.

He made perhaps the best fighting speech he has ever given, and challenged Nixon to "put up or shut up."

This, of course, got him big play in papers right across the province.

And it drove home tellingly the point that he, Davis, has high integrity—which, of course, everybody including the opposition believes.

In taking this approach the premier was lifting a page from the book of former premier Leslie Frost.

Frost used the various "scandals" during his regime as stepping stones.

He knew very well that he was respected by everybody for his personal integrity.

And once the opposition gave him the opportunity—and CCF-NDP Leader Don MacDonald used to do this regularly—he would become highly indignant and tend to turn the main issue of the campaigns into his personal honesty.

One can see that Davis was trying to do just the same thing in the first days of the campaign, and probably with some success.

Nixon can come back, as he did, and cite a string of misadventures during the Davis years.

But he can't pin anything on the premier himself, and this is what is uppermost in the public mind.

Some of the misadventures, such as the Fidinam affair and Moog and the Hydro building, were questionable.

But there is no way of tying Davis into them personally.

And unless he can, Nixon might be a big loser through them, at least if he doesn't use them more subtly.

Jesus relates to all the needs of man by what He did at Calvary. The relationship through regeneration makes Him very near to your sin problem, the trouble at home, at work, your hurt and even your material or physical need, "The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin."

LETTERS

The Politics of a Bridge

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

It never ceases to amaze me how electrifying an election call works on the sleepy political scene in Canada. The deadest issues spring to life; even the farmers — having left their farms by the thousands because they could not make a living out of them — suddenly receive promises of a $7,000 minimum income per year.

But even projects which we had to assume were buried, safely at least till the late fall on the drawing boards of the Department of Transport — like our dear old Bay Bridge — leap into focus.

It still rings in our ears how the Department had to have a certain time of "input" which would be followed by a time of deliberation in the fall and a time of decision later; it sounded all so democratic and it lifted the bridge case onto the high level of user-participation, economic consideration and look into the future — and the bystander anticipated, with all this input behind him, at least a good clean fight about the gut issue, where the bridge would finally be built.

And what have we got instead? An election; and that changes all the noble principles. Even Mrs. Jeffrey — I wish her all the luck in the world, she deserves it — is deprived of the banner headline, the theme for countless election speeches and a sure-fire election issue by the "sudden" announcement of Dr. Potter that the decision for the bridge in the old location had just been made.

To be sure, for all us taxpayers this decision is the only favorable one because it is the cheapest; it does not solve the problem of reaching Hwy. 401 the easiest way — but perhaps that is to be taken care of by Mr. Taylor's second bridge in the future which just happens to pop up at the right time also, don't worry about the money for it.

And that brings me to my last point — how long and how far out is the future really? Even Dr. Potter did not think the bridge would be built "soon" — not before the funds for it would be available. Perhaps we'll have to wait for the election after this one for the funds to fall into place? And for Mr. Taylor's second bridge for the election after that?

Justice ?

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The news of the Madoc hit-and-run driver with no driver's licence who killed the bicyclist from Quebec seems to tread rather heavily on the toes of justice.

More information of this "accident" is warranted. The article in your newspaper leaves me with the impression that driving over people on bicycles is quite OK. I'm concerned, you see, because my children and I ride bicycles.

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Apropos "Landlords and Inflation" by Elizabeth Morton in the issue of August 13.

Mrs. Morton takes me to task for being 'simplistic' and for showing a 'biased' attitude in my writing. She is right. I am a simplo sort of bloke, and, like many others, I suspect, biased to boot.

If your correspondent had as much exposure to the Landlord-Tenant problem area as I do every day, she too, might be as biased as she claims I am.

Mrs. Morton is right too — tenants don't wear all the halos neither do Landlords wear all the horns — only most of them.

Gouging by landlords is a little different from reasonable increases to meet the cost of inflation.

I would suggest your correspondent does a little more research into such things. She could try starting in Great St. James Street, Belleville.

Law of Supply and Demand—and Competition—Preferable to Rent Controls

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Controls may be one way of checking inflation—if they are broad enough, as they were in the Second World War.

But one lesson is clear from the experience of places that have put a ceiling on rents Freezing just one of the costs of living does more harm than good.

Provincial and municipal politicians have either invoked or proposed rent controls here and there across Canada. Montreal has had a form of rent control since 1947, and British Columbia since last year.

Ontario's Tory government, in the rush to dissolution and an election, introduced rent review boards last month.

Two apparently irreconcilable influences lead to such moves and guarantee their failure:

—On the one hand is the natural resistance to price increases of any kind, but especially those that occur only once a year and therefore pack a strong wallop. Politicians find real short-term advantages (the only kind that matters) in prohibiting such price increases.

—On the other hand is the inflationary uptrend in costs of all kinds, including the cost of operating and maintaining rental accommodation and constructing new buildings to meet natural growth of demand for accommodation.

The larger the city, the greater is the temptation to turn to the easy, short-term "solution" of rent controls. People are naturally drawn to the attractions of cities such as London, Paris and New York, and the demand for ever more rental accommodation assumes a political urgency.

All three of those cities, as well as others, have resorted to controls as a means of keeping the cost of rental accommodation steady while such other costs as taxes, interest rates, utility services and food have continued to rise.

That's fine for tenants already installed in such accommodation—until the place starts to deteriorate because the owner can no longer afford to maintain it properly.

But for people coming into the rental-accommodation market—newly married couples, for instance, or families moving in from outside—the result is likely to be a worse shortage than ever.

In extreme cases, such as that of New York, rent controls change the whole social pattern by driving middle-income families to the suburbs in search of well maintained accommodation. Meanwhile, run-down city apartments are abandoned, and the city treasury suffers heavy losses of property taxes.

In the end, the only real beneficiaries of rent controls are the politicians who introduce them.

That's why the vote-catching proposals keep cropping up, even while the experience of such cities as New York points clearly to the hidden cost.

Nobody relishes the prospect of paying more for rent—or for gasoline, steaks or shoes.

But neither has anybody found a way of repealing the law of supply and demand.

As long as Canadians are free to follow the urge to move wherever they like, demand for accommodation is likely to be heavy in certain places.

That demand can't be met by making it unprofitable to own rental accommodation.

It can only be met successfully today as it has been met traditionally—that is, by the free play of competitive market forces.

New School Bus Law Increases Protection

The new school bus stopping law announced in late February will go into effect Monday, Sept. 1, says John Rhodes, provincial minister of transportation and communications.

The new law, under section 120 of the Highway Traffic Act, requires traffic travelling in both directions to halt when a stopped school bus flashes its alternating red signal lights regardless of the posted speed limit.

Traffic may not proceed until the school bus resumes motion or its red lights — affixed to both the front and rear of the bus — stop flashing.

Failure to stop for a school bus with its alternating red signal lights flashing carries a penalty of four driver demerit points and a maximum fine of $100.

Previously, the stop-in-both-directions rule required drivers to stop only when the maximum speed limit was greater than 35 miles per hour.

The new law applies regardless of the posted speed limit — on highways, country roads, city, town and village streets.

The only exception is on highways divided by a median strip. Then, only vehicles travelling in the same direction as the school bus must stop upon seeing the flashing red lights. Oncoming traffic on the opposite side of the median may proceed.

A median strip is a physical barrier or an unpaved strip of ground separating traffic travelling in one direction from traffic travelling in the opposite direction.

With the new Sept. 1 law, each municipality will have the authority to enact bylaws designating local school bus loading zones.

In these loading zones, the school bus driver will not be permitted to flash the vehicle's alternating red lights.

The loading zones will have identifying signs and can be located only on the same side of the road as a school or non-school facility often visited by school children and teachers.

The school bus driver cannot stop a bus to drop off or pick up school children on a road or highway opposite a designated loading zone. And at the zone, the bus must be as close as practicable to the right curb or edge of the roadway.

A school bus is defined, under the Highway Traffic Act, as a bus used for the transportation of children to and from school that: bears on the rear the words Do Not Pass When Signals Flashing; carries two red signal lights on the rear and two red signal lights on the front; and is painted chrome yellow with black lettering and trim.

No bus other than a school bus may be painted chrome yellow. No motor vehicle other than a school bus may bear the words Do Not Pass When Signals Flashing or School Bus.

Overhaul Of Laws Is Urged

OTTAWA (CP) — The Law Reform Commission of Canada, in its fourth annual report, calls for a virtual overhaul in the way Canadians handle their criminal justice system.

The commission, in a report to Justice Minister Otto Lang, also stresses the various vi s of Canadians on family law and emphasizes the changing currents of administrative and consumer law.

The commission is headed by Mr. Justice Patrick Hartt, borrowed from the Ontario Supreme Court and appointed in 1970, who has said he will resign next spring when his five-year term expires.

The annual report says Canadian criminal law is tougher than that of most other countries in the western world.

It asks: "Do we have to have the law we have? Why are certain kinds of rip-offs punished as stealing and others praised as smart business practice?"

Most of those convicted are the "poor, the young, the disadvantaged," a trend in which Canada is no exception.

Payments Up

OTTAWA (CP) — Unemployment insurance benefit payments during the first half of this year were $1.76 billion, up 41 per cent from the comparable year-earlier period, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday.

Critical

OTTAWA (CP) — A former Statistics Canada executive left a scathing 18-page memo attacking the federal agency before he retired recently and moved to Japan for a year, the agency said Tuesday.

Frank Curry, who was 27 years with the agency and was assistant director of the labor division when he retired, said in his memo that Statistics Canada was a corporate mess, that morale was poor because staff were frustrated and that the agency has lost its international prestige.

37 Have Typhoid

TORONTO (CP) — At least 37 persons who attended a family camp north of Kingston last month have typhoid fever, the Ontario ministry of health said Tuesday.

None of the cases are critical and all are responding to treatment, a ministry spokesman said.

Wire Better Here

TORONTO (CP) — Aluminum wiring used by contractors in Canadian homes has never been shown as the cause of a fire, Keith Bellamy, Ontario Hydro's chief inspector, said Tuesday.

Mr. Bellamy said in an interview that alumium wire used in Canada is superior to that which has been cited as the cause of about 500 fires in the United States.

Dump Can Tops

TORONTO (CP) — College students from across North America dumped more than two million ring-tops from soft drink cans at the American Can Co. of Canada plant Tuesday as part of a massive anti-litter campaign. The tops, linked together in a chain 33 miles long, were deposited at the company's recycling depot by delegates to the annual convention here of Circle K clubs, based in colleges in the United States and Canada.

Danson Warns Bankers To Finance Mortgages

OTTAWA (CP) — Urban Affairs Minister Barney Danson has hinted the government may intervene more strongly in the mortgage market if lenders fail to increase the supply of mortgage money.

An aide to Mr. Danson confirmed Tuesday that the minister wrote to banks and trust companies in late July to find out their mortgage-lending plans.

In the letter, he said:

"If private financial institutions don't provide the funds required, the federal government will be under growing pressure either to increase its share of lending or to amend the statutes and regulations governing the activities of the financial institutions to ensure that the required funds are forthcoming."

Gas Talks Postponed, Disgusting Timbrell

OTTAWA (CP) — The Ontario election campaign has overturned plans for a federal-provincial energy meeting—much to Dennis Timbrell's disgust.

Mr. Timbrell, the Ontario energy minister, said Tuesday he is upset that federal Energy Minister Donald Macdonald cancelled a previously-planned meeting on natural gas issues because of the Sept. 18 provincial election.

"I feel that government—the business of the people—can't stop because there is an election on," the Progressive Conservative minister said before returning to Toronto.

Mr. Macdonald replied in a statement:

"There is no issue so urgent that it must be resolved within the next 30 days. And it seems to me appropriate to deal with whoever will be responsible for energy policy in Ontario in the calmer atmosphere prevailing after an election."

Mr. Timbrell, who was in Ottawa for a Monday night election meeting, said the federal minister last week cancelled a meeting that had been planned for Tuesday.

Mr. Macdonald said as far as the federal government is concerned the gas price will be as announced in the budget.

Long Strike Nearly Settled

MONTREAL (CP) — A bitter 19-month strike at Pratt and Whitney Aircraft of Canada Ltd. is only a step away from settlement following acceptance in principle by the union of proposals made by Premier Robert Bourassa last week.

The company announced Monday it would abide by Mr. Bourassa's recommendations to end the walkout, which began Jan. 7, 1974, at Pratt and Whitney's four plants in the Montreal suburb of Longueuil.

Acceptance of the premier's proposals by both sides cle[illegible] all remaining obstacles to a settlement.

Company and union representatives were to meet at the premier's Montreal office later today to work out final details of the agreement.

Your Intelligencer carrier is a young, independent businessman; he doesn't receive a pay cheque. His profit is the difference between the wholesale cost of his newspapers and the amount collected from his customers.
Most subscribers pay their carriers on the first call. But some people say "come back later" . . . and the carrier's profit is put off. It's like asking you to come back two or three times for your pay cheque.
For many of us this would be a calamity. Of course, you want to be paid promptly. All of us do. The boy or girl who delivers your Intelligencer will appreciate being paid promptly.

HOME Price Set High

TORONTO (CP) — The Star says a Toronto man will make more than $50,000 profit if he gets his asking price on a house he bought in 1972 under the province's Home Ownership Made Easy (HOME) program.

Donald Irvine, Ontario housing minister, announced 10 days ago that the provincial government is lifting all restrictions on resale of HOME houses, built for low-income families by the Ontario Housing Corp. on land assembled by the government.

The Star says Gerry Sclara put his house up for sale a few days later. He is asking $85,000 for the four-bedroom brick house that he bought for $18,000.

Democratic Hopeful

A colorful crop of political campaigners suddenly is beginning to flower in preparation for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination. The candidates range from a multi-millionaire and former basketball player to a one-time ambassador to France. One of the men receiving the most public attention is Senator Henry Jackson, a Democrat from Washington. (CP Photo)

Democratic Role Eyed By Colorful Candidates

WASHINGTON (CP) — From the far West and the deep South, from the East Coast and the North, a colorful crop of political campaigners suddenly is beginning to flower in preparation for the 1976 Democratic presidential nomination.

The candidates and potential candidates range from a multi-millionaire and a former professional basketball player to a one-time ambassador to France and close relative of the Kennedy family.

Virtually nobody is predicting at this stage which of the hopefuls will make it through the 30 state primary campaigns, beginning in New Hampshire next March, let alone who the successful nominee will be when the party holds it nominating convention in Los Angeles or New York in mid-1976.

Clearly, the two men receiving the most public attention at the moment are Alabama Governor George Wallace and Senator Henry Jackson, a Democrat from Washington.

But the field is widening almost daily with new names and faces gaining brief prominence before disappearing again to start building campaign organizations and begin the hunt for funds.

A constant source of speculation and comment is 59-year-old Washington lawyer Sargent Shriver, former head of the Peace Corps and the war on poverty and from 1968 to 1970, U.S. ambassador in Paris.

The Shriver name gains an added magic by being closely associated with the Kennedy's. He is married to Eunice, sister of the late Robert and John Kennedy.

Shriver says that since the only remaining Kennedy brother, Edward, contends he will definitely not be a candidate, he has decided to set up a committee to raise funds for a possible race himself.

Running-mate in George McGovern's unsuccessful 1972 bid for the presidency Shriver's campaign promises to be nothing if not unconventional.

Already, he has made some unexpected appointments to his fund-raising staff, including tennis star Arthur Ashe and author Kurt Vonnegut.

Senator Edmund Muskie of Maine, whose bid for the nomination in 1972 failed badly, says he is delaying any decision on trying again and Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, vice-president under former president Lyndon Johnson and also an unsuccessful candidate in 1972, says he would accept the nomination but he will not campaign for it.

Representative Morris Udall of Arizona became the first of the contenders to announce formally his candidacy last November and is widely considered to be the most liberal of all those seeking the nomination. An early opponent of the Vietnam war, Udall, 52, says he would seriously consider making Governor Ella Grasso of Connecticut, the country's only woman governor, his vice-presidential appointment if he won the nomination.

Other leading contenders include Terry Sanford, 58-year-old former governor of North Carolina and now president of Duke University, and Lloyd Bentsen, 54-year-old Democratic Senator from Texas who made himself a millionaire selling insurance.

McGovern, now a senator for South Dakota who as the emocratic contender for the presidency was trounced by Richard Nixon in 1972, says he doesn't plan to campaign again but, like Humphrey, he would accept the nomination if it was offered to him.

Sweet Success! Ontario Peaches Win This Season!

Peaches from the orchards of the Niagara Peninsula and southwestern Ontario are now reaching Ontario food stores and markets in steady quantities, and the chairman of the Ontario Fresh Fruit Growers' Marketing Board states the quality of the 1975 crop is "exceptional".

Ted Tregunno, whose family orchards front onto the Niagara River near Queenston, explains that growing conditions this year have been close to ideal. Warm and sunny summer days experienced across southern Ontario have provided ample heat units to bring the fruit into full ripened maturity and there has been sufficient rain to bring the peaches up to full size.

"We are picking some varieties of peaches a little earlier this year, but only by a few days", said Mr. Tregunno. "The prolonged hot spell in July started us thinking we would be a couple of weeks ahead of schedule, but nature usually has a way of maintaining a balance".

The 1975 crop is expected to be 10 per cent heavier than the substantial harvest recorded last year. The close to 10,000 acres of peach orchards in the Province are expected to produce 81 million pounds of freestone and clingstone peaches.

To ensure a "Best Buy" in peaches it is helpful to know:

(1) the varieties that are suited for (a) table use (b) canning (c) freezing.

(2) the order of appearance, and the periods of "peak production" of each variety; when flavor and quality are at their best, and prices are most favorable.

Although adverse weather conditions cause some variations in period of volume supply, the average dates remain reasonably constant from year to year. The order of appearance remains unchanged.

EARLY

Royalvee — First week in August to third week in August

Sunhaven — about two days later, to third week in August

MID SEASON

(Middle to last week of August)

Redhaven — excellent for table use, good for canning and usually freezes well

Jubilee — good for table use, excellent canning peach, should not be frozen.

Envoy — good eating peach, cans well, frequently freezes well

(Late August)

Loring — good eating peach, cans well most seasons, variable for freezing.

(Late August to early September.

Valiant — good quality eating

Veteran — cans well

LATE SEASON

Early Elberta — a commercial canner, fair for table use, good for home canning

Redskin — last good eating peach, cans well

(Two new varieties to watch for:)

Velvet — a fine textured firm red freestone peach appearing the week after Redhaven

Vanity — an attractive red Dessert Peach following Veteran — appearing some ten days before Elberta.

Here are peach recipes, in which both fresh or canned peaches can be used, both in dessert and main course dishes, and as appetizers and garnish as well.

Peach and Pear Chutney

one 20-oz. can peaches (drained)
one 20-oz. can pears (drained)
one cup sugar
one cup vinegar
one medium orange one medium lemon
one cup golden raisins
¼ lb. citron (chopped)
one-third candied ginger (chopped) 1 cup chopped onion one medium green pepper (chopped)
one clove garlic (minced)

In a large saucepan combine syrup from the fruits with sugar and vinegar.

Bring to boil.

Meanwhile slice lemon and orange paper thin, chop into medium-sized pieces.

Add remainder of ingredients to syrup.

Simmer uncovered 45 to 60 minutes, or until thick.

Seal in jars, or store in refrigerator, in which case it will keep approximately three weeks.

Makes four cups.

Spiced Peaches

one cup orange juice
¼ cup sugar
four to five whole cloves four whole allspice one small stick cinnamon one slice lemon
pinch of nutmeg

Combine all ingredients.

Bring to boil, reduce heat, simmer for about 3 minutes.

Strain syrup, and allow to cool slightly, then pour over fresh peach halves.

Marinate in refrigerator, turning peaches frequently.

Broiled Peach Halves

(1)

Drain canned peaches well, dry on paper towelling.

Brush both sides of peach half with lemon juice, and place rounded side up, on broiler rack.

Broil for three minutes, turn, and fill centres with black or red currant jelly, or with grape or mint, depending on the meat with which this is to be served.

Broil until a delicate brown.

Drain, as above.

Brush rounded side with mayonnaise, and place rounded side up, on broiler rack.

Broil three minutes, turn, brush with mayonnaise and broil until desired color.

(3)

Drain, as above.

Sprinkle with lemon juice, and brush both sides with salad oil.

Mix a pinch of cinnamon, nutmeg and ground cloves with some granulated sugar.

Sprinkle peach halves with sugar mixture, then with lemon juice.

Broil until golden brown.

Norwegian Peach Pie

one cup flour
¼ tsp. salt
one-third cup brown sugar
¼ tsp. cinnamon
¾ cup rolled oats
six tbsp. butter

Mix all dry ingredients for the crust, and then cut in the butter until the mixture is crumbly. Reserve one-third cup mixture to sprinkle on top, and firmly press the rest into a buttered nine-inch pie plate.

one-third cup white sugar
one egg
one cup sour cream
1½ tsp. lemon rind
one 20-oz. can peaches

Beat first four ingredients together until smooth. Drain peaches, and arrange in the crust. Pour the cream mixture over, and sprinkle with the crumbs.

Bake at 375 degrees for 40 minutes. Serves six.

Chewy Peach Buttercup

one 15-oz. can peaches
one tbsp. lemon juice
¼ tsp cinnamon (more if desired)
one tbsp butter
three tbsp brown sugar six tbsp all-purpose flour
dash of salt
one-third cup rolled oats (quick cooking) or one-third cup crisp cereal flakes
3 tbsp. melted butter

Drain peaches, reserve juice for sauce if desired.

Arrange peaches in greased shallow baking pan, and sprinkle with lemon juice and cinnamon. Dot with butter.

Combine remainder of dry ingredients, add melted butter and mix until crumbly, then spread over peaches.

Bake in 375 degree oven, approximately 30 minutes.

Serve with Peach Sauce or whipped cream or ice cream.

Peach Refrigerator Cheesecake

1¼ cups ginger wafer crumbs
or graham wafer crumbs
(add ¼ cup sugar if using graham wafers)
five tbsp melted butter

Mix crumbs and butter (and sugar when required).

Press onto the bottom of a nine-inch spring form pan.

Bake at 350 degrees for eight minutes.

one envelope unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
three eggs, separated
two-thirds cup syrup from peaches
¼ cup sugar
one tbsp lemon juice
grated rind of lemon two 8-oz. pkgs cream cheese
two 15-oz. cans peaches

Drain cans of peaches and slice, retaining syrup.

Soften gelatin in cold water.

Combine egg yolks, peach syrup, sugar, lemon juice and rind, and stir over medium heat for 5 minutes.

Add gelatin, stir until dissolved.

Gradually add mixture to soft cream cheese, beating until well blended.

Chop one half of the peach slices fairly fine.

Beat eggs until stiff, add with chopped peaches to cheese mixture then pour this over the crust, and chill until firm (or overnight).

Garnish with remaining peach slices.

Serves 10 to 12.

Mr. and Mrs. David Fitzgerald

Fitzgerald—Walker

Corby Park rose garden was the setting for the August 2 wedding of Judith Lorraine Walker and David Frank Fitzgerald. Rev. James Soutter performed the ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Begbie of Picton and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Fitzgerald.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a pale yellow gown with a square neckline, long sleeves, tuck-pleated front, flounced skirt and a back bow, with wide lace trim at the neck and cuffs. She wore a white picture hat trimmed with yellow daisies, and carried a bouquet of burgundy snapdragons, yellow daisies and white miniature carnations.

Lynda LaRue was matron of honor in an A-line pale yellow gown printed with pink and yellow flowers, with a square neckline and puffed sleeves with lace trim at the neck and sleeves.

Lori Shorey wore a pale yellow gown with deep yellow roses, and carried a basket of white and yellow daisies. Peter Jan Walker, the bride's son, was ring bearer.

Raymond LaRue was the groom's best man.

A dinner reception at Wing 418 Squadron Hall followed the wedding. After a honeymoon at Pringle Lake, Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald have made their home at 59 Weiden Street, St. Catharines.

Engagement

Mary Ellen York, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. York of RR 3, Trenton, and David Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Palmer of RR 3, Frankford, will exchange vows on Sept. 13, at St. George's Anglican Church, Trenton, in a 4 p.m. ceremony.

Ann Landers

Can Small Stores Survive?

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to ask the American people a few questions. It's a matter of economic survival to me as well as millions of other "little people" who have small stores.

Who do you ask to cash your checks? Who do you ask for credit when things are tight? Who do you ask to take ads for your organizations, yearbooks and programs? Who do you ask for contributions for your church suppers, raffles, etc? Who do you ask to put up your posters for special events?

It's your local, hometown small businessman. After all, he's your friend, your neighbor.

But when you want to make a purchase, how often do you drive past his place of business and go to a giant store thinking you might save a few cents, without giving your local merchant a chance or even comparing his prices?

We are competitive with the biggest stores price-wise and our services are often better. But we can't survive much longer. When we go, you'll miss us.—Too Many To Name

Dear Too Many: Your letter reflects one of the major social and economic problems of our times. It's becoming more and more difficult for the small, independent businessman to survive. I wish I knew the answer.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 5-11 and my husband is 6-4. We have been married for five years and would love to have a child. The problem: we are both terrified that he (or she) would be abnormally tall.

Both of us suffered horrible ridicule because we were the tallest in our classes. We'd hate to bring a child into the world who stands a good chance of going through the same agony. You can't imagine the emotional burden. Please advise.—The Giraffes

Dear G's: I don't need to sister and I HAD the burden. We were the shortest ones in our class from kindergarten on. But it didn't bother us in the least—it just motivated us o try to be "tall" in other ways.

My advice is go ahead and have a child. He (or she) might inherit the genes of your Uncle Elmer or Aunt Hilda who were the runts of the litter. One can never predict the outcome in the game of genetic roulete.

Dear Ann Landers: I read that letter from the gentleman who wears a panty girdle because he claims his doctor recommended it for his back problems.

I see no reason why men shouldn't wear any kind of undergarments they wish—even with lace on them if they want to. But I hope you'll let them know if it's only back support they want,they can order specially designed elastic binders through almost any mail order house, or surgical supply or drug store.

These binders are a lot less confining than a panty-girdle and thousands of men attest to their effectiveness.

Give 'em the word, Ann.—I.B. Of Plainville, Mass.

'Operation Go Home' Finds Runaway Kids

OTTAWA (CP) — Rev. Norm Johnston believes in kids, which is quite a feat considering that he sees them at their worst—in the streets and at court.

The 58-year-old United Church minister has been instrumental through Operation Go Home, and now a home placement service, in getting troubled teen-agers in the Ottawa area into a home environment.

"It all began back in 1971. I saw a billboard display that an Ottawa couple put up asking their runaway daughter Julie to call home," he said.

"It worked within 36 hours and I began to wonder how many other kids wanted to reach their parents but were afraid to take the first step."

Accordingly, Mr. Johnston began interviewing kids he met in court and hanging around the streets, trying to find out who would like to try to fit into their families again.

"You know, I had to talk to over 230 kids to find 100 who wanted to try and make it at home again. I wrote 100 individual letters and only got nine answers. Thre parents told me to mind my own business and six said they'd be glad to see their kids."

"It was those 91 parents who didn't care enough about their kids to even write back that got me started in this latest thing."

"This latest thing" is finding volunteer parents willing to give unwanted kids a place in their family.

"It started about two years ago and now through word of mouth we have 83 families who take in kids. They don't get any money for this, they do it because they care about people," he said.

The program, Mr. Johnston feels, has been a success. "We've had 229 kids placed in these homes and only 19 have not worked out."

"In a day and age when it seems there's not enough money going around, these families are recognizing a need for love and guidance and are responding no matter what."

Local court and parole workers respect Mr. Johnston's work.

"He's pretty unique because he just seems to know how to handle people. He's chaplain at the criminal court and the jail in addition to his work with teen-agers and he does a beautiful job," said W. D. Jeffries, a probation officer for the Ontario ministry of correctional services.

Although he is strongly committed to helping troubled teen-agers, Mr. Johnston is realistic about them.

"Sure, I know some of them are stinkers, real bums, but so many of them are beautiful people, even brilliant, and they can make it if somebody will just give them a chance.

"I cry for these kids."

Mr. Johnston is a relative newcomer to this field of work.

"Listen, I've been in the gutter myself and I know what it's like. I was an alcoholic, I let a business go down the drain. I didn't even know my kids until they were almost teen-agers.

"My wife went to a divorce lawyer the same day I went to Alcoholics Anonymous. Neither of us knew what the other had done. I came really close to losing her and everything but I managed to dry out and I've been off the juice for 15 years."

He began a second Montreal optical business, but felt dissatisfied.

"I was making money hand-over-fist but then I got the call.

"It wasn't a bolt out of the blue or anything, but I knew I had to do something."

GENEALOGICAL SEMINAR

OAKVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Those wishing to learn the skills to find their own ancestry and to expand their pedigree will be able to attend the second annual genealogical seminar at the Sheridan College of Applied Arts and Technology here. The seminar is scheduled Aug. 11-15 and features experts in the field of genealogical research.

More High-fashion Styles Wanted by Large Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Larger women are the forgotten ones when it comes to fashion, a recent consumer panel concluded. The panel was sponsored by clothing manufacturer, Lane Bryant, which caters to the larger-sized woman, on the occasion of the company's 75th anniversary.

Nine panelists selected from all over the United States, who themselves wear large sizes, agreed that they would like to look "with it" too.

They said clothing manufacturers don't give them a break.

The purpose of the panel was two-fold. One was to prove that larger bodies do not diminish women as people nor make them less beautiful or intelligent.

The other was to hear what women wanted in larger fashions.

Participants said they wanted more fashions, especially more couture-type styles, color and prints.

"We want more fashion and more color," said Dr. Claudette McFarland, a 38-year-old Chicago lawyer and business executive who wears a size-42 dress.

"We big pretty girls want to have the same thing as those little skinny girls."

Lane Bryant took heed of the panel's fashion suggestions and previewed the latest trends at the fall showings of the New York Couture Business Council.

This fall's popular jumper was shown in green jersey in easy lines for the fuller figure, worn with a print shirt in pale orange tones.

Another jumper was in youthful denim with a rounded tank top showing off the red check shirt. Both jumpers included the wishes of the panel for more color.

Lined in grey and worn with grey flannel pants was a chocolate colored raincoat with toggle fastenings. Lane Bryant likes pants and pantsuits for the larger woman, claiming it minimizes her size.

The firm designed a three-piece red pantsuit with a cape for big game hunter and panelist Mary Lee Hopper. The cape made her shoulders appear smaller and covered heavy upper arms.

Another pantsuit style was designed for Dorothy Shula, wife of the Miami Dolphins' football coach. The three-piece er in pale green had pants, a tunic top and a western-style jacket with embroidered yoke.

Said Mrs. Shula: "I have good legs but today's longer dresses hide them so I stick to pants for daytime and to caftans and long dresses for evening."

The manufacturer took note of good legs and is producing some shorter skirts for fall.

Lane Bryant's own size-18 model is Margaret Rogers, a widow in her late 50s. She said she likes pantsuits, so chose a casual outfit with blue knit pants, turtle-neck sweater and a knit vest with patches.

Big-bosomed women such as Mrs. Rogers are wise not too wear too tight a top, nor too low a neckline, warned the fashin expert at Lane Bryant.

Another panelist, actress Grace Keagy, complained that fashion models who show large-size clothes are always small-sized women.

A three-piece red pantsuit with smooth fitting cape was chosen from the Lane Bryant Fall Collection by Mary Lee Hopper, a big game hunter from Houston, Texas. Lane Bryant caters to the larger-sized woman and recently previewed a collection at the fall showings of the New York Business Council. (CP Photo)

Changing of the Guard

Every day at 10 a.m. on Parliament Hill the 45-minute Changing of the Guard ceremony attracts large crowds. The ceremony combines tradition, pageantry, color and military precision. (CP Photo)

Ottawa Ideal City To Be Seen Afoot

OTTAWA (CP) — The best way to get to know a city is to walk and Ottawa is especially suited for this type of free sightseeing.

To see the centre of the city the place to begin, of course, is Parliament Hill. At 10 a.m. daily during the summer, weather permitting, you can watch the 45-minute changing-of-the-guard ceremony.

Combining tradition, pageantry, color and military precision, the ceremony attracts large crowds and it is a good idea to be on the Hill lawn a little early to get a good view.

After that a tour of the Parliament Buildings, which lasts about half an hour, is in order. Tours begin at 9 a.m. and run to 9 p.m. on weekdays and 5:30 p.m. Sundays.

They include the Senate, Commons and Memorial chambers as well as the library and Peace Tower. Visitors are allowed to go to the top of the tower and enjoy a breathtaking view of the nation's capital.

The prime minister's office and the privy council chamber in the East Block are open to tours from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

In front of the Parliament Buildings is the Centennial Flame, symbol of Canada's 100th birthday. It runs on natural gas bubbling up through a continual flow of water.

Contrary to popular belief, it is not an "eternal" flame and Ottawa winds sometimes snuff it out, temporarily.

Walking east along Wellington Street you come to the Bytown Museum, which is beside the Rideau Canal docks. Open daily from noon to 4:30 p.m., the old stone building contains documents and artifacts from Ottawa's early history back to when it was called Bytown.

Still walking east, this time along Rideua Street, which is a good shopping area, you will find the Byward Market.

Situated on George Street, just behind the Hudson's Bay Co. store, farmers have been bringing fresh meat, fruit, flowers and vegetables to this open-air market since 1830.

Walking back west to Confederation Square, which is opposite the Chateau Laurier Hotel, you will see Canada's 100th birthday present to itself — the National Arts Centre.

Tours of the $46.4-million hexagon shaped complex run daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. It contains three theatres, restaurants, parks, garage and assorted shops.

Just across the street from the Arts Centre is the National Gallery of Canada. Open 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. Sundays, the gallery boasts works by Rembrandt, El Greco, Cezanne, Degas, Van Gogh, Picasso and a comprehensive collection of Canadian paintings and drawings.

A few blocks east, at 335 Laurier Street East is Laurier House, the former residence of two prime ministers—Sir Wilfrid Laurier and W. L. Mackenzie King.

Open 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily and 2 to 9 p.m. Sundays, it also contains an exact copy of the study where former prime minister Lester Pearson spent his retirement.

Provincial Parks Full

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Newfoundland's provincial parks have had an over-population problem this summer, and Tourism Minister Tom Hickey says it's largely because a fee increase at federal parks has driven people away from the Terra Nova National Park.

Mr. Hickey said the provincial parks, especially those on the Avalon Peninsula on which St. John's is located, are "bursting at the seams."

He said the fee increase at the federal park, coupled with a natural increase in the use of provincial parks, has caused a "very serious situation."

He is preparing a proposal for cabinet calling for quick action—"an all-out program next year to meet the need."

Roy Orr, superintendent of the Terra Nova National Park, said the number of campers at the federal park decreased by about 40 per cent when the fee increase went into effect, but the numbers began to climb again, and by mid-July were only 22 per cent below normal.

Part of the problem is that the park hasn't enabled people to understand how the new entrance fee works, he said. They fail to realize that the $2 fee permits them to spend up to two weeks within the park provided they don't go outside. In addition to the entrance fees, park users have to pay $3 a night if they are camping.

Safety Rules Listed For Users of Mopeds

OTTAWA (CP) — Mopeds are pedal-assisted motor bikes or motor-assisted pedal bikes, depending on your viewpoint.

Despite the semantic difference and a variance, too, in moped laws from province to province, the Canada Safety Council says moped owners should have some things in common, namely the dos and don'ts of safe driving:

"Your head is not as hard as the road," the council says. Wear an approved safety helmet and keep a spare one for a passenger if you have a moped built for two.

"Make sure you are seen by other road users"—at night wear light-colored clothing and ensure lights are clean and working.

"Be especially careful after rain, as any bicycle can skid easily on wet road surfaces," advises the council.

"Understand your moped. Learn how it works and why."

If you don't know how brakes are adjusted or how to fix a flat, the council says, turn it over to a professional when the time comes.

"Don't let other road users have to guess what your intentions are." Use correct hand signals.

"If this is your first motorized vehicle, be certain you know the rules of the road applicable in your province or those in which you may ride if going on an extended tour."

The dont's are four of many. First, don't cut across traffic lanes to turn without glancing behind you. Don't follow another vehicle too closely and don't sail through intersections without checking in all directions.

"Many drivers are so conscious of looking for a car they may not see you on a bicycle, even when you have the right of way."

The council's final safety words: "Don't overtake unless you can see well ahead, know that it is safe to pass, and have enough power in reserve to do so quickly."

Prague Prosperous But Still Not Free

PRAGUE (AP) — Miniskirts and blackmarket money changing, traffic congestion and political repressions. These are ingredients of life in Prague seven summers after the Soviet invasion crushed "socialism with a human face" and reimposed hardline Communist rule.

Western tourism is flourishing in this Gothic and baroque city, the year-old subway is being extended with Soviet expertise and gleaming new department stores are well stocked with goods.

Private automobile ownership is rising among Prague's 1.15 million residents—from one auto per 16 residents in 1969 to one per 6.5 residents this year. This is ahead of other Communist capitals and nearing per-capita car ownership in Vienna, a Prague newspaper boasted recently.

Another sign of well-being is the mass exodus of 500,000 Prague residents to their private country cottages every summer weekend, causing huge traffic snarls. Borrowing techniques from the West, Czech police now are using helicopters to keep traffic flowing during the weekend rush.

But Soviet soldiers continue to be garrisoned throughout the country while Czechs have difficulty getting permission to travel in the West. No Western newspapers or magazines are available to the public and autherities jam Radio Free Europe broadcasts beamed from Munich, Germany, 180 miles away.

There also are reports of secret police crackdowns on dissidents and confiscation of manuscripts of writers who criticize the regime of Communist party leader Gustav Husak.

Official signs and directives in Prague are printed in both Czech and Russian—another reminder of the 1968 invasion that toppled the reform government of Alexander Dubcek.

Dubcek has been exiled to a minor, non-political job in Bratislava. Thousands of his supporters—those who did not flee the country—were jailed or stripped of their working privileges by the new pro-Moscow regime.

"Every Czech youth must study Russian in school. But since the invasion of 1968, we don't speak that language anymore," a Prague resident declared, hinting at the reservoir of bitterness.

Music Jars Mission

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — A mysterious signal that threw off the tests of an early Apollo moon mission turned out to come from a nearby radio station that was limited to daytime operation. When the station went off the air at sundown, so did its signal which during the day interfered with the engineers' metre readings.

All English-only Signs Are Banned in Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — Regulations governing language in advertising and labelling as part of a plan to make knowledge of French "necessary" in Quebec were unveiled Tuesday by Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde.

The new rules ban placards printed only in English on picket lines and in demonstrations, and companies operating in the province would be barred from distributing catalogues printed in English only without a written request from recipients.

The Official Language Act of Quebec stipulates that product labels, warranty certificates, menus, wine lists and directions for use of a product must be printed in French. The new regulations specify exceptions to those rules.

The controversial act, passed in the Quebec national assembly July 31, 1974, also stipulates that "public signs must be drawn up French or in both French and another language, except within certain limits provided by regulation."

Among the public signs and advertisements in writing that may be presented entirely in one language other than French, the regulations list:

— Commercial messages transmitted by means of catalogues, brochures or other like publications distributed to persons who have requested in writing that such messages be sent to them in that language;

—Messages displayed on hand-held signs in respect of the organized marking of a feast day or historic event;

— Non commercial messages at a private residence and non-commercial messages aimed at an ethnic group with the "sole function of promoting the attachment of such group to a mother country . . . whose official language is other than French."

Owners of billboards or neon signs erected before passage of the language act last year are given five years to replace them.

Firms distributing catalogues, brochures or similar advertising that does not conform to the regulations may continue doing so for two years after the date when the regulations come into force.

Interested parties have 90 days to submit their comments to the government on the regulations before they are officially proclaimed.

The regulations would be enforced for all menus, wine lists and food products other than alcoholic beverages as of Jan. 1, 1976. All other products would come under the regulations by Jan. 1, 1978.

Davis Hints Store Hours Will Be Fixed

MISSISSAUGA, Ont. (CP) — Premier Davis hinted Tuesday that the subject of store hours may come up later in the campaign for the Sept. 18 provincial election.

After talking with store owners during a walking tour of a local shopping mall, the premier said he wants to see the question of store hours and holidays settled as soon as possible.

He said he favors a Sunday closing law limiting shopping to convenience items such as bread and milk.

Questioned about the possibility of establishing statutory holidays for most retail stores he said:

"I might have more to say about that a little later."

However, he would not commit himself beyond that.

The Band Played On

Acclaimed Liberal candidate Hugh O'Neil's entrance into the Quinte riding nominating convention Tuesday was replete with the Dixieland band playing a revised version of a popular tune — When O'Neil Goes Marching In. The Trenton realtor had the band warming up in the lobby of Centennial Secondary School, beating out support for his nomination. O'Neil was acclaimed when Belleville lawyer George Murray withdrew his name from the nomination race.

Board Seeks Grant for School Addition

An addition to St. Peter's School in Trenton has yet to get off the ground as the Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board must go to the ministry of education for additional grants towards the project.

The board learned Tuesday night that the lowest bid on the projected $982,000 job was well above this figure and that without further assistance from the ministry can't proceed with construction.

The lowest bid was from Mirtren Company at $1,174,734 while the next lowest bid was from Colt Company at $1,177,943. Both these bids were well above the projected cost approved by the ministry of education.

The management committee recommended that the board investigate the possibility of more suitable funding being available for this project from the provincial government.

The addition would provide St. Peter's School with new gym, home economics, industrial arts, library and kindergarten facilities as well as two new classrooms.

O'Neil Gets Liberal Nomination for Quinte

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Trenton realtor Hugh O'Neil was acclaimed the Liberal candidate for Quinte riding for the Sept. 18 provincial election Tuesday after a show of party solidarity when Belleville lawyer George Murray withdrew his name from the race at the close of his nomination speech.

Although the 350 voting delegates at the nominating convention at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville were unaware of Mr. Murray's plans, the lack of placard and button support for Mr. Murray gave evidence throughout the meeting that something was afoot.

When Mr. O'Neil approached the stage for his nomination speech first, he was accompanied by a Dixieland band trailed by sign-waving enthusiasts while the delegates clapped and sang.

Mr. Murray's entrance was quiet and reserved — he was greeted by polite applause.

"The person who should represent this area should be a long-standing resident who is fairly well-known in both Belleville and Trenton," he said.

Mr. Murray, a native of Vancouver and relative newcomer to the Quinte region, produced a murmur among the crowd as he commented, "unfortunately, my three years of residence in Belleville does not, in my estimation, give me the exposure and the necessary contacts to win this campaign."

He said he was throwing his support behind Mr. O'Neil "who stands a distinct chance of defeating the belle of the bathtub or the dairy queen running for the Tories."

The last reference was to Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey, the Conservative candidate. Mr. O'Neil's other opponent is New Democrat Carson McLauchlan.

Mr. Murray said in an interview afterwards he made his decision to withdraw Tuesday afternoon. "I really think he (O'Neil) is the person who can best win in this riding," he added.

He also said he acted in the best interests of the Liberal party. "It was important to have a unanimous convention," he remarked. "It was important to recognize we have a strong group behind the candidate."

Mr. O'Neil said in another interview he was unaware of Mr. Murray's decision beforehand. "It's good we have a united front and that we're going out to fight together," he commented.

Mr. O'Neil is a native of Belleville, a resident of Trenton and a Quinte area real estate man. He and his wife, Donna, have a daughter, Kathy, and a son, David. His nominator, Tom Lally, also pointed out Mr. O'Neil is bilingual.

Belleville lawyer Robert Temple was also nominated during the meeting but he immediately declined. He is a former federal MP.

Quinte Skyway Termed Height Of Misinformed Tory Planning

Although the Bay Bridge has become an election issue in Quinte riding due to the slowness of its reconstruction or replacement plans, an already completed bridge connecting Hastings and Prince Edward counties was the brunt of criticism during Tuesday's nominating convention of the Quinte Provincial Liberal Association.

Belleville Lawyer George Murray called the Quinte Skyway near Deseronto "the all-time height of misinformed Tory spending," before 350 delegates at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville.

During his nomination speech in which he withdrew his name in favor of later acclaimed Liberal candidate Hugh O'Neil, Mr. Murray used the skyway for a potshot at James Taylor, Conservative MPP in Prince Edward County.

He commented, "Mr. Taylor continues to enjoy an unencumbered sweeping approach to his Northport residence over the Deseronto skyway — the existence of which has got to be the all-time height of misinformed Tory spending."

Mr. Murray also criticized the Conservative provincial government over its inaction on the Bay Bridge. "They have said nothing more than they said years ago — when the present structure collapses we (Conservatives) may replace it."

Mr. Murray said Ontario residents have had enough of the "donkey years of the Davis government" which he said has been filled with "corrupt patronage" and past scandals which are "just the tip of the iceburg."

He said the government should be "airing itself in public if the public can stand the stench."

At the Sept. 18 election, the voters will "deflate the monster of big government and big government activity," he commented.

Spending Controls Prime Liberal Goal

Liberal hopefuls from three Ontario sidings dropped in to the Quinte Provincial Liberal Association nominating convention Tuesday to raise the cry against the present Conservative government.

Most prominent was Whitby riding candidate Des Newman, the mayor of Whitby, who said Ontario voters "sense a change is necessary . . . preservation of our way of life through a change in government."

However, he cautioned that no government should be optimistic of immediate change to a better life. "The problems to be found in an urbanized system are not problems which will be solved overnight," he noted.

Northumberland candidate Isabel Kirkpatrick said a change in government is necessary to stop overspending by the Conservatives. She said the interest on the current provincial debt is $2 million per day or $40 per month for an average family.

She pointed to a goal for Liberal gains in the next election. "Particularly, we want to be strong on this Lake Ontario shoreline," she commented.

David Hobson, Hasting-Peterborough riding candidate, said Premier William Davis "has graduated from the highest spending minister of education in the nation to the highest spending premier in the nation."

He pointed out there are over 100 directors of education "who are making more than Davis."

Mr. Hobson said the days of the Liberal desert in eastern Ontario are over. He commented that voter response during his campaign has been an oasis.

"The citizens of Ontario will cast Bill Davis to the winds," he remarked.

Another Mayor Quits

Resignation from municipal office due to candidacy in the Sept. 18 provincial election must be contagious.

Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey announced to city council Monday she will resign Friday to concentrate on her campaign as Conservative candidate in Quinte riding.

And Tuesday during the Quinte Provincial Liberal Association nominating convention in Belleville, Whitby Mayor Des Newman, Liberal candidate in Whitby riding, related he also informed his council Monday he will resign Thursday.

Grits Claim Support Mounting Each Day

Support for the Liberals in Quinte riding has increased 320 per cent since Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey was chosen riding Conservative candidate Aug. 11 at Trenton, says Lyn Harrington, president of the Quinte Provincial Liberal Association.

At the close of Tuesday's Liberal nominating convention at Centennial Secondary School in Belleville, Mr. Harrington revealed there were only 250 card-carrying Liberals a week ago but membership increased to 800 Tuesday evening.

He also said the association raised $2,000 during the convention towards the campaign of Trenton realtor Hugh O'Neil, acclaimed Liberal candidate.

Mr. O'Neil said in an interview Tuesday, "our phone have been continously ringing with promises of support since the Conservative convention."

OPP Plan Crime Seminar

MADOC — The Ontario Provincial Police Community Service officer will hold a crime prevention seminar here for area businessmen at beginning at 7:30 p.m., Thursday, Sept. 4.

The seminar, one of a series in eastern Ontario, will deal with counterfeit currency, worthless cheques, shoplifting and security alarm systems. All business, commercial or industrial establishments are invited to send representatives.

A further seminar will be held at Bayside Secondary School for businessmen in the Quinte area. Those interested in attending can contact Constable D.M. Kuzyk, at the Belleville detachment, for further information.

Officials to Monitor School Attendance

The Hastings-Prince Edward County Separate School Board Tuesday night decided the best way to solve its attendance counsellor problem was to do it themselves.

The board has been without an attendance counsellor or a counselling agency since May when the Family and Children's Services of Belleville opted out of the job. By law the board is required to have some type of attendance counsellor for this service.

Director of education E. J. Neville recommended to the board that it appoint its superintendent of education, D. S. O'Sullivan, as the official attendance counsellor. He further recommended that the board employs four people to undertake the service throughout the two counties.

He designated one person for the Whitney, Madawaska, Maynooth and Bancroft areas, one for the Marmora, Tweed, Batawa and Trenton areas, one for the Belleville, Read and Marysville areas and one for Picton.

Mr. Neville said these people would be at the call of the principals and would be required to carry out their duties at any time. These assistant attendance counsellors would report monthly to Mr. O'Sullivan who in turn would report to the board.

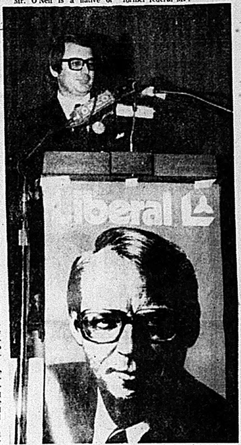
Mr. Neville also recommended that the attendance personnel be placed on in-service training program to deal with the various situations they may encounter.

A stumbling block in the plan came when the director recommended a fee of $10 per call plus mileage. Several trustees objected to the fee as inadequate and suggested that a per hour wage should be implemented.

Mr. Neville replied that the program was exploratory and that a suitable fee could be arranged once the service was in operation. The question of time and distances travelled were raised as the major objections.

The board finally agreed on the plan and left the fee schedule to the discretion of the administration. Mr. Neville said he would contact the attendance people and work out a mutual agreement over wages.

After the meeting, Mr. Neville said that the board paid about $2,500 for the agency's service last year. He said he doubted whether the new arrangement would exceed this figure. Mr. Neville declined to name the people involved but added that they come from varied background.



O'Neil Acclaimed

Hugh O'Neil, Liberal candidate in Quinte riding, says Ontario can no longer afford the present Conservative government under Premier Walliam Davis. O'Neil was acclaimed during the Liberal nominating convention Tuesday when Belleville lawyer George Murray withdrew his name.

Assistance Centre Adds Director

The Quinte Information and Assistance Centre in Belleville announced Tuesday a new appointment to its 15-man board of directors.

Centre staff member Bill Hockley said the new director is Donat Clement of 11 Applewood Dr., Apt. 3, in Belleville, a civilain tailor at Canadian Forces Base Trenton.

Mr. Hockley noted Mr. Clement "led the two-year battle to bring the Quinte shopping mall here."

The appointment meant the final vacant position on the board is filled but a following resignation has dropped the number to 14 again, Mr. Hockley said.

He said Doug Lee of Trenton has resigned due to business commitment and the board is currently seeking another representative to fill the position from the Trenton business community.

Barbecue Starts School Year

The Belleville Christian School is holding a get acquainted barbecue Wednesday, Aug. 27 for parents who are enrolling their children at the school.

Prinepal, Hank Schaly said other people interested in the school are welcome to attend. The school is located about 2 miles north of Highway 401 in Highway 14. Classes starts Sept. 2.

A new feature of the school this year is a kindergarten class and school authorities will be explaining its function at the barbecue. The barbecue will be held at 7 p.m.

Music Maker

"Doc" Bourne, owner and operator of juke box installations in Trenton and other southern Ontario towns and cities changes one of the records in his machine. The most played song, he says it was Hound Dog by Elvis Presley.

New Design Hides Power Sub-station

Belleville public utilities commission approved a proposal Tuesday for the outside appearance of a transformer sub-station to be built on Herchimer Ave. just north of Victoria Ave.

Commission manager Neil Britton said the outside appearance of the sub-station will be similar to that of a brick bungalow with a gable-type roof.

"It's a little different than any we've put in before," said Mr. Britton.

He said the design was selected after residents raised objections to the location of the station.

The residents, he said, asked for screening around the station to hide the transformers.

"The design itself will be the screening."

The sub-station, the ninth to be owned by the commission is to serve the east central area of the city.

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance during a 24-hour period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Tuesday, Aug. 19, 7:14 p.m.— cleanup of gas spill at Central Taxi at 200 Front St.

Wednesday, Aug. 20, 3:48 a.m.— house at 31 Colborne St. owned by George Stoliker destroyed by fire, firemen at scene for 3½ hourse, cause and source unknown, no property value available.

Damage Minor In Mishap

PICTON—Town police were called to the scene of a rear-end collision early Tuesday morning in front of the Maple Leaf Restaurant on Main St. here.

Involved in the accident were Janet Jones of 12 Barker St. Picton and Stan Countryman of RR 9, Picton, police report.

There were no injuries, but damage is estimated by town police as being $500 to the Jones vehicle and $150 to the Countryman auto.

Outboard Motor Stolen

PICTON — Constable Donald Watt of the Picton Detachment of the provincial police reported the theft of a three horsepower Johnson motor, oars, and a gas can from the home of Mrs. Robertson of RR 7, Belleville.

The police said they believe the theft took place between 11 p.m. Sunday, August 17, and 12:30 p.m. Monday August, 18, from the Massassaga Road home.

The value of the articles is estimated by police as being $200.

Elvis Classic Still Popular Juke Box Tune

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

The answer: "Hound Dog by Elvis Presley."

The question?: What is the single most played song on any of the juke box installations you own in southern Ontario.

Walter (Doc) Bourne, of Toronto, owner of five music installations in Trenton said the old Elvis classic and most of the Beatle's music are his biggest sellers.

In business since 1954, Doc, as he is called, is a small operator servicing and repairing most of his machines.

"When I first entered the business a floor model cost $1,700-$1,800 but now they cost more than $2,500," he said in an interview while he was collecting money and changing records at one of his installations in Trenton.

"There are some more elaborate models that can change dollar bills and do marvelous other things but I don't have any of them," he said. "The most important thing is to have attractive music boxes."

The cost of playing records hasn't increased much he said.

"It used to be three plays for a quarter and now you get two for 25 cents or five for fifty cents which isn't too bad a hike."

"The business used to be more cut-throat with people bribing restaurant owners to throw competitors out and put in their machines but that has mostly stopped," Mr. Bourne said.

A good installation can earn between $50-$150. a week with a split of anywhere from 25-50-per-cent for the restaurant owner.

"Most of the records are played by young people between the ages of 15-25 years old with more western records chosen by the older crowds," he said.

Many people would appreciate the slang expression for the business he is in, Mr. Bourne said.

"They call us "noise box" operators and if you looked at the faces of some of the older people eating in restaurants you would understand the feeling."

Wilkinson Sword Plant

Strip grinders at the Wilkinson Sword razor blade works in Britain give three angles to each side of the double cutting edge. High quality razor blades entails checking and inspection at all stages to ensure that finished products meet prescribed standards. (CP Photo)

Wilkinson Sword to Build Razor Plant in Germany

LONDON (CP) — A British company, Wilkinson Sword Ltd., has won a contract to provide plant for the production of razor blades in East Germany.

The production plant is to be installed in a new factory which is being set up to manufacture stainless steel double edge razor blades for the East German domestic market.

Planned output will be some 100 million blades a year when the factory is fully operational in 1976.

As well as supplying the production equipment, the company will provide technical assistance in planning the factory layout and services. Its engineers will supervise the insallation of the machinery and help to get produciton under way.

The contract includes provi- of the lesson entirely in French.

The television component is a 25 part British produced, French language instruction program, Suivez la Piste, a mystery thriller in which students learn vocabulary and sions for training supervisory staff and factory operatives in the operation and control of the plant. This training will be done at the new town of Cramlington in northeast England, but the machinery and equipment is being built by the company's plant division in London.

Manufacture of razor blades entails checking and inspection at all stages to ensure that finished products meet prescribed standards.

This process begins, naturally, with the raw material. Coils of stainless steel strip are checked to ensure that chemical composition, width, thickness and surface finish are all within the close tolerances of the specification.

Satisfactory strip passes to the first of the manufacturing processes—stamping out the centre slot and corner notches to produce the basic blade shape, but with the blades still joined in one continuous strip. This operation is done by a special-purpose press for which pull-through feed units have been designed by the company. After the stamping process, the strip is again inspected and re-coiled.

Before the blades can be sharpened they have to be heat treated under closely-controlled conditions. The perforated strip is therefore subjected to a conditioning treatment which ranges from intense furnace heat to sub-zero temperature quenching.

For the heat treatment process, the coiled strip goes first to a degreasing bath, then passes through an electric furnace, encased in a muffled tube through which an inert gas flows.

The furnace itself is calibrated to provide separate zones of temperature. During the process the narrowest part of each blade is "end tempered" so that this portion of the strip remains more supple.

Heat-treated coils are then joined together at a special inspection table where the strip can be examined for imperfections.

The perforated strip is next subjected to a process called "passivation." This machine process was developed by the company to give a bright electro-polished surface suitable for the ink printing of whatever name or symbols are required on each blade. The process also helps to increase the corrosion resistance of the steel.

Printing is done in a machine which marks each side of the blades in the strip, using a special clean indelible ink. The ink reaches the strip, from trays, by way of geared rollers and is cured in a heating chamber. The strip is then taken round cooling rollers and recoiled ready for edge sharpening.

BUILT ROADS

Sir Casimir Gzowski of Canada built railways and supervised engineering of bridges and roads in the 1870s.

French Taught On TV Course

TORONTO (CP) — More than 200 residents of Metropolitan Toronto have been participating in an experiment by the Ontario Educational Television Authority (OECA) in TV learning—the Summer Academy, a five-week French program that began this summer.

The 600 applications received were narrowed down to about 200, partly to facilitate proper evaluation of the experiment. The students span the population from businessmen and blue-collar workers to the elderly, high school students and housewives.

The program is divided in two parts, a television broadcast followed by a telephone discussion grammar as the detective tracks down a criminal.

The most important aspect of the course is the daily telephone tutoring, says David Stansfield, the academy's project leader.

The 13 tutors, all native Francophones, have begun to ask students to parties and dinners at French restaurants where only French is spoken.

If the program proves successful, OECA hopes to develop a television learning institution similar to Britain's Open University.

Edmonton Man Assists Drunks to Fight Drink

EDMONTON (CP) — Bob Townsend is a worrier.

He worries about Bob, a suicidal young mechanic, who is one of the many strangers Mr. Townsend has grown to care for in his self-appointed work counselling alcoholics, drug users and potential suicides.

Bob's wife has left him and taken their children back to Eastern Canada. He is deeply depressed. Unless Mr. Townsend hears from him, his worry will drive him out on to the streets to look for the young man. He might be outside sleeping in a graveyard where he's spent the night before, or he may be downtown somewhere hopelessly intoxicated.

An ex-alcoholic, Mr. Townsend knows what Bob is going through. He offers an ear, a helping hand and even the shelter of his own home to Bob and others like him.

"We're supposed to be our brother's keeper regardless of what condition he's in," said Mr. Townsend. "I know that if my wife had kicked me out, I would be down there myself—if I was still alive."

At one point, Mr. Townsend set up Project Recovery, a self-help house for 20 persons offering room and board and group discussions, plus another centre for 20 in a converted convent at Vegreville.

But with the withdrawal of provincial funding two years ago, when the government-run intoxication recovery centre was opened, his work was reduced to what he could muster from his own resources.

Despite his project's non-status financially, he continues to be used by the police and other agencies.

"Because he isn't paid, we try not to use him too often, only when it's drastic," said Rosemary Solomon, volunteer program director of AID Services which runs a 24-hour distress line in Edmonton. "On the distress line we find people phoning in and wanting to talk to him.

"I respect what he's trying to do. He's really sincere about wanting to help people. I'm not saying how successful he is, but at least he's trying."

At least once an evening, Mr. Townsend tours the so-called skid road area. He also walks along the river bank checking on the men who have collapsed there for the night.

"If they're breathing okay I leave them. If they're awake I stop and talk to them. I always tell them not to give up."

If they wish it, Mr. Townsend might take them to the United Church men's overnight shelter. If they're sick, he might take them to the government's intoxication recovery centre (IRC) or to a hospital.

The IRC, with 30 beds, receives people who are sick because of drinking or withdrawal from alcohol.

Acting as a sorting station rather than a treatment centre itself, the IRC offers no medication and a medical staff restricted to a 24 hour nursing service. The centre offers food and shelter plus guidance motivation for the patient to seek other sources of help.

While Mr. Townsend agrees that the IRC provides a needed service, he thinks that longer-term help than the three to seven days a patient spends at the IRC should be available.

He said that there should be a place to go for the desperate drinker who thinks he wants to get off alcohol but lacks the motivation and a sustained environment away from drinking to accomplish this.

He plans to approach the government shortly to fund a revitalization of the two centres he used to run.

"Some of the men cried when the places were shut down," Mr. Townsend said, adding that many of the displaced men who had stayed off alcohol for as long as two years at a centre, landed right back in Edmonton's skid road, and that some have committed suicide.

"These people need a place they can sort of call home, and they all need psychiatric help.

"Alcoholism is an illness."

Mr. Townsend said he believes that if he keeps on trying he may be able to help other people a little. He said that he will continue to "fight for what I believe in. And I'm not about to give up."

No Pussy-footing Around When Suspensions Come Up

Not long ago, a reader took pen in hand and put a query in print. In a letter to this department, the person discussed soccer referees and the abuse they take.

Seems to me, the writer included those sometimes unfortunate individuals who run the line for soccer matches, while describing the unlucky lot of those who officiate at the games.

It may be of interest to many, including the one who took time to write and make his stand known publicly, that those in charge of discipline in soccer circles don't take unsportsmanlike conduct lightly. And that goes at the local level and provincially, not to mention everywhere else the game is played.

Take the following cases for instance. Think about these you people involved in the governing of other sports . . . especially at the minor level.

Jose Freitas, a player with Toronto Ferma of the Eastern Ontario Premier Soccer League has been suspended by the Ontario Soccer Association for five years. He was charged with putting the slug on a referee.

Closer to home, Belleville Olympics have lost two players until September 12.

On the sidelines are Charlie Nesterovski (rough play) and Gary Roberts (punching a member of another team).

Brighton's entry in the Bay of Quinte Soccer Association has lost Don Armstrong for the balance of the 1975 season. He was found guilty of using profanity during a confrontation with a referee.

Andy Viniris of Quinte Hellenic is gone until September 12. He was charged with abusing a referee.

Cobourg Tony's of the BQSA will have to get along without Peter Barr until September 5. He threw a punch which may or may not have connected with its intended target.

All of these suspensions cover soccer . . . period. That is, a player suspended is out of all organized soccer until he has paid his debt.

The sentences handed down to Brighton, Cobourg, Hellenic and Olympics' players were announced Tuesday, following a Monday night meeting of a special disciplinary committee formed to handle such matters.

Now if there were only some way to discipline some of the loony spectators, things would really be on the upswing.

But you've got to hand it to soccer. When players fly off the handle, there is no pussy-footing around. Suspensions are in order and are handed out.

More power to the disciplinary committee.

SLICES — The Bearcat is gone.

Late last week, Al Adams died.

A keen sports fan, Al was also an eager participant.

He started his softball career as a pitcher, 30 years ago, as a junior.

From the Belleville Juniors of those days, he went on to star in the old Commercial Softball League. He did much of his pitching for the City Hotel entry.

Later, he pitched in the Prince Edward North Shore Softball League.

This summer, he coached in the Belleville Minor Softball Association.

He'll be missed.

The sports department joins with the rest of the community in offering condolences to the family.

Series All Even

Extra - inning Win for Intell

The Intelligencer enjoys coming back from deficits. It seems everytime someone has a series wrapped The Intell unwraps it.

Such was the case on Tuesday night, as The Intell defeated Brooke Bond 3-2 to even their Belleville Industrial Softball League semi-final series at 2-2.

Tied after seven innings of play, the game went into extra innings, with the Printers scoring in the eighth.

Winning hurler was Jim McKay, in relief of Dave Feeney. They allowed six hits while walking one. They struck out eight batters in the contest.

The loss was absorbed by Ross Geen, who was touched for five hits and six walks. He struck out five batters.

Maurice Switzer drove in the winning run with his safety in the bottom of the eighth which brought Ron Culloden in.

On Thursday night at Sir Mackenzie Bowell, Brooke Bond and The Intell will go at it again, winner takes all. Black Diamond is waiting in the wings to see who will advance to the finals.

Griffin Delivers for Motormen

Devolin Bounces Back; Bardon Moves Two Up

Devolin Motors turned the tables on Auger Men's Wear on Tuesday night, defeating them 2-1 to tie their Quinte Fastball League playoff series at 1-1.

Larry Griffin was in top form for the Motormen, giving up just two hits and two walks. Nine batters went down on third strikes. Griffin was also tops at the plate, with an inside the park homerun and a single.

In the other playoff match, Bardon Supplies took their second straight game from Howard and Robert, 3-1.

Auger's Jamie Hunter and Chris Long combined for the losers, they were touched for four hits and walked two. Their strikeout total was just three.

In the bottom of the fourth with John Burnside on base, Griffin powered a long drive to right field, just out of the reach of Auger's outfielder Dale Akey. Burnside and Griffin both scored on the play to take the Trenton team's 1 0 lead from them.

Ralph Plane doubled for the other Devolin safety.

The two Auger hits were both singles, one from Jim Livingstone, the other from Akey.

The Devolin defence looked much more alive in this hook up. Griffin was excellent on the mound. This series should go all the way, since both teams have good benches and you may never see the same lineup twice.

In the first game of the twin bill, Bardon Supplies scored three runs in the first two innings to give hurler Earl Foster the victory.

Foster gave up four hits and one walk; he sent seven batters to the bench on third strikes.

Bob Richardson was touched early for H and R, needing relief help from Ron Hill in the second. They gave up seven hits, walked one and struck out six batters.

Wayne McConnell singled and doubled for the winners. Other one baggers came from Harold Foster, Denis Neron, Rob Wallwork, Warren Ostrander, Foster and Ted Wallwork.

For the losing Printers, Terry Pope tripled. One baggers were contributed by Dave Skelton, Rod Ridley and Paul Hall.

The H and R squad playing in these playoffs are missing players important to last year's championship squad, Dwight Rathwell, Bob Ethier, Scott Reid and others but there is still the nucleus of a good club. The Printers have their backs against the wall for Thursday night.

"Player of the Week" awards were presented at the Alemite, with four winners announced. The awards, sponsored by Labatt's Breweries, went to Terry Pope, Howard and Robert outfielder; Bob Swan, Auger pitcher; Ken DeMille, Bardon's hurler and Dave Horwood, Devolin Motor outfielder. The awards were presented by John Gosson of Labatts.

Can - Am Series At Shannonville

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

On September 20 motorized Go Karts from all over Canada and the United States will compete in the fourth and final Canadian-American Challenge Series.

The racing will be held at the Shannonville Go Kart Raceway, just formed June 14 for Go Kart enthusiasts.

Ten different classes will be racing for a series of trophies and the prestige of winning a Can-Am race.

"Some of these competitors from other centres come as prepared as a Formula One race car driver would", said track owner John Nelson.

"The group from Castrol has their own truck, with a jeep to tow the accessories," said his assistant, George Murphy.

Karts in the two-day event reach speeds up to 100 miles an hour on the straightaway . . . an amazing speed for vehicles so small.

This race is the last of four which will determine driver championships on the Can-Am tour. Two were held in the States and one in Toronto. The driver championships are quite close and will probably be determined in these competitions.

From Belleville, racers will include Arnold Porte, Randy Johnstone, Steve Nelson and others.

It's a three-quarter mile track, with races going six laps around the track.

This is just one event at the raceway though. Every Sunday the Shannonville Four Stroke Club holds races in the morning. At present there are 20 racing members who compete on a regular basis.

During the week the track is open for rentals, with just about anyone from 9-45 going out on the track. The Karts for rent go at a top speed of 33 miles per hour, but it seems like a lot more when you're sitting in the driver's seat.

The season for Go Karts is not long, going from April 15 to October 31 if all goes well. Wear and tear on Go Karts make the $3.00 fee for rental more than worthwhile.

"We change wheels on rentals once a week," said Nelson.

For economy sake the Karts get 50 miles a gallon on the track. The types of engines are McCullough, Comet and B Bombs with two strokes or four strokes.

If you're just going out for fun, the rentals are great, and safe too. You can even run one off the track without injury. If you don't believe it, ask some one who knows. The writer knows.

Two Apollo Lifters Compete in the Games

It is rare that a community Belleville's size, should be fortunate to have a single athlete of international calibre chosen for a meet such as the Olympics or Commonwealth Games. Belleville, as of August 15, has been lucky enough to be represented by two weightlifters who will go to the Pan-American games in October.

The pair, Paul Barrett, and Art Walt, of the Apollo Barbell Club, will make the trip to Mexico City as part of a nine-man contingent of weightlifters from across Canada that will represent the country.

Gary Walt, also from Belleville, has been selected as an alternate to the team.

All three lifters were selected for the team on the basis of their performance during the past year. During the 12 months, the lifters across the country are rated every four months. To be eligible, one must compete in a mandatory four meets in the time span.

Both Barrett's and Walt's records parallel each other's quite closely, except for actual lift totals during the meets.

Each of the pair brought home a second place finish from the Canadian Championships, and first in each of three smaller meets. The title placings were in the Ontario Championships, the senior Ottawa Open, and a regional, three club meet held in Belleville.

Walt, competing in the middle-heavyweight, or 198 pound class, has had a personal best of 661 pounds, combining two lifts. He has recorded a 303 pound snatch and a 358 clean and jerk.

Barrett lifts in the Light-heavyweight class, and has hoisted 220 pounds in the snatch, and 341 in the clean and jerk for a 601 total.

In both divisions, usual medal standards are about 70 pounds above their bests so far, although both are training to peak at the October games.

"All we can do is hope for the best", said the 25-year-old Barrett, "we'll sure be doing the best we can".

"That is all anyone can expect from anybody", stated their coach, Ken Carr-Braint.

"Some people have the thing about medals and just even competing a little out of line", he added. "Canada's best ever finish in Olympic weightlifting was with Price Morris (a former Apollo Club lifter), when he finished ninth in the world. That fact alone was superfantastic".

Whether the medal podium is in line for a trio of Belleville lifters or not, keeping Carr-Braint's words in mind, the city should be proud of the three, and the Apollo Club, which has once again produced world class athletes.

Everything Ship Shape For Gold Cup Weekend

PICTON — The Picton area is rapidly gearing up for the Prince Edward Gold Cup races, with the event less than two weeks away.

More than 25,000 spectators turned out for last year's races, held in spite of cool weather. With warmer weather and a little luck, this year's weekend could draw up to 30,000, according to race officials.

The fourth series of races since their revival in 1972, they are regarded as the tops of their type in North America. Held at Hayward Long Reach, about 10 miles from Picton by road, the races draw the top competitors from all across Canada, United States, and Mexico.

Largely sponsored by Belvedere, the event boasts over $14,000 in prize money, as well as additional monies from Belvedere for carrying signs on winning boats. Over 130 boats are expected for the two-day event, to be held Sunday, August 31, and Monday, September 1. On hand last year were 111 boats.

Among the races scheduled for the two days of competitions are the North American Championship for Sportscraft, the finals of the eight race Belvedere Challenge Cup series, the North American Grand Prix Unlimited Championship, and the Grand Prix for the Gold Cup itself.

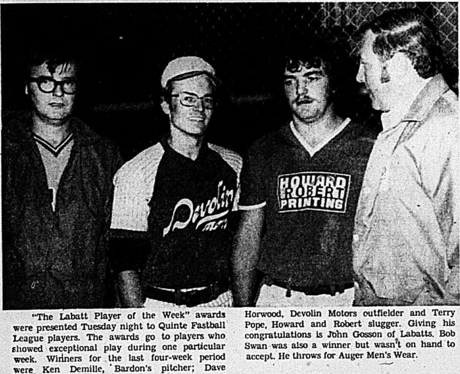
Last year's winner of the Gold Cup, Tom D'Eath, of Dayton, Ohio, is expected back to defend his title, with plenty of competition around to try to spring it from him.

Canada has not been represented with a winner of the Cup since 1953.

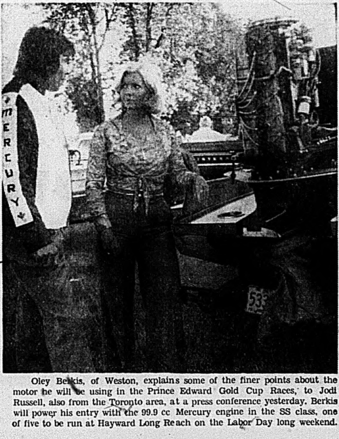
Five different classes of races will be held, with the largest boats, the Grand Prix class, reaching speeds of over 160 miles per hour.

The smaller boats reach speeds approaching 110 mph in the straights, but can turn much sharper, providing just as much excitement.

The main viewing area, and centre of action, will be the J. B. Cole Farm, on Prince Edward County Road 15, off Highway 49. It is easily accessible by road from Picton as well.



"The Labatt Player of the Week" awards were presented Tuesday night to Quinte Fastball League players. The awards go to players who showed exceptional play during one particular week. Winners for the last four-week period were Ken Demille, Bardon's pitcher; Dave Horwood, Devolin Motors outfielder and Terry Pope, Howard and Robert slugger. Giving his congratulations is John Gosson of Labatts. Bob Swan was also a winner but wasn't on hand to accept. He throws for Auger Men's Wear.



Oley Berkis, of Weston, explains some of the finer points about the motor he will be using in the Prince Edward Gold Cup Races, to Jodi Russell, also from the Toronto area, at a press conference yesterday. Berkis will power his entry with the 99.9 cc Mercury engine in the SS class, one of five to be run at Hayward Long Reach on the Labor Day long weekend.

Pirates Back On the Track

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Virdon and Pittsburgh Pirates are back in business, but at opposite ends of baseball's National League.

The Pirates, who had lost six in a row and 11 of their last 12 games, blanked San Francisco Giants 4-0 behind Jerry Reuss' three-hit pitching Tuesday night and reclaimed sole possession of first place in the National Leage East.

Meanwhile, Virdon, who managed the Pirates in 1972-73, made his debut as pilot of Houston Astros—dead last in the West and the only team in baseball without at least a mathematical chance at a division titl—eand directed them to a 6-3 loss at the hands of New York Mets.

Philadelphia Phillies, who had been tied with Pittsburgh, fell one game back when the Atlanta Braves beat them 6-4 on Dave May's two-run pinch homer in the ninth inning.

The St. Louis Cardinals remained 2½ out by edging Cincinnati Reds 2-1 as Willie Davis returned from five days of self-exile with two singles, a double and a triple and Lynn McGlothen hurled a four-hitter.

In other National League games Tuesday, Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Chicago Cubs 2-1 and Montreal Expos trimmed San Diego Padres 5-0.

Al Oliver drove in two runs with a homer and double and Richie Zisk also homered as the Pirates returned from a 2-12 road trip during which they squandered a four-game lead.

Oliver, who had a dismal trip, rapped three of Pittsburgh's 10 hits against Jim Barr.

"I know the last two weeks [illegible] have definitely been waiting for me to pull out [illegible] said. "I think this is a start."

Del Unser and Wayne Garrett hit solo home runs and Jerry Grote had a two-run double as the Mets spoiled the debut of Virdon, who was fired earlier this month as manager of New York Yankees and hired Tuesday to replace Preston Gomez with Houston.

JERRY REUSS

Jon Matlack, who hadn't pitched in 17 days because of an auto accident and a head cold, blanked the Astros until the ninth when he gave up a double to Enos Cabell and two-out home runs to Cesar Cedeno and Cliff Johnson.

May was sent up to bat for Max Leon, who pitched 6 1-3 shutout innings of relief as Atlanta wiped out an early 4-0 deficit. Rookie Rob Belloir had singled before May hit his game-winning homer off Gene Garber.

Davis, who had been on the disqualified list following an alimony dispute with his ex-wife, returned to help the Cards end Cincinnati's nine-game winning streak.

Bake McBride singled and Davis doubled in the first inning and the Cardinals got the only runs McGlothen needed on singles by Ted Simmons and Ted Sizemore. McGlothen limited the Reds to two hits after the opening inning and struck out 10.

Now A's Turn To Be in Rut

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Detroit Tigers have lost their losing habit but it looks as though Oakland A's have found it.

The Tigers, who pawed their way through 19 straight defeats have roared back with four successive victories, the last two at the expense of the A's, who have scored as many as five runs only once in their last 12 games.

The reversal in form even made a winner of Mickey Lolich, who contributed four losses to the Tigers' tailspin that fell one short of tying baseball's American League record.

Lolich was losing even before the team collapsed and his personal slide had reached eight games. But that was before he picked on the A's Tuesday night, allowing them nine hits and beating them 3-1.

"I never got discouraged because I was pitching well," said Lolich, who pitched complete games in his last seven losses. "That kept my chin up.

"I really wanted to go out and pitch again each time because I knew I was doing well."

In Tuesday's other American League games, Minnesota Twins beat Baltimore Orioles 5-2, Chicago White Sox beat New York Yankees 7-6 in 11 innings, Boston Red Sox blanked Kansas City Royals 5-0, Texas Rangers shaded Cleveland Indians 2-1, and California Angels edged Milwaukee Brewers 5-4 in 15 innings.

Alvin Dark wants his A's, 5½ games ahead of second-place Kansas City in the American League West, to do some of that bearing down too. And he told them so in a post-game clubhouse meeting.

He said he reminded the players about making fundamental mistakes. "This was the first game we've given away in a long time," the Oakland skipper said.

The A's are missing Joe Rudi, who is out with a jammed thumb on his left hand, and Claudell Washington, who has a pulled muscle in his left leg.

Minnesota's Bert Blyleven, 13-6, retired the first 13 Orioles and pitched a five-hitter to drop second-place Baltimore eight games behind Boston in the East. The win was Minnesota's ninth in 11 games.

Texas manager Frank Luchessi went against the baseball "book", which says you should never put winning run on base. He ordered hot-hitting Boog Powell to be walked intentionally.

"Very seldom do I put the winning run on in that situation," Luchessi said. "But I couldn't let Powell beat us with his hot bat."

The strategy worked when Ed Crosby flied out to end the game, giving Texas' Jim Umbarger the win over Cleveland's Dennis Eckersley in a rookie pitching duel.

Jorge Orta's single scored pinch-runner Nyls Nyman in the 11th inning, lifting Chicago over New York.

Rogers Blanks Padres 5-0

MONTREAL (CP) — Steve Rogers found solutions to all his problems Tuesday night and hurled a 10-hit shutout as Montreal Expos defeated San Diego Padres 5-0 in a National League baseball game.

It was not the kind of performance predicted for the lanky right-hander when he blazed on to the major-league scene in July, 1973, but it moved him into several prominent positions among Expo pitchers of this year.

His 10-9 won-lost record gives him the most wins on the club and his earned-run average dropped to 2.94, better than Woodie Fryman's 2.98 and lowest among Expo pitchers with more than 10 decisions.

It was his second shutout. Fryman is the leader with three. Rogers also shares a shutout with reliever Dale Murray.

Rogers allowed the leadoff batter to reach base in each of the last six innings Tuesday night, but the only one who got beyond third base was erased at the plate on the front end of a double play.

Bobby Tolan opened the seventh with a single, the Padres' fourth hit, and Ted Kubiak and Bob Davis followed with singles to load the bases.

Rogers then started a double play by firing pinch-hitter Gene Locklear's grounder to catcher Barry Foote to nail Tolan at the plate. John Grubb then fanned to end the inning.

Rogers had eight strikeouts and seven came with at least one man on base. In the sixth inning he gave up one of his two walks to Tito Fuentes and then struck out the side.

The scored three unearned runs in the first off loser Joe McIntosh, 8-12. Larry Parrish dropped a two-run double down the line in left field and then raced home on an error by shortstop Hector Torres.

Larry Biittner contributed a run-scoring double in the fifth and Pete Mackanin clubbed his eighth home run of the season

It's No 'Hooray' For Mike Rae

EDMONTON (CP) — A decision by coach Russ Jackson to name 26-year-old rookie Bill Bynum as Toronto Argonauts' starting quarterback has upset Mike Rae, last season's starter.

"I'm confident I should be No. 1 quarterback," Rae said during practice for tonight's Canadian Football League encounter with Edmonton Eskimos.

"I feel I established my credentials over a full season last year. There's no doubt in my mind that I deserve to be starting in Edmonton. . . .

"I don't feel I lost my job through competition. I got hurt in the opener and suddenly I'm the backup quarterback.

"No, I don't think that's right."

Bynum, who was in the National Football League for several years without playing in a regular-season game, got his chance when Rae suffered a stretched knee ligament in a season-opening loss to Ottawa Rough Riders. Bynum played in the next game—a loss to Saskatchewan Roughriders—then led the Argos to two victories.

MIKE RAE

Jackson stressed that Bynum would hold down the No. 1 job unless he suffered an injury or the team went on a losing streak.

"I hope our backup keeps pressing to be the starter and shows that aggressiveness in our workouts," said Jackson, one of the CFL's all-time great quarterbacks.

Bynum says he understand how Rae, a fellow Californian, feels.

"Being backup is a lousy job and I don't blame Mike for feeling the way he does. I'd feel the same way. All a player wants is the opportunity to prove himself and I got that. I don't intend to go back to being a backup."

Rae, the top passer in the Eastern Conference in 1974 as the Argos struggled to a last-place finish, says he is fully recovered from his injury.

"I'm 100 per cent physically, but maybe the coach wanst to wait until I'm 120 per cent," he said bitterly.

The Eskimos, highly favored to run away with the Western Conference race, have struggled to a 2-1 record, good enough for a third-place tie with Calgary Stampeders.

Tonight's game will be televised on the full CTV network at 9:30 p.m. EDT.

Trainer Acquitted

TORONTO (CP) — Trainer Don Campbell of Gormley, Ont., was acquitted Tuesday by the Ontario Racing Commission on charges involving positive results from three tests for drugs.

The commission ruled that it was not proved the horses—It Ought to Be, Suffix and Never On Call—had in fact received a prohibited drug.

Each had run second in races at Fort Erie racetrack—It Ought to Be in the ninth race July 26, Suffix in the sixth race July 31 and Never On Call in the fourth race Aug. 1.

Urine tests on the horses after the races revealed what was thought to be traces of the drug methocarbamol, a prohibited muscle relaxant.

When testing a substance for methocarbamol, the resulting breakdown produces glyceryl guaiacolate, which is not on the prohibited list of drugs.

Campbell had been using a product called Windaid, which helps clear a horse's breathing passages. Windaid contains glyceryl guaiacolate.

Dr. Pierre Beaumier, a chemist with Mann Testing Laboratories Ltd., said that a conclusive test to differentiate between methocarbamol and glyceryl guaiacolate has yet to be devised.

RECORD BID FAILS

STOCKHOLM (AP) — John Walker, who set a world record in the one-mile run last week, failed in his bid to break the 1,500-metre mark Tuesday at an international track and field meet. The 23-year-old New Zealander staggered on the last lap but still won the race in three minutes, 35.7 seconds, exactly 3.5 seconds off Tanzanian Filbert Bayi's world mark. Walker became the first man in history to run the mile under 3:50 with a time of 3:49.4 at Goteborg, Sweden a week ago.

JOHNNY RODGERS

Savoir Named Favorite

NEW YORK (AP) — Savoir of the United States was made the 5-to-2 favorite for Saturday night's $200,000 Roosevelt Raceway International trot after drawing the No. 5 post position Tuesday.

The seven-year-old gelding, owned by the Allwood Stable of Far Hills, N.J., who won the $50,000 American Trotting Championship last week, will be trying for his fifth straight victory with Del Insko driving.

Delmonica Hanover, also of the U.S., who will be trying for her third straight triumph in the International, drew post position No. 2 and was made 3-to-1 co-second choice with Bellino II of France. Bellino II drew post No. 3 in the 1 -mile harness racing classic. Delmonica Hanover is a six-year old mare and Bellino is an eight-year-old stallion.

Third choice in the field of 10 trotters representing seven countries is Dimitria of France, at 6 to 1.

Rounding out the field is Bourbon of Italy at 12 to 1; Canadian entries Surge Hanover, co-owned by Mr. and Mrs. William Wellwood of Mississauga, Ont., and Mr. and Mrs. W. Musty of Golden, N.Y., and Elesnar, owned by George Henderson of Montreal—both 15-to-1 shots; Bailly II of The Netherlands at 20 to 1 and Judy Song of Sweden and Ritha Lyngholm of Denmark, both 30 to 1.

Ticats Glad to See Last of Rodgers

HAMILTON (CP) — Hamilton Tiger-Cats must be glad they have seen the last of Johnny Rodgers for this season.

The fleet split end and punt returner set up four touchdowns with his running Tuesday night to lead Montreal Alouettes to 35-13 win over the Ticats in an Eastern Football Conference game.

A crowd of 22,580, believed to be the smallest here since Ivor Wynne Stadium was expanded in 1971, was on hand to see the last game of the season between the two teams.

Rodgers, back in uniform after a one-game layoff with a neck injury, caught six passes for 200 yards and returned eight punts for 158 yards.

He beat George Campbell for a 69-yard reception during the first Montreal touchdown drive, got behind Lou Clare for 52 and 33-yard receptions on the second and third and set up the fourth with an 81-yard punt return.

In the second half, the Ticats assigned two and three defenders to control Rodgers, but that left quarterback Jimmy Jones free to exploit the rest of his offence.

It was Rodgers' second devastating performance of the year at Ivor Wynne Stadium. In a season-opening 33-23 Montreal win, his long gains set up all of the Montreal scoring.

Before Rodgers broke the game open, Hamilton had taken a 10-0 lead in the first quarter on a touchdown by Terry Evanshen and Ian Sunter's field goal and single. Sunter added a field goal in the third quarter.

Evanshen's touchdown catch was the 65th of his career, a CFL record. The old record-holder was Hal Patterson, a former Alouette and Ticat.

Peter Dalla Riva caught his fifth and sixth touchdown passes of the season for the Alouettes. Rodgers, Larry Smith and Steve Ferrughelli had the other Montreal touchdowns. Don Sweet kicked five converts.

Sonny Wade, Montreal's starting quarterback, connected with Rodgers on the 69-yard play on the first play of the second quarter, moving the ball to the six. Wade passed to Dalla Riva for the first Montreal touchdown on the next play.

Jones replaced Wade on Montreal's next scoring drive and moved the Alouettes 105 yards on four plays. The march included a 42-yard pass to Joe Petty and passes of 52 and 11 yards to Rodgers, the latter for the touchdown.

After Sunter's field goal narrowed Montreal's lead to 14-13 in the third quarter, the 33-yard passing play to Rodgers set up the Alouettes' third score, with Jones passing to Larry Smith on a faked field-goal attempt.

Rodgers was stopped from a scoring a second touchdown in the fourth quarter when Hamilton punter Ken Clarke hauled him down after he returned Clarke's punt 81 yards from his own six. Two plays later Ferrughelli scored on a draw play.

MARK DONOHUE

Head Injury Fatal

GRAZ, Austria (AP) — Mark Donohue, the shy Brown University engineering graduate who never lost his boyish good looks, died late Tuesday of brain injuries suffered in a racing crash, eight months after ending his retirement as a driver.

Donohue, 38, who had lived in Reading, Pa., died of complications following surgery for a blood clot, caused bp a freak knock in the head during the crash, which left him otherwise unscathed. His body was to be returned to the United States later this week.

Donohue, who had career earnings of $1 million, left behind a string of racing honors achieved by few others in the sport's history. His most prized accomplishment was a victory in the 1972 Indianapolis 500. He finished with 57 major victories to his credit.

He retired after winning the International Race of Champions in February, 1974, saying he wanted nothing more from racing.

But Donohue was lured out of retirement when no suitable replacement could be found for the late Peter Revson, for whom Donohue had been developing Roger Penske's new Formula I car. Revson was burned to death in practice for the South African Grand Prix in March 1974.

Penske, who with Donohue formed in 1966 one of racing's longest and closest owner-driver associations, was at Donohue's bedside, along with Donohue's bride of eight months, Eden, and his father Mark Sr.

Doctors said Donohue's heart and breathing stopped several times during his last hours. Mechanical devices had been used to maintain Donohue's vital signs since emergency brain surgery Sunday.

Donohue underwent a lengthy emergency operation after complaining of a severe headache after crashing in practice for the Austrian Grand Prix. At first, it was thought his injuries were nothing more than a mild concussion.

But the headache became worse and turned to convulsions. Fellow U.S. driver Mario Andretti said Donohue was lapsing in and out of consciousness and was unable at times to recognize friends.

Donohue was rushed from the Oesterreichring track to Landes Krankenhaus in nearby Graz where Dr. Fritz Heppner, a noted professor of neurosurgery, directed an operation that lasted more than three hours.

Two track marshals were injured, one fatally, in Donohue's crash. Manfred Schaller died earlier Tuesday. He was hit in the stomach by debris from the crash, which started with a punctured tire.

Donohue's team leader Heinz Hofer said Donohue, who was walking around under his own power after the crash, told him the left front tire punctured on a sweeping turn, one of the fastest on the track.

He went skidding off the course, through four rows of catch fences and through some billboards lining the route. It is theorized a support post from one of the signs caught Donohue's helmet.

The car was destroyed but he suffered no other injuries.

Donohue's death was the second this week among top racing drivers. Popular NASCAR veteran Tiny Lund died Sunday in a stock car race. Last week, promising road racer B.J. Swanson died of head injuries from a violent crash.

London Gets Win; Tony's in Split

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

London Dukes defeated Burlington Provisioners 4-3 in Ontario Fastball League action Tuesday.

In other league action, Oshawa Tonys and Hamilton Scrappers split a doubleheader in Oshawa. The Tonys won the first game 2-1 and lost the second 4-1.

In London, the Dukes scored one run in the first inning and added two in the third. The winner came in the seventh inning when winning pitcher Metro Szeryk doubled and scored on Ron Sadler's triple.

Burlington scored single runs in the fifth, sixth and eighth innings. Hal Kemp led Burlington hitters with a triple and two singles.

Losing pitcher Al Fox struck out five and walked four.

Tonys' Wayne Colley picked up the win in the first game.

The Tonys scored both runs in the opener in the second inning. Singles by Bob Solomon, Bob Smith and Jack Sneddon and a walk accounted for the runs.

Both runs were scored against Scrappers' starter Ed Neudorf who was replaced by McNelis in the third inning.

Fran Stuart singled in Bob Christie for Hamilton's only run.

McNelis retired 16 consecutive Oshawa batters in the second game before giving up a double to Darryl Hudgin and a single to Sneddon for the Oshawa run.

Hamilton had six hits off loser Barry Timbers, including a triple by Neudorf, which brought in two runs.

In action today, Hamilton is at Woodstock, Oshawa travels to London for a doubleheader and Kitchener plays host to a doubleheader with St. Catharines.

B.C. and Ontario Dominate in Junior Tennis

OTTAWA (CP) — Athletes from British Columbia and Ontario are beginning to show their usual dominance in the Canadian national junior tennis championships.

After quarter-finals in the girls 13-and-under singles Tuesday, the only players left were two from B.C. and two from Ontario.

Other quarter-finals decided Tuesday were in the boys 12-and-under singles which left four seeded players, all from Ontario. They are Peter Straub and Alan Racko of Toronto and Martin Wostenholme and Steve McRae, Ottawa.

The girls 12-and-under singles quarter-final left Anne Merkeley of Penetanguishene, Ont. to meet Janice Rubin of Moncton, N.B., and Sylvie Tetreault of St. Jean, Que. to play Louise McDonald of Toronto.

One break in the Ontario-B.C. domination came in the boys 18-and-under singles when Nick Mohtadi of Calgary defeated Peter Knispel of Vancouver 6-2, 6-2, in the first round and Richard Rumble of New York, in the second round, 6-3, 6-2. Though Rumble lives in New York, he is eligible to play because he is a Canadian citizen. Mohtadi will meet Gil White of St. Catharines, Ont., in the quarter-finals today.

Meanwhile two Quebec players, ninth seed Gaston Beaumier of Rouyn and 10th seed John Schacter of Montreal will have a battle to get past the semi-finals in the 18-and-under singles. Beaumier has to defeat second seed Steve Rogul of Toronto while Schacter faces fourth seed Bill Rennie of Cambridge, Ont.

The girls 16-and-under semi-final will be decided between Sally Cates of Vancouver and Nina Bland of Victoria while Sue Mathews of Vancouver meets Wendy Barlow of Victoria.

Toronto players Sue Dale and Claire Lardner will face one another while Montreal's Devvie Harrit has to contend with first seed Nicole Marios of Quebec City.

Three Quebec boys, including one who caused an upset in the second round Tuesday, will decide quarter-finals today in boys 14-and-under singles. Jean-Pierre Lalonde of Laval, defeated seventh seed Paul Borchet of Vancouver 6-3, 6-3.

Another Quebec upsetter, this time in girls 14-and-under singles, was Francine Black of Trois-Rivieres. She held on to her second match, losing the first set, and stretching the third after a tie to defeat Jennifer Colbourne of Toronto 5-7, 6-4, 9-7. In the first round she dumped fourth seed Lori Leighton of Calgary, 7-6, 6-1.

Bill Friday WHA Referee in Chief

TORONTO (CP) — Ben Hatskin, chairman of the board of the World Hockey Association, announced Tuesday the appointment of Bill Friday as the league's referee-in-chief.

Friday, a veteran referee in both the WHA and National Hockey League, will be responsible for the supervision, discipline and training of league officials. Hatskin said that Friday will continue to work in 50 to 60 games this season.

In addition, R. J. (Bob) Frampton has been appointed director of officials, and Frank Polnaszek, formerly the league's statistician, will take on the dual role of director of information and statistics.

Hatskin said the league is looking into the possibility of supplying referees for the North American Hockey League this season. He said the mechanics of the agreement have been discussed and only the financial arrangements remain to be completed.

Long Island Clinches Tie for First Place

PHILADELPHIA (CP) — Long Island Tomahawks clinched a tie for first place in the National Lacrosse League with a 17-15 win Tuesday night over Philadelphia Wings.

Philadelphia is tied for second with Montreal Quebecois but has only six games left and trails Long Island by 12 points. The Wings would have to win all their remaining games and the Tomahawks lose their final four to bring the Wings even.

Montreal has played two games more than Philadelphia and cannot finish higher than second.

SIGN ZINGER

DENVER (AP) — The Denver Spurs have signed Mal Zinger to a contract for the upcoming World Hockey Association season, a team spokesman said Monday. Zinger, 20, is 6-foot-2, weighs 190 pounds and plays right wing. Terms of the contract were not revealed. Zinger played in 70 games for the Kamloops Chiefs last season in the Western Canadian Hockey League. He scored 18 goals and had 43 assists. He is expected to join the Spurs in time for the opening of training camp Sept. 21.

Doug Hayes led the way for Long Island with three goals and two assists. Team-mate Jan Magee scored once and assisted on four others.

Larry Ferguson scored three goals and set up two for Philadelphia, while Rick Boucher scored two goals and added three assists.

The game before 4,526 fans was a rough affair, with the Wings being assessed 49 minutes in penalties and the Tomahawks 47.

Proper Preparation Eases First Day at School

The first day of kindergarten should be a positive experience for children and parents can play a big part, says Rita Menninga, a kindergarten teacher at Queen Elizabeth Public School in Belleville.

Mrs. Menninga said parents should stress the positive aspects of school and avoid any reference to negative aspects of the classroom. She said many parents give unnecessary warnings to their children about having to behave properly and tds 'n.' o E S R D RD LL all the "do's and don'ts."

In preparing children for kindergarten Mrs. Menninga said parents can familiarize their children with the school area and particularly make them aware of road safety.

"A child feels more comfortable travelling to and from school if he or she is familiar with surrounding streets in the school's area," she added.

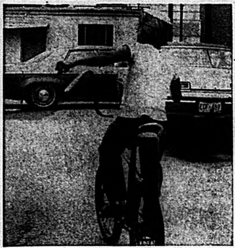
She said it's also helpful if children on their first day of kindergarten are allowed to bring a familiar toy. "This acts as a kind of buffer for conversation and security," she explained.

Mrs. Menninga also said it's important for the children to know their names and addresses.

"If parents have any concerns at all about the school or their child's response to school they should immediately contact the principal or teacher involved," said Mrs. Menninga, "it can often save a lot of problems in the future."

Mrs. Menninga said a lot of fears both with parents or students can be resolved by a simple call. "Too many parents are hesitant to call the school for help," she added.

As final advice the kindergarten teacher said children should be encouraged to dress themselves. "This is particularly helpful in the winter months when dressing is more difficult," she added.



City police chief Douglas Crosbie advises motorists and cyclists to help each other this fall in preventing accidents. He advises caution and care for both groups. Here, 12-year-old Howie Hyderman shows the proper way to make a left hand turn on his bicycle.

Insurance Available

Student accident insurance is available to all parents of students with the Hastings County Board of Education.

The basic plan this year includes $1,000 life insurance for a full 24 hours, 365 days of the year. It also includes double indemnity for death in school bus accidents.

Accidents involving the loss of mobility of a limb will be treated as if the limb were severed.. The fracture benefits have been substantially increased and are designed to cover extra expense associated with the accident.

The basic 24 hour all year coverage for $1,000 life insurance will cost parents $6 with extended life insurance to $2,500 costing $7.50 and life insurance to $5,000 costing $10.

Life insurance only at school will cost parents $2 and this includes $1,000 life insurance. The family rate for this coverage is $5 this year.

Family coverage for the 24 hour all year insurance costs $15 for $1,000 life insurance, $18.75 for $2,500 life insurance and $25 for $5,000 life insurance. Family premiums apply when there are three or more students from the same family.

A Familiar Scene

Eleven-year-old Monique Mousseau, a Grade 6 student Prince of Wales Public School, stocks up on some paper this week and she prepares to return to school Sept. 2. It's a familiar scene throughout city stationary stores this month.

OSD Expects Small Enrolment Increase

Sir James Whitney School (OSD) principal Dr. Joe Demeza expects a compliment of about 377 students to begin classes Sept. 3, with most residential students back on Sept. 2.

Dr. Demeza said facilities, including grounds, classrooms, residences and the sports centre, are being readied for September. Dr. Demeza said the school for the deaf is expecting an additional five students this year with about 22 per cent of students attending on a day basis, the rest are residential.

Dr. Demeza said the staff of about 90 instructors will hold a staff development day on Tuesday, Sept. 2 in readiness for classes Wednesday. He said all the teaching positions have been filled.

He also reported that programs are going according to schedule and he anticipates no problems. Dr. Demeza advises that transportation is being arranged for the day time students.

Dr. Demeza said during the summer months maintenance crews painted the exteriors of the intermediate boys residence and the junior school residences. He also said the maintenance quarters have been extended to include two new portable classrooms that were shipped here from Milton.

From a staff point of view Dr. Demeza said William McMaster is returning to Sir James Whitney this fall after a year's sabbatical where he took postgraduate work in language disorders. He will be supervising the hearing aphasic program.

Dr. Demeza also said about 30 members of his staff attended the second conference of the Association of Canadian Educators of Hearing Impaired in Montreal this summer. The first conference was held in Belleville in 1973.

Safety Course Resumes

When students return to school Sept. 2 it takes the co-operation of both cyclists and motorists in preventing accidents, says Belleville's Police Chief Douglas Crosbie.

Chief Crosbie reminds motorists that more children will be walking or riding to school in September and drivers should exercise greater caution.

He also reminds students, who ride to school with their bikes, to obey the rules and regulations of the road, including one person to a bike, single-file and proper signalling when turning.

"Because of the holidays through July and August the fall is a time both motorists and cyclists must be more cautious about pedestrians," said Chief Crosbie.

Salmon Returning To St. John River

FREDERICTON (CP) — A salmon management program aimed at restoring the St. John River to its former historic position as one of the world's great salmon rivers is starting to get results.

This season, the Atlantic salmon run in the river has increased substantially and fisheries officials are optimistic that a modest commercially harvestable surplus muy be available in two years.

In July, 12,841 salmon and grilse—immature salmon—were counted at the Mactaquac fish culture station, an increase of more than 3,000 from the previous July and almost as many as the entire season's run last year.

C. P. Ruggles, chief of the resource development branch of the federal fisheris and marine service in Halifax, credited the increase to the fish management program and especially to the fish culture station at Mactaquac, about 12 miles upstream from here.

In 1974, about 41 per cent of returning salmon counted at Mactaquac were of hatchery origin. Last month, about 34 per cent were hatchery-reared fish.

Mr. Ruggles said greater numbers of salmon are returning to the freshwater reaches of the St. John than in at least 18 years.

Salmon production in the St. John, which empties into the Bay of Fundy, had been seriously hurt by hydroelectric development, large-scale insecticide spraying in the forests, industrial pollution and overfishing.

The river has a potential run of about 100,000 salmon a year, Mr. Ruggles said.

About 300 of the fish arriving at the Mactaquac station are kept for brood stock. The others are trucked upriver past the obstacle of the Mactaquac hydroelectric plant to be released in the upper reaches of the St. John or in its tributary streams.

China Bans All Gambling, But Influence Remains

SINGAPORE (Reuter) — For the gambler who wins enough to travel, the Far East offers a wide scope for betting, from the skills of mah-jong to the bloody spectacle of a cockfight.

But a mixture of concern about the dangers of uninhibited gambling and the amount of revenue available in gaming taxes has led to an equally wide range of government controls.

State lotteries offering a relative fortune for a few coins now are a common feature of the region, and are followed with fanaticism by the superstitious—who have been known to dip tickets in the blood of people who have committed suicide and to take car numbers from crashes in their search for the winning combination.

Governments normally also impose taxes on "straight" gambling such as horse-racing, perhaps the region's most popular betting sport.

Yet for those willing to take the risk, most centres offer the added thrill of a flutter outside the law, with the difficulty of law enforcement making many a born gambler convinced the odds are in his favor.

The one certainty, however, is that the would-be gambler will find little to his fancy in the country which once had a reputation for a heavy addiction to gambling—China.

The gambling houses in the brothel quarter of Shanghai were once famed throughout the Orient.

Now, with China possibly the most puritanical nation in the world, all forms of gambling are strictly forbidden as symbols of capitalist decadence.

The gambling addict might be misled by the groups huddled under the dim street lights of Peking on a hot summer night, playing bai fen (100 points) or some other card game.

But no wagers, not even for match sticks, are made.

According to reports, North Korea is just as strict on gambling, and the newly Communist states of Indochina presumably class gambling as one of the evils brought in from outside.

Yet the Chinese influence on gambling throughout the rest of Asia remains, particularly through the game of mah-jong.

Played with 156 patterned tiles, the clatter of mah-jong attracts many enthusiasts from the seasoned Chinese gamblers to the Western expatriate housewives whiling away an afternoon.

In most centres, playing mah-jong or variations of Eastern or Western card games is not likely to attract police attention so long as it is among family or friends.

But in Taiwan alone, unofficial sources estimate that as many as 30,000 tables involving up to 120,000 players operate on festive occasions, with some big-time gamblers playing for the equivalent of thousands of dollars.

Last year, more than 3,600 people in Taiwan were arrested for gambling, mostly playing mah-jong, with penalties usually involving a seven-day detention period and a fine worked out on the stakes.

The popularity of mah-jong in Taiwan is helped by the fact that there is no racetrack on the island.

Bankrupt Beach Zoo Rescued from Developers

WASAGA BEACH, Ont. (CP) — Three men have been trying to turn a bankrupt zoo into a profitable tourist attraction this summer.

Sam Persi, Bill Berube and Joe Orsatti took over the Wasaga Beach Zoo in this resort town, about 25 miles north of Barrie.

So far, they have bought a few new animals, reduced admissions by 50 cents, cut staff in halves, and put animal television stars on display.

Their television performers from Swiss Family Robinson include Ben the Bengal tiger and Satan the black panther while their special attraction is a paddock where children may feed a fallow deer, rub noses with a rabbit and pat a friendly goat.

The animal attractions at the 50-acre zoo now include Sumatran and Siberian tigers, lions, an Asian elephant, two hippos, wolves, bears, cougars, jaguars, deer, antelope and reptiles.

When the Wasaga Zoo, one of the 25 privately-owned zoos in Ontario, went bankrupt last year, the town council decided it could not afford the $350,000 needed to support the zoo.

The trio, already partners in a jungle zoo in nearby Elmvale, got involved when they tried to buy some of the animals for their attraction but later felt they couldn't let the zoo close.

Zoo director Berube explained: "All the financial experts we consulted told us 'No, don't do it.'—but the more we looked at the picture, the more we thought we might be able to make it go.

"We arranged to sell off a few acres of land that we didn't need and managed to get money to a point where we were able to get started by spending under $170,000."

The final decision to take over the zoo was made two hours before a deadline to turn the zoo land into a housing development.

Planning Courts

Valarie Ostrander, a Grade 13 at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute, and a fellow student, make plans for the new tennis courts at the high school this fall. The student council with the help of the board of education are funding the courts.

Lamy Commissioner Of National Film Board

TORONTO (CP) — Andre Lamy takes over as commissioner of the National Film Board (NFB) Aug. 22 and he says he plans to continue the work he helped launch in his five years as assistant commissioner.

Lamy, who succeeds Sydney Newman, said in an interview during a Toronto visit that he wants to expand farther the NFB's regional production program.

"We are not as remote from the public as some people have said," he said. "We are remote from film-makers all across the country.

"One of the main preoccupations of mine will be to give the independent film-maker access not only to regional production, but better access to the film board itself."

In the last two years, the NFB has opened production offices in Vancouver and given it an annual budget of $500,000; Winnipeg and Halifax, $300,000 each; and soon will open one here with a $500,000 budget.

"We will not be building an establishment locally we will be using most of that money on script-writers, cameramen, directors and technicians."

The Quebec-born Lamy is the first NFB commissioner with experience. Between 1954 and 1959, he and his brother operated Onyx Fils of Montreal which made feature movies and documentaries.

He was educated at University of Montreal and McGill University. His new job will pay $45,000 a year.

Lamy said there will be no drastic changes in either the NFB's output or administration in the next year.

"We must find ways of accelerating distribution of our fiction films. It's not a matter of revenue. Unless we do, we don't meet our mandate.

CHALLENGING OPPORTUNITY

Person or persons are required in the Belleville area to work with mentally handicapped residents in their own home. The residents concerned will be attending school or working in the community.

The primary purpose of the home is to help in the training of the resident by providing a setting where the resident can learn to assume normal social responsibilities. As a "Hostess" you will work in close association with the Social Worker in planning a training program based on the Resident's needs and capabilities.

The rate of rumuneration is $8.15 a day per resident plus a clothing and spending allowance.

Anyone interested in such challenging and rewarding work, please contact.

Mr. T. A. Field,
Chief Social Worker,
Prince Edward Heights,
Picton, Ontario.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Thursday, Aug. 21

Aries (March 21-April 19) You're fortunate in doing things alone today. Shun large groups or social functions because you'll meet opposition.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You'll upset family members if you let a secret slip out today. Luck is on your side as long as you keep things to yourself.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) It's a waste of time to travel or run errands today, since nothing can be accomplished. Bask in the sun by the pool.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Avoid spending money today. You'll buy all the wrong things. You can be creative without needless expense.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Others won't see eye-to-eye with you today. If you could listen to their side of the story and yield, it would bring you happiness.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll have an inclination to make changes at work today. There'll be no problems unless you try to use unfamiliar tools on the project.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You can have a good time today with one or two people. Don't let it grow into a mob scene, or your fun will be fleeting.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Much work can be accomplished at home today, but don't look for pats on the back. Forget it. You won't get them.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't be drawn into deep discussions about things such as politics or religion today. Keep the rap sessions light. Avoid bitterness.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll be tempted to buy something today, but check with the family first. Otherwise, you could upset them.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your one-to-one dealings with associates could be unfortunate today. Why not go out and meet new and different people?

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Play your hunches anywhere but at work today. The sarcastic comments of co-workers could throw you off balance.

Too Much Insulin Means Low Sugar

By G. C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Are hyperinsulinism and hypoglycemia the same? If not, how are they different? What are the symptoms? — Mrs. G.M.

One is a cuase of the other. Hyperinsulinism is the excessive secretion of insulin from the pancreas. This causes excessive "'burning"' of sugar in the blood, and the net result is low blood sugar, which we call hypoglycemia.

The symptoms of hypoglycemia include weakness, tiredness and sometimes emotional disorientation.

Hyperinsulinism can be the result of a tumor of the pancreas, which involves the islet cells — the tissue which produces insulin. This condition is usually associated with hypoglycemia during the night or early morning.

But this is not the usual case in hypoglycemia, where faulty (low) function of the thyroid adrenals ,or pituitary gland, along with nervous states and faulty dietary practices, are the common causative factors.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a problem with my fingernails and big toenails. There is a recession and the nails stand away from the flesh. I've had this problem for two years.

I have seen several doctors without results. They have taken cultures from my nails and have told me it is a fungus. Medication was prescribed, but so far none has had any effect. Isn't there any way to cure this situation? — Mrs. J.F.

I would normally suspect psoriasis of the nails, because this often results in a lifting of the nail from the nail bed. With this there is also a pitting and yellowish discoloration of the nail surface. But since a fungus has been identified, you can apparently rule out psoriasis. Fungus infections are readily diagnosed from an examination of scrapings from the tissue in the affected area, which is what you underwent.

Treatment with fungicides is not always successful. In stubborn cases removal of the nail itself is sometimes necessary. In others, griseofulvin taken internally has helped. This is available under various brand names and requires a physician's prescription.

Effecitve against certain fungi, griseofulvin usually involves long-term therapy.

Prolonged use can produce undesirable side effects, including stomach distress and skin irritation.

CONFIDENTIAL TO S.M.: Sorry. Fertility drugs are not the kinds of things you go out and buy the way you would aspirin tablets. It would do no good for me to tell you the names of these drugs. They are, to begin with, available only through your doctor's prescription. You would have to be examined very carefully first; then, if your physician felt you were a candidate for their use, he would prescribe them for you. Yes, multiple births have occurred with their use. So, if you are interested in them you had best begin with a frank talk with your doctor, and with your husband, too.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I read somewhere that table salt rubbed into a tattoo will remove it. Can you tell me about this? — S.J.

I have heard that too, but I can't vouch for its effectiveness. Tattooing is done by injecting an insoluble dye (such as carbon black) rather deeply into the skin. Removal is very difficult, and most people must resort to skin planing or similar procedures. Most dermatologists would tell you tattoos should be considered "immortal" at the time they are applied. Bad work can cause unpleasant skin problems beyond mere cosmetic displeasure.

Opening lead — Q ♦

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

South looked over dummy and thought, "Too bad North didn't respond one notrump. I would have put him in three which he would have wrapped up."

Then South got down to the really important problem. How was he going to make four spades.

He started by playing dummy's king of diamonds. Maybe West had underled the ace. West hadn't and the defence placed a second and third diamond. South ruffed the third diamond and played two top trumps. At that point he could play his ace of hearts, cash the clubs and lead a second heart. If either opponent had started with king-small or queen-small, he would have been end played.

That didn't appeal. The hand looked like one with all suits breaking quite evenly, so South tried another line.

He cashed the clubs, stopping in dummy. Then he led a low heart. His plan was to finesse his nine and it would have worked except for one thing. East had been thinking while the play went on. When that heart was led, East hopped up with his king.

This unusual second-hand-high play left South with no way to make his contract.

Ask the Jacobys

A South Dakota reader wants to know what you respond to your partner's one-spade opening when you hold:
♠62, ♥AK85 ♦932 ♣AQ74.

In theory the hand qualified for two clubs, two hearts or two notrump, but the only correct response is two clubs. You should try to avoid responding two hearts with a four-card suit, and you should never respond two notrump with an unstopped suit. Finally, two clubs covers your next bid. If partner rebids two diamonds, you bid notrump. If he rebids two spades you bid three hearts, etc.

Hope To Save Roads

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Old back roads they say are being engineered out of existence are the source of a study being conducted by three University of Waterloo students. Tim Carter, Mary Marshall and Mark Louwry have logged countless miles, observed, surveyed and photographed roads in th region for their scenic value. Results of the study will be given to the region's engineering committee this fall.

Came to Din

TORONTO (CP) — A small brown sparrow with an injured left leg hopped across th lawn at the Don Mills home of Sheena and Terrence Hill. He plunked down on the patio, and polished off the bread they gave him. "He must have liked the meal and the shoe box snooze afterwards," said Mrs. Hill, "because he has stayed for a week now even though we've given him a couple of chances to fly away."

Questions and Answers On Highway Travel

Ontario Motor League
Eastern Ontario Club

QUESTION: We are planning a trip to Cape Cod, Mass., in the near future. Please give information on what to see, beaches, price of motels and a scenic route there and a fast route home.

Mrs. P. H. Kingston. Ont.

ANSWER: The eastern coast of Cape Cod is washed by the Atlantic Ocean. Along here we have the 28,000 acre Cape Cod natural seashore which has spectacular dunes, forests, and weathered cottages and lighthouses.

Hyannis on Nantucket Sound is a centre of summertime resort activities. It's harbor is deep enough for ocean going yachts and there are many fine beaches here, particularly Craigville Beach. The Cape Playhouse is nearby at Dennis.

Provincetown an important fishing town, once a whaling port, is one of the best known art colonies in the country. The Provincetown Art Association holds summer exhibition and Provincetown players produce plays during the season.

A symphony orchestra gives concerts during the summer. Miles of splendid beaches line both harbor and ocean sides of the peninsula, with bathhouse and parking facilities at Provincetown Beach is one dollar.

Plymouth is a place of historical interest. It was on Plymouth Rock that the Pilgrims landed in December 1620. During the first winter almost half of the 102 persons brought over by the Mayflower died of exposure, cold and hunger. The Mayflower II, moored at the state pier, is a full scale replica of the ship that brought the pilgrims to the new world. Open daily during the summer.

Chatham, with Nantucket Sound on one side and the Atlantic on the other, is a fine spot for fishing. Bass, Bluefish and snappers are caught here.

Martha's Vineyard, an island about 7 miles from Wood's Hole, is the site of several towns which have long been popular as summer resorts. The leading ones are Vineyard Haven, Oak Bluffs and Edgartown. Many charming old homes, still line the narrow streets. There are excellent beaches, golf, fishing and other sports. Ferries operate daily between Woods Hole, Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket.

Nantucket Island: Much of Nantucket's charm is its cobblestoned main street and its handsome old houses, built during the prosperous whaling days. The island has a famous artists' colony. Plays and concerts are also presented during July and August. There are excellent beaches, golf courses, sailing, tennis and fishing.

Accommodation: The average rate of motels on Cape Cod is between $26 and $36 for double occupancy in season. For a family it may be more economical to rent one of the many cottages that range from $100 to $300 a week. You can cook your own meals and save a lot of money this way, especially if you have a family. There are also reasonable tourists homes.

For a scenic route take 401 to Ivy Lea Bridge, interstate 81 to Watertown, N.Y., route 3 through the Adirondacks to Lake Placid, route 73 and interstate 87 to Glen Falls, route 4, to Troy, N.Y. and route 2 east by-passing Boston on 128, then route 3 and 6 to Cape Cod.

For a fast route home take same route to Massachusetts Turnpike, take this west to the New York thruway, New York thruway to Syracuse, 81 to Ivy Lea Bridge and 401 home. Mileage is 550 miles from Kingston.

If you are a member of the Ontario Motor League, you may pick up, free of charge, a detailed routing of this trip, including books on motels and maps.

Guerrillas Attack Police

Big Argentine City Becomes Battlefield

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — A guerrilla attack on the police turned the centre of Cordoba, Argentina's second largest city, into a battlefield, and police said seven persons were killed and many others were wounded.

Leftist guerrillas attacked the central police headquarters with bazookas and machine-guns at 11 a.m. Wednesday, and heavy firing continued until early afternoon. There was sporadic shooting throughout the day, and bombs exploded around the outskirts of the city, 450 miles northwest of Buenos Aires.

Five policemen and two guerrillas were killed and at least five policemen were wounded, police said. Unofficial reports said "numerous" passers-by also were wounded.

Leaflets found in the downtown area indicated the attackers were members of the leftist Peronist Montoneros organization and the Trotskyite People's Revolutionary Army (ERP).

Witnesses said the guerrillas pulled their weapons out of shopping carts and opened fire, backed by snipers in church belfrys and other buildings around the central plaza.

Two policemen were cut down by gunfire in front of the headquarters, and two more died when the attackers fired a mortar into the police communications centre, destroying the building.

A fifth was shot and killed in a raid on another police station.

Army troops emerged from a nearby garrison in transport carriers, but witnesses said they did not intervene in the fighting.

Police said they rounded up numerous suspects throughout the city and its suburbs.

The governor of Cordoba, retired brigadier Raul Lacabanne, called for an all-out attack on guerrillas throughout Argentina.

"The country is in a state of war, and it's useless to concentrate the effort in just a few places to combat the guerrillas. We have to go after them in a co-ordinated way all over the country," Lacabanne told a news conference.

The only military action under way against the guerrillas is in the northwestern province of Tucuman where the army has been hunting down the ERP since last February.

The Cordoba attack came two days before the anniversary of a major guerrilla bloodbath. On Aug. 22, 1972, 16 members of the Montoneros and the ERP were killed at a naval prison in Patagonia. The navy said the prisoners attempted to escape, but two survivors said the guerrillas were murdered.

The Montoneros want to provoke a military takeover of the government in hopes this would touch off an uprising that would bring them to power.

Mideast Accord Still Not Certain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger flew to Israel today to try to pin down a new Sinai agreement with Egypt in hopes of advancing peace in the Middle East and avoiding another Arab oil embargo.

Diplomatic sources in Washington said Kissinger still lacks the 90 per cent certainty of success that he said he would need to resume back-and-forth "shuttle diplomacy" between Jerusalem and Cairo to put a new Israeli-Egyptian agreement into final form.

But they said before he left on the 10-day visit to the region that he has the major outline of a pact in sight, including Israeli evacuation of the Gidi and Mitla mountain passes and the Abu Rudeis and Balain oilfields.

President Ford has warned of renewed warfare in the region if the negotiations fail and of an inevitable Arab oil boycott like the one after the 1973 war that led to fuel shortages in the United States, Western Europe and Japan.

Kissinger believes Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin's government is on the verge of agreeing to give up the Sinai gateways without obtaining a non-belligerency pledge from Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Egypt is reported ready to give assurances at yearly intervals for a three-year extension of the United Nations peace-keeping force in Sinai and to promise not to use force unless Egypt or its allies are attacked by Israel.

A key element of the prospective pact is the stationing of about 100 U.S. technicians between the separated armies to help operate surveillance equipment to guard aganist surprise attack.

A major unresolved issue is the amount of military and economic aid for Israel the Ford administration will recommend to Congress if there is a settlement. Israel has requested $2.8 billion plus compensation of at least $300 million for relinquishing the oil fields.

Meanwhile, demonstrations involving hundreds of right wing youths broke out for the third day Wednesday against Kissinger's visit and the pro-Kissinger's visit and the proposed Sinai accord.

Five demonstrators broke into Foreign Minister Yigal Allon's residence in the ancient Jewish quarter of Jerusalem. Police evicted them by force and scattered a crowd of about 200 outside.

Premiers Confer In Newfoundland

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Energy and federal-provincial cost-sharing programs come under discussion today at the first session of the 16th annual premiers' conference.

Recent petroleum price increases brought on by the June federal budget have aroused new interest in energy discussions, a hangover from past conferences.

The budget also prompted concern for federally-shared programs, particularly those dealing with health services.

Several premiers said Ottawa's decision to curb its contribution to health-care programs may signal a change in other long-standing, cost-shared programs.

The federal government announced in June it intends to withdraw in five years from existing agreements under the Hospital Insurance and Diagnostic Services Act and place a ceiling on annual payments under the Medical Care Act.

The premiers said Ottawa was responsible for involving the provinces in these high-cost programs and its about-face while costs mount jeopardizes health care and casts doubt on a range of other agreements.

"We're very upset about the budget proposals," said Saskatchewan Premier Allan Blakeney. "To see the federal government withdraw from the financing of these programs . . . strikes me as a blow to federalism, a blow to the concept of Canadianism."

Premier Gerald Regan of Nova Scotia saw it as a possible first step in the erosion of other cost-shared programs and a threat to the equalization formula.

Balloonist Has Company

MASHPEE, Mass. (AP) — What was to be an attempted transatlantic solo balloon flight became a duet today when the chief of the flight crew clung to a rope and, dangling in the air, took off with the balloon — intentionally. Less than one hour later balloonist Bob Sparks radioed that he had hauled crew chief C. Hadden Wood on board the gondola. Sparks said both were safe and that the flight was continuing.

ROME (AFP) — Jane Black, 60, of Collingwood, Ont., who is being treated for cholera in a Rome hospital, is "on the road to recovery," doctors reported today.

Iceberg Sinks Ship

HALIFAX (CP) — Two men are confirmed lost, four are missing and five have been rescued after a motor vessel sunk and a helicopter was lost near Port Burwell on the Labrador coast, the Air Sea Rescue centre here reported today. A spokesman for the centre said the 432 ton Aigle d'Ocean sank late Wednesday after striking a small iceberg near the northern tip of Labrador.

Bitter Strike Forecast

OTTAWA (CP) — A warning that the post office faces its most bitter strike ever unless an impasse over technological change is resolved "adequately" was issued Wednesday by Marcel Perreault, president of the Montreal local of the Canadian Union of Postal Workers.

Mounties Unhappy

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCMP Association said Wednesday night the 13.8 per cent wage increase announced last week for Mounties "provides little protection against inflation and is well below the general trend."

Indian Women Seek Action

OTTAWA (CP) — Crime, unemployment, alcoholism and drug abuse are destroying Indian communities and must be fought say native women from across Canada. At the end of a three-day seminar here Wednesday, the women drew up 60 recommendations to fight these problems, including immediate arrest and prosecution of bootleggers and drug pushers in native communities and construction of rural apartment buildings to stop vandalism when people are away trapping.

U.S. Index Climbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Soaring prices for food, gasoline and used cars pushed United States consumer prices up 1.2 per cent in July, the biggest monthly rise in inflation this year, the U.S. government reported today.

French Language Law Seen Making Quebec Police State

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A member of Premier Robert Bourassa's Liberal government said Wednesday in Montreal that recently-announced tentative language regulations will turn Quebec into a "police state."

George Springate condemned the proposed regulations—part of efforts to implement the Official Language Act—which would oblige businesses to make French the dominant language in advertising, food product labels and mail order catalogues.

The regulations also would require picketers to carry signs in which French has at least equal prominence with any other language and would oblige consumers to make a written request to obtain English-language mail order catalogues.

The member for the Montreal riding of Ste. Anne compared the regulations, announced Tuesday, to measures in effect in "Russia or Germany of the 1930s" and said they would create a "public spy system" in Quebec.

Mr. Springate was referring to Solicitor-General Fernand Lalonde's appeal to private citizens to inform the government's French-language watchdog body of any violations.

In an apparent slap at cabinet ministers Victor Goldbloom, Kevin Drummond and William Terley who supported Bill 22, Mr. Springate said the regulations were approved by a cabinet "where English-speaking Quebecers are not represented."

Reponding to Mr. Springate, Mr. Lalonde said Wednesday the regulations were just draft proposals and the government was "fully open to suggestion."

Reaction from other sectors of the English-speaking community was largely more restrained than that of Mr. Springate.

Most union officials said their members already abided by the regulation which requires picket signs to carry French-language slogans.

But Jack Johnson, president of the 6,700-member Provincial Association of Protestant Teachers, said Wednesday in Montreal that the regulations were "a farce" and he called on English-speaking Quebecers to "deluge" Premier Bourassa with requests for English catalogues.

Woman Stuck For Full Day In Bathroom

TORONTO (CP) — A leisurely, evening soak became a nightmare for a 77-year-old Toronto woman when she wound up in fair condition in hospital Wednesday after she spent nearly 24 hours wedged between a bathtub and a toilet.

A fire deparment spokesman said the woman, who lives alone, is believed to have slipped Monday night as she was getting out of the tub.

She was rescued Tuesday night by firemen and an ambulance crew after a janitor got no answer at her apartment, found her door chained and called for assistance.

Her 75-year-old brother, who asked that the family's name not be disclosed, described her condition Wednesday as "very confused."

Quinte SS Ducks First-day Scramble

Ron Carson
Staff Reporter

Quinte Secondary School officials have decided to avoid the first-day scramble for books and lockers this fall by holding a full-scale pre-registration campaign beginning Monday, Aug. 25 through to Wednesday, Aug. 27.

Quinte vice-principal Jim MacKay said Wednesday that Monday would be set aside for first year students, Tuesday for second year, and Wednesday for Grade 11, 12 and 13.

Mr. MacKay said the students would be issued time-tables, lockers and books and they would be photographed that day for identification cards. According to Mr. MacKay the identification cards are an important part of the student's life at school.

"The idea is to have the students all set to go on Sept. 2 instead of the usual confusion that first day when time-tables are being straightened out," explained Mr. MacKay.

Quinte is doing this pre-registration for the first time. Normally most of the necessary duties are carried out on the first day of school in September. There are about 1,380 students at Quinte.

The pre-registration is not mandatory but school officials expect a majority of the students to comply with the dates. There are about 35 students helping with the pre-registration.

Kelly Says He's Innocent

Sudbury Man and Grandson Held as Hostages Four Hours

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Isadore Carre, 59, who says he was held hostage with his grandson in his car for four hours Tuesday night by murder suspect Donald Kelly, says Kelly claims he is innocent of murder charges against him and is not going back to jail.

Mr. Carre said in an interview: "He said he didn't do it, he wasn't going back to jail. . . ."

He quoted Kelly as saying: "I'm going to die first. I'm not going to jail for something I didn't do."

A police spokesman in North Bay said Wednesday a man answering to Kelly's description held Mr. Carre and his grandson hostage and drove their car to Wahnapitae, 10 miles east of here.

Mr. Carre said he and his grandson, Michael Legualt, 16, were sitting in the car when they heard a tap on the window. A man Mr. Carre later identified as Kelly asked them whether they knew him and they said "no."

Mr. Carre said the man who took them hostage shook badly during the four-hour drive. He also said the man had a full, black beard and walked with a limp.

"He ordered me into a trailer park and we parked behind some trailers for 15 or 20 minutes," Mr. Carre said. "We sat there and then he ordered me back to the highway. There was no traffic at all."

He said they went as far as the Wahnapitae Bridge, when the man said: "I'm going to get off, and when I do, you stop on the highway.

"Beat it and don't look back."

Kelly is charged, along with Ian Rose and James Lavin, with murder punishable by life imprisonment in connection with the 1969 shooting deaths of Carol MacWilliams, 20, and Jack MacWilliams, 27, her brother-in-law. Kelly escaped Aug. 2 from North Bay district jail.

Portuguese Premier's Days Said Short

LISBON (AP) — Moderates are gaining ground as the ouster of pro-Communist Premier Vasco Goncalves appears imminent.

Anti-Communists in the armed forces threatened Wednesday to overthrow the Portuguese government by force if President Francisco da Costa Gomes did not fire Goncalves, who advocates a Soviet-oriented brand of communism.

Costa Gomes later told 18 new junior officers at a swearing-in ceremony: "It is not simple to be a member of a government team whose duration can be expre[illegible] days."

The president was reported to favor naming the army chief of staff, Gen. Carlos Fabiao, as premier. A Paris newspaper said Fabiao told it the Goncalves regime did not have much time left.

Communist leader Alvaro Cunhal indicated his party would go along with the removal of Goncalves as a way to cut its political losses.

Cunhal told a news conference the premier's Communist-line leadership "has not solved all the problems" facing Portugal. The Communist party is "open to look for other solutions to solve the crisis" he said. ". . . No one may put his personal ambition before the general interest of the revolution."

However, the Communists brought out tens of thousands of soldiers, farmers and workers for a march through Lisbon Wednesday night in support of Goncalves.

The marchers chanted: "The soldiers always, always with the people. . . . Down with fascism. Down with capitalism."

Farmers on their tractors held red carnations, symbol of the 16-month-old revolution.

Quinte Holds Pre-registration

Quinte Secondary School will begin a pre-registration campaign Monday, Aug. 25 throught to Wednesday Aug. 27 in an attempt to avoid the first-day confusion when school starts Sept. 2. Here, Quinte principal John Hayman talks with two students from Hong Kong, William Li (right) and Harry Kwong, who will be attending Quinte this year.

Bernard Collins Once City Solicitor

Mr. A. Bernard Collins, Q.C., former City Solicitor, Belleville and senior member of the Hastings Bar Association, died at Hotel Dieu Hospital, August 20, 1975.

Mr. Collins, son of the late Daniel and Barbara Collins, was born in Ireland shortly before his parents moved to Canada and settled in the Township of Hungerford.

Having completed his elementary and secondary education, Mr. Collins taught school in this county and served briefly as principal of Tweed High School before attending Osgoode Hall in Toronto.

Mr. Collins was admitted to the Bar of this Province in 1912. He was appointed King's Counsel in 1931. He was associated in the practice of law with the late Judge Cochrane and later the late Master of the Supreme Court, F.G. Cushing, Q.C. For several years he was the senior partner of the firm with his son B. Robertson Collins.

Mr. Collins was an alderman of the City of Belleville and later served, for many years, as the City Solicitor for Belleville.

Mr. Collins was a Member and Past president of the Hastings Bar Association, the Chamber of Commerce and the Kiwanis Club. He also served on the Board of Governors of Belleville General Hospital for several years.

Fraternally, he was an active member of the Knights of Columbus in Belleville and in Ontario. He was Past Grand Knight of Belleville Council 1008 and Past Faithful Navigator of Belleville Genoa Assembly. He was the oldest living member who served with the Ontario State Board, having been a member for several years and a Past State Deputy of the Ontario State Board for the Knights of Columbus. He was a member St. Michael's Church.

Mr. Collins was an honourary member of the Law Society of Upper Canada and of the Knights of Columbus.

Mr. Collins was the last member of his family, predeceased by a sister, Mrs. Sarah Shannon, Belleville, and brothers John and Charles of Stoco, William and Joseph of Tweed, James of Kitchener, and Daniel of New York State.

Predeceased by his wife, the late Kathleen Robertson, Mr. Collins was the father and father-in-law of Robertson and Aileen Collins, Belleville and the grandfather of J. Robertson Collins and Ronald B. Collins, of Toronto, Maureen Collins of Kingston, Bruce and Catherine Collins of Belleville and two greatgrandchildren. He was predeceased by one grandson, Paul Collins.

There will be a Knights of Columbus lodge service Friday at 8 p.m. in the chapel of the O'Brien Steele Funeral Home, 30 Moria St. West.

Funeral will be held Saturday at 11 a.m. from St. Michael's Church to St. James Cemetery.

Service Scheduled

TWEED — The annual Memorial Day Service will be held in Northbrook United Church Cemetery, Sunday, August 24 at 2.30 p.m. or in the event of rain, in the United Church.

Those interested in the care of the last resting place of their loved ones are asked to donate the amount of $2 to the Cemetery Fund.

Prices No Problem

Restaurants Do Brisk Business

By RON HIUSER
Staff Reporter

Even though the price of most food items is on the increase according to the latest figures published by the Prices Review Board, it does not seem to have affected the restaurant business to any great extent.

"Our last price increase was about six month ago and, if anything, business has improved" said Jim Lee, manager of the China Village Restaurant.

During the summer, "there are a lot of people moving around and we're usually very busy."

The latest increase in the price of pork has affected the Village's menu. "Pork is expensive right now and we have had to take it off the menu for a lot of dishes," said Mr. Lee.

Even the tips received by the waitresses have been improving.

"The tips are better now because there are more people," said waitress Karen Milligan at the China Village.

"It could be better but I average about 50 cents a tip."

At the Town and Country Restaurant owner George Jianopulos said business is pretty good and there has been no problem because of the increased prices.

"The last increase in prices was about a month ago and business has remained the same or maybe a little better," said Mr. Jianopoulos.

The increased pork prices will not affect Mr. Jianopoulos' restaurant because he said, "we won't use pork."

"We still have some cuts of pork but it won't affect the price."

The Town and Country owner said he has received no complaints from the customers. "When people go out and shop, they know the prices have increased, so they understand."

There are several reasons why the price of food in restaurants has increased said John Ballotis, night-manager of Spiro's Restaurant.

"We haven't increased our prices since January and since then the minimum wage has gone up, the price of coffee has gone up, pork is increasing and if it continues to rise, we'll have to increase our prices," said Mr. Ballotis.

"Over-all, business has been about the same, said Mr. Ballotis.

"As long as people haven't got time to go home and cook their own lunch, they need a restaurant."

Were the Good Old Days—Realy Good?

Nostalgia seems to be the rage these days. There is a great deal of public sentiment for a return to old values, morals and ethics. In many ways this would certainly be good but in the context of good health the golden age is right now.

Man's progress in fighting disease and illness has achieved spectacular results in recent years. Most of the medicines that your doctor is prescribing for you were not even known just a few short years ago. And, everyday new drugs that have been approved or public use.

John Rittwage, spokesman for homeowners in the Burttdale Heights subdivision measures the mortar distrance between bricks on one of the houses in the Rollins construction development. Mr. Rittwage said the wall was condemned because it exceeded the maximum one-half inch mortar space between bricks allowed by the Building code.

Burttdale Dwellers Getting Lewis Visit

TRENTON — Residents of the Burttdale Heights subdivision hope provincial NDP leader Stephen Lewis will help them remedy the problem they say they are having with the Rollins Construction Company and the Ontario Housing Corporation (OHC), when he visits Trenton, Friday.

The homeowners' group wants to find out about alleged major structural faults in the houses, when inspectors for the OHC and Rollins officials say the buildings were examined five to eight times during construction.

"We're after the inspectors also, not only the builders," said John Rittwage, spokesman for the homeowners.

"There are houses where the mortar between the bricks is more than one-and-half inches and the walls will probably fall down," he said. "The building code says there should not be more than one-half inch of mortar between bricks."

"Another home has the joists, or floor supports, resting less than one-half an inch on the foundation when the building code says it must be at least one-and-half inches," he said.

Trailer Tenants Unite in Protest

TRENTON — A group of angry residents of the Trenton Trailer Park, at Carrying Place Wednesday presented a petition to the Murray Township council asking its members to take action and improve alleged poor conditions at the camp.

The residents say if the conditions are not improved, or if the park is closed, they will explore the possibility of developing co-operative trailer subdivision in the township. Murray township has a bylaw prohibiting placement of individual trailers on lots.

The action comes, said spokesmen, after repeated attempts to have the problems remedied by talking with the owner, Cecil Plachta, who they contend has ignored their complaints.

Tenants in the park claim the unpaved roads are unsafe, the water is unfit for human consumption and constantly in short supply, and the roads are not plowed after snowfalls.

Council informed the petitioners it would arrange a meeting with Mr. Plachta to discuss conditions at the park but the only power council had to remedy the situation was to cancel Mr. Plachta's licence to operate the trailer camp if he does not comply with their recommendations.

This would force the 40 tenants to move.

Mr. Plachta, speaking in an interview, said "I heard rumors there would be a petition presented to the council but I was not approached by the tenents with the complaints.

"They want me to pave the roads and put curbs in and I will if they want to pay me more money," he said.

"If you want things you have to pay for them," Mr. Plachta said.

The tenants' group contends they have sent off sample to the ministry of health that have been returned indicating a high bacteria count and labeled unfit for human consumption. They presented council with a plastic bottle filled with water taken from a tap at the camp which was murky and cloudy when poured into a clear glass.

The tenents claim the park is poorly lit and only has two street lamps, one of which has been inoperative for the past year.

The group inquired as to the amount of responsibility township had in the matter saying the licence to operate the park was granted by the council.

The petitioners have announced they are forming a tenant's committee to push the issue and will soon retain legal counsel to see what can be done to enforce the necessary changes.

It also came out in the meeting that another trailer park is currently planned for the township with a proposed 90-acre site already purchased with work scheduled to begin on the project in the early fall.

Seniors To Get Cards

By RON HIUSER

PICTON — Ontario plans to extend its free benefits to the province's senior citizens through the issuing of a special identification card, says Rene Brunelle, minister of community and social services.

Speaking to more than 500 Wednesday at the opening of the new H. J. McFarland Senior Citizens' Home, here, Mr. Brunelle said the ministry, in conjunction with the ministry of health, will issue senior citizen privilege cards within the next two weeks.

Mr. Brunelle said the card will provide identification and access for its holders to cultural facilities, theatres, historical sites, museums, provincial parks, and transportation facilities. He said the card will offer free admittance to some facilities and reduced rates for others.

Mr. Brunelle also said the cards will be used for the Ontario Drug Benefits program.

Trenton Gets Self-serve Gas Stations

TRENTON — Grandmothers, teenagers, fathers and mothers will soon be able to pump their own gasoline and save pennies when two self-serve stations open up this fall.

Trenton's new east end mall on Dundas Street will be the site of the the first selfserve installation scheduled to begin operation in mid-September. The station will have eight pumps.

"The whole thing is shipped down from Montreal and we assemble it here," said Thomas St. Denis, superintendent of construction at the site.

The cash kiosk comes already made and we just put it in place after we have built the canopy," he said Wednesday.

The second self-serve will be located at the corner of Byron street, also on Dundas East.

"We had hoped to be the first one in Trenton," said Gary Gamble, manager of the present station. "We just bought our building permit and we intend to close down for renovations September 10 and resume operations five or six weeks later with 12 pumps."

Mr. Gamble said there were many reasons for the switch.

"For one thing it cuts the part-time staff by half which is a large saving on the payroll," he said.

"Also it is very popular with the customers who all seem to enjoy pumping the gas," he said.

"I went over to eBlleville to observe their self-serve in operation and it was surprising to see how many older men and women and people dressed in fancy clothes would stop and use the pumps," Mr. Gamble said.

Five Crews Fight Fires

Two new fires in this district broke out Wednesday and the ministry of natural resources has five crews containing the fires.

Floyd Caverly, field service and land supervisor for the ministry, said one fire broke out in Elzevir Township and there are about 10 men containing this fire which covers about 40 acres.

The second fire, covering 65 acres, broke out at Hungry Lake in Kennebec Township. Mr. Caverly said there are about 15 men containing this fire.

Fire conditions are described as high in this area.

Since April 1 the Tweed district has had 128 fires destroying 1,324 acres. This amount of acreage would cover an area one by two miles.

Picton Gals Have 'Why Not' Night

PICTON — At St. Magdeline Parish Hall, here, Tuesday night, a 'Why Not!' meeting sponsored by Canada Manpower was attended by about 15 people.

The program involved a showing of the film 'It's Not Enough' followed by an address from Evelyn Beaumont relating her experiences in the employment field. Mrs. Beaumont is the head of the Social Services in Picton.

After the showing of the second film '51 per cent,' which chairman Marg Silver, called "excellent", came two more guest speakers, Lorraine Brown and Bessie Ward.

The relationship of a mother and child was the topic of Mrs. Brown's talk.

It is important that the mother is with her child especially when the children are young, said Mrs. Brown A woman can fulfill her life being a housewife, said the former missionary. Mrs. Brown has been a teacher at St. Gregory Public School in Picton, and in India.

A town councillor for 11 years, Mrs. Ward spoke of her political life in the community and said, she enjoyed the work immensely.

Mrs. Ward said women should go out and try politics on all levels, municipal provincial and federal. She mentioned examples like Robin Jeffrey of Belleville who is now running as a provincial election candidate after being involved in municipal politics.

Speaking on behalf of the Canada Manpower Centre, John Cameron said there were job openings in government and applicants were to be picked on their quality and not their sex.

Marg Silver summed up th evening by saying, "the women really got interested and I believe they got a lot out of it."

"The women's night went smoothly and we hope, in future, more people will turn out to such events," said Miss Silver.

Brunelle Opens McFarland Home

By RON HIUSER
Staff Reporter

PICTON — It was a day of celebrations and ceremony at the official opening of the H. J. McFarland Memorial Home, Wednesday. To cut the ribbon and speak at the two-year-old project was Rene Brunelle, Minister of Community and Social Services for the province.

Introduced to about 500 people attending the ceremony was James Taylor MPP for the riding.

Mr. Brunelle expressed greetings from Premier William Davis who was to attend but had to go to the premier's conference in Newfoundland.

"I think it is most fitting that you have chosen to name this home after Mr. McFarland who contributed so much to Picton and Prince Edward County . . . as citizen and former mayor," said Mr. Brunelle.

The minister mentioned that 70 years ago senior citizens' homes were called "houses of refuge" and residents considered "inmates".

"Homes for the elderly today measure up to the standards of first-rate resort hotels," said Mr. Brunelle.

Mr. Brunelle said the people are changing their attitudes towards senior citizens as the proportion of elderly population increases.

"We have come to realize that our senior citizens are quite capable in most instances of planning their own programs and managing their own affairs."

Mr. Brunelle noted some of the programs offered to the senior citizens of the province, such as the Guaranteed Annual Income System (GAINS), free hospital care, free prescription drugs for some, and the encouragement of Community Outreach Programs.

"In 1964, the Ontario Housing Corporation inherited only 36 senior citizen rental units, today we have almost 21,500 units for seniors under the O.H.C. management with more to come," said the minister.

Mr. Brunelle gave an Ontario flag to the Administrator of the Home, George Ross.

Words of appreciation and greetings were expressed by Reeve Keith MacDonald whose township the home is built in: George Hees, MP for the riding; William McCrea, warden of Hastings county; Paul Burns, Warden of Lennox and Addington county; and Donald King, Mayor of Picton.

Mr. King said, "Serving as mayor, I feel close to the memory of Harvey McFarland. He was a generous, compassionate man and this home is a tribute. His name will live on."

Mr. Brunelle and Burney McKim, 85, a resident of the County Home since 1913, cut the ribbon to officially open the 51-room residence.

Canada's Bureaucracy—Paid More Than Even the Americans—in Line for Raise

By RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Not to stir resentment in the ripped-off taxpayer or the put-upon pensioner — but do you remember those heady days of Pierre power when Prime Minister Trudeau, new to office, promised to put the public service poobahs in their place?

He, not they, was going to call the shots.

No more civil service empire-building.

The elected politicians, not the appointed officials, would run things.

Parliament would put the brakes on the runaway civil service.

It sounded great, didn't it?

So what happened?

The government itself reports that while the public service in the last five years has increased 27 per cent, the empire-builders — the civil service mandarins — have multiplied by 82 per cent.

And now the executives — 1,050 of them by last Treasury Board accounting — already the best-paid senior civil servants in the Western World, higher salaried even than the Americans — are in line for a raise.

The top brass is going to a juicy annual $66,000 top, with fringe benefits you wouldn't believe.

. . . Like development leave" with pay for a year to "update professional knowledge and skills" not including the year off work with pay for bilingualization

. . . Like development leave of a maximum 28 weeks of salary.

. . . Like severance pay — not merely compensation on voluntary resignation in order to go on to bigger and better things, if such do, indeed, exist in the real outside world beyond the comfy civil service cocoon, but for "release" for incompetence — of 14 weeks' pay

. . . Like a you-can't-beat-it-anywhere pension as early as 55 at a fat maximum 70 per cent of salary, indexed, of course, to the inflation the policy-making mandarins did so much to create with their free-spending — of your money — ways.

. . . And much, much more.

The mandarin-taming Prime Minister, who himself was tamed, has before him still another report from an outside group of corporate captains and academic aces which warns that public service empire-building is "excessive."

A nice, polite word, that. In fact pure bureaucratic babble itself, for an 82 per cent increase in the brass, in the real world would be more than merely "excessive," it would be explosive.

The group cautions, too, that the public service pension plan is so generously open-ended, the cost — to you — has "implications which may be beyond the system's capacity to absorb."

The report, in alarm, calls for "remedial action" giving the government "greater discretion in terminating employment."

And right here is a good time to remind you that this lack of "discretionary control" enabled two top-pay mandarins, rated at more than $60,000, to retire early on even fatter pensions than if they had stayed the course.

The pair left the federal payroll with the bigger out-early payoff, to put their insider knowledge to work as private-business consultants.

A final recommendation of the outside government advisory board is for a more realistic appraisal of the performance of the mandarins.

To fire the incompetents would be impossible. The group knows that. Nobody ever is fired for anything. Not in the top ranks. They just move sideways, playing musical executive chairs.

So the experts advising the government urge that if bad performance can't be penalized — and it can't, either by demotion or unthinkable dismissal — then good performance can be rewarded with a raise to the new $66,000 top.

This kind of Mad-Hatterism in Trudeauland might be funny, if you, the taxpayer and the pensioner, weren't paying for the laughs.

Mrs. Jeffrey's Future

Mayor Robin Jeffrey has made the announcement the city has been expecting. She is resigning her office in the wake of her nomination as Progressive Conservative candidate for the Quinte riding in the coming election.

Belleville enjoyed sound administration under Mrs. Jeffrey. She was conscientious and forthright and if the city gets more of the same, with a new Mayor, it will be fortunate.

Many foresee a promising future in provincial politics for Mrs. Jeffrey, should she be successful in the September vote. Meanwhile, the people of Belleville owe her their respect for a job well done.

As it is, she still has one more day in the job. Her resignation takes place officially tomorrow.

A Real Emergency

It's an EMERGENCY — the accident toll, that is, in Ontario and throughout Canada.

There isn't a day passes that death and injury take their toll.

The newspapers, the weeklies in particular, since their material is cumulative, are full of these commonplace, but nevertheless tragic events.

The impression gained moreover, from a look at such publications, is that things are worsening. A factor in this is the increasing popularity of bicycles.

On Amherst Island, one night recently, a 15 year-old girl lost her life when her bicycle was in collision with a car.

A week or so before, a 16-year-old Quebec youth staying in the Madoc area was knocked from his bicycle and killed by a passing car on Highway 62.

A Trenton man was killed when his motorcycle went out of control in Smithfield, near Brighton, and in yet another fatal encounter, a Carrying Place youth was killed following a collision between his motorcycle and a dune buggy.

All these accidents took place at night.

Night or day though, the injury or death is just as real — the only difference being that at night the horror of the event, the difficulties of obtaining help, that sort of thing, are compounded further.

Can nothing be done to make roads safer for everyone, whether in an auto or on a bicycle, or whatever.

Stiffer Gun Laws

The Ontario government's plans for stiffer gun laws are welcome, but they seem to be hedged by a number of intangibles.

On the one hand it is said the government will require all persons purchasing guns to have a licence and will require businesses selling guns to be licenced.

On the other, Premier Davis is quoted as saying the cabinet has come up with a tough set of recommendations for firearms control which will be implemented unless the federal government takes action on stricter gun controls.

In other words we may believe this is going to be a safer place to live only when such stipulations come into effect and the number of incidents involving weapons drops.

The premier made a telling point though — he was addressing the Police Association of Windsor — when he said: "The people here are only a tunnel ride away from what I'm talking about."

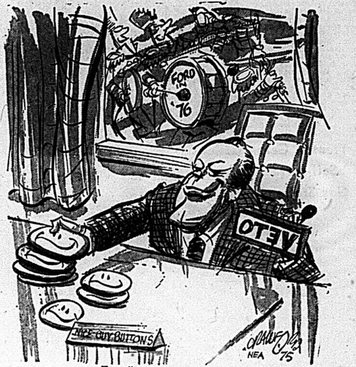
He was referring of course to trigger-happy Detroit.

Inflation Bores On

Inflation is worsening, from all accounts, and Prime Minister Trudeau has expressed himself as concerned. Yet, as Ottawa correspondent Richard Jackson points out, Mr. Trudeau is off on vacation.

So what's to be done, while for example plumbers on the Olympic site reportedly are making $1,300 a week, the teachers can expect more and Canada as a nation may find itself priced out of international markets?

It is getting so that an education does not count for much any more, when many tradesmen can earn as much or more than professional people.



Two-fisted campaign

LETTERS

Cattle Spoilage at Massassaga

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Some three weeks ago, while strolling along the bay shore at Massassaga, I came upon a large herd of cattle watering in the bay. Piles of dung from the cows was heaped on the shore and into the water.

I contacted the Ministry of the Environment in Belleville who in turn, phoned the Ministry in Kingston. The man there said he would investigate that same afternoon. I phoned him recently and he informs he that he saw the farmer involved and told him to stop this practice. The farmer told him where to go as this sort of thing has happened for 100 years. When I asked the Ministry what they intended to do about it they replied they would turn it over to the Ministry of Agriculture in another week.

I expected this sort of run around from this branch of the government as it has been the same over the past 3½ years. Consider their record in the Quinte area during this period of time alone.

(1) A Belleville business that handles dangerous chemicals was ordered to build a retaining cistern last year for the considerable spillage around the plant. The Ministry now say they may drain these chemicals into an open ditch which is unprotected. What if we have a rain-storm?

(2) They now have given municipal dumps permission to burn the wood and paper, knowing full well that most paper is damp with garbage and the people in the dumps will not be allowed the time to segregate all the garbage from these materials.

(3) The public was promised in 1967 that Domtar would have to stop polluting into the Trent River. Why was this not enforced?

(4) On Jan 6, 1972, I pleaded with the Ministry and council to voice their objections to the Belleville General Hospital and a couple of factories along the bay shore to stop their serious polluting. It was denied by all persons concerned until I produced results of a Ministry test. They then released a 10-page report on the Hospital showing they had indeed been polluting to the tune of 10,000,000 ppm coliform and 790,000 fecal. They are still polluting.

(5) They allowed illegal dumps to spring up all over the city, then compounded their indifference by telling them to cover it up although some of the dumps were on the water's edge.

(6) They allowed farmers north of Belleville to pile up a winter's supply of cow dung on the banks of the Moira River, knowing a good deal would be washed down the river in the spring.

(7) They allowed indiscriminate building of houses just west of the city limits knowing the shallow wells would catch the residue from the septic tanks and oily chemicals from Domtar that Sidney township puts on their roads.

Where are the teeth Mr. Newman says the Ministry have?.

'Montreal, USA!'

Montreal Gazette

The American Bar Association has been holding its convention in Montreal, Quebec, Canada. Judging by the remarks of several speakers, it seems the lawyers thought they were in Montreal, U.S.A.

Several speakers, including former Nixon attorney James St. Clair, continually referred to "this country" or "the nation" when they meant the U.S., not Canada. Mr. St. Clair used such references several times during a panel broadcast in the U.S. and on the CBC.

It was reminiscent of President Eisenhower, in a 1960 speech to the United Nations, referring to the world body as "the United States."

These unthinking remarks may not be major but they betray an American insensitivity to the feelings of millions of Canadians who are not willing to consider themselves residents of the 51st state.

Fixed Rate of Exchange Is Objective of French

By KEVIN DOYLE

WASHINGTON (CP) — United States treasury officials have begun quietly bracing for an anticipated major push by France later this year to force a return to a fixed set of exchange rates for the world's leading currencies.

In fact, some officials say they expect the issue may become an important talking point as early as the annual meeting of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) here early next month.

France still appears relatively isolated in its desire to abandon the present international system which allows currencies to fluctuate widely in response to world demand and supply. But it recently has been giving strong indications, officials here say, of getting ready to gear up its campaign.

The French motives for wanting a return to the fixed-rate system of currency values which prevailed before the early 1970s are partly self-interested, partly political and partly economic.

But it is on the economic issues that France will have to make its case if it is to have any chance of getting serious support from other countries. And while these concerns alone would fill volumes, the French are expected to concentrate largely on the one with the most popular appeal: They contend that floating rates are a major cause of world inflation.

The French argue that when a major currency—say the United States dollar—depreciates, it makes the price of imports to the U.S. higher. This means that consumers and companies are left with less to spend on domestic goods, the economy goes into a slump, the jobless rate rises and pressure on government to take action grows.

The action too often taken, the French contend, is to increase the domestic money supply by amounts so large that demand for domestic goods to substitute for expensive imports soars beyond the capacity of the economy to meet it and inflation becomes inevitable.

But a large currency depreciation under a floating system, the French contend, also has other inflationary effects. When the dollar, for example, decreases in value aganst other currencies it makes U.S. exports progressively cheaper to overseas buyers and as their demand grows, domestic producers can shove up prices without much fear of losing their foreign customers.

If the same goods are sold domestically U.S. buyers then find they, too, are facing a situation where the dollar buys less of the product than before and thus, say the French, depreciation has set in motion a series of events which raise the general level of U.S. prices and increase the pressure for higher wage awards, causing even worse inflation.

The over-all result when this happens in several big countries at the same time, French officials say, is a gradual worldwide spread of inflation.

The U.S. and many other countries, such as Canada, which favor floating rates have a compelling range of arguments to counter the French position.

From a U.S. point of view, of course, a depreciating dollar has the obvious attraction of having been largely responsible for stimulating exports and decreasing imports during the last couple of years and turning a disastrous trade deficit into near balance.

But the broader argument levelled against a return to fixed rates is that it would again lead to a constant series of monetary crises with speculators attacking weak currencies—such as the British pound—and central banks being forced into huge support operations to maintain par values.

And while floating currencies may hurt consumers somewhat by raising prices slightly, U.S. officials argue, they have also made it possible for many countries to create jobs by increasing exports and in some cases to save the export industries involved from bankruptcy.

With the huge trade deficits created in many Western countries by the quadrupling of world oil prices, these experts say, floating rates and constant adjustments have been a major factor in averting a complete breakdown in international trade and monetary systems which might have created a depression on the scale of that of the 1930s.

But officials here are the first to acknowledge that however strong they believe their position to be, the next few months are likely to see their arguments tested to the full.

Corruption and Power Cult Led to Downfall of Sheik Rahman in Bangladesh

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

The overthrow and death of Sheik Mujibur Rahman, admired and respected president of Bangladesh the nation he himself founded, points up once more the instability of the role and even life of the charismatic leader.

The initial reaction was shock that Sheik Mujib, hailed hysterically by thousands on his return to the new nation in 1971, should have died so violently.

And yet he had himself slipped so far from the role of a relatively undefiled and devoted leader who would lead a nation into stability which is the basket case of Asia, that a fellow cabinet minister took the decision to remove him.

He had permitted corruption to flourish in the world's most populous country where nearly all of its 77 millions live in poverty or at sub-starvation levels.

He has surrounded himself with members of his family in high and influential positions, thereby angering even those who had fought against Pakistan to liberate the country.

And he had created for himself a para-military force in lieu of the country's army which was the actual agent of his removal and death a few days ago.

Even in his downfall, the sheik was too powerful a figure to permit to live and it would appear he was executed and his family systematically with him, so that the charisma of the fallen but living leader would not inhibit the new efforts of his successor.

The new president of this desperate nation is Khondakkar Mushtaque Ahmed, minister of trade and commerce under the late Sheik Mujib and he has already announced his mainly civilian cabinet.

The new Bangladesh president has also proclaimed the country to be "The Islamic Republic of Bangladesh," a distinction which will escape most, since the country was overwhelmingly Moslem in any case.

But Sheik Mujibur's directions were leftwing and socialist with close ties to India who in turn has her own close ones with the U.S.S.R.

President Ahmed has a rightwing orientation which means the still-young state will line up more formally with conservative Islamic states like Pakistan from which she won independence.

But it was Pakistan which first recognized the new regime with the dead Sheik Mujibur scarcely in his grave. Such are the complexities of Asian politics and statecraft.

And now the former associate of the dead sheik inherits the mass and shambles of a country which the first president and "Father of his Country" could not resolve.

The nation in spite of massive doses of foreign aid, food and some technical assistance, remains close to destitution. Its basic crop of jute is in declining world demand, sold in any case in competition with India next door and its exports cannot balance off the country's mounting debt.

With already limited administrative resources, the new leader cannot strip himself completely of the bureaucrats who helped form the new state, only deal with them very harshly if they have been involved in corruption.

There are a small handful of Islamic states, notably Saudi-Arabia who are ruled with the iron hand of rigid puritanical Islam, and where wrong-doers are maimed or beheaded for their sins.

Bangladesh bodes ominously to become a new one of these.

Mrs. Jeffrey Has Tips For Successor as Mayor

Although she declined to comment directly on her likely successor or on how one should be chosen, Belleville Mayor Robin Jeffrey relayed some broadside tips on how a new mayor should act or what a new mayor should expect during her resignation speech at Monday's city council meeting.

Mayor Jeffrey, the Conservative candidate for Quinte riding in the upcoming provincial election, announced her resignation from the city's chief magistrate post effective this Friday.

"Patience, understanding, firmness, trust, turning the other cheek and fair play are all lessons learned by the person who assumes the office of mayor of this city," she commented.

"No wider or richer education can be obtained than through the day-to-day learning experiences one finds in the office of the chief magistrate of Belleville."

Mayor Jeffrey stated, "sacred are the duties and responsibilities of the mayor because the wearer of this chain of office, with the council, guides and directs the affairs of our city which affect the lives of every man, woman, youth and child who calls Belleville home."

She pointed out that when the city fathers have earned the trust and respect of the city's administration staff, civil employees and volunteer citizens involved in city work, the latter group "will go beyond the call of duty to use their talents, time and expertise to carry out the policies and decisions of the elected council."

"The task has not always been easy, nor did I expect it to be," Mayor Jeffrey said of her present elected position. "But each day of my office has been joyous because each day brought challenges and the opportunity to serve others."

"Members of council, there is nowhere a more important role than that of showing concern for people by serving them through elected office."

Mayor Jeffrey also philosophized, "through unity and a respect for each other and their opinions, there is strength, which is essential in making the decisions, some not easy, that we must make when one assumes a role of leadership and decision-making.

"Seamanship is not learned in calm weather."

Liberal Candidate Goes door - to - door

The Liberal party usually has to search all over for volunteers, according to Dave Hobson, Hastings-Peterborough candidate, but not this year.

"Not only are we the first party in the riding to open our committee rooms," he said, "but it looks like we are in the lead in terms of popular support."

He said he has been going door-to-door meeting voters: "We're getting a good reception."

Lillian O'Connor, past chairman of the Hastings and Price Edward Separate School Board has been named manager of the campaign headquarters in Marmora.

Farm Problems Top Priority for Thompson

DESERONTO — Hastings-Peterborough NDP candidate Bob Thompson has opened his official headquarters here this week and announced the appointment of William Kells as campaign manager.

Speaking to supporters at the headquarters, Mr. Thompson said he has sensed a special frustration with farmers in the riding. He said many farmers in the district have been alienated by the Davis government.

He suggested that with 26 acres of farmland disappearing every hour in Ontario that by the end of the century 60 per cent of Ontario's food needs will have to be imported.

Mr. Thompson promised he would fight to preserve the land being lost and that sensible housing policies would be implemented if an NDP government were elected.

Mr. Thompson said that if he was elected agriculture and the problems facing farmers would become his top priority.

Taylor Stresses Leadership Role

PICTON — Conservative incumbent James Taylor told the Prince Edward Women's Conservative Association here this week Ontario residents enjoy a high standard of living.

Mr. Taylor, who represents Prince Edward-Lennox, said "In Ontario we have 52 per cent of the total manufacturing; 82 per cent of the exports and we produce 50 per cent of the gross national product".

Comparing the average annual income of the Ontario resident with its neighboring provinces, Mr. Taylor said Ontario residents earn 25 per cent more than Quebec and 20 per cent more than people in Manitoba.

Over-all, Ontario residents earn 12 per cent more than the rest of Canada in the average annual income, Mr. Taylor said.

Since 1962, the incumbent said Ontario has received more than 1.5 million immigrants.

"We have created about 170,000 new jobs a year since 1971; and we have one of the lowest unemployment rates," he said.

Ontario leadership in combating inflation was also mentioned by Mr. Taylor.

The freeze on gas; free prescription drugs for the senior citizens; the sales tax rebate for the auto industry; were some of the examples given by Mr. Taylor of this type of leadership.

Mr. Taylor also noted the concern of the British citizens not being able to vote in the federal elections.

"How do you knock success? The government has given sound administration," said Mr. Taylor.

Mr. Taylor said among his accomplishments was the increase of beds in the hospital and in nursing homes.

"I also have a tentative commitment to improve the out patient facilities at Prince Edward Memorial Hospital," he said.

Other areas of growth Mr. Taylor noted were the growth of service industries in the Bath area; the solution of water and sewers in Napanee; and the placement of a provincial police detachment in Amherstview.

Clothing Cleaned Out

City police are investigating the theft of a quantity of clothing from Tawco Cleaning Centre and Coin Laundry at 12 West Bridge St. in Belleville Tuesday.

Deputy-Chief Harold Reid said today Kathy Tracey of 91 West Bridge St. took assorted clothing, including baby clothes, to the laundramat to have them dried.

He said she reports she put them in the dryer and returned home to gather more clothing but her clothes were missing from the dryer when she went back.

The theft of the clothes, valued at $150 occured sometime between 1-2 p.m. he said.

Mumby Gets New Post

James Mumby has been appointed vice-president of sales and operations for the Lafferty-Smith group of companies. Mr. Mumby will be in charge of sales in Montreal, Toronto, Belleville and Trenton areas as well as operation of transport trucks throughout the province. He has been involved in sales at Lafferty-Smith for the past five years.

Watch Stolen At Park

OUTLET — Provincial police report the theft of a watch valued at $100 from the park Tuesday.

The watch, described by police as gold with a leather band, black face and gold lettering on the back, is owned by Richard Bedford. No address was given.

The watch was reported taken from Mr. Bedford's car while he was on the beach, police state.

the who, what, when, why & how of election finances who regulates election finances?

The Commission on Election Contributions and Expenses is a group of people responsible to the Legislature for the supervision and enforcement of the new Election Finances Reform Act. The Act makes provision for the province to pay certain amounts towards the expenses of the candidates. You are therefore, through your taxes, taking part in every election and you should be fully informed. The Commission are the people who will keep you informed.

what are the main objectives of the new legislation?

Firstly, to limit the amount which any person, corporation, or union may contribute to any political party, and so remove the possibility that wealth may influence any government or party in its policies. Secondly, to provide for disclosure to the public of those who contribute and the amount of their contributions.

Furthermore, you may claim a tax benefit for contributions.

when can a contributor give?

A contributor can give at anytime, but is limited in the amount he or she can give. The breakdown is as follows:

In any year, any person, company, or union may contribute up to $2000 to each provincial party. They may also contribute up to $500 to any constituency association, but their total contributions to all constituency associations of the same party may not exceed $2000.

During a campaign period, that is, from the day the election is called to four months after Election Day, individuals, companies and unions are permitted to make extra contributions. They may give up to an additional $2000 to a provincial party, and they may contribute up to $500 to any candidate as long as their total contribution to all candidates of the same party does not exceed $2000.

why is there a new Election Finances Reform Act?

The new Act will limit individual contributions and will make politics more responsive and involve more people in it. By controlling the amounts that can be spent on media advertising, it will help make political contests more even across Ontario.

how does the new Act affect you? Corporations and Unions? Candidates and Parties?

The Election Finances Reform Act will bring the financing of all Ontario campaigns out into the open. You will be able to see how much each candidate received, and how much was spent. If any candidate fails to follow the regulations involved, he or she can be fined or barred from running in the next election, or even have to give up their seat in the Legislative Assembly.

The Commission will publish, in the local papers, a summary of the total amounts each candidate raised and spent. A list of names and addresses of everyone who donated more than $100 to the campaigns will be available to you at the Commission's offices.

Both individuals and corporations can claim a tax benefit that will partially offset the costs of your contribution. This will reduce the amount of Ontario tax which contributors have to pay, and is quite separate from the credits allowed for contributions to federal political parties.

The table below shows the tax credit available to individuals. REMEMBER—this is a tax credit—not just a deduction. You can deduct it from the actual Ontario tax you would have to pay, not just from your taxable income.

Total Contributions	Maximum Credit	Credit Calculations
up to $100	$ 75	75% of contribution
$101 to $550	$300	$75 plus 50% of the amount over $100
more than $550	$500*	$300 plus 33⅓% of the amount over $550

*the maximum credit of $500 is reached when total contributions in the year amount to $1150.

If your total contribution to all registered parties, constituency associations and candidates is less than $100, you can claim a tax credit of 75% of the amount contributed.

This allows you to make fund-raising contributions at a relatively small cost to yourself.

The tax benefit for corporations works somewhat differently. It permits companies to make limited deductions from the Ontario portion of their taxable income.

Remember, no individual or company can claim a tax benefit resulting from their contributions unless they produce an official receipt for the amount contributed. These receipts are supplied by the Commission to candidates and party officials.

Further information is available by writing to the Commission at 151 Bloor Street West, Toronto M2A 1A2.

Producers Defying Egg Board

TORONTO (CP) — A group of egg producers told the Ontario Egg Producers Marketing Board Wednesday they will physically resist any attempt to seize hens or eggs or cancel quotas.

The board started a two-day disciplinary hearing against 14 egg producers but about 70 other quota holders came along to give the board their message of defiance.

The conflict has arisen because Ontario producers are being required, by Sept. 1, to cut their production to 62 per cent of the quotas allocated by the board. The producers want to keep the old quotas.

Back Together

GSTAAD, Switzerland (AP) — Elizabeth Taylor and actor Richard Burton were reported travelling together "somewhere in Switzerland" today after 14 months of divorce and another reconciliation. Burton was quoted as saying they might remarry in Israel.

"They are driving around in Switzerland and are expected to be back here before going to Israel next week," said Miss Taylor's secretary at the actress's Gstaad home.

A spokesman for the couple in New York, John Springer, said Burton had told him: "This is not a trial reconciliation; it is permanent."

Strike Settled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A proposed settlement was reached early today in a strike by San Francisco police and firemen, Mayor Joseph Alioto announced.

Alioto declined to give details of the proposed agreement, reached early this morning after marathon negotiations with striking police and firemen at a downtown hotel.

Police had gone on strike Monday in a pay dispute, and firemen joined the walkout Wednesday.

Shark Dies

VANCOUVER (CP) — One of three six-gilled sharks captured Wednesday for live display at the Vancouver Public Aquarium died there later in the day.

The 10-foot male, largest of the three and weighing 400 pounds, was suffering from shark bites when captured and also was injured by the lines when it was hauled in.

The other sharks were an eight-foot female weighing 250 pounds and a 10-foot immature male weighing 350 pounds.

Control Lost

MACAO (Reuter)—Portuguese authorities have lost control in the Far East island territory of Timor and the colony now can be considered in a state of civil war, an official communique said today.

Rival political groups have been battling on the Portuguese eastern part of the island, north of Australia, since an attempted coup last week.

"The situation in Timor is very grave," the communique said. "In truth, it can be considered in an atmosphere of civil war."

Police Strike

MONTREAL (CP) — Suburban St. Hubert spent a crime-free night with 81 members of its 85-man police force out on strike, an official said today.

Three captains patrolled the streets of the South Shore community and the deputy director manned the desk.

Incoming phone calls were limited to routine problems—mostly domestic quarrels.

Millhaven Protest Scene

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP) — Prisoners in Millhaven maximum institution in nearby Bath refused to leave their cells Wednesday for the second time this month.

Stanley Scrutton, Millhaven's acting director, said the prisoners are protesting the segregation last week of five prisoners who took part in the first protest which ran from July 31 to Aug.10.

Mr. Scrutton said the 300 prisoners have refused to leave their cells except to pick up breakfast trays and eat their mid-day meal. He said there is no indication of how long the protest will continue.

Police Deny Plans To Charge Reporter

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Police Wednesday denied reports they are considering laying a charge of harboring a criminal against Frank Etherington, a Kitchener-Waterloo Record reporter.

The reporter interviewed a 20-year-old Kitchener man who escaped from the Burtch Correctional Centre near Brantford.

John Zettell, the police officer in charge of news releases, said he did not make such remarks.

"There was no thought in the world about charging anybody," he said.

Arthur Maloney, Ontario's ombudsman, has urged the escaped prisoner give himself up so Mr. Maloney can investigate the man's claim that he was sexually assaulted by other prisoners.

Mr. Maloney said in an interview in Toronto that he would guarantee that the prisoner would be "perfectly safe" if he surrenders.

The man, who asked not to be identified to save his family embarrassment, escaped Aug. 5 and is still at large. He was sentenced in Cambridge Feb. 22 to nine months in prison for breaking and entering three Kitchener homes.

In an interview with Mr. Etherington, the man also said he was beaten by inmates because prison guards ignored instructions that he be kept in protective custody.

Mr. Maloney said he is ready to listen to the escaper, but "so long as he is unlawfully at large, it's not possible for me to interview him or have anyone on my staff interview him."

Mr. Maloney said the prisoner could telephone him at his Toronto office, and "we'll see that he can surrender in circumstances that will cause him no concern."

David Cooke, the man's lawyer, said in an interview Wednesday he was telephoned by the prisoner on the day of his escape.

Mr. Cooke said he tried to convince the prisoner to return to custody, and telphoned two officials of the ministry of correctional services.

"We were negotiating what would happen when he went back," he said."We wanted nothing to happen, and that's what they basically indicated would be the case at that time."

But the escaper decided not to return, said Mr. Cooke.

You Can Live in High Rise And Still Be Sane as Anyone

OTTAWA (CP) — People who live in high-rise buildings are as mentally stable—or unstable — as neighbors in single-family homes, concludes a Toronto research study.

"We have found no evidence for the supposition that high-rise living is any worse than living in a single-family house for the mental or the physical health of these urban Canadians," says the study, prepared for the urban affairs department.

A study of East York residents in metropolitan Toronto found some differences in the way people live in apartment buildings and in single-family homes, but these differences were due more to income, education and social position.

The report was written by Toronto researchers Barry Wellman of the University of Toronto and Marilyn Whitaker of Central Mortgage and Housing Corp.

The authors drew on the results of a 1968 survey of 845 East York residents and later findings in a study of Thorncliffe Park, a planned high-rise community of about 30 buildings overlooking Toronto's Don Valley.

Some writers claim that "high-rise apartment living is conducive to feelings of alienation, loneliness, aggression, dissassociation and loss of masculinity," the report says.

But there had been very little research in depth on the link between health and life in tall buildings.

The East York survey revealed a slight tendancy for residents of single-family homes to be more authoritarian and less self-confident than apartment dwellers.

The researchers found people living in tall apartment buildings in East York more likely to have office jobs and higher incomes

Not surprisingly, there was a higher proportion of young adults in apartment buildings than in houses. About 40 per cent of the high-rise residents were under the age of 30 compared to only 14 per cent of those living in houses.

More than half of those in apartments had been there for less than two years. But only 14 per cent of house-dwellers had been there for so short a time.

The proportion of working women was higher among apartment residents than home dwellers and better educated.

"Both the apartment and single-family home dwellers in our survey are generally satisfied with their dwellings," the authors say.

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — The 3,500 workers at Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd., members of Local 598, Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers, went on strike at 8 a.m. EDT today, local president Emile Prudhomme said.

Fights Pipeline

Jerry Paschen, a 37-year-old Edmonton carpenter, displays some of the press coverage he has received since beginning a lone campaign against the $7-billion Mackenzie Valley pipeline proposal. Mr. Paschen became acquainted with the north during a boat trip to Inuvik, NWT, and has since accumulated over a ton of material on the pipeline. He has been called "the embodiment of democracy in motion" for his single-handed attempts to halt the giant project. (CP Photo)

Scrawny David Fights Oil Pipeline Goliath

EDMONTON (CP) — Jerry Paschen calls himself "a scrawny David fighting a mammoth Goliath."

The Goliath is the $7-billion Mackenzie Valley pipeline proposal, and the unlikely David is a 37-year-old German-born electrician.

Mr. Paschen, who single-handedly launched a campaign against the 2,625-mile line proposed by Canadian Arctic Gas Study Ltd. (CAGSL), has been called everything from a naive dreamer and a crackpot to "the embodiment of democracy in motion."

"But I'm just an ordinary guy who couldn't know what was happening without making any effort to stop it," he says.

A native of West Berlin, Mr. Paschen has criss-crossed Western Canada telling audiences why he is against the Mackenzie pipeline. He has appeared before National Energy Board (NEB) hearings five times in Quebec, Toronto, Calgary, Vancouver and Ottawa, each time to protest plans for Northern development.

The Edmonton electrician said that at first he was "harassed and belittled" when he appeared at his own expense as an independent witness before the board.

But at the end of the Vancouver hearings in January, one board member called him "the authority on authorities," and in Ottawa he was invited as a house guest to the board chairman's home.

The stocky crusader, who has accumulated more than a ton of reading material on the pipeline, first decided to make a trip north with his wife and three children after the federal government proposed a natural gas pipeline in 1972.

"We had a skiff built by some native people at Fort Chipewyan and we travelled the entire Mackenzie River from Fort McMurray all the way to Inuvik."

"That way we got a pretty good first view of what the North was like, and had an opportunity to talk to the native people."

The trip convinced Mr. Paschen that native rights weren't being protected in the Northwest Territories because the territories lacked provincial status. It also convinced him that any development in the North "should look 50 years into the future."

Then, when the 23-member CAGSL consortium made application in March, 1974, for the pipeline to carry natural gas from Alaska's Prudhoe Bay and the Mackenzie Delta, the electrician swung into action.

He hastily organized a public meeting at the University of Alberta to discuss the issue, and collected 800 signatures for a group dedicated to saving the North. Called Canadians For Responsible Northern Development (CRND), the group now has 1,000 members across Canada.

Next, the electrician set about examining the CAGSL proposal.

"On two pages alone, I spied 10 distortions. The company must have thought no one would have the endurance to go through the 100-pound document."

Armed with reports, applications and background, he began journeying to lectures and hearings, last year spending $3,000 of his $14,000 gross income on pipeline-related expenses.

Credited by some NEB members as "knowing more about resources than anyone else," Mr. Paschen said in an interview Canada can't afford to borrow the necessary $7 billion to build the pipeline and can't afford to let the Americans pay for it because it would mean losing control of the resource.

He also said that if the pipeline were completed in five years, the Canadian market would be flooded with gas and oil and the excess would be exported to other countries.

"We'll be setting ourselves up for a shortage of catastrophic proportions in the 1980s," Mr. Paschen said.

"Besides the ecological devastation, and the equally devastating impact of outside influences on the native population, there is the ugly truth that Canada will have peddled off a vital resource for a quick profit."

The environmentalist, who has appeared before the NEB in wool sweaters and an Indian beaded jacket, said a freeze should be clamped on all Delta development until a way can be found to exploit the gas fields with minimal environmental and sociological ruin.

He wants a 10-year moratorium to give Canadians time to learn about the project, which would be the largest ever tackled by the Canadian construction industry.

Mr. Paschen, who stays at youth hostels and the YMCA to reduce travel expense, said it takes "a lot of will-power" to confront the NEB.

However, he said, he is conscious of the support of other Canadians who are apt "to leave it up to Joe and feel they can't do much about it."

Mr. Paschen is a director of the CRND and a member of the Committee for an Independent Canada. He also works closely with the Northern Assessment Group, Pollution Probe and the Canadian Nature Federation.

Papers Played Vital Role In War for Independence

WASHINGTON (AP) — Newspapers often flourish during wars, but they didn't in the American Revolution. On the other hand, the revolution likely wouldn't have flourished without them.

It was the skimpy newspapers of the time—hardly worthy of the name by today's standards—which carried to the people the inflammatory words of such men as Thomas Paine, Samuel and John Adams, James Otis, Joseph Warren and John Hancock.

Newspaper publishers were in the forefront of the campaign for independence. Their ire was aroused particularly by the Stamp Act of 1765, which in effect increased their costs by 50 per cent by requiring that each sheet be stamped with the official seal.

Many newssheets were published illegally on unstamped paper. Several suspended publication in protest. Others printed symbols of death: skulls and crossbones, tombstones, thick black outlines. Within a year, Parliament repealed the act.

One victory celebration in Hartford, Conn., was more violent than the protest rallies, claiming the lives of six men and injuring more than a score.

Publick Occurrences Both Foreign and Domestick is often called the first colonial newspaper. Published in Boston on Sept. 25, 1690, by an exiled English printer named Benjamin Harris, it was suppressed immediately because it "contained reflections of a very high nature." Moreover, it was unlicensed as the governor required.

Printing equipment and paper were scarce in the 17th century, so it was relatively easy to stop publication of newspapers.

The first printing press in English America was installed at Cambridge, Mass., in 1638, but it was not until shortly before the revolution that presses were manufactured in this country. Replacement parts were hard to get, and type was frequently badly worn.

Most paper was imported, and even during the revolution it was scarce and difficult to come by.

The weekly Boston News-Letter, established in 1704 by the local postmaster, John Campbell, was the real beginning of the American press. It lasted until 1776. By 1736 every colony except New Jersey and Delaware had at least one weekly paper.

The typical sheet consisted of four small pages of fine print three or four columns wide, without headlines or pictures. The publisher clipped most of his news from other papers, including the British press which meant a time lapse of six weeks or more.

Printing was a laborious process, and as late as 1770 the average subscription list was around 600. But readership was heavy, since copies were passed from hand to hand.

Harassment of the printers continued. John Peter Zenger's case is the most celebrated. He printed repeated attacks on colonial governor William Cosby in his Weekly Journal, was accused of libel and jailed in 1734. A jury acquitted him after long deliberation, helping establish the right of newspapers to criticize the government.

ALL IN THE FAMILY/by Isabel Huggan

Garden Shrivels, We Keep Smiling

"Everything works out for the best," was the constant catchphrase of my old and optimistic granny. Well, she sure hit the nail on the head as far as this summer is concerned.

Like many of you, I live outside the reach of the Belleville city water supply. And our place came equipped with a badly-chosen and hastily-dug well. Whoever divined our particular dry gulch must have suffered from St. Vitus dance or had just cleaned out the tractor's crankcase before grabbing his witching stick.

Anyway, we just don't have water with which to feed the quarter-acre sponge we call a vegetable garden. And you know what kind of a long, hot summer this has been.

Gardeners, of course, thrive on bad weather, bugs and blight. You'd think, sometimes, the only reason they till and reap and sow is to garner a ripe collection of depressing stories with which to entertain dinner guests throughout the long, depressing winter nights.

But honestly, there's nothing to complain about this summer. The drought has almost been a blessing in disguise.

Sure, the corn has been affected by the lack of moisture. But we're delighted! These one-inch cobs are a lot easier to pick than the usual nine-inchers. Easier to eat too — you can manage them with one hand!

So the peas dried out in their pods. So what! If they hadn't, what would we have used in our peashooters to fire at the blackbirds making off with the corn, one under each wing?

And we wouldn't dream of complaining about the carrots. Why, the search for nourishment has made them grow bigger than ever before. We pulled one out this week that was all of three feet long!

The fact that it was also one-eighth of an inch thick certainly didn't deter our joy. My husband very smartly cut it in two and used it to replace the laces in his old red sneakers.

Then there's the sunflowers . . . six inches tall and three inches wide. We took a photo of ours and sent it in to Ripley's Believe It Or Not. I'm going for a new record: the first person to tastefully arrange one dozen sunflowers in a bud vase.

And a few months from now those wax beans are going to be a godsend. This is the earliest we've ever had our kindling all stacked and ready for the winter.

The potatoes are small, but that saves a lot of effort. You can eat them just like peas, let them run off your fork right into your mouth.

And the neighbors' kids love them. They've got a whole pile all varnished and ready for the marble season when school starts in September.

It was one of these kids who came round and asked if he could have some of the hard, brown beets we raised this year. We gladly pressed 2½ bushels on the youth, only to discover later we could have made some money off them. He's been selling them to the local scrub baseball league for a nickel apiece!

As for the effect of this summer on the lawn, it's been great. Haven't had to cut it for weeks, and that's a treat you can't beat.

Even the fact that the well went completely dry this week is really no trouble. Who needs baths and drinking water anyway? We've laid in a large supply of roll-on deodorant, and finally have an excuse to start in on that dandelion wine we made this spring.

Cheers!

Johnston—Smith

St. Margaret's-on-the-Hill Anglican Church was the setting for the marriage of Cheryl Ruth Marie Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Smith, and Lyle Thomas Johnston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Johnston, and grandson of Truman Ferguson of Consecon.

Rev. Peter Tett conducted the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white satin princess-style gown with an empire waist, scoop neckline and stand-up collar. The bodice and full sleeves were the same lace as the train that fell from a large bow at the waist, and bride's waist-length veil was attached to an Elizabethan cloche of daisy lace. She carried red roses tied with streamers made from her mother's lace bridal veil.

Debbie Smith, the bride's sister, was maid of honor in a white and blue floral crepe gown with short butterfly sleeves, scoop neckline, high waist and full skirt with a flounce at the hem. She wore a large-brimmed hat and carried a nosegay of daisies.

Bridesmaids were Jacqueline Zaffino, the bride's sister, Trudy Ferguson, the groom's sister, and Marla Hayes. The attendants wore costumes similar to the maid of honor but in white and r[illegible] floral design.

Eric Fransky was the groom's best man, assisted by ushers Alex Faseruk, Brian Hart, and Danny Smith, the bride's brother.

A dance and buffet dinner in the Knight's of Columbus Hall followed the service.

After a trip through northern Ontario, the bride and groom have settled in Kingston.

Wedding Feast Stolen

LONDON (CP) — The wedding guests enjoyed a slap-up reception after Joseph Lejneiks got married. But at Kingston Crown court recently, Lejneiks and a friend admitted stealing the entire spread of ducks, turkeys and liquor, on three shoplifting expeditions on the morning of the wedding. Lejneiks, 19, was jailed for a year.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Whitney

Whitney—Wilkinson

Roberta Jane Wilkinson and Allan Wayne Whitney were united in marriage by Rev. John Uttley in Christ Anglican Church in July.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilkinson, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Whitney.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a princess-style gown flocked sheer over taffeta with a high flower-petal collar. The long sheer sleeves were trimmed with daisy lace matching the bodice, the hem and the attached train. The elbow-length veil, also trimmed with daisy lace, fell from a headpiece of petals and satin. Her bouquet was a cascade of gold roses and white carnations.

The bride's sister, Elizabeth Gravonic, was matron of honor in a green floral princess-style gown with short flared sleeves and a stand-up collar. She wore a white picture hat trimmed with long green streamers, and carried a basket of gold roses and white carnations.

The bridesmaids were Nancy Reid, the bride's sister, and Nancy Weatherstone, who wore yellow gowns identical to the matron of honor's, and who carried identical bouquets.

The groom's brother Darryl Whitney was ring bearer, and his best man was John Douglas. Ushers were the groom's brother-in-law Robert Kiser and the bride's brother Jimmy Wilkinson.

A dinner at the Elk's Lodge was followed by a dance after the wedding service.

After a honeymoon in Florida, the newly-married couple settled in their new home at 10 Ritchie Avenue.

KATE SMITH SINGS

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — Since 1939, when Kate Smith recorded God Bless America, each cave tour at Meramec Caverns here is concluded by the playing of that song. Lester Dill, cave owner, says it has been played 200,000 times.

Citizenship Topic for Quinte WI

The August meeting of the Quinte Women's Institute in the Memorial Hall opened with a poem read by President Helen McLaren.

Citizenship convener Flossie Henderson was in charge of the meeting, assisted by Vera Reid who read the motto "Do Canadians set the example of good neighboring?"

Mrs. Henderson introduced guest speaker Harold Speck, Canadian immigration official in Belleville. He explained the current immigration laws and the changes that have occurred through the years, since the first immigration policy came into effect in 1869.

He noted that in 1885, only white settlers could come into Canada, an inequality that was finally abolished in 1967. There is now nothing in the immigration act that requires a statement of racial origin.

The roll call was answered by members naming a country and a special skill or craft of its people.

School Board May Study Impact of Media Violence

The Hastings-Prince Edward Separate School Board may contribute to the current royal commission looking into the impact of violence in the media.

Tuesday night the board received a letter from the commission outlining its purpose and goals. The commission, headed by Judy LaMarsh, is actively seeking submission and opinions throughout the country.

Board Chairman Austin Scott said the trustees would study the literature and return to the next meeting with some opinions of the subject. It is not known whether the board will make a formal submission to the commission.

Dig for Survival

PEKING (Reuter) — Pupils at Peking's Numbr 35 grammar school decided they should prepare underground classrooms "in case of attack by the social imperialists"—the Russians. So far they have been at work—30 yards under a playground off the city's Main Avenue of Eternal Peace—for one year. Eventually their classrooms will connect with Peking's nuclear-bomb-shelter system.

Ambassador Shirley Temple Black Deeply Involved in Ghana's Future

By BRIAN JEFFRIES

ACCRA, Ghana (AP) — Ambassador Shirley Temple Black from the United States was talking about Operation Feed Yourself, Ghana's program to become self-sufficient.

"Ghana needs better roads to get the food down from the north to Accra and freezer cars to get the abundance of fish in the sea back up north to provide fresh protein," she said. "The railroad is 50 years old. It was built to bring gold and cocoa shipments from the north. I don't know how much longer it can last. It's a major problem for them."

The program was launched by Lt. Col. Ignatius Acheampong, who heads Ghana's military government. Economic experts here say that while more food is being produced now in Ghana, much of it isn't getting to markets where it is needed.

Mrs. Black, former child movie star, wife and mother, businessman and diplomat, is deeply involved in the job she took over here about seven months ago, and Operation Feed Yourself is a big concern.

Being an ambassador, she explained in an interview, is not as romantic as some people may imagine.

"I wouldn't say it is a glamorous job. But it is an extremely interesting and exciting one. And for me this particular time in black Africa is one of the most exciting periods in its whole history. It is all developing so quickly and so many changes have occurred in the past five years," she said.

As ambassador, Mrs. Black has to explain American policies to Ghanaians, many of whom are suspicious of U.S. intentions in this part of the world. At a time when black African states are increasing their efforts to remove the last strongholds of white minority rule, many Africans express concern about U.S. attitudes towards South Africa and Rhodesia.

Others express belief the United States is only willing to uphold its own interests by interfering in the internal affairs of fAfrican states.

"The Ghanaians know my feelings," Mrs. Black said. "I am strongly opposed to apartheid (South Africa's race separation policy.) It is probably one of the reasons I was sent here. . . .

"A peaceful solution is what everyone is praying for. From the Ghanaian standpoint I find they are much more understanding of our recent policies than perhaps they were in the past."

Mrs. Black said her interest in Africa arises from the months she spent at the United Nations as a U.S. representative to the General Assembly in 1969-70.

"I developed a distinct feeling that the U.S. and other major countries were not paying enough attention to either Africa or Latin America. These two areas needed a lot more co-operation, understanding and aid. If developing countries like Ghana can become self-sufficient and self-sustaining it will be good for all countries of the world," she added.

Some of the more rousing receptions Mrs. Black says she has had since her arrival in Ghana have been from women, especially market traders. She says to a great extent they share an identity of views.

"The Ghanaian women have a freedom they have always had," she says. "They believe very strongly, as I do, in marriage and that if you are blessed with children this is probably the most important work a woman can do— be a good wife and mother.

"But the Ghanaian women are also used to working on their own and independently. They have liberation in a way that some other countries are still trying to develop."

LIFE AFTER MARRIAGE: DIVORCE AS A NEW BEGINNING

by Mary Ann Singleton

"When my marriage ended ten years ago, I could see no future, and I wasn't sure I wanted one. I was wrong . . . Now I value joy and how could I have foreseen its many shapes?"

Mary Ann Singleton wrote this book to show other divorced women who have gone through a destructive and painful period in their lives that sometimes a seeming disaster can be converted into an opportunity for personal growth.

Life After Marriage deals with the practical issues of adjustment: shortcuts to making a living in what is still a man's world; new approaches to housework, dealing with the children in a single parent home, even tips on the financial aspect. Besides the "home front" there are chapters on "The Man in Your Life," "Moving in Together," and "Step Out of Your Everyday World." She contends that nothing will get you out of your rut more efficiently than travel. Even with the energy crisis, one can use public transportation or join forces with others.

In her postlude she attests to the fact that "we all have problems, sometimes disasters, and having a husband, talent, money, or luck is not going to change that basic fact. There are no easy answers. But married or single, the central question remains the same: How can I best live my life? Keep working at it — that's the great thing. That's even herosim."

This book is available in the Corby Public Library.

Down on Era

PARIS (CP) — The days of the throwaway society could be numbered if a bill being drawn up by the French government becomes law. The bill is aimed at a return to the "good old days" when goods could be repaired instead of having to be thrown away. Manufacturers would have to produce spare parts, give servicing and supply long-term guarantees. There would be a special tax on firms which continued to make poorly-made articles.

Toys and Tough Talk For Visiting Monsters

Dear Ann Landers: In answer to "Upstate, N.Y.," here is my solution to the ever-growing problem for the older generation who taught their children respect for other people and their homes—but unfortunately THOSE children didn't teach THEIR children.

When the "monsters" enter, I bring out a large box of toys and games. I place them in the middle of the floor and say, "I'm sure you will find something here to play with while we older folks visit." Usually they are delighted because sitting around listening to old people talk can be very boring.

If a child refuses to play with the toys and insists on making a nuisance of himself, I say, "You have your toys, now just play with them or go to the kitchen and sit in a chair until we have finished visiting."

To the parents I say, "I'm sorry, but my home is my castle and if you refuse to correct your children, then I must."

It's surprising how many parents thank me—and even more surprising how many children settle down and enjoy themselves. When they return they behave beautifully because they know I will not tolerote poor behavior.—Upstate Supporter.

Dear Up Sup: You've said in a different way what I have said so often. Discipline is a special kind of love. Children need and WANT it. Too many older people, especially grandparents, are afraid to get tough for fear the grandchildren won't like them. Nonsense. No child wants to be allowed to run wild.

Dear Ann: Our 17-month-old nephew seems to be developing a tendency toward being left-handed. The child's mother is hell-bent on training him to use his right hand. She cites all the examples of the inconveniences left-handers are faced with throughout life. (I didn't realize there were so many.)

It seems I read somewhere that a child who is naturally left-handed should be let alone. Please check this out and let me know.—Uplight In K.C.

Dear Up: Every child specialist with whom I checked said it is unwise to try to "train" a left-handed child to use his right hand. The inconvenience is a trifle, compared with the damage that might result.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother's birthday is Aug. 21. She would be thrilled to see this in your column. It's something I heard on Eddie Cantor's radio show 30 years ago, sent away for and presented to her on Mother's Day back in 1935.

"If you were to put an ad in the paper that read something like this—who would apply?

"Woman wanted who will cook all hours of the day and be willing to stay up all night with a sick child. Must be able to wash, iron, remake hand-me-downs, turn leftovers into gourmet dishes, get along with relatives, neighbors, teachers, and stand between you and your old man's leather strap.

"There is no salary for this position, no vacations or chance of promotion.

"No woman in her right mind would apply for the job but your own dear mother." Sign me—Appreciate You, Mom

Dear Reader: How right you are! But millions of mothers ARE filling these jobs and to all of them I say, "God bless—and have a wonderful day!"

Plastic Is Perfect

We usually associate objects made of plastic with cheapness. It's not always so though, in fact many eye glass lenses today are made of plastic. This isn't because it's a cheap way to manufacture, but because plastic lenses are optically superior to glass lenses. Plastic lenses are less dense than glass and will in fact weigh only about a quarter of the weight of glass. Most discomfort from wearing glasses is caused by the weight of the lenses. Plastic can also be formed into bifocals. And for the fashion conscious, you want so that your glasses become a fashion accessory. you want so that your glases become a fashion accessory. Visit Trenton Optical today at 54 Bridge St. E., and find out more about the wonders of plastic lenses.

Help The Disabled

We have all heard of the dreaded disease Muscular Dystrophy. Fortunate are the people whose family and friends are spared this crippling disease. Each year Jerry Lewis puts on a marathon program on TV to enlist the support of Americans and Canadians alike in fighting the crippler. The TV special this year will be on at the end of August and all watchers will be asked to pledge money to go towards research and medications. The program will be on Channel 7 and while it is on, local phone numbers will be given so that you can make your pledge. The pledge reception centre will be provided by the Four Season Hotel who will also provide refreshments for the volunteer workers. The Four Seasons Hotel has done their part, now it's your turn to help fight Muscular Dystrophy.

Gibbs Offer One More Week

There has been such a tremendous response to the vacuum cleaner and sewing machine special, featured by Gibbs and Son Vacuum Specialists, that they feel they should continue it for one week in case there are some who weren't able to take advantage of it at the time. So, for one more week you will be able to have your sewing machine or vacuum cleaner thoroughly checked over and overhauled. While the special is on the cost will be $6.95, however parts replacement will be extra. And remember there is free pick-up and delivery in the Belleville area. Now is the time to act before it's too late. Phone Gibbs and Son at 968-5384 or deliver your machine to 37 Albion St. Won't it be grand to have your vacuum or sewing machine working like new again?

Various Cleaning Services

You probably don't realize all the ways that ServiceMaster can be of service to you. They will do housewide cleaning which includes wall, floors and ceilings. Or you can have them come in just to clean walls and ceilings or just to do your floors. They will even do that hated job of window cleaning. And speaking of windows, it can be arranged to have your venetian blinds cleaned. Now isn't that a boon! They will be course clean your furniture and carpets either in your home or in their factory and they also have a stain removal process for rugs and furniture. Should you be the unhappy victim of fire or flord damage, they will also arrange to clean up for you. Call 967-1672 to inquire about making use of their services.

Good Buys On Economy Imports

Vaders' Car Sales, 21 College St. W., have a good selection of used economy import cars on their lot right now. They have all been checked over and are ready for the road. They are mostly late model imports — 1971 models and newer. A great number of them are Datsuns and their owners have been so pleased with the performance of the Datsun that they have been traded in for a new model. You will find something for most every need including a couple of station wagons and some sportier 240Z and 260Z models. So if you're driving a big gas gulping monster, trade it in on a fuel saving economy car. However if you're looking for a new car, Vader's also have a good selection of all models of Datsun in stock.

Variety In Electrical Fixtures

Ruddy Electric Consumer Division want everyone to know that their electric light fixture department is a retail outlet and the public are most welcome. They have a good selection of ceiling fixtures in stock and new models come in frequently. For the dining room they have lovely crystal chandeliers in various designs that are made by a top line manufacturer. However, besides ceiling fixtures, they have a good display of outdoor lighting fixtures. You can also buy door chimes. Should you be looking for a large appliance, they carry a complete line by Moffat. And here's a surprise, should you be considering installing a sauna, stop in at 291 Coleman St. and find out about the purchase of a complete sauna kit.

Save On Furnace Maintenance

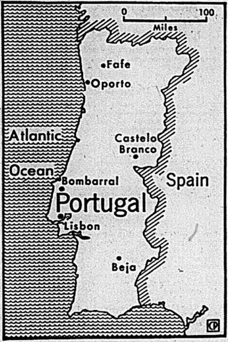
There are many expenses when you own your own home. These can range anywhere from burst water pipes to your furnace breaking down on the coldest day of winter. I know what it's like to wake up shivering on a Sunday morning and have to huddle around the oven until the repairman comes. You say that can't happen to you because your furnace is only a couple of years old? Well as a matter of fact our furnace was only a couple of years old but sometimes there's a weakness even in a new furnace and a part breaks down when you least expect it. This can happen to any furnace but you'll save yourself a lot of costly repairs bills if you own a Parts Replacement Plan from Moira-Schuster Fuels. It's really worth considering, so call them today at 962-4504 for helpful information.

Quality Furniture By Franklin

Wray's Home Furnishers, 306 Front St., would like you to be aware of a special line of chesterfields and chairs that they have on display right now. There are quality sofas by Franklin, a prominent name in furniture manufacturing for many years. These pieces of furniture have been created by skilled craftsmen. They come in about ten different styles, are classically designed and ultimately comfortable. Wray's own skilled staff will help you choose a design to suit your needs and a fabric that will blend in beautifully with the rest of your decor. And while you're at Wray's admiring these lovely sofas and chairs, don't forget to check on the great carpeting buys available to you until their August carpeting sale is over.

Summer Dining Excellence

Prince Edward County is such a lovely place to go for a weekend of camping or a day of fun in the sun at some of their grand beaches. One thing is usually certain though, that after a day or two out-of-doors the whole family is pretty tired. This includes Mother too of course. When you pack up to come home on Sunday, plan to stop and have a leisurely dinner at the Inn on the Bay Tavern in Picton. This will be a real treat for the whole family especially for Mother when she doesn't have to go home to a hot kitchen and start preparing an evening meal. You'll find this is a delightful way to end an already happy weekend. After enjoying a delicious meal it will be a relaxing drive home.



Portugal Tense

Anti - Communist rioting continues in northern Portugal following Vasco Goncalves announcement of the formation of a new government. The new cabinet replaces the coalition government that collapsed a month ago when the Socialists and centre-left Popular Democrats (PPD) resigned. Demonstrations in the northern towns of Fafe, Oporto and Bombarral coincided with a growing feeling inside the armed forces movement that the tide of sentiment was turning against the Communist Party (CP Newsmap)

Israel Is Finding Immigrants Few

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Fears of war, recession and Arab guerrilla attacks have severely reduced immigration to Israel. So few American Jews are moving here that the Jewish Agency is closing three immigration centres in the United States.

Immigration, which Israel considers vital, has been falling since the October, 1973, Arab-Israeli war—from 56,000 in 1972 to 32,000 last year, official figures show—and only 6,000 Jews of various nationalities have moved to the Jewish state in the first five months of this year.

"Many people are afraid to come because they fear for their security, and because of Israel's economic problems and its quality of life," said Uzi Narkiss, a retired army general who heads the Jewish Agency's immigration department.

At the same time, more and more Israelis, fed up with inflation, high taxes, low salaries and frequent military service, are leaving Israel to look for higher living standards abroad.

Israel's living standards, which are comfortable but don't compare with conditions in the U.S. consumer society, also discourage Americans from packing up and moving to the Jewish homeland as they did at the rate of 7,000 a year in the heady times that followed the 1967 Middle East war.

The number of Russian Jews settling in Israel has also dropped sharply.

According to figures from the agency and the Israeli government, about one Soviet Jew in three who gets an exit permit turns his back on Israel and goes instead to some other country. Israelis call these Jews "fallout."

It is difficult to find an Israeli, even a onetime immigrant, who will admit that he or she is leaving Israel. Quitting the country is regarded as a social disgrace—even the Hebrew word for emigration is "descent"—and most Israelis who put their furniture up for sale claim they are going abroad only for a year or two.

A recent report to Parliament, however, said that 20,000 citizens emigrated last year, almost double the 10,000 or 11,000 "descenders" of previous years. A recent poll showed that more than one Israeli in 20 questioned was considering leaving the country.

NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — The body of dancer John Kriza, who had been a member of the American Ballet Theatre and had appeared in Broadway productions, has been recovered from the Gulf of Mexico. Police say he apparently drowned.

The body was found Monday afternoon. He had been visiting relatives.

Kriza, 56, of Wheaton, Ill., was a member of the Chicago Civic Opera Ballet 1939-40 and joined the American Ballet Theatre in 1940. He was known for creating original roles in Billy the Kid, Fancy Free, Interplay, Fall River Legend and Winter's Eve.

On Broadway, his appearances included the Folies Bergeres in 1940, Panama Hattie in 1941 and Concert Varieties in 1944.

LUCERNE, Switzerland (AP) — Czech playwright Pavel Kohout is in the West for the first time in six years under an exit permit which apparently was issued as a result of the Helsinki conference on improving East-West relations.

"I believe this will happen more often in the future and not only to me," Kohout said after attending the premiere Monday night of his newest play, Roulette, at the International Lucerne Music Festival.

The playwright said the Czechoslovak government granted him and his wife three-week visas "without delay."

Kohout, one of the leaders of the Marxist intellectuals in the unsuccessful 1968 Prague Spring reform movement, said he intends to return to Czechoslovakia. "I have my barber there and a site for my grave which already has been paid for."

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — James Clell Summey, a 30-year veteran of country music's Grand Ole Opry who was known for the song On Top of Old Smokey, died Monday at the age of 61.

Summey, better known by his stage name Cousin Jody, died at his home here after a lengthy illness.

Summey joined the Opry, a live radio program, in 1938 and became a steel guitar sideman playing with country music figures such as Roy Acuff, Eddy Arnold, Lonzo and Oscar and Pee Wee King.

MACON, Ga. (AP) — Gregg Allman, leader of the Allman Brothers Band, has a hairline fracture of the right wrist, Capricorn Records reported Tuesday.

"This will not affect his touring plans in any way," said a spokesman for Capricorn, which puts out the rock group's records.

The injury was suffered in a motorcycle accident last weekend.

No Buses

MONTREAL (CP) — Commuters were left to their own resources for the third time in less than a month when bus and subway drivers walked off the job Wednesday for an indefinite period to back contract demands.

There's a Limit

NEW YORK (AP) — First Lady Betty Ford says the White House tradition of separate bedrooms "is just too far to go for politics" and she sleeps with her husband "as often as possible."

Mrs. Ford is quoted in the September issue of McCall's magazine as saying she got letters "from all across the country" after she was reported to have spurned the White House pracitce of separate sleeping chambers.

Many of the writers seemed to "feel it is very immoral for us to be using the same bedroom," Mrs. Ford said. She complained that apparently some Americans think a man who becomes president is "supposed to become a eunuch."

Vandal Strikes Legion

City police are investigating an act of vandalism in the men's washroom near the ground floor lounge of Royal Canadian Legion Branch No. 99 at 132 Pinnacle St. in Belleville late Wednesday.

Chief Douglas Crosbie said today about $900 damage was done when two tiles were torn off the ceiling and ripped up, a wall urinal was pulled from its base and pipes were ripped from the walls.

He said the incident which occurred at 11.45 p.m. was reported at 12.17 a.m. today. He said it is unknown which patron caused the damage.

Aldermen Favor Appointing Mayor

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Belleville's next mayor will be either alderman Ben Corke, Paul Russell or Jean Smith and city council will favor selection by appointment from its own ranks to fill the mayor's post by an 8-2 count.

Those are the results of an Intelligencer survey of the 10 city aldermen conducted this week in the wake of Mayor Robin Jeffrey's resignation speech Monday.

Mayor Jeffrey said she will resign Friday to devote more time to her campaign as Conservative candidate in Quinte riding for the Sept. 18 provincial election.

Council will meet Monday at 4 p.m. in city hall's council chambers to formally decide on the selection process for the next chief magistrate who will serve the last 1½ years of the current two-year term.

And if the results of the survey are any indication, council will choose by appointment one of its own as a new mayor that day.

Under the municipal act, a city council must decide on a mayoralty replacement by either calling an election or by appointing one of its own members.

Those seeking the mayor's post:

Corke — "I'm prepared to accept appointment or run in an election and run again in 1976."

Russell — "I think I can do the job. I've got the experience . . . about eight years as an alderman. You reach the point where you continue what you're doing, get out or move up."

Smith — "I will seek it by appointment."

Those not seeking the mayor's post:

Joe Cox — "It should be someone who is independant in his own business, or independantly wealthy. It's difficult to devote full-time to the mayor's job."

Wally Dever — "I don't have the experience for one thing. I wouldn't have the time."

Jack Ireland — "The mayor is also a full-time job and I have a very busy business."

Art Keegan — "I don't intend to run in September, 1976. I will be retiring after 32 years. That would leave the coast clear for anyone. Whoever gets it, there'll be no hard feelings."

Brian Knudsen — "I don't feel I have the experience and at the present moment, I don't feel I'd be able to devote sufficient time."

Stu Meeks — "I already have that much to do that I feel I could not take on any more work."

George Zegouras — "I feel I want to get some more experience. I'd like to have another term on council, at least the remaining term."

Those in favor of appointment:

Corke — "My information is it is possible to elect a mayor and one alderman at one time. I'm concerned that if there is an election, there will be as much as a nine-week delay in the usual running of the city hall."

Cox — "My reason is the dollars involved. We're trying to control our spending and this is one area where we can save $12,000-$13,000."

Dever — "The councillors and the mayor were elected to a two-year term to run this city. There's competent men and women on council who can serve as mayor. It's going to save the taxpayers money."

Ireland — "For an election, councillors would have to submit their resignations to get their names in. Where would you fill four seats on council? The average people don't seem to have an idea of what is involved."

Keegan — "I favor appointment. If there is a deadlock after the balloting, then it should go to the people. You could get a deadlock with 10 people voting."

Knudsen — "This way it can be quickly expedited under the municipal act. I feel there are good candidates sitting on council already."

Smith — "We have a city manager form of government. Council sets the policies and the city manager does the administration. Our 1975 budget has already been set. There are problems but they're not many. And half of 1976 is an election year. An appointed mayor can do the job."

Zegouras — "An alderman will be mayor anyway so why go through the aggravation (of an election). There's no point in an election unless someone else in the community comes forward. Council was elected in good faith so we should be able to make the decision."

Those in favor of election:

Meeks — "I don't think, with a year and a half to go in this term, that council should take a prerogative for something as important as that seat. I think some of them are afraid to go to the public. There may be someone more qualified to run as mayor. The mayor should be the choice of the people."

Russell — "I think there should be an election due to the length of the term to go and the fact there was no mayoralty election last December."

Lethal Sticks Banned

By CLIFF KENYON

Belleville boys will have to give up their nunchakus unless they want to be charged under the criminal code and Kenzo Dozono, a city martial arts instructor said it is a decision that had to be made.

Justice minister Otto Lang announced Monday that the nunchaku and three other weapons normally associated with oriental martial arts will be added Sept. 8 to the list of prohibited weapons in Canada.

"I think it is a good decision to prohibit it, it's good for the youngsters," said Mr. Dozono, instructor at the Belleville Martial Art Karate Dojo.

It was reported in The Intelligencer in late June that at least five Belleville boys, all 13 and 14 years-of-age, had made their own nunchakus and were practising with them by smashing apples.

The potentially lethal weapon consists of two cylindrical sticks connected to each other at the ends by a flexible material.

The nunchaku can be used in a swinging action to strike an opponent, in a hitting action, or can be used to hold and crush a limb.

Mr. Dozono, who has acquired a nunchaku from the Orient, said home-made replicas are more dangerous than the real thing which uses a chain to join the two sticks. Replicas often use rawhide or rope. If the connecting material breaks one of the sticks can fly off, injuring the user or anyone nearby.

"When a person does not have the proper training they might break their nose or hit themself in the eye," said Mr. Dozono, a member of the National Karate Association.

He does not teach the use of the nunchaku at his school because the statements do not have the maturity or disipline to master the weapon.

The shuriken, a plate with three or more radiating points, designed to be thrown, is also joining the list of prohibited weapons. Others include the spike, a ring with blades or other sharp objects projecting and the manrikigusari, a length of rope, cord, wire or chain fastened at each end to a handgrip and normally used in a twirling swinging action.

Most of the weapons were designed by Oriental farmers and peasants hundreds of years ago when they were not allowed to have other more conventional weapons.

After Sept. 8 it will be an offence to buy, sell, barter, give, lend, transfer or deliver a nunchaku.

No one is permitted to possess a restricted weapon without a registration certificate issued by the commissioner of the RCMP.

It is also an offence to find a prohibited weapon and not deliver it to the police, or to be an occupant in a motor vehicle carrying a prohibited weapon.

A person found guilty of any of these offences is liable to imprisonment for up to five years.

Nunchaku Prohibited

Kenzo Dozono of Belleville Martial Arts Karate Dojo said this week's federal government decision to prohibit unregistered martial arts weapons is a good move. The Intelligencer recently reported that Belleville boys were practising with home-made Nunchakus. They're more dangerous than the real thing, said Mr. Dozono.

Arson Ruled Out In Colborne St. Fire

Fire officials have ruled out arson in connection with a blaze early Wednesday which destroyed a house owned by George Stoliker at 31 Colborne St. in Belleville, says Fire Chief Leo Culhane.

Chief Culhane said today Paul McKerracher of the Ontario Fire Marshal's Office is investigating. Both Mr. McKerracher and the department's own inspector, Paul Stephenson, visited the site Wednesday.

Chief Culhane said the fire apparently started in a rear addition to the two-storey, aluminum - sided frame home where a roomer lived but the cause is still unknown.

He said the house was insured for a "fair amount" but a value figure is unavailable. The house was "quite an age," he added.

Firemen were at the scene for about 3½ hours after receiving the call at 3.48 a.m.

Escapee Sought

TRENTON — Police are seeking a Warkworth Penitentiary prisoner who has escaped custory for the second time while serving a 3½-year term for fraud.

Donald Clarke, 44, ran away from his escort while in Toronto on Tuesday for rehabilitation, said Brighton OPP. Warkworth is about 25 miles northwest of Belleville.

After being at large the first time Clarke was convicted of auto theft.

He is described by police as being about five feet nine inches tall and about 150 pounds with dark hair and green eyes.

Warkworth currently has seven prisoners listed at large. There are 420 persons at the prison.

New Constable

TWEED — Paul Clement of Tweed, formerly with the Ministry of Natural Resources has joined the Tweed Police Department as a constable.

The department now has a staff of three; Police Chief Tom Andrews as well as tom Andrews as well as Constable Clement.

Council Decides Literacy no Concern

Belleville city council decided Monday through inaction that worldwide literacy is not its concern.

Council had, on its agenda, a letter from World Literacy of Canada, suggestions for the celebration of International Literacy Day on Sept. 8 and examples of proclamations from other municipal councils who decided to give official notice of the problem — at least for that one day.

However, council voted only to accept the correspondence and took no action later in the meeting. Also, there was no indication the matter would be raised for consideration at a later meeting.

The inaction will probably raise eyebrows among local education officials. Late last year, Loyalist College spokesmen criticized the quality of literacy among post-secondary students in their domain.

And earlier this year, secondary and primary school officials felt strongly enough about the problem to join with Loyalist in inviting Prof. Daniel Fader, an American literacy expert from Michigan, to the Quinte area to speak on the problem and suggest relief.

In correspondence from G. E. Gambriel, executive officer for the Canadian world literacy organization, it was shown there are about 800 million illiterates in the world which is half the adult population, including over 5.5 million in Canada.

Mr. Gambriel explained International Literacy Day "provides political leaders with an opportunity to assert their determination to eradicate illiteracy wherever it is still rife."

Firemen Want Elbow Room

MADOC — Volunteer firemen here are becoming very concerned over a problem that has been going on for some time. The number of people who rush out to follow them as soon as they hear the sound of the alarm.

As many as 40 cars at one time have been counted following the truck.

This often creates a situation in which there is no escape route for the fire truck should there be need of more water and no entranceway if another truck or an ambulance is required at the scene.

The firemen acknowlege the natural curiosity aroused by the sound of the alarm, but they would appreciate a little elbow room and free access to the roadway at all times.

Peace Greatest Concern

Asian people are more conscious of the threats to world peace and are working harder to promote its perpetuation, says Harry Collins, a YMCA mens club member and recent attender of the international clubs conference in Japan.

"It must be the proximity to some of the worlds trouble spots in south east Asia and elsewhere that focus the attention and activities of Asians on this problem," he said in a recent interview.

Mr. Collins had previously worked and travelled in Japan on business before he retired in Belleville and became active in the Y's Mem club, and Flower club.

"The general theme of the conference was how we all could work to promote world peace," he said.

"Many people in Asia feel the third world war has started and the West is losing," said Mr. Collins. "They see it as an economic war."

Carnival Time

Gord Cooke, nine, of 35 Stone St., hopes to win a ring at a ball-toss game at a Muscular Dystrophy Carnival at 55½ Baldwin St. Neighborhood kids at Wednesday's carnival tried breaking balloons, knocking over pop bottles and throwing balls into box to win prizes and make a contribution toward Muscular Dystrophy research.
